Introduction

About Info Source

This book, Info Source (Sources of Federal Government Information), will make it fast and easy for you to find out about the Government of Canada, its organization and its information holdings. It will help you determine where you should go, write or call to make government enquiries, and is likely to be the first and only step you'll need to take to locate the source of the information you want.

The Info Source book is also the key to learning how to exercise your rights under two Canadian laws – the Access to Information Act and the Privacy Act. This Introduction tells you what you need to know to request information under that legislation.

First, however, it is helpful for you to understand the basic differences between the Access to Information Act and the Privacy Act. Because the information contained under each Act is different and there are different procedures to obtain it, the following pages describe the essential details.

Info Source combines and replaces the Access Register (green cover) and the Index to Personal Information (yellow cover), two publications you might have seen or used before.

The annual edition of Info Source is complemented by update bulletins which are issued twice a year.

Inside Info Source

The Info Source book has three main components:

Table of Contents

The Table of Contents is organized alphabetically by the commonly used name of the department or agency, such as Agriculture Canada or Health and Welfare Canada, rather than by their legal titles, Department of Agriculture or Department of National Health and Welfare.

Introduction

The Introduction includes:

- information about the terms used throughout the book, some essential points about the Access to Information Act and the Privacy Act, and directions on how to go about locating information by using Info Source or by making a formal request under either Act;
- an index of Access to Information and Privacy Coordinators, which is organized in the same order as the Table of Contents, and gives you the address and telephone number of all Access to Information and Privacy offices; and
- the description of the Standard Program Records. This is a category of records of an administrative nature which have been standardized across the government.

Chapters

There is one chapter for each federal government department or agency subject to the Access to Information Act and the Privacy Act, or to the Privacy Act only.

Except for the institutions subject to the Privacy Act only, each chapter contains:

General Information

about the institution, including:

- Background
- Responsibilities
- Legislation
- Organization

Information Holdings

including:

- Program Records
- Standard Program Records
- Personal Information Banks
- Classes of Personal Information
- Manuals

Access Procedures

including:

- Address of a central information source, as well as regional addresses, if any
- Additional Information
- Reading Room(s)

Useful terms

Access to Information and Privacy Coordinator
Each federal government department or agency has an Access to Information and Privacy Coordinator. The Coordinator's Office is staffed by people who can answer questions and help you identify the records you wish to see. The Coordinators may be contacted in person, by telephone or by letter. If you send a letter, include as much information as you can to help the staff locate the records you want and send you a reply as soon as possible.

Classes of Personal Information Other personal information not used administratively or not retrievable by personal identifier, for instance unsolicited opinions, complaints or correspondence, is described under "Classes of Personal Information". This category was included to ensure that government departments and agencies account for all personal information which they hold.

Manuals The manuals listed under this title contain the directives, instructions, guidelines or procedures which are used by the employees of a department or agency to carry out its operations, activities or programs.

Personal Information Banks Personal Information Banks provide a summary of the type of information about individuals which is held by federal departments and agencies. The Privacy Act requires that Personal Information Banks include all personal information that is organized and retrievable by a person's name or by an identifying number, symbol or other particular assigned only to that person. Personal Information Banks must also include personal information which has been or is being used, or is available for use for an administrative purpose.

Personal Information Banks – Federal Employees The Personal Information Banks for Government of Canada employees are now described in a separate publication, Info Source (Sources of Federal Employee Information). This book will be available in the office of the Access to Information and Privacy Coordinator at each federal government department or agency, federal government personnel offices and federal libraries.

Program Records The Program Records provide pointers to program information held by each federal government department and agency, and describe the subject areas covered by these programs.

Program Record Number or Bank Number The Program Record Number or the Bank Number you see at the end of each Program Record or Personal Information Bank helps the Access to Information and Privacy office to locate the information you require.

Reading Room The Access to Information Act requires all government institutions to provide facilities where their manuals can be inspected. The location of one or more reading rooms is provided under this heading.

Standard Program Records Many departments and agencies use Standard Program Records to list information on administrative subject areas which are common to many institutions, for example Accounts and Accounting, Budgets, Buildings, etc.

Access to Information Act

The Access to Information Act gives Canadian citizens as well as people and corporations present in Canada the right to have access to federal government records that are not of a personal nature. The Act complements but does not replace other procedures for obtaining government information. It is not intended to limit in any way the access to government information that is normally available to the public upon request.

Wide range of information You can ask for information, no matter what form it is in, including letters, memos, reports, photographs, films, microfilms and computerized data.

This Info Source book has been designed to help you pinpoint the department or agency where the information is held and assists you in obtaining it.

Using the Access to Information Act Some information may be exempt or excluded under the Act.

- Exemptions: Exemptions protect certain types of information that could cause harm if released. For example, some information on national security, law enforcement or trade secrets falls into this category.
- Exclusions: The Access to Information Act does not apply to public information that is already available, such as publications and material in libraries and museums. It also excludes material such as Cabinet documents. Of course, the Act cannot give you access to records that are not controlled by the federal government, such as those maintained by provincial or municipal governments or by private organizations such as commercial banks and credit bureaus.

How to apply

Once you have decided to make a formal request under the Access to Information Act, there are certain simple procedures to follow:

- Consult Info Source to find the appropriate department or agency.
- Obtain an Access to Information Request Form from any location where Info Source is available.
- If it is not convenient for you to fill in a form, you may send a letter, mentioning the Act (see details below).
- Enclose the application fee (see details below).
- Send the form or the letter to the Access to Information Coordinator at the appropriate department or agency.

If you decide to submit a letter, you must state clearly that you are requesting information under the Access to Information Act, and include the following:

- name of the government department or agency you believe has the information you want;
- description (be as specific as possible) of the records you want to see;
- preferred method of seeing the records (e.g., do you want to receive photocopies of the original documents or see the originals in the government office where they are located?);
- your name, street, address, city or town, province or territory, postal code, telephone number(s) and your signature;
- date of your request;
- application fee.

Fees and costs An application fee of $5 (subject to change) applies and additional costs may be charged for each request. You will be notified in advance if there are additional costs and you may be asked to make a deposit.

Turnaround time Government departments must acknowledge your request under the Access to Information Act within 30 days. However, in special cases, they may need more time to process your request. If you feel it's taking too long, you can complain to the Information Commissioner.

Information Commissioner

The Information Commissioner investigates formal complaints from members of the public arising from the Access to Information Act. If you have a complaint about the denial of access to information, fees charged for access, the time taken to respond to requests, refusal to give access in the official language requested, the Info Source book (as well as the Info Source computer database) and other matters that relate to requesting or obtaining access to records, you may contact the office of the Information Commissioner at:

Place de Ville, Tower B
112 Kent Street, 3rd Floor
Ottawa, Ontario
K1A 1H3

Telephone: 995-2410 (Ottawa-Hull)
1-800-267-0441 (national toll free number)

If the Information Commissioner recommends that you be given access and the department or agency still refuses, an appeal may be made to the Federal Court.

Privacy Act

In its day-to-day operations, federal government departments and agencies collect personal information from almost all Canadians. The Privacy Act gives Canadian citizens and people present in Canada the right to have access to information that is held about them by the federal government. It also protects against unauthorized disclosure of personal information. In addition, it strictly controls how the government will collect, use, store, disclose and dispose of any personal information.

Most information available when you ask Because much of your personal information is available to you informally at your request, this Info Source book has been designed to help you pinpoint the department or agency where the information is held and assist you in obtaining it.

Types of personal information held You probably already know about many of the programs and operations of the government that use personal information such as income tax at Revenue Canada, pension and family allowance payments at Health and Welfare Canada and the unemployment insurance program at Employment and Immigration Canada.

Some personal information is confidential The federal government must keep some personal information confidential under the Privacy Act, much of which relates to other people, national security or law enforcement.

How to apply

When you have decided to make a formal request under the Privacy Act, there are certain procedures to follow. Remember, you will find what you are looking for faster if you already have a good idea of which department or agency has the information you want.

- Obtain a Personal Information Request Form at any location where Info Source is available.
- Fill out the form and identify yourself in such as way that the government can verify who you are, i.e. that it is you, and not someone else, asking for your information. The more precise the information you provide, the faster your request can be answered.
- Send the form to the Privacy Coordinator of the appropriate department or agency.
- There is no charge to apply for information under the Privacy Act.

To change the information If you believe the information which a federal institution has on file about you is untrue or misleading, you can ask to have it corrected. Even if the department or agency does not agree to change this information, it must make a note that you have asked for the change and attach it to the file.

Safeguarding personal information The protection of your personal information and privacy is also a very important purpose of the Privacy Act. The Act states how and when the government can collect, store and dispose of personal information. It also covers specifically why and how the information can be used or given out, as well as who can use or receive it.

Giving out information The government can only disclose your information to someone else with your consent or when one or more of the criteria in the Privacy Act are met, such as to comply with a subpoena.

Turnaround time Under the law, all or most of the information you ask for should be disclosed within 30 days of receiving the request. If a time extension is required, you will be notified within the first 30 days and told why up to another 30 days may be needed.

Privacy Commissioner

The Privacy Commissioner is a representative of the people with the power to look into complaints of improper collection, use, storage, disclosure or disposal of personal information. The Privacy Commissioner can also help if you are dissatisfied with the results of your formal application or the time it has taken to see your personal information.

If the Privacy Commissioner recommends that you be given access and the department or agency still refuses, an appeal may be made to the Federal Court.

You can write or call the Privacy Commissioner's office at:

Place de Ville, Tower B
112 Kent Street, 3rd Floor
Ottawa, Ontario
K1A 1H3

Telephone: 995-2410 in Ottawa-Hull
1-800-267-0441 (national toll free number)

Using Info Source quickly and effectively

Determine the correct chapter Turn to the chapter on the department or agency you think has the information, and check the Program Records and the Personal Information Banks.

If you are unsure about the correct department or agency, a telephone call or letter to any Access to Information and Privacy Coordinator's office should provide the answer.

For handicapped persons For persons who have difficulty reading or hearing, wheelchair users and other disabled persons, special arrangements can be made to obtain information. The Access to Information and Privacy Coordinator's office at any department or agency can provide assistance.

Agriculture Canada

Chapter 1

General Information

Background

The Department of Agriculture was established in 1867, the year of Confederation, by an act of Parliament. The formation of the Experimental Farms System followed in 1886 and a Dairy Commissioner was appointed in 1890.

The aim of the Department of Agriculture is to develop and assist the Canadian agriculture and food system to provide for the needs of Canadian consumers and export markets in a manner which ensures a dependable supply of safe, nutritious food at reasonable prices; to ensure equitable returns to producers, processors and marketers; and to meet Canadian food and technological aid commitments to international development.

The Minister of Agriculture, the Department and agencies administer 45 acts concerning food and agriculture industries. The activities of the Department extend from the farmer to the consumer, through all phases of production, processing and marketing of crops and livestock. The Department also assists farmers through crop insurance, price stabilization and agricultural adjustment programs to alleviate losses caused by the weather, changing markets and certain other hazards. While the collection and use of personal information is necessary for the performance of most activities, it is especially important for the following activities: research; regulation and licensing of imports and exports of livestock and plant products; control and eradication of animal diseases; and administration of the various loan and subsidy programs.

Responsibilities

The mandate of the Department of Agriculture is to promote the growth, stability and competitiveness of the agri-food sector through policies, programs and services most appropriately provided by the federal government to assist the sectors to maximize their real contribution to the Canadian economy. The Department's responsibilities embrace most aspects of the agricultural industry. It carries out research into the physical and economic problems of agriculture; inspects and grades farm products; and carries out programs aimed at keeping our crops and livestock safe from disease and insect pests. The Department enforces laws governing the sales of feed, fertilizers and pesticides; and assists farmers through measures such as price stabilization and crop insurance. It also provides consumer-oriented food advisory services and supervises race track betting.

Legislation

The Minister of Agriculture is solely responsible to Parliament for the following legislation:

- Advance Payments for Crops Act
- Agricultural Products Board Act

Organization

■ Departmental Secretariat

The Secretariat is responsible for the correspondence, briefing and activity scheduling systems for the Minister, Deputy Minister and Associate Deputy Minister, for tracking and reporting on major current issues of concern to the Department, for Parliamentary Relations, and for providing secretariat services to the Departmental Management Committee and the Executive Committee of the Department.

■ Corporate Management Branch

This Branch assists operating branches in achieving efficient, effective and economical delivery of departmental programs through provision of administrative and financial systems, consulting and library services, informatics services and standards to the Departmental Programs. The Corporate Management Branch, through corporate, branch and regional units, assists all management and operational elements in the Department in fulfilling their responsibilities for program delivery. It provides assistance, interpretation and direction to operational branches to ensure that central agency and parliamentary requirements are met.

■ Audit and Evaluation Branch

This Branch provides senior management with accurate, objective and timely information and advice on program effectiveness, efficiency and relevance. The principal activities of this Branch include: developing corporate policies for the audit and evaluation functions, developing annual and long-range plans and schedules for audit and evaluation, and conducting internal audits and program evaluations of departmental programs and operations on a cyclical basis.

■ Communications Branch

The primary purpose of this branch is to provide communications services such as research, media analysis, advice and planning, and communications management to the department. The branch also handles inquiries about Agriculture Canada and the Canadian agri-food industry.

■ Human Resources Branch

This Branch assists all departmental managers in obtaining and maximizing the use of their human resources through guidance, advice and service relating to human resource matters. The Human Resources Branch develops and administers human resources policies and programs and provides staff training and other related services for a staff of over 13,000 employees of the Department, in six categories of employment, at various locations across Canada.

■ Food Production and Inspection Branch

This Branch consists of the Health of Animals Directorate, the Food Inspection Directorate, the Plant Health Directorate, the Pesticides Directorate, the Management Strategies and Priorities Directorate, the Agri-Food Safety Division and the Race Track Division. This Branch protects the health of the Canadian plant and animal resource base; maintains and improves the marketability of agricultural and forest products; protects the wagering public at race tracks and assists in maintaining a viable racing industry.

■ Research Branch

The mandate of the Research Branch is to provide new knowledge and improved technology to ensure the efficient production of an adequate supply of safe and nutritious food, a stable and profitable agriculture and food industry, and a judicious use of natural resources essential to Canadian agriculture in order to improve the long-term marketability of Canadian agricultural products. The Branch also provides support to other branches, departments and agencies in activities of national concern in the agricultural and food sector, and assistance to international research programs of less developed countries.

■ Policy Branch

The Branch is the main departmental organization for the development and coordination of market-oriented commodity-based strategies and strategic directions for the Department which actively support broad government policies and directives. The work of the Branch is aimed at improving the performance of the Canadian agricultural system and ensuring the long-term supply of agricultural products and foods and the resource base. In pursuing its objectives, the Branch provides timely and reliable economic and market intelligence, commodity and food market outlooks, analysis of policies, legislation and regulations that impact on the agri-food sector and administers the following Acts: Agricultural Stabilization; Agricultural Products Board; Advance Payments for Crops; Agricultural Products Co-operative Marketing, Crop Insurance and Farm Improvement and Marketing Co-operatives Loans. Policy Branch also has the responsibility of the Bureau for Environmental Sustainability which facilitates the adaptation of the agri-food sector to the imperatives of environmental sustainability by serving as Agriculture Canada's focal point and spearheading departmental efforts.

Within the Department, the Bureau will help branches ensure environmental issues are taken into account in their planning, policy development and decisions. The Bureau will also work with the provinces and other branches to lead the review and possible reform of policies and programs so that they are compatible with environmental sustainability objectives.

Outside the Department, the Bureau will act as a secretariat for various industry-government advisory bodies. The Bureau will serve as a focal point for discussions on environmental issues and proposals with private and public agencies. The Bureau will also facilitate the coordination of international responses for the Department regarding environmental sustainability issues.

■ Agri-Food Development Branch

The Agri-Food Development Branch plans, develops and implements commodity strategies and programs in support of the agri-food sector; contributes significantly to strengthening our regions and rural communities, farm management skills and processing sector, and expanding environmental efforts. The Branch is accountable for the development and management of domestic and international programs which assist Canada's agri-food industry to improve its competitiveness and to adjust to change. It is comprised of 15 main responsibility centres - five headquartered in the National Capital Region and 10 regional offices located in each province. At headquarters, the International Programs Directorate plans and coordinates Canada's involvement in multilateral food and agricultural organizations, in bilateral relations with other countries on agri-food matters in overseas development assistance and works with the Canadian agri-food industry to develop international markets. The Commodity and Food Industry Directorate is accountable for the development and coordination of commodity strategies and provides a national focus for the management of development programs designed to improve the performance and competitiveness of the agri-food sector from production to consumption. The National Programs Directorate monitors, coordinates and/or delivers agri-food development and adjustment programs including the Canadian Agri-Food Development Initiative, Farm Debt Review Boards, Canadian Rural Transition Program, Farm Management Initiative, Fairs and Exhibitions Program, Animal Pedigree Act, Agricultural Products Marketing Act, and several programs related to sustainable agriculture. The Strategics Planning and Policy Coordination Division coordinates Branch strategic planning and policy activities and feeds into the departmental strategic planning process. The Management Services Division provides support and advice related to operational planning, resource management, human resources training and development, information systems and general administration. In the regions, the ten regional offices are accountable for the implementation of regionally-based Branch programs and coordinate departmental approaches within each province. Two Regional Directors General (Atlantic and Prairies) along with Regional Directors (Québec, Ontario and Pacific) are also responsible for developing regional strategies.

■ Prairie Farm Rehabilitation Administration (PFRA)

Agricultural productivity, farm diversification and economic stability and growth on the Prairies are enhanced through a variety of soil and water conservation and development programs. The investigation of degradation problems and the promotion of solutions serve to conserve the soil resource for present and future use. Dependable water supplies for agricultural and other related uses at the farm, community and regional level allow greater variety of agricultural activities and render the economy less sensitive to drought. Operation of community pastures on land not suitable for cultivation and distribution of tree seedlings to promote farm shelterbelts assist in conservation of the soil resource. Operation of water storage and irrigation projects and the development of new water resource projects in cooperation with the provinces enhances economic security and provides development opportunities on the Prairies.

■ Grains and Oilseeds Branch

This Branch provides direction and support required for the efficient and effective delivery and development of both domestic and international grains and oilseeds policies, programs and services. It contributes to ensuring the quality of standards and high worldwide reputation of Canadian grains and oilseeds through regulation of the handling industry. It contributes to stabilizing the income of grains and oilseeds producers from short-term market instabilities, providing grains and oilseeds industrial development assistance, and providing a focus for the federal relationship with the co-operatives sector. The Branch is organized into four areas: the Grain Marketing Bureau, the Co-operatives Secretariat, and the Priorities and Strategies Directorate, all located in Ottawa; and the National Grains Bureau (NGB), located in Winnipeg (Western Grain Stabilization Administration is part of the NGB).

Grain Marketing Bureau: Coordinates and carries out trade development activities and contributes to the development of trade policy for grains and oilseeds products. It has close relations with various Crown agencies and quasi-governmental bodies involved in the grain industry and the private grain trade. It administers the Grains and Oilseeds Program and, in conjunction with the departments of Agriculture and Transport, provides support to the minister responsible for the Canadian Wheat Board. The primary objective of the Bureau is to encourage sustained and orderly growth in the production, processing and marketing of grains, oilseeds and their products.

Western Grain Stabilization Administration: Administers the Western Grain Stabilization Act by collecting producer levies, making subsidy payments to producers when necessary and maintaining a record of grain producers' transactions.

■ Canadian Grain Commission

The Canadian Grain Commission administers the Canada Grain Act through the recommendation and implementation of grading standards for grain, the licensing of grain elevators, the inspection and weighing of grain, the economic and statistical monitoring of grain handling and storage systems, research into the quality of cereal grains and oilseeds, and supervision of grain futures exchanges.

Description: Administrative and management services generally; correspondence management; duplication services; electronic data processing; forms management; information services; legal services; library services; mail, messenger and postal services; management services; records management; security services; materiel management services; facilities management services; access to information and privacy services; management practices services; telecommunications; travel and transportation services; secretarial, typing and word processing services; translation services; awards and honours. Program Record Number: AGR CMB 852

■ Audit and Evaluation Branch

Internal Audit

Description: Internal Audit Reports. Topics: Documentation relating to results of audits carried out on departmental programs; systems; functions and organizations. Storage Medium: Hard copy and/or computer diskettes. Program Record Number: AGR AEB 416

Program Evaluation

Description: Information on the evaluation of departmental programs. Topics: Description and objective; analysis of effectiveness. Storage Medium: Hard copy and/or computer diskettes. Program Record Number: AGR AEB 415

■ Communications Branch

Mission Review

Description: Agriculture Canada under went a Departmental Mission Review to redefine the departmental mission statement. The outcome captures the essential elements of the Department's business and its values as they relate to service to clients and to a positive work environment. Topics: May include the use of questionnaires, of panel discussions and written or oral comments all provided on a voluntary basis. Storage Medium: Paper. Program Record Number: AGR COM 336

Operations

Description: Consists of: Media Relations; Research and Analysis; Inquiries and Industry Communications; Creative Services; Management Services and Speech Unit. Handles: media coordination; research and analysis; editing and writing; preparation of speeches for Ministers, the Deputy Minister and others when they speak on behalf of the Ministers or Deputy Minister; printing and event coordination; audiovisual and photographic services; exhibit planning; and corporate public relations services (e.g., public inquiries, guided tours of Experimental Farm and publication distribution). Topics: Information on the department's work that is disseminated through print, radio and videos, and public relations activities. Storage Medium: Paper, video, computer, photographs and exhibits. Program Record Number: AGR COM 340

Policy and Planning

Description: Consists of four bureaus (Agri-Food Development, Corporate Affairs, Policy and Farm Income, Food Production and Inspection and Research) that deliver communications advice, planning and strategies to client branches. Also responsible for Issues Management and Training. Topics: Public environment; all current agricultural issues and programs. Storage Medium: Paper and computer. Program Record Number: AGR COM 334

■ Human Resources Branch

Human Resources

Description: Human resources generally; accidents and injuries; appointments; attendance; awards and honours; establishment; hours of work and overtime; leave and holidays; promotions and reclassifications; regulations and directives; reports and statistics; retirements and separations. Program Record Number: AGR HRB 860

■ Food Production and Inspection Branch

Analytical Methodology Development

Description: Information on analytical methodologies to support and enhance the quality of scientific analysis provided by the division. Topics: Methodology research proposals; assessment studies; methods validation; establishment and dissemination of methodology; program review; analytical literature surveys; research reports; publications; investigational sampling requests, and results. Program Record Number: AGR FPI 070

Biological Programs

Description: Information on the identification of pests and on analysis of pest risk. Topics: Lists of intercepted pests; insects and plant diseases; surveys; pest identification; and analysis of pest risk. Program Record Number: AGR FPI 170

Disease Control

Description: Information on the prevention, control and eradication of communicable and other diseases, and on compensation for related losses. Topics: Animal diseases - brucellosis, tuberculosis, salmonellosis and other indigenous diseases; foreign animal diseases; reportable diseases of animals and poultry; artificial insemination; embryo transfer; veterinary biologics; the following database: Wildlife Serum Bank. Storage Medium: Machine-readable records are available on brucellosis survey arranged by herd at headquarters; also on herd serum banking and rabies control. Program Record Number: AGR FPI 025

Export and Domestic Programs (Plants)

Description: Information on the planning and maintenance of a national program designed to prevent the spread of pests within Canada, survey for and control quarantine pests occurring in Canada and to ensure the acceptance of Canadian agricultural and forestry products in export markets and for movement within Canada by being free of plant pests and meeting the health standards of the receiving country or region. Topics: Export agriculture and forestry products to foreign and domestic markets; pest distribution (publications); ship, mill and elevator sanitation inspection; plant quarantine importation requirements of foreign and domestic market; decontamination and fumigation; pesticide application, phytosanitary export and domestic movement certification; quarantines; the following database: Plant Pest Database. Program Record Number: AGR FPI 156

Export and Import

Description: Information on the certification of Canadian meat products for export to comply with the requirements of foreign countries and on compliance of imported meat, meat products and byproducts with Canadian standards. Topics: Export certification; foreign requirement establishment reviews; review of registered Canadian facilities to comply with export requirements; statistics; policy development. Storage Medium: List of all approved products for import and export, and statistics on the import and export of meat are machine-readable. Program Record Number: AGR FPI 090

Export Testing and Certification

Description: Information on the acceptability of Canadian animals and products for export by ensuring their being free of disease or disease-causing agents and by meeting the standards of importing countries. Topics: Species of animals; disease and disease-causing agents; import requirements of foreign countries; export testing programs and certification; facilitating export; export of birds; export of poultry; export of plants. Program Record Number: AGR FPI 020

Feed Evaluation, Registration and Compliance

Description: Information on pre-sale evaluation of feed, registration of feed, and inspection of feed production and products to ensure compliance with regulatory requirements. Topics: Evaluation of feed; approval of single ingredients; correspondence; labelling; certificates of registration; registration continuance certificates; product inspection; Feedmill inspection; toxicity, residues and diseases; violations; hay and straw grading; the following database: Livestock Feeds Contaminants Database. Storage Medium: Feed database of registered products and listing of analytical results of feed samples are machine-readable; microfilm for expired certificates of registration and company correspondence. Program Record Number: AGR FPI 145

Fertilizer Evaluation, Registration and Compliance

Description: Information on pre-sale evaluation and registration of fertilizer and on inspection of fertilizer products to ensure compliance with regulatory requirements. Topics: Evaluating fertilizer; approval of single ingredients; correspondence; labelling; certificates of registration; product inspection and grading; toxicity residues and diseases; violations; the following databases: Compendium of Fertilizer-Use Pesticides, Heavy Metal Concentrations in Fertilizers and Fertilizer Materials, Levels of Pesticide Contaminants in Fertilizers. Storage Medium: Listing of analytical results of fertilizer samples, Canadian fertilizer plant statistics and fertilizer database of registered products are machine-readable. Program Record Number: AGR FPI 150

Grading and Monitoring

Description: Information on a national program for grading red meats, animal products, poultry and poultry products, and for inspecting and registering hatcheries, egg stations, and egg processing and poultry slaughtering plants. Topics: Grading red meat; grading poultry and poultry products; egg and poultry processing stations; hatcheries (registration and inspection); laboratory analysis of egg products; training and development; import and export inspection; complaints; enforcement; policy development. Program Record Number: AGR FPI 035

Grading, Standards and Labelling (Dairy, Fruit and Vegetables)

Description: Information on grading programs, quality standards and on the design and control of labelling requirements. Topics: Standards - dairy, fresh fruit and vegetables, processed fruit and vegetables, honey and maple products; grading of dairy products; monitoring the grading of fruit and vegetable products; label design and approval; packaging; weight and volumes; studies and surveys; policy development; consultation with governmental and non-governmental organizations. Program Record Number: AGR FPI 045

Humane Treatment of Animals

Description: Information on the prevention of stress-related diseases in animals and humane treatment of animals being transported within Canada or exported from Canada. Topics: Enquiries; reports; correspondence;

transportation systems; stockyards; ports of entry; code of practice (poultry, veal and swine). Program Record Number: AGR FPI 010

Import and Export (Seed Potatoes)

Description: Information on the control of imports, export certification, and facilitation of seed potato trade. Topics: Phytosanitary agreements; facilitation of trade; import standards; export certification; complaint investigation (foreign); evaluation of foreign certification programs. Program Record Number: AGR FPI 125

Import, Export and Interprovincial Control

Description: Information on the control and regulation of import, export and interprovincial movement of dairy, fresh and processed fruit, vegetable products and honey and maple products. Topics: Export certification; compliance to import regulations; concessions - processing and packaging; consultations - associations, government agencies (foreign and domestic); statistics; complaints; policy development. Program Record Number: AGR FPI 055

Import Program (Plants)

Description: Information on the planning and maintenance of a national program to prevent the introduction and establishment in Canada of foreign plant pests detrimental to the Canadian agricultural and forestry industries. Topics: Import permits; port inspection statistics, commercial; port inspection statistics, non-commercial; quarantine and decontamination; importation of agricultural and forest products. Storage Medium: Airport inspection file is machine-readable. Program Record Number: AGR FPI 155

Importation of Animals

Description: Information on the control of animal and bird imports to prevent animal disease from gaining entry into Canada. Topics: Veterinary inspection reports; quarantine station activity reports; Australian and European livestock importation programs; imports of game farm and zoological garden animals; imports of pets; feathers; skins, hides and wool; imports of birds; fertilizers; tankage; plant products; insects; others (tropical fish, amphibians, worms). Program Record Number: AGR FPI 015

Ingredients in Pesticides

Description: Information on the evaluation of pesticides to determine whether they will perform as claimed and on safe conditions for their use. Topics: Product chemistry; toxicology; metabolism; residues; environmental chemistry and toxicology. Access: Files arranged by ingredient code. Program Record Number: AGR FPI 135

Inspection and Compliance

Description: Information on the development, implementation and monitoring of a national field compliance program for registered pesticides. Topics: Monitoring; investigation; enforcement; verifications, sampling. Program Record Number: AGR FPI 140

Inspection and Enforcement

Description: Information on the inspection and enforcement of standards governing seed quality. Topics: Seed inspection; violations and detentions; crop inspection; grading; diseases; seed testing. Program Record Number: AGR FPI 100

Inspection and Monitoring

Description: Information on the inspection and monitoring of dairy, fresh and processed fruits and vegetables, honey and mapley products and certain other products; and on related establishments. Topics: Product inspection; establishment inspection; laboratory analysis; certificates of inspection; system auditing; consultation with governmental and non-governmental organizations; violations and prosecutions; inspection fees; complaints; compliance; policy development; the following database: Residues in Agri-Foods Monitoring Program. Program Record Number: AGR FPI 060

Inspection and Monitoring (Meat and Poultry Products)

Description: Information on the inspection and monitoring of food animals, meat products, meat-by products and plant sanitation. Topics: Testing - toxicity, residues, contaminants; disease monitoring; complaint investigation; transport sanitation; inspection auditing; surveys; national and regional inspection - slaughterhouses, storage and processing facilities; stamping devices; policy development; the following database: Residues in Agri-Foods Monitoring Program. Storage Medium: Files of statistics on weekly and monthly poultry kills, disease condemnations and establishment review are machine-readable. Program Record Number: AGR FPI 075

Inspection, Testing and Certification

Description: Information on the inspection and testing of seed potatoes, and certification for domestic markets. Topics: Seed multiplication; seed potato improvement; inspection; enforcement; training programs; storage and transportation; testing (seed lots, field and post-harvest); inventory of varieties; assessment of varieties; complaint investigation (domestic); federal-provincial consultations. Program Record Number: AGR FPI 115

Pari-Mutuel Supervision

Description: Information on the regulation and supervision of pari-mutuel betting on horse races. Topics: Daily pari-mutuel betting activities; pool distribution; investigation reports into alleged race fixing; betting dates; tests of totalizator equipment; race track facilities; racing commissions; conferences; betting systems; betting permits; security of bets and betting data; federal levy on wagering. Access: Files arranged by racing event and date. Program Record Number: AGR FPI 180

Pathology Services

Description: Diagnostic service and research activities related to animal diseases, consultation and licensing for use of biologics, veterinary and pest control products. Topics: Diseases (agents of disease, transmission to humans, economic loss due to disease); diagnostic activities; diagnostic reagents; registration consulting service; licensing and use of biologics, veterinary and pest control products. Program Record Number: AGR FPI 005

Pest Control

Description: Relates to pest control programs, diseases and parasites of plants and animals, control methods for specific pests, test data. Topics: Policies and general information on pest control; adjuvants; hard surface microbials; industrial slime; invertebrate and vertebrate pests; materials preservation; plant diseases; water biocides; weeds and plant growth control; wood preservation; biotechnology; equipment. Program Record Number: AGR FPI 081

Pesticide Research Permits

Description: Permits to conduct research on new or registered products. Topics: Policies and general information on research permits and submissions. Program Record Number: AGR FPI 082

Pesticide Statistics

Description: Relates to numerical information about imports, exports, costs of registrations, sales and use, hazards and benefits. Topics: Policies and general information on statistics; statistics on poisonings and accidents, product developments and registrations; sales and use. Program Record Number: AGR FPI 083

Plant Registration

Description: Information on the registration of storages, slaughtering and processing plants. Topics: Construction specifications; equipment; use of non-food materials and agents; storage facilities; policy development. Program Record Number: AGR FPI 080

Program and Management Services

Description: Information on the development and implementation of plant health programs in the areas of Human Resources Development (including Manual Development). Topics: Compensation, public awareness, consultation with client agencies, operational planning, program audit and control, and computer systems development. Program Record Number: AGR FPI 175

Race Surveillance

Description: Information on the surveillance of horse races. Topics: Daily supervision reports; photo finish service; race patrol service; drug control service; test inspectors' personal records. Access: Files arranged by racing event and date. Storage Medium: Film, videotapes and photographic print. Program Record Number: AGR FPI 185

Registration and Fees (Pesticides)

Description: Information on the registration of pesticides under the Pest Control Products Act. Topics: Application for registration; specification forms; product labels; ingredient authorizations; registrant correspondence; pesticide registration review; technical and scientific data in support of pesticide evaluation; evaluation and registrations; the following database: Regulatory Information on Pesticide Products. Access: Files arranged by registrant code and registration number. Program Record Number: AGR FPI 130

Registration and Product Standards (Meat and Poultry Products)

Description: Information on standards for the processing, grading and marking of poultry and poultry products, red meat, and animal products (furs, wools). Topics: Sanitation and building standards; grading standards; poultry packaging and labelling; import and export requirements; animal products (furs and wools); policy development; consultation with industry; egg quality data; egg solids. Storage Medium: The egg quality data and egg solids files are machine-readable. Program Record Number: AGR FPI 030

Registration, Licensing and Arbitration

Description: Information on the registration of fresh and processed fruit and vegetable, honey and maple products processing plants, dairy plants, and fresh produce warehouses; the licensing of dealers and brokers; and the arbitration of disputes. Topics: Registration of establishments - dairies; fresh and processed fruit and vegetable, honey and maple products processing plants; fresh produce warehouses; licensing of dealers and brokers; suspension or cancellation of registration; list of registered processors; arbitration boards; complaints; policy development. Program Record Number: AGR FPI 050

Regulatory Communication

Description: Includes guidelines and procedures relative to the dissemination of technical information via various media. Topics: Regulatory communication; computer systems; presentations; publications; regulatory information by telephone. Program Record Number: AGR FPI 051

Regulatory Liaison

Description: Relates to national and international aspects of pesticide management, coordination of policies and regulatory activities. Topics: Regulatory liaison with: federal, foreign, international, national and provincial organizations and governments. Program Record Number: AGR FPI 052

Scientific Analysis

Description: Information on analytical tests to ensure conformity with established quality-assurance standards for certain products and facilities. Topics: Requests for analysis; analytical reports; test results; product safety; sampling programs (quotas); provision standards; consultation with national and international, governmental and non-governmental organizations; methods of analysis; statistics; laboratory accreditation protocols; audits; check samples; quality assurance protocols. Access: Files arranged by date sampled, laboratory number or by commodity, region, date and type of test.Certain files are kept in regional laboratories. Storage Medium: LIMS computer database contains samples received and reported, tests requested and performed, and computer-generated certificates of analysis are machine-readable. Program Record Number: AGR FPI 065

Seed Potato Programs

Description: Information on the planning and maintenance of a national program designed to provide seed potatoes of a class and quality that will meet the demands of both domestic and export markets. Topics: Seed potato certification standards; import requirements of foreign and domestic markets; export and domestic certification standards. Program Record Number: AGR FPI 161

Seed Projects

Description: Information on the characteristics of seed varieties, foreign and domestic movement of seed, and availability of adequate supplies. Topics: Seed varieties; importation of seeds; exportation of seeds; statistics; contract multiplication; international liaison. Storage Medium: Seed inventory and seed sealing are machine-readable. Program Record Number: AGR FPI 095

Seed Standards

Description: Information on the development of new or amended seed quality standards; packaging and labelling. Program Record Number: AGR FPI 105

Standards and Labels

Description: Information on the development of and compliance with standards and labels to ensure quality, nutritional value and safety of meat products. Topics: Label review on microfilm; approved Canadian and foreign labels (machine-readable list); packaging; food standards - formulas and preparation; additives; policy development. Program Record Number: AGR FPI 085

Standards and Specifications

Description: Information on guidelines, specifications and standards on seed potatoes. Topics: Standards and labelling; laboratory facilities; transportation; storage; seed potato varieties; policy development. Program Record Number: AGR FPI 120

Surveillance Research

Description: Information on all aspects of research into race track surveillance. Topics: Diagnostic activities; drug detection; recording of races on film or video tape; effect of drug administration on horses. Access: Files arranged by drug study. Storage Medium: Film, videotapes and photographic prints. Program Record Number: AGR FPI 190

Training for Inspection and Monitoring (Meat Hygiene)

Description: Information on training for the inspection and monitoring of food animals, meat products and plant sanitation. Topics: Inspection techniques for various species, sanitation practices, humane handling, food processing; basic meat science; basic microbiology; food borne pathogens; biological residues. Storage Medium: Training materials in written format as modules with visual components on video or filmstrip with audio cassette. Program Record Number: AGR FPI 076

Variety Registration

Description: Information on the evaluation of new varieties of seeds for the purpose of registration. Topics: Registration of seeds; list of registered varieties (machine readable); unregistered varieties. Program Record Number: AGR FPI 110

VM Group - Employee Perception Study

Description: As part of its commitment to an open and consultative working environment, the Food Production an Inspection Branch conducted a survey of all its employees in the Veterinary Medicine (VM) Group. The survey was done cooperatively with the Professional Institute of the Public Service of Canada in the form of a questionnaire distributed to all VM Group members. Topics: Information was obtained on the members' working environment, career opportunities, performance appraisals, job satisfaction and role definitions. Program Record Number: AGR FPI 111

■ Research Branch

Animal Production Research

Description: Information on the efficiency of production and the quality of animals in support of market development. Topics: Beef, dairy, swine, poultry, sheep, and honey bees; breeding; nutrition; management practices; physiology; feeding; protection; reproduction; behaviour; carcass quality and grading. Program Record Number: AGR RBR 220

Biological Resources and Scientific Support Services

Description: Information on Canada's biological resources, and on the scientific support services for research programs; Topics: Classification and collections of vascular plants, insects, arachnids, nematodes, fungi; bacteria and viruses; plant gene collections; the following database: Sustainable Agriculture Task Force Database. Program Record Number: AGR RBR 230

Biotechnology

Description: Information on the assessment, development and utilization of basic and emerging technologies in support of agricultural research, including: recombinant technology, tissue culture, protoplasm fusion, single-cell protein production, nitrogen fixation, cytogenetics, and diagnostics. Program Record Number: AGR RBR 250

Commonwealth Agricultural Liaison

Description: Information on liaison with the Commonwealth International Agricultural Bureau and the Commonwealth Science Council. Topics: Information Service - agricultural scientific information, journals and book reviews; identification service - identification of pests and plant diseases; and biocontrol services - pest evaluation, survey and review services related to the introduction of biological control agents. Program Record Number: AGR RBR 245

Crop Production Development Research

Description: Information on the efficiency of production and quality of crops in support of market development.

Topics: Wheat and other cereals; oilseed crops; forage crops; horticultural crops; field crops; breeding; physiology; management practices; protection; disease resistance; plant nutrient studies; and N fixation. Program Record Number: AGR RBR 225

Food Processing and Distribution Research

Description: Information on increasing efficiency in the processing and distribution sectors through technological innovation and product improvement. Topics: Food processing (technological innovation, equipment and utilization); the development of new ingredients; packaging and storage (physiology and storage conditions) data. Program Record Number: AGR RBR 240

Food Quality and Nutrition Research

Description: Information on the safety, quality and nutritive value of edible agricultural products. Topics: Food safety - toxicants and contaminants; food quality - food composition, nutrient availability, nutrition, quality measurement. Program Record Number: AGR RBR 215

Land Research

Description: Information on the maintenance, availability and better utilization of agricultural land to meet current and future agricultural and food production needs. Topics: Soil management and conservation (erosion problems, tillage, reclamation, fertilizer use); soil composition (organic matter, mineral content, chemical analysis); soil mapping; land inventory (classification, surveys, mapping); soil and land evaluation; the following databases: Agroecological Resource Areas, Canadian Soil Information System (CANSIS), Generalized Soil Landscape Maps (GSLM) Degradation File, Land Potential for Agriculture Database, Soil Landscapes of Canada. Program Record Number: AGR RBR 195

Protection

Description: Information on the protection of animals and crops from diseases, insects and weeds, and on minimizing environmental degradation from agricultural practices. Topics: Plant disease organisms, insect pests, weeds, pesticides, chemical and biological control, insect population monitoring, integrated pest management, pollution studies - residues from animal and crop production, toxicology, environmental quality; waste management; pesticide management; plant nutrient studies. Program Record Number: AGR RBR 210

Research Branch Activities

Description: Includes general correspondence relating to agricultural science, university and provincial programs. Topics: Farm management; research activities of federal departments, agencies and provincial governments; in-house research programs; communications and reporting; goals and objectives; contracting of scientific research projects, reports, contracts and unsolicited proposals; radioactive materials; energy research; engineering research; farm electrification and power; field and horticultural crops engineering; livestock engineering; mechanization and materials handling; structures and graphics relating to research; the following database: Pest Management Research Information System (PRIS). Program Record Number: AGR RBR 211

Research Branch - Study Data Base

Description: This data base contains information on agricultural and food research studies underway in Agriculture Canada - Research Branch. Topics: Computerized input and retrieval system for scientific information on agricultural and food studies undertaken at research establishments. Program Record Number: AGR RBR 221

Water and Climate Research

Description: Information on the use of water resources and the effects of weather and climate on agricultural production. Topics: Irrigation, drainage, desalination, conservation; winter survival of crops, meteorological and climatic indices; crop development models (yield prediction through use of climatic indices); atmospheric carbon dioxide; meteorological records and data; the following database: Agriculture and Meteorology (AGMET). Program Record Number: AGR RBR 200

■ Policy Branch

Administration of Acts

Description: Information on loan guarantees, market development and advance crop payments. Topics: Application for financial assistance (marketing boards, producer organizations, co-operatives); establishing commodity values; auditing; Agricultural Products Co-operative Marketing Act; Advance Payments for Crops Act, Prairie Grain Advance Payments Act. Program Record Number: AGR POL 255

Agri-Food Policy Review

Description: Information on the Agri-Food Policy Review related to the work of the federal-provincial and government-industry task forces and committees set up to examine the challenges and priorities facing Canada's agri-food industry. Topics: The eleven task forces and committees dealt with: Safety Nets (overall framework), Grains and Oilseeds Safety Nets, Farm Finance and Management, Competitiveness, Transportation, Dairy Supply Management, Poultry Supply Management, Food Safety and Quality, Sustainable Agriculture, Research and Technology Transfer, and Pesticides Registration. Access: Reports of the task forces and committees are available upon request. Files are arranged by policy area. Storage Medium: Machine readable and hard copy. Program Record Number: AGR POL 367

Agricultural Development Policy and Analysis

Description: Policy-oriented analyses of agricultural development issues. Topics: Farm costs and incomes; farm income protection; agricultural stabilization; development strategy; energy in agriculture; farm labour programs; land-use policy; farm credit policy; agricultural taxation. Program Record Number: AGR POL 485

Agricultural Policy Issues

Description: Information on economic factors related to the supply, demand and pricing of agricultural commodities and on the development and analysis of economic policy alternatives for the government. Topics: Dairy and dairy products; livestock and livestock products; poultry and poultry products; fruit, vegetables, honey and maple products; special crops; grain and feed land policy development. Program Record Number: AGR POL 315

Agricultural Products Transaction

Description: Information on agricultural product transactions under the provisions of the Agricultural Products Board Act. Topics: Purchase and sale agreements; processing, storage and transportation of agricultural products; foreign assistance programs. Access: Files arranged by commodity, year and procedure. Program Record Number: AGR POL 590

Agriculture-Related Data

Description: Economic data related to agriculture. Topics: Market commentaries (annual and monthly time series); monthly and annual trade data (prices and quantities); source data for Food and Agriculture Regional Model and the hog, slaughter cattle and cow/calf stabilization models (monthly, quarterly and annual time series); miscellaneous economic data on agriculture and food. Access: Files arranged by AGSEC code or commodity (marketing and trade coding system). Program Record Number: AGR POL 330

Commodity Price Support Programs

Description: Information on support prices for agricultural products under the provisions of the Agricultural Stabilization Act and details of payment programs. Topics: Support price (related data, correspondence, reports, producer costs, market return statistics); payment program (deficiency payments, eligibility criteria). Access: Files arranged by commodity and year. Program Record Number: AGR POL 595

Crop Insurance Program

Description: Information on federal assistance to provincially operated crop insurance programs that provide producers with income stability against specific crop loss risks. Topics: Federal-provincial agreements under the Crop Insurance Act; federal contributions to the provinces; annual report for the Minister under the Crop Insurance Act; provincial crop insurance program proposals, statistical reports, crop insurance annual reports and crop condition reports; audit reports; foreign crop insurance information. Program Record Number: AGR POL 355

Economic Intelligence

Description: Economic intelligence on agricultural production and inputs. Topics: Farm input prices; farm costs and incomes. Program Record Number: AGR POL 490

Economic Research on Commodity Markets and Agricultural Market Forecasting

Description: Information on the supplies, consumption, inventories, trade and prices of the major agricultural commodities produced in Canada and on the analysis of factors influencing the behaviour of markets for these commodities. Topics: Dairy and dairy products; livestock and livestock products; poultry and poultry products; fruit, vegetables, honey and maple products; special crops; grains, oilseeds and fodder crop. Storage Medium: Statistics on commodity prices, marketings, stocks, imports, exports, production and disposition are machine-readable. Program Record Number: AGR POL 310

Farm Improvement and Marketing Co-operatives Loans

Description: Information on the administration of the Farm Improvement and Marketing Co-operatives Loans Act to assist in meeting the credit needs of Canadian farmers. Topics: Loan program management - reports, claims, remittances; guidelines; policy; borrower default analysis. Access: Reports of loans made are filed by borrower and lending period. Storage Medium: Reports are machine-readable. Program Record Number: AGR POL 465

Farm Income Protection Act

Description: The Farm Income Protection Act (FIPA) provides legislation for federal programs which assist farmers in improved long-term income protection against fluctuations in yields, prices or production costs such as the Gross Revenue Insurance Program and the Net Income Stabilization Account. FIPA also provides for the implementation of special measures to address short-term assistance to farmers under initiatives such as the Farm Support and Adjustment Measures. Topics: Agreements with the governments of the provinces for the purpose of establishing a net income stabilization account program and the establishment, operation and cost-sharing of a gross revenue insurance plan; enhancement to the Gross Revenue Insurance Program; enhancement to the Net Income Stabilization Account Program; the 1991 Cash Flow Enhancement Program; the Land Management Assistance Program; the Permanent Cover Program II; the Adjustment Measures for Horticulture. Program Record Number: AGR POL 369

Feed Freight Assistance Adjustment Fund

Description: Information on the Feed Freight Assistance Adjustment Funds in Ontario, Quebec and British Columbia. Topics: Contracts; claims; project monitoring - control and evaluation. Program Record Number: AGR POL 368

Food Policy and Research

Description: Economic studies and policy advice on food markets. Topics: Food prices; processing and retailing, transportation; food demand and consumption; foreign ownership; regulations. Program Record Number: AGR POL 325

Market Intelligence

Description: Market analyses on the purchasing, processing and transportation of food. Topics: Food prices; food expenditures (consumer spending); processing and retailing. Storage Medium: Food prices, pricing forecast model and food consumption are machine-readable. Program Record Number: AGR POL 320

National Tripartite Stabilization

Description: The Agricultural Stabilization Act supports producers by providing for development of tripartite (federal - provincial - producer) cost-shared programs at support levels to be agreed upon, but with a maximum federal cost of 3% of gross sales of participating producers. Once a tripartite agreement is in place for a commodity, the other support provisions for that commodity no longer apply. Program Record Number: AGR POL 491

Prairie Farm Assistance

Description: Information on assistance to farmers in the western wheat area in the event of a district crop failure. Topics: Prairie Farm Assistance Act, 1939; claims and payments; program phase-out 1973-74; repeal of the Act, 1979; annual reports. Note: Operational records now stored at National Archives of Canada in Winnipeg; administrative and policy records stored at headquarters. Program Record Number: AGR POL 370

Preparation of Briefing Papers

Description: Briefing papers on various agriculture-related trade policy questions for use by the Minister and senior officials of the Department. Topics: Import quotas; tariff changes; bilateral trade agreement negotiations; relations with less developed countries; food security; food reserves; other trade-related topics. Program Record Number: AGR POL 366

Relief Assistance Programs

Description: Information on crop loss assistance programs that cover emergency situations not provided for under ongoing crop insurance programs. Topics: Federal-provincial agreements; crop loss assistance program details; federal contributions to programs; soil moisture and crop condition reports; audit reports. Program Record Number: AGR POL 360

Status of Women - Assistant Deputy Minister's Office

Description: Information on status of women activities related to agriculture (rural and agricultural) in Canada. Topics: Government policy; convention on the elimination of all forms of discrimination; rural issues; conferences, workshops and liaison activities; farm women's groups in Canada. Program Record Number: AGR POL 500

Subsidy Claims and Payments

Description: Information on claims for subsidies from individual producers. Access: Files arranged by producer or number. Program Record Number: AGR POL 600

Waterfowl Crop Damage Compensation Program

Description: Information on compensation for individual producers in Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta who have suffered serious waterfowl crop loss damage. Topics: Federal-provincial agreements; federal contributions; the Crop Damage Prevention Program and policies; program studies; waterfowl crop damage compensation policies; program audit reports. Program Record Number: AGR POL 365

■ Agri-Food Development Branch

4-H Programs

Description: Information on financial and professional support for the development of Canadian youth interest in agriculture through 4-H clubs. Topics: Share-cost agreements; contributions; club program monitoring. Storage Medium: Hard copy and/or computer diskettes. Program Record Number: AGR AFD 450

Agri-food Industry Market Strategies (AIMS)

Description: Information on the export and/or domestic market strategies of several agri-food associations including their market assessments, their strategic market development goals and their planned activities in priority markets for up to five years. Topics: Market assessments, strategic market development goals and planned activities. Program Record Number: AGR AFD 482

Agricultural Products Marketing Act

Description: Information on the applications made by provincial marketing boards/agencies regarding extension of their provincial powers in the area of interprovincial and export trade. Topics: Delegation orders, levy orders, and regulations made under the Act including regulatory impact analysis statements. Program Record Number: AGR AFD 481

Authentication of Purebred Livestock

Description: Information on financial and professional support for the identification, promotion and improvement of genetically superior breeding stock through the authentication of purebred livestock. Topics: Livestock registration authentication; livestock associations; Animal Pedigree Act. Storage Medium: Hard copy and/or computer diskettes. Program Record Number: AGR AFD 455

Canadian Agri-Food Development Initiative

Description: Information on a financial contribution program introduced in 1990 to assist the agri-food industry in undertaking developmental projects including information on CAFDI applicants and assisted projects. Topics: Marketing, production and human resource development. Program Record Number: AGR AFD 484

Description: NISA is a voluntary stabilization program in which individual producers make deposits to an individual account and contributions are matched by the federal and provincial governments. The producer is entitled to make account withdrawals when his net income is low. Class of Individuals: Eligible Canadian producers. Purpose: This information is collected on an annual basis to support producer and government contributions to individual NISA accounts. Portions of this account may be held with private financial institutions such as banks. Consistent Uses: (1) In order to ensure that information submitted is consistent with information provided to Revenue Canada for income tax purposes, a link with the Social Insurance Number (SIN) or the Corporate Tax Number will be required. (2) Data obtained may be used for further verification or for program evaluation purposes.
(3) Approval on the use of the SIN will be covered under the enabling Safety Net Legislation. (4) Data consisting of producers' NISA bank deposits, for example, will be exchanged with institutions with the producer's consent.
(5) Names and addresses of producers may be used for distribution of material on new agricultural programs.
(6) Information may be used to garnish payments received by individuals under several Agriculture Canada programs. This activity would be made under the Family Orders and Enforcement Assistance Act. Retention and Disposal Standards: The retention and disposal schedules are currently under review. TBS Registration: 002929 Bank Number: AGR PPU 183

Special Canadian Grains Program

Description: This bank contains records of applications for income assistance (1986 and 1987) as a result of international trade subsidy wars. This information includes producer names, addresses and land locations, types of crops, number of acres planted and, where applicable, crop insurance numbers, Canadian Wheat Board numbers, irrigation licence numbers and Irrigation District/Prairie Farm Rehabilitation project names. Class of Individuals: Producers of grains, oilseeds and specialty crops affected by the international subsidy war. Purpose: This information was collected in order to implement the program. It is used to determine the eligibility of producers for assistance and the level of assistance they will receive under the program formula. It is also used to issue payments. Consistent Uses: The information will be used by the provinces to collect accounts receivable owing to the federal government from several federal agricultural programs under the Farm Income Assistance Initiative. The information will be used to mail information about new agricultural programs. Retention and Disposal Standards: Records are retained for six years. TBS Registration: 002375 Bank Number: AGR PPU 181

Western Grain Stabilization Program

Description: This bank is used to administer stabilization payments to grain producers. It contains the grain receipts and levy payments of holders of permits issued by the Canadian Wheat Board in Manitoba, Saskatchewan, Alberta and British Columbia. Class of Individuals: Grain producers in Manitoba, Saskatchewan, Alberta and British Columbia. Purpose: Files in this bank are used to calculate and issue stabilization payments to participating grain producers. Consistent Uses: Disclosure: (1) On an individual request basis, account information is supplied to Revenue Canada to assist in its investigations. (2) The four western provincial crown corporations (Manitoba Crop Insurance Corporation, Saskatchewan Crop Insurance Corporation and the Farm Income and Crop Insurance Branch of the British Columbia Ministry of Agriculture and Food request use of our data bank. Information is provided concerning specific producers' sales by grain type and tonnes (not sales value) and generally extends over a number of crop years. The requests are ongoing and average perhaps one per week involving perhaps a dozen producers at most. In addition, we also provide computer tape files of our participants identified by permit number only while quoting the outstanding levy to be deducted from these accounts. This information is used in conducting audits of crop insurance claims and in pursuing fraudulent claims through the courts. The computer tape files are used for matching participant to claimant in order to determine the amount of levy to be deducted from the claimant's indemnity payment (the provincial corporations are registered as designated purchasers under the WGS Act). (3) Western Grain Transportation Agency: Grain sales information specific to producers in a specific area covering a ten year period is provided. This is an annual request. This information is used to establish compensatory amounts for the additional cost of transporting grain by truck as a result of rail line abandonment and the closure of grain elevators contiguous to it. As additional rail lines become eligible each year for removal from the network, more producers are affected by elevator closures. (4) Canada Grains Council: Historical data which are non-specific as to producer. The data are statistical in nature and used by the council for various analyses and studies. This was an annual request at one time but we have not received a request for the past two years. (5) Auditor General: Complete copies of our master file of name and addresses as well as our payout file. The information is requested annually. The information is used to verify the propriety and accuracy of stabilization payments. (6) RCMP: Detailed information specific to individuals is provided which would include name and address as well as grain sales for one or more years. The information is requested on an as needed basis (very infrequently). This information is issued to conduct criminal investigations. (7) Statistics Canada: Statistical information is provided on an ad hoc basis. Requests are very infrequent. The information is not producer specific and is used to conduct various analyses and studies. (8) Canadian Wheat Board (CWB) Payouts: Producer permit numbers, participant status and the amount of levy yet to be deducted is provided to the CWB once or twice a year. Conversely, each week the CWB furnishes WGSA with a computer tape of name and address changes and new permit number issues. The information enables the CWB to match participant files to their payment files in order to deduct the WGS levy from interim, adjustment and final payments. Information on the payout and the levy by producer is returned for processing to the WGS accounts. The CWB also forwards information weekly providing information about new permit book numbers and name and address which is used to update the WGS data base prior to levy refunds or stabilization payouts. (9) Revenue Canada: Statutory set-offs are received and recorded to intercept amounts owing to the Crown. Levy refunds and stabilization payments are matched to the file of set-offs and may confirmed amounts are diverted to Revenue Canada. (10) Family Orders and Agreements Enforcement Assistance Act: Monthly a computer tape file is received from Justice Canada to perform a name and address match against the WGSA master file. The matching is carried out to identify payees against whom there is an outstanding summons. WGSA payments are intercepted and set aside for instructions from Justice as to the amount to be diverted. Part of the matching process requires us to make positive identification by reference to the CWB where the producer's SIN is recorded (on his permit book application). (11) The information will also be used by the provinces to collect accounts receivable owing to the federal government from several federal agricultural programs under the Farm Income Assistance Initiative. Retention and Disposal Standards: Records are held for 20 years. TBS Registration: 001715 Bank Number: AGR PPU 180

Description: Information on the type of grain imported from the United States and the type of facility to which the grain is consigned obtained by Commission employees or submitted by Importers under the Canada Grain Act or Canada Grain Regulations. Class of Individuals: Grain producers and grain processing companies. Purpose: Statistical, i.e. to monitor the volume of American wheat being imported. Consistent Uses: Same as "Purpose". Retention and Disposal Standards: Records are held for 5 years. Disposal Authority: Treasury Board Minute 346576-1948. TBS Registration: 002932 Bank Number: AGR PPU 206

Licensing and Bonding Program

Description: The bank contains correspondence and annual applications from grain dealers and grain elevators to market grain. Class of Individuals: Grain dealers. Purpose: The purpose of this program is to license grain dealers and grain elevators under the authority of the Canada Grain Act. Consistent Uses: To issue licenses to grain dealers and grain elevators. Retention and Disposal Standards: Records are held for ten years. TBS Registration: 001717 Bank Number: AGR PPU 210

Producer Car Program

Description: This bank is comprised of correspondence and producers' applications which are filed by date of receipt and contain information such as the producer's name, application number; type, quality and quantity of grain; and the Canadian Wheat Board permit number. Class of Individuals: Grain producers. Purpose: The purpose of this program is to allocate railcars to grain producers for the transport of their crop to terminal elevators or other destinations under the authority of the Canada Grain Act. Retention and Disposal Standards: Records are held for six years. TBS Registration: 001716 Bank Number: AGR PPU 205

Unofficial Sample File

Description: The bank contains the name of the grower, the name of the requester and the grade of the sample. Class of Individuals: Grain producers. Purpose: The purpose of this bank is to maintain a record of all unofficial samples submitted for grading by grain inspectors under the authority of the Canada Grain Act. Consistent Uses: To provide documentation on unofficial samples taken or tests conducted by grain inspectors. Retention and Disposal Standards: Records are held for three years. TBS Registration: 001718 Bank Number: AGR PPU 215

■ Prairie Farm Rehabilitation Administration (PFRA)

Soil and Water Conservation Programs

Description: Programs and activities which involve the storage of personal information include the PFRA Shelterbelt Program, the Southwest Saskatchewan Irrigation Projects, the Irrigation Demonstration Program, the Community Pasture Program, the Soil and Water On-Farm Activities, including the Rural Water Development and Soil Conservation Programs. Purpose: The information is used to administer programs on stabilizing and rehabilitating lands sub-marginal for cereal production and conserving and storing water on the drought-prone prairies. Consistent Uses: Information may also be used to garnish payments received by individuals under several Agriculture Canada programs. This activity would be made under the Family Orders and Enforcement Assistance Act. Retention and Disposal Standards: Records are held for 53 to 66 years. TBS Registration: 001719 Bank Number: AGR PPU 220

Soil Conservation Survey of Attitudes

Description: This bank contains the results of surveys conducted in order to determine farmers' attitudes towards soil conservation, and to understand the limitations of soil conservation activities as perceived by farmers. Class of Individuals: Prairie farmers who have received technical, financial and material assistance from the Soil Conservation Program and prairie farmers whose farms are located in the vicinity of Prairie Farm Rehabilitation Administration groups. Purpose: The survey provides baseline data for future evaluations and the subsequent progression of soil conservation activities. This information is used to evaluate the level of satisfaction of farmers who received services under the Soil Conservation Program and the program's effectiveness, according to farmers, in sustaining soil resources. The results will be used to evaluate the existing programs and to develop future programs. Consistent Uses: Personal data will be cross-referenced with responses from the survey in order to assess the relative needs of certain target groups. The evaluation of the needs assessment may be used in revising existing programs as well as in the development of future programs. Retention and Disposal Standards: Records are retained for five years. TBS Registration: 002583 Bank Number: AGR PPU 350

■ Audit and Evaluation Branch

Special Canadian Grains Program 1987 Extension Evaluation

Description: The bank contains information about opinions and perceptions collected from participants of the Special Canadian Grains Program 1987 Extension. This information will be collected in two phases. Participants' perceptions of the financial and farm-level (production decisions, use of inputs) impacts of the SCG 1987 program as well as their opinions about the Program and its improvements over 1986 will be collected in focus groups. Class of Individuals: Grains and oilseeds producers in Canada who received payments from the Special Canadian Grains Program 1987 Extension. Purpose: Information is compiled in order to evaluate the Special Canadian Grains Program 1987 Extension. The focus of the evaluation is the financial and farm level impacts of the SCGP 1987 as well as participants' perception of the Program. The information will be used to assess the effectiveness of the SCGP 1987 and, as part of the "Alternatives" issue of the evaluation, to determine how such programs, if required, may be improved in the future. Consistent Uses: Information collected will be used to design similar programs, if required, in the future. Retention and Disposal Standards: Information in this bank will be retained for six years from the date the information was collected. TBS Registration: 001856 Bank Number: AGR PPU 240

Records are stored in files by alphabetical order. Class of Individuals: The bank contains personal information concerning individuals who are interested in securing employment with the Department of Agriculture. Purpose: These records are used for reference when vacancies arise. Consistent Uses: To maintain a current inventory within the Department. Retention and Disposal Standards: The information is updated regularly at the request of the applicant. Records are maintained for one year and then destroyed. TBS Registration: 002703 Bank Number: AGR PPU 360

Other Programs and Agreements

This class reflects other programs and agreements not specifically covered under the other classes. These other programs and agreements are aimed at resolving specific problems of a limited nature or in specifically defined areas of the country. For example, Federal-Provincial Agreements such as those under the Agricultural and Rural Development Act (ARDA) are concerned with rural problems of unemployment and social disadvantages. Special ARDA agreements have been used as a vehicle to improve the economic circumstances of native people by providing financial and other assistance to create job opportunities. Personal information may be stored in administering programs falling within this class. This information may include financial, employment, demographic and educational data on individuals. Such data, however, would be stored as part of the general subject files where records are not normally retrieved by name of individual or other personal identifier. This form of personal information is normally retrievable only if specifics are provided concerning the name of the program concerned and the name of the specific project.

General Correspondence and Enquiries

Personal information in this class relates to routine correspondence concerning the regulatory and licensing activities associated with meat inspection, pesticides, feeds and fertilizers, veterinary biologics and the humane treatment of animals. It also relates to general enquiries concerning agricultural research, market intelligence, food advisory information and financial assistance to marketing boards and co-operatives. The personal information contained in this class normally includes the name and address of the enquirer, but is neither arranged nor retrievable by personal identifiers. This form of personal information exists in a fragmented form throughout the subject files controlled by the Department and is normally retrievable only if specifics are provided concerning the subject and the date of the correspondence. The retention period for this class of personal information is controlled by the retention period of the files in which they are stored.

Ministerial Correspondence

This class of information contains correspondence received by the Departmental Secretariat from external organizations and individuals in the form of requests for information, complaints, opinions and other similar submissions related to a broad range of policy issues pertaining to Agriculture Canada's activities, wherein some unsolicited personal information has been provided by the correspondent. This form of information would be retrievable only if specifics of name, date of communication and subject were to be provided; it is not arranged or retrievable by personal identifiers. The retention periods of these classes of personal information are controlled by the record schedules of the general subject files in which they are stored.

Atlantic Canada Opportunities Agency

Chapter 2

General Information

Background

The Atlantic Canada Opportunities Agency (ACOA) was created in June 1987. In addition to existing regional development funding, the Agency was given $1.05 billion to increase opportunity for economic development in Atlantic Canada and, more particularly, to enhance the growth of earned incomes and employment opportunities in the region.

Responsibilities

The Agency's objective is to support and promote opportunity for the economic development of Atlantic Canada, with particular emphasis on small- and medium-sized enterprises, through policy, program and project development and implementation, and through advocacy of the interests of Atlantic Canada in national economic policy, program and project development and implementation.

Legislation

- Financial Administration Act

Organization

ACOA's head office is in Moncton, N.B. There are also offices each headed by a vice-president in the Atlantic provincial capitals (St. John's, Halifax, Charlottetown, and Fredericton). Sydney, N.S. also has an office. The vice-president of the latter office is also vice-president of Enterprise Cape Breton Corporation. An office is also located in Ottawa.

The Agency's mandate is fourfold. Through advocacy, the Agency promotes the interests of Atlantic Canada in national economic policy, program and project development and implementation.

The Agency coordinates the economic and regional development activities of all federal government departments and agencies in Atlantic Canada. Each provincial vice-president chairs a coordinating committee consisting of the heads of federal government departments involved in programs affecting the province's economic development.

The Agency co-operates with other levels of government, largely through Economic and Regional Development Agreements (ERDAs) under which subsidiary agreements are signed. In addition, ACOA is responsible for coordinating all subsidiary agreements administered by other federal government departments and agencies.

The Agency also offers business support programming. A number of business incentive programs have been transferred to ACOA. These programs include the Industrial and Regional Development Program (IRDP), the Atlantic Enterprise Program (AEP), and the Cape Breton Topping Up Assistance Program. The IRDP and AEP formed the core of the ACOA Action Program (AAP), the principal financial assistance program now available to business which was announced in February 1988.

Two boards play key roles in ensuring the fulfillment of the Agency's mandate. The ACOA Board is a private sector advisory board whose role is to assist the Agency in exercising its powers. As well, the Enterprise Cape Breton (ECB) Board approves projects in Cape Breton between $50,000 and $250,000 in Crown support, and provides recommendations to the Minister of ACOA regarding projects exceeding $250,000 in Crown support.

Atlantic Pilotage Authority Canada

Chapter 3

General Information

Background

As a result of recommendations made by the Royal Commission on Pilotage in Canada, the Pilotage Act was assented to by Her Majesty and the Governor in Council and proclaimed February 1, 1972.

The Pilotage Act created four pilotage regions with specific authorities, thereby replacing a large number of local pilotage districts. The four pilotage authorities – Atlantic, Laurentian, Great Lakes, and Pacific – are Crown corporations, responsible to Parliament through the Minister of Transport.

The Atlantic Pilotage Authority was incorporated in carrying out the Pilotage Act in 1972, and pursuant to the Financial Administration Act, (Schedule SC 1983-84, 31) was designated a Schedule III Part I Crown corporation.

Responsibilities

The role of the Authority is to establish, operate, maintain and administer, in the interest of safety, an efficient and economical pilotage service within its geographical boundaries – all coastal waters in the Atlantic region. As a further goal, the authority prescribes tariffs of pilotage charges that are fair, reasonable and consistent with providing revenues sufficient to permit the Authority to operate on a self-sustaining financial basis.

Legislation

- Atlantic Pilotage Regulations
- Authority By-Laws
- Canadian Shipping Act
- General Pilotage Regulations
- Pilotage Act

Organization

Administration Division: provides administrative and financial services as required to operate within accepted corporate business procedures.

Operations Division: provides pilotage services by assigning and dispatching qualified pilots to ships navigating within the boundaries of the Atlantic Pilotage Authority.

Atomic Energy Control Board

Chapter 4

General Information

Background

The Atomic Energy Control Board (AECB) was established in 1946 by the Atomic Energy Control Act.

Responsibilities

The AECB is the federal regulatory agency responsible for the control of health, safety, and national and international security aspects of prescribed nuclear energy substances and items, and nuclear facilities. The AECB is also responsible for the administration of the Nuclear Liability Act. The Board reports to Parliament through the Minister of Energy, Mines and Resources, and is a departmental corporation within the meaning and purpose of the Financial Administration Act.

Legislation

- Atomic Energy Control Act, R.S.C., 1985, chapter A-16
- Nuclear Liability Act, R.S.C., 1985, chapter N-28

Organization

The Board consists of five members. One of these members is appointed President and Chief Executive Officer of the AECB and is the only full-time member. Reporting to the President are the Secretariat, the Directorate of Reactor Regulation, the Directorate of Fuel Cycle and Materials Regulation, the Directorate of Research and Safeguards, the Directorate of Analysis and Assessment, and the Directorate of Administration.

■ Secretariat

The Secretariat is responsible for the functions of Secretary to the Board, the dissemination of information to the public and the media, and administrative and scientific support to two independent advisory committees dealing with radiation protection and nuclear safety. It is also responsible for corporate planning, coordination of policy development, implementation of internal audit and program evaluation plans, as well as liaison with provincial, federal and international agencies, including the Minister's Office. Administration of the Nuclear Liability Act and compliance with the provisions of the Access to Information Act and the Privacy Act rest with the Secretariat. The Secretariat consists of the Office of the Secretary to the Board, the Office of Public Information, the Planning and Coordination Section, and the Advisory Committee Secretariat.

■ Directorate of Reactor Regulation

The Directorate is responsible for the regulation of power and research reactors, heavy water plants and for examining the qualifications of reactor operators. The Directorate consists of Power Reactor Divisions 'A' and 'B', Operator Certification Division, and the Studies and Codification Division.

■ Directorate of Fuel Cycle and Materials Regulation

The Directorate is responsible for the regulation of uranium mines and mills, refineries, and conversion plants; nuclear fuel fabrication plants; radioactive waste management facilities; accelerators; and the use of radioisotopes. Additional responsibilities of the Directorate include the analytical laboratory facilities and compliance inspection services, and regulating the transport packaging of radioactive materials. The Directorate consists of the uranium Facilities Division, the Waste Management Division, the Compliance Services and Laboratory Division, and the Radioisotope and Transportation Division.

■ Directorate of Research and Safeguards

The Directorate is responsible for the initiation and management of projects in the mission-oriented research and support program that is designed to provide information for use in the AECB's regulatory functions. The Directorate also administers the implementation of domestic and international nuclear materials safeguards programs, and the Canadian Safeguards Support Program. The Directorate consists of the Safeguards and Security Division, and the Research and Supports Divisions 'A' and 'B'.

■ Directorate of Analysis and Assessment

The Directorate is responsible for the detailed review and assessment of the arguments submitted by licensees (primarily for reactors) to demonstrate the safety of their designs, the adequacy of their quality assurance, and the protection from radiation hazards threatening both workers and the environments. The Directorate is also responsible for the development of standards and guidelines for radiation protection. The Directorate consists of the Safety Evaluation Division, the Components and Quality Assurance Division, and the Radiation Protection Division.

■ Directorate of Administration

The Directorate is responsible for the administration of the AECB's human, information, financial and physical resources. The Directorate consists of the Personnel Section, the Finance Section and the Information Management Section.

Personal Information Banks

Access Request Data Bank

This bank contains the access request forms sent by individuals requesting access to their files, the replies to such requests and information related to their processing. It is used for processing access requests only, and to report on the number of access requests received annually. Files will be kept for two years. Bank Number: AEB PPU 045

Applications for Employment

This bank exists to maintain an inventory of applicants from the general public or the federal government for employment with the AECB. It includes correspondence, applications for employment, curricula vitae, interview data, and other personal information. This bank is used to identify applicants, their skills and abilities, work histories, and education, for possible future appointments to the Board staff. Records are retained in the bank for one year. Bank Number: AEB PPU 035

Examinations and Results

This bank maintains a record of the examinations given to personnel at nuclear reactor facilities. Data include names of individuals, titles of examinations written and results in terms of success or failure. The AECB sets these examinations to ensure that the requirements for operating personnel are met. Records are retained in the bank for an indefinite period. Bank Number: AEB PPU 015

Health and Safety Regulations: Inspection Officers

This bank may contain data on nationality, age, sex, education and special training, and employment history, as well as correspondence with provinces leading to appointments. There may be sensitive material relating to federal-provincial negotiations for service. The purpose of the bank is to record information relating to the appointment of employees of provincial government departments or health institutes, to act as inspectors under the Atomic Energy Control Regulations. The bank provides an up-to-date identification of individuals appointed as inspectors. Records are held during tenure of appointment, and for two years subsequently, after which they are sent to the National Archives of Canada. Bank Number: AEB PPU 010

Health and Safety Regulations: Medical Advisers

The bank contains names and details concerning present employment and area of jurisdiction, and communications between the AECB and parent agencies or the individuals prior to appointment. Individuals this bank relates to are all qualified medical officers, who may be from provincial government departments, hospitals, institutions, or the federal service. The purpose of the bank is to record information on the appointment of medical advisers to the AECB. The bank provides an up-to-date status of individual appointments by name. Records are retained during tenure of appointment, and for two years subsequently; they are then sent to the National Archives of Canada. Bank Number: AEB PPU 005

Personal Service Contract Files

The bank includes basic personal data, subject matter and terms of contract. The purpose of the bank is to maintain an accurate account of all payments made under personal service contracts. The primary use of the bank is to record negotiations between the AECB and the individuals concerned. Records will be retained in the bank for an indefinite period. Bank Number: AEB PPU 040

Reactor Operators and Training

Data in this bank include a record of correspondence, details of education and experience, and basic personal information. The purpose of the bank is to provide an accurate and up-to-date record of all information on authorizations and appointments of individuals to designated positions at nuclear generating stations and research reactor sites. Records are maintained in the bank for an indefinite period. Bank Number: AEB PPU 020

Reactor Personnel

Data include summaries of the individual's examination results, copies of all authorizations issued for the appointment of the individual to designated positions, and correspondence specifically relating to the individual. The purpose of the bank is to maintain a record of each individual's examination and authorization for designated appointments at nuclear reactor facilities. Records are retained for an indefinite period. Bank Number: AEB PPU 025

Temporary Assistance Records

Names, addresses, social insurance numbers, invoices or time sheets pertaining to the individual's period of employment with the AECB. The purpose of the bank is to maintain an inventory of all temporary assistance agencies and individuals as their services are required by the Board. The primary use of the bank is to keep an accurate record of the agencies and terms of employment as required, on the basis of verification of accounts. Records are retained in the bank for three years. Bank Number: AEB PPU 030

Bank of Canada

Chapter 5

General Information

Background

The Bank of Canada is Canada's central bank. It was incorporated in 1934 under the Bank of Canada Act which charges it with the responsibility to regulate "credit and currency in the best interests of the economic life of the nation, to control and protect the external value of the national monetary unit and to mitigate by its influence fluctuations in the general level of production, trade, prices and employment, so far as may be possible within the scope of monetary action, and generally to promote the economic and financial welfare of the Dominion."

Responsibility for the affairs of the Bank rests with a board of directors composed of the Governor, the senior deputy governor and 12 directors, appointed by the government for three-year terms. The Deputy Minister of Finance sits on the board but does not have the right to vote. The Governor is the chief executive officer of the Bank and handles the direction and control of the Bank's affairs.

Responsibilities

The primary function of the Bank of Canada is set out above. The Act also confers certain powers which, together with provisions in other legislation, enable the Bank to exercise a broad controlling influence over the growth of money and credit in Canada and thereby affect levels of spending and economic activity. Other responsibilities include acting as an adviser and as a fiscal agent to the Government of Canada in the receipt and disbursement of payments, in the operation of the Exchange Fund Account on behalf of the Minister of Finance, and in the issuance, administration and servicing of the government's outstanding debt. The Bank of Canada has the sole right to issue notes intended for circulation in Canada; the issue of coins is the responsibility of the Royal Canadian Mint.

Legislation

- Bank Act
- Bank of Canada Act
- Currency Act
- Financial Administration Act

Organization

■ Securities Department

This department has both operational and analytical duties. Its most important operational functions are to help implement monetary policy through adjustments in excess chartered bank cash reserves or through open market operations, and to issue Government of Canada securities treasury bills, marketable bonds and Canada Savings Bonds both domestically and abroad.

Its analytical function is to monitor conditions in financial markets, forecast key financial flows and study financial relationships relevant to securities markets. The results are communicated to the Bank's senior officers for their use in formulating monetary policy, advising government on matters related to debt management, and influencing the development of capital market structures appropriate to Canadian needs.

■ Research Department

This department's primary responsibility is to assess the significance of current economic developments and prospects in Canada and the United States and to keep Bank management fully informed about them. An aspect of this responsibility is to seek further understanding of the operation of the economy and of public policies which are, or could be, employed in an attempt to regulate it.

■ Department of Monetary and Financial Analysis

This department is responsible for monitoring and analyzing the behaviour of the chartered banks, other financial institutions and capital markets in response to monetary policy and other forces at work in the financial system.

■ International Department

The principal responsibilities of this department include the conduct of foreign exchange operations as fiscal agent for the government and the Bank, and analyses of current and prospective developments in exchange markets, the Canadian balance of payments, economic activity overseas and the international payments system.

■ Department of Banking Operations

The overall responsibility of the Department is to provide efficient and effective service to other central banks, international financial organizations, the Government of Canada, chartered banks, trust companies and all other financial organizations. Its responsibilities include the security and administration of valuables such as gold, securities and currency. The Department also provides fiscal functions for which the Bank of Canada acts as an agent for the Government of Canada. These functions include the clearing of government obligations and receiving deposits for the account of the Government of Canada. The Department has agencies or branches in Vancouver, Calgary, Regina, Winnipeg, Toronto, Ottawa, Montreal, Saint John and Halifax.

■ Public Debt Department

This department is responsible for the administration of direct and certain guaranteed debt issues of the Government of Canada. Its functions include obtaining and distributing supplies of debt certificates, the maintenance of registers and records for control purposes, the payment of interest and the retirement of the debt.

■ Comptroller's Department

The Comptroller's department is responsible for the internal financial functions of the Bank, such as the processing, monitoring and reporting of receipts and payments for management and statutory reporting requirements. These responsibilities involve the coordination of the annual planning budgeting exercise and subsequent control, processing payments for goods, services, payroll and unclaimed balances, recording transactions for administrative expenditures and market operations, accounting for and reporting the Bank's financial position, and keeping records of items in safekeeping.

■ Administrative Departments

The Secretary's department provides corporate secretary support to the Bank's Board of Directors and Management Committee. The department also responds to enquiries from the public, and provides specialized advice, information and support services internally. The department manages the Currency Museum, which displays artifacts from the National Currency Collection. Other administrative departments providing advice and services to support the management of the Bank are: the Audit, Automation Services, Personnel and Premises Management departments.

Canada Council

Chapter 6

General Information

Background

The Canada Council was created by the Parliament of Canada in 1957 (Canada Council Act, 1957, RSC 1970 c-2, as amended). The mandate of the Canada Council (Section 8(1)) is "to foster and promote the study and enjoyment of, and the production of works in, the arts."

Responsibilities

The general policy objective of the Canada Council is to recognize, foster and promote excellence in the arts. Most of its grants are awarded through an extensive system of competitions judged by juries of practising artists and other independent specialists in the particular disciplines.

In addition to its mandate to foster and promote the arts, the Canada Council has been assigned responsibility for the Canadian Commission for the United Nations Educational, Scientific and Cultural Organization (UNESCO) (Subsection 8(2), Order-in-Council PC 1957-831), in conformity with the constitution of UNESCO.

The Council also administers the Killam program of scholarly awards and prizes, financed from a private legacy. The Public Lending Right Commission, which provides payments to Canadian authors for the public use of their works in Canadian libraries, operates under the aegis of the Council.

Its programs include arts grants A and B, grants in non-fiction writing, project grants, travel grants, studio space and study abroad, and prizes.

Dance Section: Responsible for support to professional Canadian dance companies, organizations and associations in ballet, modern and experimental dance. Its program includes the communications fund and grants to dance companies, independent dance artists, professional schools, service organizations and indepenDance.

Explorations Program: Responsible for grants to investigate new forms of cultural expression and participation. Grants are provided to individuals, groups or organizations for innovative projects, within or outside traditional arts disciplines, which contribute towards an understanding of Canada's cultural past or the development of its cultural future.

Media Arts Section: Provides support to independent professional artists for the creation of works using conventional and/or new acoustic and visual technologies and their related media. It administers three production programs: film and holography, video and audio, and computer-integrated media. It also administers a distribution and broadcast program. These programs are concerned with production and diffusion in multiple format media, including computer processing, visual and acoustic imaging and system control (via digital sampling and mastering), applied laser technology and optical storage. In addition to direct production assistance, support is available to non-profit media art organizations through operational, project, workshop or communication funds. The Section is the repository of the Canada Council Film Collection.

Music and Opera Section: Responsible for support to professional Canadian music companies, organizations and associations. Its programs include grants to orchestras, opera companies, other music groups and organizations, and community choirs, commissioning of Canadian compositions, aid to sound recording by Canadian producers and companies, and the communication fund.

Theatre Section: Responsible for support to professional theatre companies, organizations and associations. Its programs include grants to theatre companies and the communications fund.

Touring Office: Supports touring by professional Canadian performing artists, and the development of management for Canadian tours and artists and tour coordination and promotion. Its programs include touring grants, apprenticeship program, Concert Canada program, festival program, and cultural exchange.

Visual Arts Section: Responsible for support to professional visual arts institutions and associations. Its programs include aid to artist centres; and exhibition and programming assistance to art galleries; Canadian visiting artist program; artists studios in New York, Chalmers fund for the crafts; performance art; special project assistance; and the communications fund.

Canada Council Art Bank: Purchases contemporary Canadian works of art and rents them to federal government departments and agencies as well as other public institutions and non-profit organizations. It also organizes exhibitions of its collection and occasionally lends works for exhibitions by other institutions.

Writing and Publishing Section: Responsible for support to publishing companies, organizations and associations, and for certain programs of support to writers. Its programs include block grants and project grants to book publishers; translation grants; aid to international translation; aid to periodicals; promotion and distribution of Canadian books and periodicals; promotion tours by authors; public readings program; short-term residencies; National Book Festival; writers-in-residence program; literary prizes and awards; Canada-Scotland writers-in-residence exchange; and grants to national associations of writers, book publishers and periodical publishers.

Personal Information Banks

Access to Information and Privacy Bank

This bank contains requests from individuals seeking information under the Access to Information Act, the Privacy Act, replies to such requests and information related to their processing. This information relates to the general public. The bank is used to process requests of access to information and privacy and report the total number of requests processed. Records are retained for two years. Bank Number: CAC PPU 145

Accession Cards

The purpose of this bank is to keep track of all works in the art bank collection as well as to provide some basic information on the artists. It contains such data on purchased works as title, medium, size, signature on work, date of creation, jury members, date of purchase, history of location of work and rental fee. In addition, this bank contains basic information on the artist such as birth date and place, citizenship, his/her dealer and place of residence when work was purchased. It is used to keep records of all works purchased by the art bank as well as their current location. In addition, it is used to provide statistical information on artworks and artists represented in the art bank collection and to compile information for the art bank catalogue. Records are kept permanently. Bank Number: CAC PPU 055

Application for Employment Search File

The purpose of this bank is to maintain a record of applications made directly to the art bank (outside of regular Canada Council competitions). It contains applications from prospective employees and generally includes resumes, covering letters with addresses, etc. After initial sorting, copies of applications are transferred to the personnel section of the Canada Council in case suitable positions arise. Copies of applications are maintained at the art bank for three years, after which they are destroyed. Bank Number: CAC PPU 075

Applications for Employment

The bank is used to maintain an inventory of applications received from individuals seeking employment with the Canada Council. Records include both applications solicited for specific competitions and unsolicited applications. It includes covering letters, career resumés, letters of recommendation, and acknowledgement of applications. Resumés normally provide individual's name, social insurance number, address, personal characteristics, employment history, and other personal information. In the absence of a resumé, applicants submit a Public Service of Canada application for employment. Applications are used to assist in filling available positions. Both solicited and unsolicited applications are kept for one year. Bank Number: CAC PPU 090

Applications for Employment

The purpose of this bank is to maintain a record of applications from individuals for employment with UNESCO in Paris and elsewhere abroad (i.e. positions other than with the secretariat of the Canadian Commission). The bank contains names, addresses and requests. Applications including resume, covering letter, etc. are forwarded to the relevant office or body. Only copies of the covering letters which normally accompany applications are retained. These copies are retained solely for record tracing purposes. Records are retained for five years, after which they are destroyed. Bank Number: CAC PPU 110

Art Bank Catalogue

This bank is used to list all works purchased for the art bank collection. It lists all works in the collection, giving information on the artists, place and date of birth, as well as the title, medium, size and accession number of each work. It is used for research purposes by the art bank and the general public. Records are updated on a yearly basis to account for changes in the collection. The catalogue is reproduced biannually. Bank Number: CAC PPU 060

Art Bank Labels

These labels are affixed to works of art. They contain the name, date and place of birth of the artist, as well as the title, medium, date of creation, and accession number of the work. The labels are kept for as long as the work is in the art bank collection. Bank Number: CAC PPU 040

Arts Grants Case Files

Description: Contains the name, address, phone number and curriculum vitae of each candidate applying for a grant. In addition, the files indicate the process of adjudication used (jury or assessment) and may include the comments (or a précis of the comments) of the jurors or assessors. Arts grants "A" and "B" files contain up to three confidential letters of appraisal, which are signed by an appraiser and sent directly to the Canada Council without being seen by the candidate. The files are organized alphabetically according to grant category. A card file containing the personal information and adjudication result is maintained separately and organized alphabetically. Class of Individuals: Grant applicants. Purpose: Contains files of individuals who have applied to the Arts Awards Service for an arts grant in one of five categories: Arts grants "A" and "B", non-fiction writing, project grants and travel grants. Records are kept permanently. Bank Number: CAC PPU 050

Biographies

The purpose of the bank is to maintain a bank of selected biographical material on individuals who may be suited to serving UNESCO in some capacity (e.g. at international conferences or on related bodies). Most of the biographical material is obtained from suitable individuals applying for employment. In addition, UNESCO assembles biographies on its own or commissions biographies. Each file normally contains an individual's name, address, work history, educational background and date of birth. This bank is rarely utilized; occasionally the information is used to assist in choosing persons to participate in UNESCO-related activities, such as international meetings, or to aid in the election of members to the UNESCO executive committee. The bank also provides addresses for the UNESCO mailing list. Records are kept permanently, or until the client wishes to be removed from the list. Bank Number: CAC PPU 100

Communications Service Mailing List

The Communications Service has direct responsibility for the management of this mailing list. The purpose of this mailing list is to compile and maintain addresses of individuals and organizations to whom selected Canada Council publications are sent. It contains names and addresses of individual artists, arts organizations, organizational contacts, government departments, universities and other organizations to whom publications are sent. In addition, each computer record contains a unique reference number, a code which identifies the discipline and area of interest, and a second code which specifies whether or not the individual is a client of the Council. The list is used to facilitate the sending of Canada Council publications to interested parties. The code which specifies whether or not the individual is a client of the Council is not included on the actual mailing labels. Files are revised on an ongoing basis. Names are added or deleted as programs change, or the status of recipients changes, etc. Bank Number: CAC PPU 030

Canada Deposit Insurance Corporation

Chapter 7

General Information

Background

The Canada Deposit Insurance Corporation (CDIC) was established in 1967 by the Canada Deposit Insurance Corporation Act. The Corporation's primary role is to provide, for the benefit of persons having deposits in a bank, trust or loan company, insurance against the loss of all or part of their deposits to a maximum of $60,000 in the event of the failure of the member institution concerned. The definition of "deposit" may be summarized as moneys received by a member institution which it is obligated to repay on demand, or on a fixed or determinable date that is within five years from the date of the deposit. Deposits not payable in Canada or repayable in foreign currency are not insured. In the furtherance of its main function, the Corporation may, amongst other powers, acquire assets from, or make or guarantee loans to, or deposits with a member institution for the purpose of averting or reducing a threatened loss to the Corporation.

Responsibilities

The Corporation's primary role is as set out above.

The Corporation's secondary role includes examining the affairs of member institutions in order to obtain information for deposit insurance purposes (under legislation, the examination of member institutions is the responsibility of the Office of the Superintendent of Financial Institutions); acting as lender of last resort to provide short-term liquidation loans under specified authority; managing the acquired assets of member institutions and reducing the risk of loss to the Corporation by guaranteeing loans or deposits with a member institution. In addition, the Corporation acts as curator of a bank, or liquidator or receiver of a member institution; and manages, monitors and invests a deposit insurance fund and other funds accumulated from the operations of the Corporation.

Legislation

- Canada Deposit Insurance Corporation Act
- Canada Deposit Insurance Corporation General By-Law
- Co-operative Credit Associations Act
- Investment Companies Act
- Part X of the Financial Administration Act

Organization

■ Legal Services Unit

This Unit is responsible for providing legal counsel and advice in all legal matters affecting the Corporation. It also performs administrative duties assigned to it by the Board of Directors.

■ Internal Audit Unit

This Unit is responsible for an independent examination and review of internal controls, policies and procedures; systems and practices; their application; and the extent to which they protect the interests of the Corporation. The internal auditor develops and maintains this function in accordance with provisions related to Crown corporations as outlined in the Financial Administration Act.

■ Public Relations Unit

This Unit formulates and develops communication policies that will enable it to support and establish the priorities, policies, programs and activities of the Corporation. It must also communicate those policies to member institutions and the general public.

■ Human Resources Department

This Department is responsible for administering the Corporation's Human Resource Program and for coordinating related activities such as staffing, pay and benefits, training and development, counselling and the application of the Program's policies and procedures in a standard and consistent manner.

■ Information Systems Unit

This Unit is responsible for the development and the implementation of new applications and for the operation and maintenance of existing systems. All aspects of office automation and all computer systems fall under this unit.

■ Insurance and Risk Assessment Unit

The main responsibility of this Unit is for the effective operation of the insurance, member relations and risk assessment functions of the Corporation. It is also responsible for developing and establishing standards of sound business and financial practices, and determining practices that warrant a premium increase.

■ Field Operations – Intervention department

The primary functions of this Department are to develop systems and procedures for the conduct of intervention, and to manage the operations of a number of member accounts.

■ Operations Unit

This Unit is mainly responsible for the management and the administration of operations in the Ottawa and Toronto offices; for the coordination of the activities of the Real Estate Advisory Committee and the Credit Committee; for the development of all corporate plans, budgets, and reports; and for the management of the Corporation's finances and accounting services.

Canada Labour Relations Board

Chapter 8

General Information

Background

The original Canada Labour Relations Board (organized in 1948) was composed of members representing both management and labour appointed by the federal government to deal, on a part-time basis, with the orderly resolution of trade union representation disputes under the Industrial Relations and Disputes Investigation Act.

The Canada Labour Relations Board was established in its present form in 1972 by the amended Canada Labour Code (R.S.C. 1970, CL-1 as amended by S.C. 1972, c.18) and became effective March 1, 1973. The Board is a quasi-judicial body with statutory and regulatory powers pertaining to the administration of Part I of the Canada Labour Code dealing with industrial relations. The members of the Board are non-representational full-time appointees with experience and knowledge of industrial relations and labour law. As members of a non-partisan board they are prohibited from holding any other remunerated office or employment. In general, Part I of the Canada Labour Code charges the Board with a two-fold responsibility: that of granting, modifying and terminating bargaining rights, and that of resolving, through mediation or adjudication, complaints of unfair labour practice concerning violations of the Code by trade unions or employers.

Under Part II of the Code, the Board must, upon referral of a safety officer's decision, inquire into the circumstances giving rise to the decision and may confirm the decision or give any direction which the safety officer is entitled to give. The Board also rules on complaints by employees that they have been discriminated against or punished for exercising their rights in relation to safety.

Responsibilities

The Board's responsibility is set out above. On finding a violation of the Code, the Board is empowered to order reinstatement and compensation where appropriate. It is also empowered, upon application, to order employees to return to work in cases of illegal work stoppages and to attempt to resolve or adjudicate, where necessary, various other types of disputes that may arise under Part I of the Code.

Legislation

- Canada Labour Code (Parts I and II)
- Canada Labour Relations Board Regulations, 1978, SOR 78-499

Organization

The Board has a single program consisting of the administration and interpretation of certain sections of Part I and Part II of the Canada Labour Code. It is supported in this activity by investigation and mediation staff in offices located in Dartmouth, Montreal, Toronto, Winnipeg and Vancouver, as well as at its headquarters in Ottawa.

Program Records

Acquisition and Termination of Bargaining Rights

Description: Case files concerning the acquisition by trade unions of the right to bargain collectively on behalf of employees in the federal jurisdiction, through certification as bargaining agent or by way of successor rights, and the termination of bargaining rights. Topics: Application for certification; application for declaration of single employer; application for revocation of certification; application for declaration of successor rights; application for declaration of sale of business; application for access to employer's premises for the purpose of soliciting union membership. Program Record Number: CLR OPS 005

Change of Terms and Conditions of Employment

Description: Application by employers under federal jurisdiction for permission to alter the rates of pay, or any other terms or conditions of employment, or any rights or privileges of employees who are the subject of an application by a trade union to represent the employees in collective bargaining. Program Record Number: CLR OPS 035

Collective Bargaining and Collective Agreements

Description: Applications concerning the existence of disputed collective agreements or the identification of parties bound by a collective agreement; applications concerning the failure of an employer to comply with obligations under a collective agreement respecting any proposed technological change; applications for permission to give the employer notice to begin collective bargaining following a notice of technological change; references from the Minister of Labour directing the Board to inquire into disputes related to the settlement of first collective agreements, and to impose a first agreement on the parties if necessary; applications by individuals who, because of religious beliefs, object to joining a trade union or to paying regular union dues to a trade union (The Board may allow an exception for such individuals, directing the amount normally paid for regular union dues to a registered charity chosen by the employee and the union.); applications by parties to a collective agreement to serve notice to bargain following the establishment of a portion of the public service as a Crown corporation and following certain determinations by the Board as to whether the agreement will remain in force, the expiration date if it does remain in force, whether the employees concerned constitute one or more units appropriate for collective bargaining, and which trade union shall be the bargaining agent for each unit. Topics: Determination of the existence of a collective agreement; revision of terms of collective agreement; technological change; leave to serve notice to bargain concerning technological change; provision of first agreement; religious objections; portion of the public service established as Crown corporation. Program Record Number: CLR OPS 030

Complaints of Unfair Labour Practice

Description: Complaints by persons or organizations that an employer, a trade union or a person has violated or failed to comply with provisions of the Canada Labour Code, Part I (Industrial Relations). Topics: Complaints related to failure to bargain in good faith, interference with the bargaining rights of a bargaining agent and changing of conditions of employment without the consent of the bargaining agent during the prescribed bargaining period; complaints alleging offences by employers such as interference with the formation or administration of a union or the representation of employees by a trade union, or discrimination against employees for union membership, union activity or the exercise of their rights under the Code; complaints alleging violations by trade unions such as trying to force an employer to bargain collectively in respect of employees for whom the union is not the bargaining agent, bargaining with an employer in respect of employees with the knowledge that another organization is the actual bargaining agent, interference in the formation or administration of an employer's organization, unauthorized soliciting of employees during their working hours at their place of employment, requiring the termination of an employee for loss of union membership unless that loss of membership is the result of failure to pay the required union fees, the application of membership rules or disciplinary procedures in a discriminatory manner, and discriminating against a person in matters related to employment or union membership because a person has exercised certain rights or fulfilled specified obligations under the Code; complaints alleging failure of a trade union to represent fairly all employees in the bargaining unit, or failure to establish rules for the referral of members to employment and apply the rules fairly, and alleging failure of a trade union to provide certified financial statements of its affairs to the end of its last fiscal year to any of its members free of charge. Program Record Number: CLR OPS 010

Review and Enforcement of Orders

Description: Applications to amend or rescind previous Board decisions or to reconsider previous decisions; requests to file Board orders in the federal court to give them the weight of an Order of the Court; or applications for the written consent of the Board to prosecute an offence under the Canada Labour Code. Topics: Application for review; filing of Board order in court; consent to prosecute. Program Record Number: CLR OPS 025

Safety of Employees

Description: Complaints by employees either alleging that their employer has imposed a penalty on them because they refused to work in accordance with their rights under Part II of the Canada Labour Code (Refusal to Work because of a Dangerous Situation, or requesting the Board to review a safety officer's decision concerning a refusal to work on grounds of a dangerous situation). Program Record Number: CLR OPS 020

Unlawful Work Stoppage

Description: Applications by an employer (in the case of a strike) or by a trade union (in the case of a lockout) for a declaration that the work stoppage is unlawful and for an order returning employees to work. Topics: Applications concerning unlawful strikes; applications in cases of unlawful lockout. Program Record Number: CLR OPS 015

Personal Information Banks

Religious Objections

Description: This bank contains applications by individuals who, because of religious beliefs, object to joining a trade union or to paying regular union dues to a trade union. The Board may order that a provision in a collective agreement requiring membership in a trade union or the payment of union dues as a condition of employment, not be applied to such employees. Class of Individuals: Individuals who work for companies under federal jurisdiction, as set out in the Canada Labour Code. Purpose: Personal information is obtained solely for the purpose of determining whether an employee's objections to membership in a trade union are based on true religious convictions. Consistent Uses: Religious objections may occasionally require a public hearing to determine complex issues which could affect the Board's decision regarding the objections. Such a hearing may result in the publication of a written judgement containing the facts surrounding the application and the Board's reasons for granting, or rejecting, the application. Retention and Disposal Standards: Simple cases (i.e., those that are withdrawn or settled without the holding of a public hearing) are kept for two years and then destroyed. Other cases are kept by the Board for 10 years, and then transferred to the National Archives of Canada for selective retention. TBS Registration: 002331 Bank Number: CLR PPU 015

Termination of Bargaining Rights

Description: This bank contains case files concerning applications for revocation of certifications which grant bargaining agents (unions) the right to represent employees in collective bargaining with employers in the federal jurisdiction. Class of Individuals: Individuals who work for companies under federal jurisdiction, as set out in the Canada Labour Code. Purpose: Personal information is obtained solely for the purpose of determining whether an individual is a member of the bargaining unit and therefore entitled to express support for or against his or her bargaining agent. Consistent Uses: Applications for revocation may occasionally require a public hearing in order to determine complex issues which could affect the Board's decision and may result in the publication of a written judgement which will contain the facts surrounding the application and the Board's reasons for granting or rejecting it. Retention and Disposal Standards: Files are kept for five years for successful applications and three years for unsuccessful applications, then transferred to the National Archives of Canada for selective retention. Cases which are withdrawn are destroyed after two years. TBS Registration: 000102 Bank Number: CLR PPU 010

Violations of the Canada Labour Code

Description: This bank contains case files concerning complaints by individuals that a section, or sections, of the Canada Labour Code, Parts I and II have been violated by their employer, their union, or another individual. Files may contain information on grievances, work records, or letters from unions or employers containing opinions or comments about individuals. Class of Individuals: Individuals who work for companies under federal jurisdiction, as set out in the Canada Labour Code. Purpose: Information about individuals is obtained solely for the purpose of bringing about a settlement to the dispute or, failing settlement, for the purpose of adjudication by the Board on the merits of the complaint. Consistent Uses: Information contained in case files, along with testimony given at public hearings may be published in written judgements which set out the Board's reasons for rejecting or upholding a complaint. Personal information is used solely for the purpose of settling or deciding on the merits of each case and is published solely for the purpose of explaining the Board's reasons for its decision and its policy in like cases. Retention and Disposal Standards: Case files are kept for five years if successful and three years if unsuccessful, and are then transferred to the National Archives of Canada for selective retention. Settled cases are kept for the minimum two years required and then destroyed. TBS Registration: 000101 Bank Number: CLR PPU 005

Classes of Personal Information

Other Personal Information Banks

Other case files and subject files held by operational services may contain personal information such as names of individuals, addresses, position titles, job descriptions, salaries, and membership in a trade union. The information is not retrievable by personal identifiers and is collected solely for the purpose of administering the Canada Labour Code. All files are organized by file number and are maintained by operational services at headquarters in Ottawa. Regional offices retain duplicate files for the purposes of investigation until the settlement of a case. Some personal information such as job descriptions and salaries may be published in written judgements where it is pertinent to the background of a case in which the Canada Labour Relations Board decides its decision requires formal elaboration. Such information is usually the result of testimony given at public hearings.

Canada Mortgage and Housing Corporation

Chapter 10

General Information

Background

Canada Mortgage and Housing Corporation (CMHC) was incorporated as a Crown corporation in January, 1946, by an Act of Parliament. CMHC has authority to act for the Government of Canada in all matters prescribed under the Housing Acts, principally the National Housing Act (NHA). CMHC reports to Parliament through a designated Minister. Its affairs are managed by a board of directors consisting of the chairman of the board, the President, a designated senior vice-president, five members from the public at large and two members from the public service, all appointed by the Governor-in-Council.

Responsibilities

The functions of CMHC, as stated in the National Housing Act, are to promote the construction of new houses, the repair and modernization of existing housing, and the improvement of housing and living conditions. Some of these programs have been used to further government objectives such as economic growth, job creation and energy conservation. CHMC activities are grouped into four components: Government Programs, Administered Funds, Asset Administration and Services to Others.

Legislation

- Canada Mortgage and Housing Corporation Act
- Financial Administration Act
- National Housing Act and Regulations

Organization

■ General Counsel and Corporate Secretariat

This sector consists of the Legal Division, Access to Information and Privacy Office, the Board and Committees Office.

■ Policy, Research and Communications Sector

This sector consists of Research Division, Strategic Planning and Policy Development Division, Project implementation Division, Statistical Services Division, Program Evaluation Division, International Relations Division, Community and Association Relations Division, Corporate Relations Office, Public Affairs Centre, and Minister's Office.

It is responsible for Part IX of the National Housing Act, under which CMHC has a mandate to undertake and support research into housing conditions and the adequacy of existing accommodation and community planning, and to disseminate the results to consumers, industry, governments and others.

■ Programs

This sector consists of Program Planning and Analysis Division, Program Operations Division, Program Portfolio Management Division and Market Analysis Centre. The objective of this Sector is to plan, deliver and manage Social Housing Programs in accordance with government policy and Federal-Provincial agreements and provide market analysis.

■ Insurance, Land and Asset Administration Sector

This sector is responsible for the operation of the CMHC mortgage insurance program, the administration of Corporation-owned mortgages, for the disposal of all categories of real estate assets and for providing technical support through consultation and advisory services. It consists of the following:

Land Management Division: Responsible for the development, management, and disposal of CMHC and partnership-owned lands. In addition, it develops selected surplus federal lands having housing opportunity on a fee-for-service basis in order to improve the supply of land for housing in demand-driven housing markets.

Asset Administration Division: Administers Corporation-owned mortgages and housing subsidy programs. It monitors and evaluates activity and is responsible for the prevention and the settlement of claims against the Mortgage Insurance Fund (MIF). In addition, it develops guidelines for the administration and disposal of all categories of real estate assets. It monitors and evaluates property management and marketing activities.

Insurance Directorate Division: Takes a lead role in the insurance program and is comprised of three groups: Underwriting Division, Business Planning and Risk Management and Client Development and Services. These responsibilities encompass policy development and implementation of the program, marketing and business strategies, actuarial analysis of the Mortgage Insurance Fund, and management of the Approved Lender Network. The Mortgage-backed Securities Centre is responsible for the delivery and administration of the NHA Mortgage-Backed Securities program including shared responsibility with Underwriting Division for policy development.

Professional Standards Division: Provides professional support for CMHC program operations and field offices through consultation and advisory services. It advises on appraisal, landscape architecture, engineering, inspection, housing design, building technology, technical drafting services and metric policies.

Mortgage Insurance Operations Centre: Performs centralized default management and claims payment functions in support of CMHC's contractual insurance obligations under the mortgage insurance policy. It provides services to clients based on portfolio accounts and supports the marketing of high quality NHA insurance products and service from initiation to claims payment.

■ Corporate Resources Sector

This sector is responsible for the policies, procedures, standards and administration of the entire sphere of human resources management, the business systems required to support the operational needs of the Corporation and financial processes. It includes Human Resources Division, Personnel Services Division, Administration Division, Corporate Security Centre, Finance, Debt and Risk Management Treasury and the Management Information Services Directorate.

■ Operations Audit Division

Performs comprehensive audits of responsibility centres, functions, programs, systems and Federal/Provincial Agreements. In addition, conducts special audits involving non-profit and co-op sponsors, real estate fee managers and approved lenders.

Canada Ports Corporation

Chapter 11

General Information

Background

Canada Ports Corporation was established in 1983 pursuant to the Canada Ports Corporation Act. This Act amended the National Harbours Board Act of 1936, the Government Harbours and Piers Act and the 1964 Harbour Commission Act. Reporting to Parliament through the Minister of Transport, Canada Ports Corporation is a Schedule III, Part II Crown Corporation under the Financial Administration Act.

Since 1983, pursuant to the Canada Ports Corporation Act, the ports of St. John's, Halifax, Saint John, Quebec, Montreal, Vancouver, and Prince Rupert have met the criteria of national and regional significance and financial viability and have been established as local port corporations. These too are Schedule III Part II Crown Corporations.

Divisional ports, which are directly administered by the Canada Ports Corporation, are located in Belledune, New Brunswick; Chicoutimi, Baie des Ha! Ha!, Sept-Iles and Trois-Rivières, Quebec; Prescott and Port Colborne, Ontario; and, Churchill, Manitoba.

Responsibilities

Canada Ports Corporation is responsible for administering its ports under a common objective and ensuring that they meet the federal government's responsibility for national ports and the optimum deployment of resources. Canada Ports Corporation shares, with other marine components, the broad objective of attending to the development and operation of a safe and efficient national marine transportation system.

Canada Ports Corporation is also responsible for ensuring that ongoing maintenance, upgrading and major expansions to port facilities and infrastructure will provide enhanced services to port users, on a competitive and cost-effective basis, both for domestic and international customers.

Legislation

- Canada Ports Corporation Act, R.S.C. 1985, chapter C-9
- Canada Ports Corporation Administrative By-law, P.C. 1983-1653, 2 June, 1983
- National Harbours Board Harbour Dues Tariff By-law, C.R.C. Vol. XII, chapter 1063 and as amended thereafter

Canada Post Corporation

Chapter 12

General Information

NOTE: THE CANADA POST CORPORATION IS NOT SUBJECT TO THE ACCESS TO INFORMATION ACT.

Background

Canada Post is a federal Crown corporation, established by the Canada Post Corporation Act on October 16, 1981. It collects, processes and delivers mail across Canada, and between Canada and more than 165 other countries around the world. The Corporation delivers nine billion messages and parcels annually to more than 11 million addresses in rural and urban Canada. Products and services are marketed through a network of over 16,700 points of sales, more than 68% of which are operated by private businesses.

Canada Post, with approximately 60,000 full and part-time employees, has the third largest work force in Canada outside of government and, with approximately $3.6 billion in annual revenue, is a large and important part of the transportation and communications sectors of the Canadian economy.

In the course of doing business, Canada Post maintains and uses records of employees, contractors, customers and others. The Corporation places a high value on the protection and propriety of such personal information: employee access to their records and customer confidentiality are longstanding traditions.

Personal Information Banks

- Mail Operations

Delivery Control Systems
Description: This bank contains delivery records for signature services (Registered and Security Registered, Cash on Delivery, Insured Mail with Proof of Delivery, Priority Courier); change of address notifications/hold mail request forms; directories or lists of customers used to ensure the accurate delivery of mail and the provision of related services (e.g., Community Mailbox, Group Mailbox and Rural Mailbox Delivery and Electronic Mail) and related correspondence. These records contain such information on customers as name, fees paid, present address, previous address, effective dates, signature and proof of identity (when needed in picking up mail and when filing a change of address notification). Limited account information exists in automated form in the Priority Courier Track and Trace and Electronic Mail systems. Class of Individuals: Customers who subscribe to, or receive, postal signature services, submit a redirection/hold mail application or reside in areas requiring name/address lists to effect postal delivery. Purpose: The records are used to support the provision of postal services, including signature mail services; to control the redirection or holding of mail; to ensure accurate mail delivery where delivery service has changed or is difficult; to facilitate the reconciliation and audit of accounts; and to respond to inquiries or claims (see also Customer Service, CPC PPU 030). Electronic name and address lists and related information received from volume mailers are used in creating and addressing automated volume mail pieces for subsequent delivery. Consistent Uses: Redirection records are also used to correct the mailing lists of large volume mailers where such mailers are using a previous or incorrect address. Address information is also disclosed to government institutions under certain circumstances in order to facilitate the collection of Crown debts or the making of Crown payments (see CPC PPU 120 and CPC PPU 090). Retention and Disposal Standards: Signature service records are retained for a maximum of two years after the year of delivery and are then destroyed, with the exception of certain financial records, which are retained for seven years. As a convenience to customers, Electronic Mail data are retained under strict security for six months and are then deleted. Change of address/hold mail records are retained for six months after the termination of service and are then destroyed. Directories and lists are updated continuously and destroyed when superseded or obsolete. TBS Registration: 002558 Bank Number: CPC PPU 001

- Merchandising

Designer References
Description: This bank contains such information as subject suggestions and enquiries, general correspondence, resumés, samples of work (usually reproduced on 35mm slides) and, if applicable, letters of commission. Individuals seeking access to this bank should provide name and date of previous submission. (Note that stamp subject suggestions may also be stored in Corporate Correspondence, CPC PPU 100, and payment records concerning commissioned designs are also stored in Accounts Payable, CPC PPU 060.) Class of Individuals: Canadian designers, artists, illustrators, photographers and others who have indicated their interest in being considered for a postage stamp design commission and whose work has been judged suitable by the Stamp Advisory Committee. Purpose: The purpose of this bank is to provide a visual reference file of the work of Canadian designers and professional artists who could be considered for a postage stamp design commission. Consistent Uses: The records are used to consider possible designers to be commissioned to submit design proposals for new stamp issues. Retention and Disposal Standards: Samples of work are returned to designers upon request. Records regarding rejected solicitations are retained for two years after the year of rejection and then destroyed. Records relating to commissioned stamp designers are retained for ten years and then transferred to National Archives of Canada. If the records are judged by the National Archivist to be of historical/archival value, they are retained permanently. TBS Registration: 001330 Bank Number: CPC PPU 025

Philatelic Customers

Description: This bank contains information in both paper and automated form such as customer enquiries and mailing lists, coded to include special areas of interest, as well as invoices, funds on deposit, credit card numbers, order history and other sales records. A list of former customers who have issued bad cheques is also retained. Individuals seeking access to this bank should provide as many details as possible, such as name, address, subject matter, dates and account numbers. Class of Individuals: Canada Post's national and international customers of philatelic products, sponsors of stamp clubs and those who have expressed an interest. Purpose: The purpose of this bank is to support the sale and distribution of philatelic products and related promotional material. Consistent Uses: The records are used to support philatelic sales and subscription services; to assist in the presentation of philatelic exhibits; to generate particular lists of customers/subscribers (for example, by area of interest); to control inventory; and for market research purposes, such as the identification of promotional needs and opportunities. Retention and Disposal Standards: Financial records are retained for six years after last administrative use, which is usually payment for and mailing of philatelic products. Mailing lists are updated continuously, verified annually and retained until superseded or obsolete (for example, when customers submit change-of-address cards or requests to be deleted from the list; or move, leaving no forwarding address). General correspondence is retained for two years. TBS Registration: 001327 Bank Number: CPC PPU 010

Individuals seeking access to this bank should specify employment location and dates. Class of Individuals: Prospective and existing Canada Post employees and contractors who do not have security clearances, but who require reliability checks because of their ready access to mail, cash and other valuable assets. Purpose: The purpose of this bank is to help ensure the security of Canada Post employees and property and anything in the course of post. Consistent Uses: The records are used to help determine an individual's reliability. Identifying information is disclosed to the RCMP in order to determine whether individuals have criminal records. Retention and Disposal Standards: Records are retained for five years after last administrative use (which is usually upon transfer, promotion or termination of employment), and then destroyed. If notified that a pardon has been granted, the criminal records in questions are destroyed immediately. TBS Registration: 001339 Bank Number: CPC PPU 075

Security Clearances

Description: This bank contains such records as personal history forms, criminal record name checks and, if applicable, fingerprints, criminal records, summaries of RCMP and Canadian Security Intelligence Service (CSIS) investigations, adverse findings, appeals, updates, cancellations, pardons and related correspondence. Limited information may exist in automated form, as data elements of the Human Resource Information System (CPC PPE 804). Data elements include name and clearance level granted versus level required for the position and whether it is due for renewal. Individuals seeking access to this bank should specify employment location and dates. Class of Individuals: Canada Post employees and contractors who occupy or are about to occupy positions involving access to financial and other assets and sensitive information and systems. Purpose: The purpose of this bank is to help determine the suitability of employees and contractors being considered for or in security-risk positions. Consistent Uses: The records are used to determine the level of security clearance, and to support decisions on transfers, promotions and termination of employment. Monthly computer printouts are used to ensure the security clearance level of individuals is adequate for the positions they occupy. A notation of level of clearance may be attached to the Employee Personal File (CPC PPE 802). Details of RCMP and CSIS investigations that may have taken place are stored in those agencies' security clearance banks. Retention and Disposal Standards: Paper records are retained for two years after termination of employment or contract and then destroyed. If notified that a pardon has been granted, the criminal records in question are destroyed immediately. Monthly computer printouts are destroyed when superseded, while the automated data is retained in accordance with the schedules described in Personnel Database, CPC PPE 803. TBS Registration: 001338 Bank Number: CPC PPU 070

■ Human Resources and Administration

Human Rights

Description: This bank contains confidential letters of complaint and interview notes with complainants, those alleged to have harassed or discriminated against the complainant and witnesses, as well as investigation and analysis reports and records of decisions taken. Background information varies with the complaint, but could include grievances, medical reports, personal appraisals and correspondence. Individuals seeking access to this bank should specify the name of the complainant and the location and date of the incident. Class of Individuals: Individuals submitting discrimination complaints and individuals alleged to have harassed or discriminated against complainants. Purpose: The purpose of this bank is to support the resolution of allegations of discrimination based on prescribed grounds set out in the Canadian Human Rights Act, and allegations of personal harassment in the workplace. Consistent Uses: The records are used to help determine whether or not harassment or discrimination has occurred (note that records of complaints are not stored on the complainant's Employee Personal File, CPC PPE 802); and to recommend and support management decisions on the transfer and discipline of employees or other corrective action, e.g., when the source of the complaint is a Canada Post policy or procedure. Individuals found to have harassed or discriminated may have a disciplinary notice to that effect placed on their Employee Personal File. Information may be disclosed in confidence to relevant Corporation officials and to the Canadian Human Rights Commission to facilitate resolution of the complaint. Retention and Disposal Standards: Records are retained for two years after the fiscal year of the last administrative use, which is usually resolution of the complaint. Individuals seeking access to this bank should specify the name of the complainant and the location and date of the incident. TBS Registration: 001761 Bank Number: CPC PPU 096

Parking

Description: This bank contains permit applications for parking, waiting lists and related correspondence about parking of motor vehicles on property owned or leased by Canada Post. Records of transactions also exist in automated form. Individual seeking access to this bank should specify employment location and dates. Class of Individuals: Canada Post employees and contractors who have applied for or received parking permits. Purpose: The purpose of this bank is to support the control of parking at certain Canada Post facilities. Consistent Uses: The records are used to control the issue and revocation of parking permits and the prosecution of parking violators (by the RCMP). The records may also be used to help coordinate car pools and to facilitate the deduction of parking fees from salaries. Retention and Disposal Standards: Records are retained for two years after the fiscal year in which the permit expired and then destroyed. TBS Registration: 001334 Bank Number: CPC PPU 045

Staffing and Employment

Description: This bank contains such records as solicited and unsolicited job applications, acknowledgement of receipt letters, staffing action requests, job descriptions, salary ranges, selection profiles, competition posters, transfer requests, seniority, surplus, lay-off, re-call and eligibility lists, human resources inventory printouts, resumés of work experience and education, reference letters and checks, official languages knowledge examination papers, tests and results, lists of candidates, interview notes and rating board assessments, eligibility lists, offers of employment, notices to candidates of right to appeal, other appeal documents and related correspondence. This bank also contains the Social Insurance Number which will continue to be used as an employee identifier until such time as it can be replaced by a CPC employee numbering system. Individuals seeking access to this bank should specify the competition number and date, if applicable, as well as position title and location. Class of Individuals: Individuals who apply for or are hired to fill temporary and permanent positions with Canada Post Corporation. Purpose: The purpose of this bank is to support internal staffing and external recruitment activities. Consistent Uses: Job applications are screened when vacancies arise. Staffing records are used to provide impartial information to match new and vacant positions to the most qualified candidates (notations of staffing decisions may be stored in the Employee Personal File, CPC PPE 802; in Payroll and Attendance, CPC PPE 815; and in the Human Resource Information System, CPC PPE 804); to assist in succession planning and career development; to conduct reference checks, provide feedback to candidates regarding their applications and job interviews; and to process complaints, appeals and grievances concerning appointments and promotions (see Grievances, CPC PPE 813). Limited personal information regarding seniority, surplus and layoffs may be posted, as well as provided to collective bargaining agents. Personal information about successful candidates may be disclosed to unsuccessful candidates under strict conditions of confidentiality, to better explain decisions taken. Retention and Disposal Standards: Records are retained for two years after last administrative use (which is usually the expiration of the appeal period for competitions), and then destroyed. Layoff/transfer lists are updated continuously and destroyed when superseded. TBS Registration: 001343 Bank Number: CPC PPU 095

■ Marketing and Sales

Corporate Correspondence

Description: This bank contains letters addressed or referred to the Minister, Chairman and President, background material compiled in the preparation of responses and the responses. Certain information, such as current draft replies and an index, exists in automated form in the Correspondence Unit System. Individuals seeking access to this bank should specify the date and subject matter of the previous enquiry. (Note that stamp suggestions may also be stored in Designer References, CPC PPU 025.) Class of Individuals: Customers, employees, Members of Parliament, other elected officials and the general public. The records may contain personal information on other individuals, where they are the subject of the enquiry (e.g. regarding Canada Post Corporation employees and contractors). Purpose: The purpose of this bank is to support the preparation of responses to Ministerial, Chairman and Presidential enquiries pertaining to the operations and administration of Canada Post Corporation. Consistent Uses: The records are used to support the correspondence system, to monitor the preparation of responses, for reference purposes when subsequent or similar enquiries are received, and for subsequent mailings, when new developments warrant a follow-up letter to correspondents who have expressed an interest in particular subjects. Retention and Disposal Standards: Draft replies stored in automated form are deleted when the correspondence is signed. Paper records and the automated index are retained for seven years after the year of the response and then destroyed and deleted, respectively. Disposal of records retained in the subject files of organizational units drafting responses is governed by the retention schedules for those files. TBS Registration: 002075 Bank Number: CPC PPU 030

Customer Service

Description: This bank contains such records as enquiries, complaints or claims, declarations (in the case of claims) and information relating to their processing. Certain information exists in automated form in the Customer Claims Information System (CCIS). Data elements include the names and addresses of the sender and addressee, the nature of the shortcoming (delay, loss, damage), the type and value of the item, any special services purchased (registry), dates of mailing and claim, insured amount, result of investigation and amount paid. Individuals seeking access to this bank should specify the date and subject matter of their previous enquiry, as well as the names and addresses of the sender and addressee on the article. Class of Individuals: Customers who have submitted enquiries or complaints to Customer Service regarding delayed, lost or damaged mail; or who have applied for indemnification. (Note that payment records also are stored in Accounts Payable, CPC PPU 060; that enquiries and complaints also are processed through the Corporate Correspondence system, CPC PPU 100; and that Risk Management Claims, CPC PPU 050, also includes claims records.) Purpose: The purpose of this bank is to support the preparation of responses to customer enquiries, as well as the resolution of complaints and claims regarding delayed, lost or damaged mail. Consistent Uses: The records are used to analyze and resolve complaints and claims regarding delayed, lost or damaged mail; to respond to enquiries about mail services, regulations and rates; for audit and market research purposes; and to identify trends or patterns. Certain information may be disclosed to Transport Canada, Revenue Canada (Customs and Excise), foreign postal authorities, law enforcement agencies and others, where necessary, to resolve the claim or enquiry. Retention and Disposal Standards: Records are retained for two years after last administrative use (which is normally the issue of a response to an enquirer or indemnification), and then destroyed. Disposal of payment records stored in Accounts Payable is governed by the retention schedule for that bank. TBS Registration: 001331 Bank Number: CPC PPU 100

Classes of Personal Information

Administrative Records

Certain information provided by or about individuals may also be found in administrative records, such as general correspondence and organizational planning files, minutes of committee meetings, library loan and distribution lists, fixed asset inventory control reports, audit reports and evaluations, video recordings and records relating to visits and conferences involving officials of other postal authorities.

Marketing and Sales

This class includes Postage Meter Services and marketing information such as market research studies, various coded mailing lists, market surveys and test reports concerning householders and other Canada Post customers (for example, large volume mailers). The records include correspondence, reports, accounts of sales calls and other meetings with customers, which may contain the names, titles and business addresses of company representatives, as well as profiles of key executives. These records are used for business purposes only, namely to identify customer needs and perceptions and to help make marketing decisions related to product and service mix, price and promotion. Canada Post also temporarily retains certain records which may contain personal information under arrangements with customers and business partners. These records assist in the preparation of account development strategies for national and divisionally managed accounts. Such records are not under the Corporation's sole control and may not be accessed without the prior consent of the customer or business partner involved. Note also that claims and enquiries related to collection and delivery services have been indexed and described as a Canada Post information bank (see Customer Service, CPC PPU 030). Certain records are held in electronic form in the following systems: Cash Receipts, Money Order Information, Canadian Wildlife Service, National Accounts and Marketing Mailing List.

Undeliverable Mail

This class of records includes lettermail and parcels that, for any cause, cannot be delivered to the addressee or returned to the sender. This includes mail that cannot be delivered for legal reasons, and mail that is refused by the addressee or on which postage due is not paid by the sender on demand. The treatment of this mail is governed by the Undeliverable Mail Regulations. Undeliverable mail is opened to facilitate delivery to addressee or return to sender. Undeliverable admail is not returned to the sender or forwarded to an addressee unless it bears a specific request for return or redirection to another address, or has obvious value. Undeliverable international mail is returned to the country of origin unless marked abandoned, in which case it is treated in the same manner as domestic mail. When undeliverable mail of no obvious value does not contain sufficient information to permit the mail to be returned to the sender or forwarded to the addressee, it is destroyed. Where the mail contains cash or merchandise the cash is deposited to the credit of Canada Post Corporation and the merchandise is sold or otherwise disposed of in a manner approved by the Corporation.

Security and Investigation Services

This class includes information detailing complaints received by Security and Investigation Services (S&IS) and the remedial action undertaken. The records are chronologically ordered and thus not retrievable by individual identifier. They include occurrence reports which contain the name, address and phone number of the complainant, the names of the other parties involved, the name of the investigating officer and details concerning causes and remedial action. Should the enquiry result in a suspicion of a postal-related crime or offence, or a Criminal Code offence involving the mail, a file number is added to the occurrence report which is transferred to personal information bank Postal Related Crimes/Offenses (see CPC PPU 085, or CPC PPE 824). Otherwise, the occurrence reports are retained for two years, at which time they are destroyed. The purpose of such retention is to allow for statistical analyses and quality control.

Additional Information

Please see the INTRODUCTION to this publication for information on access procedures under the provisions of the Access to Information Act and the Privacy Act.

Records contained within information banks are limited to relevant data subjects. For example, if an individual has never bid on nor been awarded a contract with Canada Post, no record of that individual would exist in the applicable contract bank.

To facilitate access and record retrieval, specific details should be provided, such as those outlined in individual bank descriptions.

If Canada Post exempts any information, the individual refused access is provided with the precise reasons for the exemption and the applicable appeal procedures.

Records are routinely destroyed when their useful life expires; thus, access requests for older records may prove unsuccessful. Individuals are encouraged to seek informal access to their records - employees via their supervisors, and customers, contractors and others via the Canada Post officials with whom they have been dealing.

Canada-Newfoundland Offshore Petroleum Board

Chapter 13

General Information

Background

The Canada-Newfoundland Offshore Petroleum Board was established jointly by the Canada-Newfoundland Atlantic Accord Implementation Act, Chapter 3 of the Statutes of Canada, 1987, and by the Canada-Newfoundland Atlantic Accord Implementation (Newfoundland) Act, Chapter 25 of the Statutes of Newfoundland, 1986.

Responsibilities

The Board administers as a regulatory body all petroleum activities within the Newfoundland Offshore area in accordance with the provisions of the Canada-Newfoundland Atlantic Accord Implementation Act as enacted by the Parliament of Canada and the Legislature of Newfoundland and Labrador, and other relevant legislation.

Legislation

- Canada-Newfoundland Atlantic Accord Implementation Act
- Canada-Newfoundland Atlantic Accord Implementation (Newfoundland) Act

Organization

The Board consists of seven members. Three members are appointed by the federal government, three by the provincial government and the chairman is appointed by both the federal and the provincial governments. Notwithstanding the foregoing, the Acts allow for the joint appointment of any member or alternate member by both governments. Three members of the Board serve full-time and constitute the Executive Committee. Four members of the Board serve part-time.

■ The Executive Committee

The Executive Committee manages the day-to-day activities of the Board. It comprises the Chairman and two vice-chairmen.

■ Administration Department

This Department provides administrative, financial, human resource, and computer services to the Board.

■ Canada-Newfoundland Benefits Department

This Department provides advice to the Board concerning the administration of the Canada-Newfoundland benefits plan provisions of the legislation, including provisions related to domestic procurement, employment, project management, research and development, education and training, and employment equity.

■ Legal Services Department

This Department is responsible for providing legal advice and services to the Board.

■ Public Affairs Department

This Department is responsible for the Board's external communications, including publications, media and public relations; and advertising, educational and informational programs and materials.

■ Exploration Department

This Department is responsible for evaluating the undiscovered petroleum resource potential of the Board's area of jurisdiction; recommending lands for disposition through calls for bids (including terms and conditions applying thereto); administering exploration, significant discovery and production licences; evaluating results of exploratory drilling; determining significant discovery areas; and keeping well history reports, cuttings, cores and fluid samples.

■ Operations and Safety Department

This Department is responsible for reviewing and providing recommendations regarding the approval of offshore petroleum exploration, development and production activities; reviewing operators' emergency response plans; monitoring offshore petroleum activities; conducting safety audits and inspections related to procedures, training and equipment; administering and making recommendations regarding the drafting of regulations, their standards and guidelines; monitoring any conditions of approval; coordinating with other agencies as required; and providing status reports of offshore petroleum activities.

■ Environmental Affairs Department

This Department assesses environmental effects; administers and advises on environmental protection regulations and guidelines; establishes and monitors compliance with physical environment and effluent treatment requirements; coordinates with other environmental agencies; and reviews operators' environmental emergency contingency plans.

■ Reservoir Engineering Department

This Department is responsible for oil and gas conservation; assessing discovered resources and productive capacities; administering regulations concerning exploitation schemes for depletion of oil and gas pools, reservoir data acquisition and production rate limitation; reviewing and providing recommendations on well evaluation programs, development plans for oil and gas fields, production accounting procedures and testing programs; maintaining the reservoir database; evaluating conservation and enhanced recovery projects; monitoring field performance; and conducting reservoir performance studies.

Canadian Advisory Council on the Status of Women

Chapter 14

General Information

Background

Established in 1973, the Canadian Advisory Council on the Status of Women (CACSW) is composed of 30 members appointed by the federal government to bring before the government and the public matters of interest and concern to women, and to advise the Minister responsible for the Status of Women on such topics.

The Council has 27 members appointed for specific terms, with representation from all the provinces and territories, plus a full-time president and two vice-presidents. Council meetings are held at least twice a year in Ottawa.

Responsibilities

In addressing itself to the concerns of all Canadian women, the 30 members of the Council bring forward the particular problems of their regions. Research and background material provide the base upon which Council recommendations are made following deliberation by members at general meetings.

Recommendations for change in legislation and for other measures to improve the status of women are presented to the government through the Minister responsible. The Council has the unique right and responsibility to inform the public of its recommendations at the same time as it reports to Parliament. Council activities - briefs, speeches, responses to current events, open communication with the public. Maintain an awareness of the inequalities facing women in Canadian society today.

Legislation

- Order in Council PC 1976-781

Organization

The Council's vice-presidents are responsible for specific regions, while the president retains overall responsibility for the operations of the Council. There are regional offices located in Calgary and Montreal. At the central office in Ottawa, three directors have specific responsibilities for research, communications and administration and, along with their staff, support ongoing Council activities across the country.

Canadian Centre for Occupational Health and Safety

Chapter 15

General Information

Background

The Canadian Centre for Occupational Health and Safety (CCOHS) is a corporation under Schedule II of the Financial Administration Act, created by Parliament in April, 1978 to promote the rights of Canadians to a healthy and safe working environment. It is governed by a Council of Governors representing labour, employers and federal, provincial and territorial governments.

Responsibilities

CCOHS promotes a healthier and safer workplace by providing a free occupational health and safety inquiries service to Canadians in both official languages while achieving self-sufficiency through the revenue generating services as a not-for-profit organization. The revenue generating service includes publications, training packages, an online electronic service (CCINFO) that connects users to CCOHS' computer in Hamilton and a compact disc service. CCINFOdisc, consisting of a series of 6 compact discs which are updated quarterly, contains material safety data sheets of trade name chemicals, and other chemical and general health and safety data bases.

Three new specialized compact discs are also offered containing full text publications, complete with graphics, multi-media training packages and full text OH&S legislation.

Four membership options from $100 to $500 are offered to organizations which are interested in supporting the Canadian Centre for Occupational Health and Safety and promoting the fundamental right of all Canadians to a healthy and safe work place. Facilitation is provided through information sessions in which stakeholders in workplace health and safety define and enlarge the common ground on issues connected with workplace health and safety. Promotion of occupational health and safety issues and solutions is provided through "At The Centre", CCOHS's magazine and Working Well articles. The newsletter is distributed free nationally to working Canadians. It is published three times per year to over 10,000 working Canadians and to over 42 countries internationally.

Working Well an article of 800 words in length, is provided free to newsletters and magazines in Canada and promotes knowledge and understanding of occupational health and safety issues. It is distributed to over 2 million readers annually through a network of magazines, house publications, health and safety organizations, unions and others with an interest in promoting occupational health and safety in Canada.

Legislation

- Canadian Centre for Occupational Health and Safety Act
- Financial Administration Act, Schedule II

Organization

CCOHS is a corporation under Schedule II of the Financial Administration Act. Its policies are established by the Council of Governors, which consists of a chairman and 38 representatives from labour, employers' organizations and the federal, provincial and territorial governments. It meets three times a year in various parts of Canada. The Executive Board of the Centre, chaired by the President and Chief Executive Officer, consists of nine governors elected annually from among its members by the Council of Governors, on a representative tripartite basis. The Executive Board is authorized to carry out the business of the Council between Council meetings. It is required by statute to meet at least six times a year. The President and Chief Executive Officer supervises and directs the work and staff of the Centre.

The program is delivered on an inter-disciplinary project team system. There are four directorates through which the program is delivered.

Inquiries Service: Responds directly to oral or written inquiries from the public.

Project Development and Coordination: The market-driven project teams that constitute the driving force for the products and services offered by the Centre.

Operations Support: Provides the support services and other services necessary for the effective operation of the Centre, and coordinates and monitors the national marketing and sales plan. It also designs, prints and distributes the Centre's publication "At The Centre", Working Well and organizes workshops.

Comptroller: Provides centralized planning and financial control.

Information Holdings

CCINFO

CCINFO is CCOHS' computerized information service which consists of two distinct modes of delivery - CCINFOdisc and CCINFOline: CCINFOdisc the delivery through CD-ROM (compact disc read-only memory); provides data bases; CCINFOline - the delivery through a telecommunications link to CCOHS' central computer, provides access to data bases.

There are three additional specialized CD-ROM discs containing information on publications, training and legislation: 1) Publications Disc - containing the full text of CCOHS and other national and international publications with accompanying graphics; 2) Training Disc - consisting of multi-media training packages with colour, graphics animation and interactive features; and, 3) Legislation Disc - containing the full text of Canadian occupational health and safety Acts and regulations.

There are five chemical information data bases which respond to the right to know about the hazards posed by chemicals in the workplace. They are: 1) MSDS Data Base focuses on material safety data sheets for trade-named products; 2) CHEMINFO (Chemical Information) supplies detailed information on chemicals and their safe usage; 3) RTECS (a registered trademark of the National Institute for Occupational Health and Safety) is a Registry of Toxic Effects of Chemical Substances, an annual compendium of toxicity data extracted from the scientific literature by NIOSH; 4) REGULATORY INFORMATION ON PESTICIDE PRODUCTS identifies and describes products registered in Canada under the Pest Control Products (PCP) Act, and is produced by Agriculture Canada; and, 5) TRANSPORT OF DANGEROUS GOODS (TDG)/HAZARDOUS MATERIALS (49CFR) is a data base giving regulatory information for the packaging and shipping of substances with recognized shipping names.

Three additional data bases also contain chemical information: 1) PRIS (PEST MANAGEMENT RESEARCH INFORMATION SYSTEM) consists of six data bases covering many aspects of pest control product development, from first introduction in Canada for research up to registration; produced by Agriculture Canada; 2) CESARS (Chemical Evaluation Search and Retrieval System) contains information on chemicals of environmental concern; jointly produced by the Michigan Department of Natural Resources (MDNR) and the Ontario Ministry of the Environment (MOE); and, 3) DOMESTIC/NON-DOMESTIC SUBSTANCES LIST (DSL/NDSL) lists substances manufactured or imported into Canada; in Canadian commerce, or used for commercial manufacturing purposes in Canada, under specific criteria, as well as substances no on the DSL, but believed to be in international commerce, although not yet in Canada.

Three data bases on resources describe people and organizations active in Canadian occupational health and safety, and current research projects in the field: 1) STUDIES is a directory of recent Canadian studies in the field of occupational health and safety; 2) ORGS lists Canadian organizations involved in the field of occupational health and safety; and, 3) PERSONS provides a directory of Canadians involved in the field of occupational health and safety.

Two other data bases contain Canadian legal information on occupational health and safety: 1) CASE LAW, a collection of summaries of occupational health and safety cases and decisions from jurisdictions across Canada; and, 2) FATALITY REPORTS, a data base containing information from reports on occupationally related fatalities.

Other data bases accessible through CCINFO:

- DOCS is a bibliographic data base of documents on occupational health and safety produced in Canada, by Canadians or on Canadian topics.

- ESSENTIALS provides references to publications selected as essential to answer questions on a specific topic in occupational health and safety.

- NOISE LEVELS is a direct-information data base providing numerical data on noise levels relating to different types of machinery used for specific occupations in various industries.

- NON-IONIZING RADIATION LEVELS is a data base containing non-ionizing radiation measurements of specific types of equipment used in a variety of industries and occupations.

- MINING INCIDENTS describes occupational health and safety incidents in mining; developed in co-operation with the Chief Inspectors of Mines Association.

- AIDSCAN for Health Care Workers, created by Ryerson Polytechnical Institute, is a bibliographic data base of documents on working safely with AIDS patients; the physical and psychosocial aspects of care; and the educational or other special projects in which health care workers might be involved.

- DIRECTORY OF OCCUPATIONAL SAFETY AND HEALTH LEGISLATION IN CANADA lists occupational health and safety legislation as made available to the Federal-Provincial Relations Branch of Labour Canada, and is provided by Labour Canada.

- INRS-BIBLIOGRAPHIE, a French-language bibliographic data base covering the international scientific and technical literature available on occupational health and safety; provided by the Institut national de recherche et de sécurité (INRS) in France.

- INET - RESEARCH PROJECTS (INRS), an international directory of research projects that are planned or currently underway on the prevention of occupational risks; produced by the Institut national de recherche et de sécurité (INRS) in France.

- INOR - ORGANIZATIONS (INRS), an international directory of organizations that conduct research on the prevention of occupational risk, whether or not this is their main activity; produced by the Institut national de recherche et de sécurité (INRS) in France.

- DIDS (Document Information Directory System), a listing of NIOSH publications and reports which can be ordered from NIOSH, the US Government Printing Office (GPO) or the National Technical Information Service (NTIS); provided by NIOSH.

- STANDARDS AND DIRECTORIES is a directory of standards, certified products' directories, PLUS products and other miscellaneous information products published by the CSA (Canadian Standards Association).

- CIS/ILO was created by the Centre d'informations de sécurité et de santé au travail of the International Labour Office in Geneva. CIS/ILO is a bilingual, bibliographic data base on publications in occupational health and safety worldwide.

- NIOSHTIC, developed by the U.S. National Institute for Occupational Safety and Health, is a bibliographic data base with international coverage of publications in occupational health and safety.

- SOLUTIONS, consist of solutions which organizations actually implemented in the workplace to solve OH&S problems.

- NIPERA CAB (Current Awareness Bulletin), produced by the Nickel Producers' Environmental Research Association (NIPERA) in the U.S. to develop and disseminate information on any health or environmental effects that might be associated with the production and use of nickel, its compounds and alloys. Program Record Number: OHS ISS 055

Canadian Commercial Corporation

Chapter 16

General Information

Background

A Crown corporation established in 1946, Canadian Commercial Corporation (CCC) is wholly owned by the Government of Canada. It reports to Parliament through the Minister for International Trade. The board of directors is comprised of Canadian business executives and the President of CCC.

Responsibilities

The Corporation's mandate is to assist in the development of trade between Canada and other nations. Its principal activity is to facilitate sales to foreign governments and international agencies on behalf of Canadian suppliers. In all transactions it assumes the role of prime contractor, undertaking to deliver a product or service to the foreign customer with a "back-to-back" obligation from a Canadian supplier. The work to be done is subcontracted to private sector firms and/or other government departments or agencies.

Legislation

- Canadian Commercial Corporation Act

Organization

The board of directors is comprised of Canadian business executives, and the President of the Corporation.

■ Corporate Affairs

This unit is responsible for planning, communications, management, information systems/data processing, security and administration, and personnel services. The latter includes such items as access to information and privacy, the Employment Equity Program and the Official Languages Program.

■ Finance

This unit is responsible for ensuring sound financial management practices for all policies and programs of the Corporation, from conception to implementation.

■ Operations

Two distinct operational groups facilitate government-to-government export contracts, in keeping with the Corporation's responsibilities. The groups are United States and Overseas. The latter includes deals with United Nations purchasing agencies and international financial institutions.

Canadian Cultural Property Export Review Board

Chapter 17

General Information

Background

The Cultural Property Export Review Board was established through the Cultural Property Export and Import Act on September 6, 1977. The duties of the Review Board as set out in section 20 of the Act are: pursuant to section 29, to review applications for export permits; pursuant to section 30, to make determinations respecting fair cash offers to purchase; and pursuant to section 32, to make determinations for the purpose of subparagraph 39(1)(a) (i.1) or 110(1)(b.1) of the Income Tax Act.

Administrative services to the Review Board are provided through the Department of Communications by the Movable Cultural Property Secretariat. All Review Board files are housed with the Secretariat. The personal information they contain pertains to members of the Review Board, applications for grants, loans, cultural property export permits, appeals against the refusal of cultural property export permits and applications for the certification of cultural property submitted on behalf of donors or vendors. Application forms are filed by number but can be accessed through a manual cross-index or automated system containing the name of the appellant (in the case of an appeal) or the donor/vendor (in the case of certification). Review Board member files are maintained in alphabetical order.

Responsibilities

The Review Board is responsible for preserving in Canada significant examples of Canadian heritage in movable cultural property, reviewing applications for export permits, making determinations on fair cash offers to purchase and making determinations for the purposes of the Income Tax Act. It also provides advice to the Minister of Communications on matters affecting the preservation in Canada of the heritage in movable cultural property. In particular, it recommends to the Minister, pursuant to section 35 of the Act, grants and loans to designated institutions and public authorities in Canada for the purchase of objects for which permits have been refused under the Act, or for the purchase of cultural property outside Canada that is related to the national heritage. The grants and loans are made out of monies appropriated annually by Parliament.

In reviewing an application for an export permit the Board must determine whether the object in question: is included in the Canadian Cultural Property Export Control List; is of outstanding significance by reason of its close association with Canadian history or national life, its aesthetic qualities or its value in the study of the arts or sciences; is of such a degree of national importance that its loss would significantly diminish the national heritage.

Where the Review Board determines that the cultural property subject of an application meets the criteria of outstanding significance and national importance, and the cultural property qualifies for certification for income tax purposes, the Review Board issues a Cultural Property Income Tax Certificate to the designated institution or public authority making such an application. It should be noted that objects proposed for certification need not be included in the Canadian Cultural Property Export Control List. Thus objects less than 50 years old and made by a living person may qualify. It should also be noted that a certified cultural property subject of a Cultural Property Income Tax Certificate is exempt from tax on taxable capital gains when disposed of (by gift or sale) to an institution or public authority in Canada designated for the purpose and, in the case of a donation, also qualifies for the 100 percent tax credit provision under the Income Tax Act.

Legislation

- Cultural Property Export and Import Act

Organization

■ Movable Cultural Property Secretariat

The Secretariat provides administrative services to the Review Board and coordinates the export control system.

Canadian Dairy Commission

Chapter 18

General Information

Background

The Canadian Dairy Commission was established by the Canadian Dairy Commission Act in October 1966. The Commission consists of a chairman, a vice-chairman and one other member appointed by the Governor-in-Council; it is accountable to Parliament through the Minister of Agriculture. To assist the Commission with advice on dairy pricing matters, there is a consultative committee of nine members, appointed by the Minister, who represent a variety of interests.

Responsibilities

The objectives of the Commission are to provide efficient producers of milk and cream with the opportunity of obtaining a fair return for their labour and investment, and to provide consumers with a continuous and adequate supply of dairy products of high quality.

The Commission, under its authority to purchase and sell dairy products, supports the market price of major processed products, principally butter and skim milk powder. The prices that producers receive for industrial milk and cream are related to these product support prices.

The Commission operates a major export marketing program for skim milk powder and whole milk products such as evaporated milk, cheese, whole milk powder and other specialty products.

The Commission makes direct payments to producers from funds provided by the government to supplement returns from the market. These payments are made on qualifying milk and cream shipments produced within a market share quota system to meet domestic market requirements, and a special export program.

The supply of industrial milk and cream is managed nationally through a market share quota program administered under the National Milk Marketing Plan. The Commission, as chairman of the Canadian Milk Supply Management Committee (CMSMC), directs the development of policy and coordinates the administration of the national quota and provincial market shares are determined by the CMSMC.

Legislation

- Agricultural Stabilization Act
- Canadian Dairy Commission Act

Organization

■ Policy and Economics Section

This provides analysis and advice on dairy-related issues.

■ Subsidy Operations Section

This administers the payment of subsidies on qualifying shipments of industrial milk and cream to producers in order to make dairy products more affordable to consumers. This involves processing applications for registration of producers' permits, maintaining records of provincial and individual producer market share quotas and milk and cream production, paying subsidies on the basis of those records, and directing and controlling the levy program.

■ Marketing Operations Section

This involves both domestic and export activities, including the purchase, sale, transport, warehousing, financing and payment of assistance on the export of dairy products and animal feed under the Commission's domestic price support and special export program. Products involved are butter, skim milk powder, cheese, evaporated milk, whole milk powder and specialty products.

Classes of Personal Information

In the course of conducting the programs and activities of the Canadian Dairy Commission, categories of personal information may be accumulated which are not contained in the specific personal information banks described in this entry. Such personal information includes, for example, candidates for appointment to advisory bodies such as the Consultative Committee to the Commission, which are stored as part of the general subject files where records are not normally retrieved by names of individual or other personal identifier.

This form of personal information is normally retrievable only if requests include general background on the circumstances under which an individual contacted the Commission and an approximate time-frame. The retention period for these classes of personal information is controlled by the record schedules of the general subject files in which they are stored.

Canadian Film Development Corporation

Chapter 19

General Information

Background

The Canadian Film Development Corporation was established by an Act of Parliament (R.S.C. 1970, Chapter C-8) in March, 1967. The Corporation, publicly known as Telefilm Canada, is responsible for fostering the growth and development of the private sector of the Canadian film, television and video industry.

Responsibilities

Through Telefilm Canada, the Government of Canada provides support, as a partner, to the private sector for the production of film and broadcast material, either in the form of investment funds or through a variety of resources at the Corporation's disposal.

The Corporation meets the diverse needs of this industry through a wide range of funds. Support is available at all stages of the process, from screenplay development to final production and beyond to the distribution and marketing of the finished product in Canada and abroad.

Telefilm Canada is a Crown corporation that reports to Parliament through the Minister of Communications. It is headed by a board of directors and a chairman appointed by the Governor in Council. The Governor in Council, on the recommendation of the Corporation's board, also appoints an executive director who acts as chief executive officer and is responsible for day-to-day operations. Headquarters is located in Montreal with offices in Toronto, Vancouver, Halifax, Los Angeles, Paris and London.

Legislation

- Canadian Film Development Corporation Act, 1970, R.S.C. chapter C-8.

Organization

■ Planning and Policies

This sector is responsible for the formulation of policies and strategies for the administration of Corporation funds. The sector is also responsible for establishing formal liaison with industry representatives and federal and provincial institutions, and for the evaluation of the cultural and industrial impact of Telefilm Canada policies.

■ Production and Development

This sector has overall responsibility in the administration of the Feature Film Fund, the Canadian Broadcast Program Development Fund and the Interim Financing Fund. It co-ordinates decision-making and production and development activities among the Canadian offices of the Corporation.

■ Financing and Administration

This sector is responsible for: financial planning; monitoring spending and commitments; financial tracking; personnel; computer systems; legal affairs; and contract management.

■ Distribution, Marketing and International Affairs

This sector is responsible for the overall administration of marketing, distribution and export activities and funds, in order to promote the visibility and competitiveness of Canadian productions in Canada and abroad, and to foster growth in distribution-related sectors. The sector is also responsible, on behalf of the Minister of Communications, for the administration of Canada's co-production treaties with Algeria, Belgium, China, Czechoslovakia, the Federal Republic of Germany, France, Hungary, Israel, Italy, Morocco, New Zealand, Spain, Switzerland, the United Kingdom, Yugoslavia, Argentina, Australia, Ireland, the Netherlands and the USSR. It also evaluates applications made under these treaties and makes recommendations to the Minister regarding provisional and final approval.

■ Research and Analysis

This sector is responsible for studies concerning the impact of the Corporation's various programs and the evolution of the industry in general, in order to promote better long term planning and ensure the Corporation's activities effectively meet the needs of the industry.

A Human and Material Resources sector and a Communications sector complete the organizational structure of the Corporation.

Canadian Human Rights Commission

Chapter 20

General Information

Background

The Canadian Human Rights Commission was given its mandate with the passage in July 1977 of the Canadian Human Rights Act. The Act became operative on March 1, 1978.

Responsibilities

The Commission's program objective is to give effect to the principle that within the federal sphere every individual should have equal opportunity to participate in Canadian life consistent with his or her duties and obligations as a member of the Canadian society.

Specifically, the Commission deals with complaints of discrimination in employment, in the provision of goods, services, facilities and/or accommodation customarily available to the general public and in the provision of commercial premises or residential accommodation, based on any of the ten prohibited grounds of discrimination enumerated in the Act: race, national or ethnic origin, colour, religion, age, sex, marital status, family status, disability, or conviction of an offence for which a pardon has been granted. The Commission also attempts to resolve cases through the conciliation/settlement process before considering the tribunal process.

The Canadian Human Rights Act prohibits discrimination in policies and practices applied to wages for male and female employees who are performing work of equal value. As a result, the Commission investigates complaints alleging inequities in wage-related practices.

The Commission also monitors annual reports filed by federally regulated companies under the Employment Equity Act, and where appropriate, may initiate compliance actions.

The Commission also has a statutory responsibility to discourage and reduce discriminatory practices through public education, liaison, and any other means it considers appropriate. This responsibility is discharged by producing promotional and educational materials, developing and conducting information programs to foster public understanding of the principles of equal opportunity enshrined in the Canadian Human Rights Act, and by working cooperatively with employers and service providers both at the headquarters and regional levels.

The Commission functions as an independent agency and reports to Parliament through the Minister of Justice.

Legislation

- Age Guidelines (SI/78-165, October 25, 1978)
- Canadian Human Rights Benefit Regulations (SOR/80-68, January 11, 1980; amendment: SOR/82-783, August 19, 1982; SOR/83-615, July 28, 1983; SOR/85-512, May 31, 1985)
- Customs and Excise Human Rights Investigation Regulations (SOR/83-196, February 25, 1983)
- Equal Wage Guidelines (SOR/86-1082, November 18, 1986)
- Human Rights Tribunal Appeal Regulations (SOR/80-394, May 27, 1980; SOR/86-294, March 19,1986)
- Immigration Guidelines (SI/80-125, July 23, 1980)
- Immigration Investigation Regulations (SOR/80-686, August 27, 1980)

Organization

The Commission is headed by the Chief Commissioner who has deputy minister status, and is supported by the deputy Chief Commissioner and the Secretary General. There are seven administrative operational branches at headquarters: Legal Services, Anti-Discrimination Programs, Equity Programs, Communications, Research and Policy, Corporate Services, and Personnel Services.

■ Legal Services Branch

This Branch provides legal advice to Commission members and staff on all legal matters which come under the jurisdiction of the Commission, and information and advice on the administration of legal matters pertaining to legal proceedings by or against the Commission in a Human Rights Tribunal or in a court of law. Staff of the Branch are responsible for the conduct of cases

■ Anti-Discrimination Programs

The Branch is responsible for encouraging compliance with and enforcing part III of the Canadian Human Rights Act, by developing operational policies and procedures, ensuring the quality of investigation reports, delivery of the conciliation function, provision of training to investigators, and the provision of functional direction to regional staff.

■ Employment and Pay Equity

This Branch investigates complaints which allege discrimination based on data submitted by employers in their Employment Equity Reports. Action plans, including hiring and promotion goals, are developed to resolve problem areas. In addition, the Branch enters into cooperative reviews with employers interested in assessing their employment equity status. The Branch is also responsible for the investigation of pay equity complaints in the federal jurisdiction and for policy development and education. Investigations determine if there is a wage gap between males and females working for the same establishment. Measures are recommended to close any wage gaps.

■ Communications

This Branch supports the information and persuasion aspects of the Commission's mandate through a variety of products, a public education program and media relations initiatives. The communications products cover a wide range of human rights topics including human rights law, the operation of the Commission, the ten prohibited grounds of discrimination and issues such as employment and pay equity. Special education programs are designed through research and consultations with employers and special interest groups. Publications include an annual report to Parliament, a journal devoted to thoughtful discussion of human rights, news releases, speeches, brochures, posters all of which are available in alternate formats. Recently, the Commission has produced several videos dealing with general human rights themes and special topics like equal pay. Much of the Commission's work, including Human rights Tribunal and Federal and Supreme Court decisions, is publicized by the Branch through mainstream and community-based media.

■ Research and Policy

This Branch supports the Commission's decision-making process by undertaking research, monitoring national and international human rights issues and by developing policies and guidelines for the Commission's review and approval.

■ Corporate Services

This branch provides all administrative support services such as finance, assets management, access to information and privacy, information management, and informatics.

■ Personnel Services

This Branch provides personnel support services to headquarters and the regional offices. They include staffing, classification, pay and benefits, staff relations, training and human resource planning, official languages and safety.

Canadian Institute for International Peace and Security

Chapter 21

General Information

Background

The Institute was established in 1984. Its purpose is to increase knowledge and understanding of the issues relating to international peace and security from a Canadian perspective, with particular emphasis on arms control, disarmament, defence and conflict resolution.

Responsibilities

The objective of the Institute is to foster, fund and conduct research on matters relating to international peace and security; to promote scholarship in matters relating to international peace and security; to study and propose ideas and policies for the enhancement of international peace and security; and to collect and disseminate information on, and encourage public discussion of, issues concerning international peace and security.

Legislation

- Canadian Institute for International Peace and Security Act (R.S.C., 1984, C-32)

Organization

■ Research Division

This Division directs and conducts research on matters pertaining to international peace and security. It also supports the production of background papers and newsletters and responds to enquiries from the public.

■ Public Programs Division

This Division concerns itself with informing the non-expert public on issues of peace and security by publishing a magazine and papers, and by organizing workshops, conferences and seminars.

■ Information Systems

The Institute has a collection of books, journals and other materials and data bases comprising an in-house resource centre available to the public.

■ Peace and Security Competitions Fund, Awards and Bursaries

This Division administers a programme of responsive grants, scholarships and bursaries. Separate funds are allocated to each. Responsive grants for research or public programmes activities are awarded biannually. Scholarships are offered once a year. Bursaries may be awarded at any time.

■ Administration Division

This Division provides financial, personnel, administrative and secretarial services for the efficient operation of the Institute.

Canadian International Development Agency

Chapter 22

General Information

Background

The Canadian International Development Agency (CIDA) has as its objective the support of the efforts of developing countries in fostering their economic growth and the evolution of their social systems in a way that will produce a wide distribution of the benefits of development among the population of these countries.

Responsibilities

The Canadian International Development Agency (CIDA) is the principal federal entity responsible for implementing Canada's Official Development Assistance Program. CIDA's assistance to Third World countries is delivered through several channels. The overall system is designed to allow many Canadians – companies, universities, voluntary agencies, individuals and public institutions – to play their part in responding to a complex set of needs and development partners around the world: multilateral institutions, banks, research bodies, governments, co-operatives, schools and colleges.

Legislation

- Department of External Affairs Act
- Financial Administration Act
- International Development (Financial Institutions) Continuing Assistance Act

Organization

The Agency is headed by the President who reports directly to the Minister for External Relations and International Development and the Secretary of State for External Affairs.

■ Policy Branch

Policy Branch's mandate is to serve the President, Senior Vice-President and other CIDA branches in the following areas. Some of these areas involve shared responsibility with other branches: (1) Aid Policy Coordination: Facilitates the coordination of policies within the Agency. The Branch also serves as the focal point for international aid coordination efforts including CIDA relations with the OECD Development Assistance Committee (DAC), the IMF, and various key aid donors; (2) Aid Policy Analysis: Formulates and analyses policy options for senior management and the President's Committee. A key part of this work involves analysis of macroeconomic issues, including debt, stabilization and adjustment policy; (3) Input on Non-Aid Policies Affecting Development: Serves as the focal point for CIDA interdepartmental input on Canadian policies which affect later developing countries, such as trade policy and international financial issues; (4) Strategic Planning and Budget: Provides analyses and advice to senior management on ODA strategic planning, the ODA budget, and the shares of the various ODA programs; (5) Evaluation: Provides leadership on evaluation issues and work to ensure that lessons learnt in evaluations are brought to the attention of the relevant program units; (6) Policy Information: Collects, analyzes and manages corporate information relevant to CIDA's mandate. Information responsibilities include the Development Information Centre, the Corporate Memory and the Corporate Statistical Unit; (7) Environment Policy Analysis and Development: Facilitates the development of a new policy on environment for development and an implementation strategy. Coordinate CIDA input on international environmental policy matters.

Environment and Development Division: Responsible for formulating policy in the field of environment for development assistance, and for coordinating input to and representing the Agency at interdepartmental and international fora addressing environmental policy matters. This latter responsibility includes coordinating CIDA input to the 1992 United Nations Conference on Environmental and Development (UNCED).

The Branch is comprised of five Divisions and is headed by a Vice-President and Director General.

Strategic Planning and Research: Responsible for matters relating to the Official Development Assistance (ODA) budget eligibility, the Agency's corporate planning cycle and relations with the ODA crown Corporations (IDRC, PCIAC, ICOD, etc.). Conducts a program of research activities related to the international aid environment.

Policy, Coordination and Development: Responsible for coordinating Agency policies in such areas as human rights, sustainable development, trade with developing countries (DCs) and strategy priorities. A major function is to serve as a secretariat for the Policy Coordination Committee. The division is also responsible for coordination with other bilateral donors, and for relations with the Development Assistance Committee of the OECD.

Corporate Information: Collects and analyses statistical information on Canadian ODA and prepares a variety of reports including the CIDA Annual Report; manages the Development Information Centre and Corporate memory.

Program Evaluation Division: Implements the Agency's annual evaluation plan; provides support to the program branches in evaluation and Audit matters.

International Economic Analysis Unit: Advises on issues pertaining to economic policy in developing countries, including structural adjustment, debt and poverty reduction. It coordinates CIDA views on structural adjustment and other policy issues for input into discussions at the IMF Executive Board.

Canadian Partnership Branch

The Branch: coordinates and develops the Agency relations with the Canadian business community, by encouraging business to increase investment in developing countries and develop their technological capacities; and administers programs designed to respond to requests from non-profit organizations and institutions for support of their development activities.

Business Co-operation: The mandate of the business component of the Branch is to: support and promote the role of the private sector in development (monitor and assess aid-and-trade issues), advance the industrialization of Third World countries by developing policy principles and programs that foster the establishment of long term business linkage between the private sector of Canada and the developing countries through such initiatives as investment, technology transfer and involvement in infrastructure projects, coordinate and increase the Agency's relations with the Canadian private sector.

Industrial Co-operation Division: The objective of INC is to support and focus efforts toward the industrialization of developing countries through programs that encourage the participation of the Canadian private sector in the industrial development of the Third World. Its programs promote, in particular, the establishment of long-term business relationships between the Canadian private sector and that of developing countries.

Special Programs: The non-profit component of the Branch supports collaborative relations between a wide range of non-profit organizations and institutions in Canada and the developing countries. Its primary objective is to stimulate and support the participation of Canadian voluntary organizations and non-profit institutions in international cooperation and development education.

Non-governmental Organizations Division: Makes matching contributions for international development projects/programs of Canadian non-governmental organizations (NGOs), religious groups, development agencies, service clubs, women's organizations and youth associations. In addition, it contributes to Food Aid projects of organizations involved in that type of work. It also supports overseas development projects being carried out by provincial governments.

Institutional Co-operation and Development Services Division: The programs of the ICDS Division support Canadian volunteer sending organizations, cooperatives, unions, professional associations, educational institutions and youth organizations in their development activities.

ICDS Operates the following specialized programs:

Development Services Program (DSP) – supports non-profit agencies who send technically qualified Canadians, as cooperants, to developing countries;

Educational Institutions Program (EIP) – supports the international cooperation programs of community colleges, universities and other post-secondary educational institutions engaged in joint ventures with similar institutions in developing countries. EIP supports Centres of Excellence selected from Canadian institutions of higher learning through a competitive process, aimed at enhancing a theme focused on development. EIP also supports a University Initiated Scholarship Program which grants scholarships to students selected by Canadian universities;

Co-operatives, Unions and Professional Associations – this Program supports groups who work with co-operatives, savings and credit unions, labour organizations and a range of professional associations in developing countries; and

Youth Program – directed at young people up to 25 years of age, this Program supports initiatives of Canadian non-governmental organizations, private sector firms, educational institutions and youth organizations.

International NGO Programs Division: The International Non-Governmental Organizations Program is an initiative to promote networking among international non-governmental organizations involved in development, by facilitating exchanges of experiences and communications among regional and international organizations worldwide. Organizations rather than projects are supported.

The INGO Program places emphasis on: a global and cross-sectoral approach, which transcends geographical or sectoral limitations; institution-building, to enable popular organizations to participate in, contribute to and benefit from larger networks; and flexibility, by supporting new organizations and initiatives.

Public Participation Program: Supports the activities of non-governmental organizations and institutions working to make the Canadian public aware of the issues and problems of developing countries with a view to promoting participation in international development activities.

Management for Change Program: Stimulates and supports innovative ways to help senior executives in developing countries to manage the process of social and economic change. It does so by bringing together key executives from Canada and counterparts in the public, private and non-profit sectors from developing countries to explore new approaches to management problems. Acting as a catalyst for short-term initiatives, the program concentrates on practical problem-solving, and gives preference to regional rather than national activities. It also seeks to improve the management capacity of key development groups, such as women and NGO managers, who often do not benefit from established programs.

Policy, Systems and Liaison Division: The Policy, Systems and Liaison Division (PSLD) develops and evaluates the policies, programs and systems that enable the Business and Special Programs Branch (BSPB) to fulfil its mandate. The Division is also responsible for providing the Branch with technical support. The PSLD offers the Branch courses in data processing, develops new applications to support program administration and provides day-today electronic communication with CIDA's regional offices.

The PSLD is generally the first contact that business people establish with CIDA. The Division must inform them of CIDA's priorities and programs for the business community. The Division also handles the registration of consulting firms, consultants and cooperants so that they are eligible to obtain contracts from CIDA.

The Division also liaises with provincial governments and the regional offices of the Department of Industry, Science and Technology.

CIDA's regional offices located in certain international trade centres – Montreal, Vancouver, Calgary, Winnipeg and Moncton – provide the business community with information about CIDA programs, especially the provision of goods and services to developing countries, the registration of consultants at CIDA and the Industrial Cooperation Program.

As part of its functions, the PSLD represents CIDA at events such as exhibitions and trade fairs for Canadian businesses. In consultation with the Communications Branch, the Division develops a comprehensive CIDA communication program aimed at Canada's private sector.

■ Multilateral Programs Branch

CIDA funds for multilateral programs are channelled through United Nations agencies and other international development organizations. In addition, CIDA and the Department of Finance provide funds to international financial institutions such as the regional development banks and the World Bank. Most of these organizations operate a variety of programs, so that CIDA contributes to some 65 programs in all. While the organizations are responsible for the administration of projects, Canada participates in their governing bodies to ensure that the organizations are operating within appropriate policy and operational guidelines, and that they meet Canada's interests and those of the international community as a whole. The Multilateral Branch is composed of the following four divisions.

Multilateral Technical Co-operation Division: Funds some 35 international programs engaged in a wide variety of development-related areas, particularly technical co-operation in key areas such as human resource development, agricultural research, health, population and women in development. In addition to the development programs in the United Nations (e.g. UNDP, UNICEF, UNFPA, WHO), programs related to the Commonwealth, the various institutions of la Francophonie and the Consultative Group for International Agricultural Research are also administered by the Division.

Food Aid Centre: Responsible for the CIDA food aid program. It prepares and processes submissions seeking project approval from the food aid budget; coordinates the planning of food aid activities in consultation with other operating branches; initiates discussions on and participates in the process of food aid budget reallocations when necessary during the course of the fiscal year, in consultation with other operating branches. The Centre serves as a coordinating centre within the Agency in policy and program discussions concerning food aid with Treasury Board, the Department of External Affairs, the Department of Agriculture, the Department of Finance, the World Food Program, the Canadian Wheat Board, the Canadian Dairy Commission, and food producers and processors. The Centre also acts as team leader on the Food Aid Program Team.

Financial Institutions Division: Develops and maintains the international financial institutions as mechanisms for development financing. It provides guarantees (i.e., callable capital) to facilitate the recycling of private capital resources for development financing, and in so doing multiplies the availability of such financing. The funds are provided to regional development banks. The Division also participates with other departments in the management of Canadian assistance provided through the Department of Finance to the World Bank Group. It ensures that the international financial institutions (IFIs) are managed in a manner to maintain their credit worthiness in the international capital markets. The Division fosters policies within the IFIs that are consistent with the developmental and humanitarian principles of Canadian foreign policy.

The International Humanitarian Assistance Program: Provides financial support for efforts to alleviate human suffering caused by natural and man-made disasters abroad. This assistance is normally channelled through international institutions and Canadian and international non-governmental organizations involved in such work. Grants are given primarily in support of the regular programmes of three major institutions: the United Nations High Commissioner for Refugees (UNHCR), the United Nations Relief and Works Agency for Palestinian Refugees (UNRWA), and the International Committee of the Red Cross (ICRC). Grants are also given in support of special country appeals or for projects launched by these and other humanitarian institutions. To ensure the flexibility needed by an emergency response mechanism, a policy of providing largely untied IHA programme grants is maintained.

■ Asia Branch

The principal objective of Asia Branch is to plan, develop and implement Canada's aid program (currently directed to some nine countries of concentration and 14 other countries within Asia); and to integrate Canadian development activities to these countries.

Under the direction of the Vice-President, Asia Branch is composed of nine program units; Asean/Thailand; Philippines; India/Nepal; Pakistan; Indonesia; Peoples' Republic of China; Bangladesh; and Sri Lanka. Each unit is responsible for the management of aid programs to recipient countries, as well as the relationship of these programs to Canadian interests.

The program is composed of projects throughout Asia under implementation by contractors, consultants, non-governmental organizations and individual co-operants. There are approximately 300 ongoing projects, primarily concentrated in the agriculture, rural development, energy, institution building, human resource development and social development sectors, at various stages of development.

■ Americas Branch

The administrative grouping of the Latin American and Commonwealth Caribbean makes it possible to take the whole continent into account when formulating a development strategy for the region's developing countries. They face five major problems: poor distribution of income; low agricultural productivity; rapid urbanization; acute unemployment and increasing debt aggravated by negative terms of exchange. Despite their merger, the two programs are distinct in structure and evolution.

Latin American and Central American Region Program: Focuses mainly on poverty alleviation, human resource development, women's participation in development, structural adjustment and balance of payment support, environment protection. The main sectors of involvement are agriculture and food, forestry, transport, energy, health and drinking water, and telecommunications. Activities in the area of social development for the poorest people are mainly implemented by Non-Governmental Organizations (NGOs) and Non-Governmental Institutions (NGIs) and through counterpart funds developed with lines of credit. CIDA also supports numerous small development projects through the Canada Fund for Local Initiatives in almost all countries of the Region. In addition to bilateral programs, CIDA finances many projects implemented by NGOs, NGIs and private enterprises in the areas of social development, institutional support and industrial co-operation.

Commonwealth Caribbean Region Program: Provides Canadian bilateral assistance to the Caribbean to encourage economic growth and stability. Food production, energy generation, and responses to the increasing balance of payments and human resource constraints are of critical concern. The bilateral program has thus focused on the agriculture (including forestry and fisheries), public services, transportation, education, and energy sectors. In 1978, under the auspices of the World Bank, a mechanism was set up known as the Caribbean Group for Co-operation in Economic Development (CGCED). It comprises recipients, donors and multilateral institutions and serves as a consultative group on long-term economic development in the region. CIDA provides support to local initiatives through the Canada Fund for Local Initiatives, NGOs and institutional co-operation in Commonwealth Caribbean countries. Under the Joint Trade and Economic Agreement, CIDA also has a program of industrial co-operation to promote private sector development in the region.

■ Africa and Middle East

In 1991 CIDA undertook an administrative reorganization of Francophone and Anglophone Africa Branches. Since September 1, 1991, these two branches have been merged into one administrative branch under the name "Africa and Middle East". This new branch is headed by a Vice-president and eight program directors: Policy and programming, Central Africa, East and South Africa, Great Lakes, North Africa and Middle East, West Africa, Anglophone Africa (Tanzania, Southern Africa and Horn of Africa), Francophone Africa (Regional Senegal\Guinea and Sahel\Ivory Coast).

The Africa and Middle East Branch covers 61 countries and four regional programs. The current development goals are the alleviation of poverty, structural adjustment, women's increased participation in development, environment, food security and energy availability. The strategic development activities focus on supporting socio-economic development of beneficiary countries, participating in the structural adjustment programs undertaken by these countries, supporting local populations and regional institutions initiatives by means of "Micro-realizations" and soil planning, and participating in the planning of the "Fight Against Drought and Desertification Strategy."

■ Operations Services Branch

The Branch provides services to the Agency in general and the three Geographic Branches in particular in the areas of program coordination, systems, development of operational policies and procedures, contracting and procurement.

The Branch is also responsible for the corporate planning and management systems common to the three geographic programmes, i.e. bilateral programmes. This function includes management of the bilateral planning and financial cycle, responsibility for developing guidelines related directly to management of the bilateral programme, and a catalytic role in stimulating innovations and improvements in programme and project planning and management.

The Branch currently consists of three separate divisions: Contract Division, Procurement Division, and the Area Coordination Group who coordinate the Decentralization Program.

■ Professional Services Branch

The Branch provides professional and technical services to the Multilateral Programs and Special Programs Branches, and particularly to the Area Branches, in the planning and implementation of CIDA aid programs and projects through an analysis of the Canadian industrial and professional resource base. It also develops and updates, in co-operation with the Policy Branch, the sectoral policies for the orientation of these programs and projects. It monitors projects to ensure that the technical quality of work being performed by Canadian consultants, contractors and technical assistants meets a high standard of proficiency and that these services are dispensed economically and finally it manages on behalf of CIDA, the Scholarships Program.

Infrastructure Division: Provides advice and related technical services in policy formulation and in the identification, planning, implementation and operation of projects in transportation and facilities, energy and mining, water supply and sanitation, telecommunications and electronics including associated studies on viability and operational feasibility training and institutional development.

Natural Resources Division: Provides advice and related technical services in the identification, planning and implementation of programs and projects in agriculture, forestry and conservation, enterprise and fisheries.

Environment Division: Provides the professional and technical input required in the planning and implementation of the policies, strategies, programs and projects of the various Agency Branches. In addition, the Division formulates operational guidelines and strategies.

Social and Human Resource Development Division: Provides advice and related technical services in the development of policy and in the identification, planning and implementation of projects in education, training, development communication, health and population, human settlements, informatics, institutional development, social sciences and integration of women in development. It also provides services to the Agency for cross-cultural orientation of co-operants and trainees, the management of certain aspects of co-operant programs, the implementation of several student and trainee programs, the provision of audio-visual services, collection of technical co-operation data, and coordination of Agency policy on women in development.

Strategic Planning and Program Coordination: Ensures the programming of Branch activities and defines the systems and procedures supporting their implementation. It is responsible for: the coordination of the development of sectoral policies and input from the Professional Services Branch (PSB) to CIDA programs and projects; the coordination of PSB input into Country Program Review preparation; the coordination of PSB input into decentralization; and the communication of PSB policy and program activity.

Management Services and Consultant Selection Division: Carries out the selection of consultants, individuals, firms, institutions, contractors and trading houses required in the planning and implementation of CIDA aid or in-house projects, and maintains an appropriate data bank. The assignment of specialists to project teams and the development and maintenance of the resource allocation system are coordinated through this division. It also develops computerized management information and sectoral systems, and provides financial and administrative support for the Branch's activities.

■ Finance and Corporate Information Branch

The provision of financial management and control, related systems and services, as well as informatics and telecommunications support to ensure the Agency's responsibilities for financial administration are discharged as specified by Parliament and the Central Agencies. This includes the provision of guidance and support to management through the analysis of issues and the proposal of policy, as well as system or process innovations to improve the Agency's ability to respond to a larger ODA budget and increasingly sophisticated aid programs and delivery mechanisms.

■ Personnel and Administration Branch

The mandate of the Personnel and Administration Branch is to support development assistance by providing senior management at CIDA with advice about the sound management of human resources, and with service and support in the administration of personnel and physical property.

■ Communications Branch

The Branch has two principle activities: corporate communications support for the Agency and its activities; and development information to raise awareness of development and global issues.

In terms of corporate communications, the Branch advises the Agency and the Minister on communications and public relations matters, develops and implements communications strategies, monitors and assesses public opinion through media analysis and public opinion polling; and produces and delivers information products and services.

In terms of development information, the Branch produces material developed specifically for youth. Products include an extensive series of publications, audio-visual co-productions, and exhibits and displays. Supporting these products are a range of materials designed for educators.

▪ Asia Branch

Association of South East Asian Nations

Description: The program is concentrated on human resource development and institutional support. This covers projects in fisheries and forestry with increasing focus on short-term training and scholarships, particularly in areas of technology and public sector management. Program Record Number: IDA BSD 310

Bangladesh

Description: CIDA's program in Bangladesh includes food aid, commodities (industrial raw materials and potash) and a variety of projects concentrated in the agriculture, rural development, rail transportation, energy and population sectors. Specific project activities include assistance to women's groups for population planning and income generation; financial and technical support for landless co-operatives; construction of small-scale irrigation structures; ongoing assistance to Bangladesh Railways; and support for the development of natural gas reserves. Program Record Number: IDA BSD 270

China

Description: CIDA's program in China is concentrated mainly on technology transfer through human resource development. Bilateral projects concentrate on the following sectors: human resource development and educational institutions, agriculture, forestry, hydro power, petroleum development, and transportation and telecommunications. Program Record Number: IDA BSD 335

India

Description: CIDA's assistance to India emphasizes energy, agriculture and human resources development. Current major projects include assistance to major hydro power projects: India's National Hydroelectric Power Corporation (to undertake the installation of the 540Mw Chamera hydroelectric dam and power transmission system) and a power transmission enhancement system for the Kerala State Electricity Board. In addition, a line of credit is in place for requirements in the energy sector. Food aid, in the form of Canola oil, is being provided to support the development of oilseed processing co-operatives in India; potash is being provided to generate counterpart funds for a major agricultural extension project; a sub surface irrigation project is underway in Rajasthan; a series of linkage programs provide institutional building and human resource development. Program Record Number: IDA BSD 275

Indochina/Malaysia

Description: In the short term, Canadian assistance to Indochina (Laos, Cambodia, Vietnam) will be limited to small humanitarian and community-based projects funded mainly through Canada Funds and with NGOs. Over the longer term, Canadian development assistance to Indochina will be expanded at a pace dictated by the peace process, the level of stability in the region and budgetary situation of CIDA. Canadian aid to Malaysia focuses on developing industrial and business linkages between the private sectors of the two countries. Program Record Number: IDA BSD 320

Indonesia

Description: Canada's assistance program to Indonesia (i) strengthens Indonesia's planning and institutional base for sustainable management, human resource development and regional development; (ii) facilitates the creation and implementation of networks and partnerships between Indonesian and Canadian organizations; (iii) contributes to the implementation of Indonesia's policies on women's participation in development, and the environment; and (iv) supports Indonesia's macro-economic adjustment process with program assistance. The program comprises the full range of bilateral, Special Program Branch projects and commodity assistance. Projects include initiatives in higher education, environmental management development, water resources, regional development and training, technical assistance related to both program goals and sectors of activity. Program Record Number: IDA BSD 330

Myanmar

Description: CIDA's program in Myanmar consists of Phase II of the vector borne disease control project being implemented by the World Youth Organization. Program Record Number: IDA BSD 325

Nepal

Description: The focus of Canadian programs in Nepal is on human resource development and institution-building in poverty alleviation, energy planning and domestic civil aviation. Current projects include integrated rural and health development and potash and vitavax being provided to generate counterpart funds for agricultural extension activities in Mid-West Nepal, institution-building for national water and energy resources planning, and maintenance and operational support for Nepal's domestic civil aviation sector. Bank Number: IDA BSD 280

Pakistan

Description: CIDA's priority sectors in Pakistan are: Energy (power generation and transmission, and the development of national oil and gas production capacity), Social Development (primarily through community development and health services) and Agriculture. In energy the emphasis is gradually shifting from infrastructural support towards institution-strengthening, including training. In the social sector, activities focus on sustainable socio-economic development through community development, and on basic health care through initiatives supporting immunization and the training of traditional midwives and nurses. In agriculture the priority activities have been the reclamation of land damaged by waterlogging and salinity, and research into increasing agricultural production in poorer unirrigated areas. There is a Canada Fund administered by the Canadian High Commission. Program Record Number: IDA BSD 290

Philippines

Description: The program concentrates on structural adjustment and poverty alleviation. Projects fall into three distinct areas of priority: support to the Philippine macro-economic adjustment process in the form of commodity assistance and selective import support in telecommunications; strengthening of the capacity of national, regional and local government authorities to develop and implement policies and programs in support of Philippine government decentralization; and strengthening of public and private organizations which are critical to enabling the poor to gain access to assets and services. Throughout, special consideration is given to the role played by women in development, to the environment, to the private sector, and to NGOs. Program Record Number: IDA BSD 305

Regional Institutions

Description: CIDA's Asia Regional Institutions Program supports both inter-governmental and non-governmental institutions with particular emphasis on regional education and management of public policy issues. Program Record Number: IDA BSD 321

South Pacific

Description: A $10 million initiative was approved in 1987/1988 which will channel assistance to six regional organizations in the area of ocean resource management. Program Record Number: IDA BSD 315

Sri Lanka

Description: The Sri Lanka Program focuses on support to the rural poor population, and includes projects in agricultural development. Assistance for research in the use of fertilizer, honey and soya production, rural credit, human resources development, and urban and rural health. The Program also includes support to income-generation activities and basic social services provided by NGOs as well as assistance to Sri Lanka's reconstruction and rehabilitation program. Program Record Number: IDA BSD 285

Thailand

Description: Canadian Development Assistance has two strategic goals: to assist in Thailand's transition from an agricultural to an industrialized society; and to build a base for a long-term economic relationship between Canada and Thailand. Strategic principles are institution-building and human resource development. The program will increasingly involve institutional (private sector) linkages to foster long-term relationships and to strengthen Thailand's capability in managing its development process. Development priorities will be economic management, natural resources/environment, energy, and women in development. With the acceleration of Thailand's economic restructuring, the program's focus is changing from community development to a transfer of technology, knowledge and financial assistance/resources, that more actively support Thailand's industrial development, including the rural areas. Program Record Number: IDA BSD 300

■ Americas Branch

Argentina

Description: The objective of Canadian assistance is to promote the economic and institutional development of Argentina, within the context of Canadian global interests in that country. CIDA's program has concentrated its efforts in agriculture, human resource development and distance education. The program also promotes exchanges of professionals between Argentina and Canada. Program Record Number: IDA BMD 400

Barbados

Description: There is now only one bilateral project in Barbados which is almost complete, the Land Mapping and Registry Project. Barbados also benefits from certain CIDA regional projects such as Maritime Training Assistance and the Caribbean Airports Project. In addition, CIDA's Industrial Cooperation Program and IDRC provide a modest level of support. CIDA is in active consultation with the Government of Barbados to determine future bilateral assistance. Program Record Number: IDA BMD 425

Belize

Description: Canada's development assistance program includes the provision of a water and sewage system for Belize City and preparation for a Human Resources Development Project. In addition, CIDA's Special Programs Branch has been relatively active in Belize with projects for fisheries co-operative training and rural water development of particular note. Program Record Number: IDA BMD 410

Bolivia

Description: Canada's development assistance program to Bolivia has become more active. New projects such as food aid and lines of credit provide balance of payments support and generate counterpart funds for the Bolivian government's Emergency Social Fund (EFS), which has become the country's primary vehicle for addressing the high social costs of austerity measures imposed by economic structural adjustment programs. CIDA is also supporting country focus projects with Canadian NGOs that support improved social programs and complement the substantial Canadian NGO activity in Bolivia. Two new health/water sanitation sector projects with UNICEF and CARE CANADA have just been approved to improve the quality of primary health care. Program Record Number: IDA BMD 350

Brazil

Description: The objective of Canadian assistance is to promote the economic and institutional development of Brazil, within the context of Canadian global interests in that country. CIDA's program is concentrating its efforts in agriculture, telecommunications, the social sector, human resource development, public administration and environment. Program Record Number: IDA BMD 395

Caribbean Region

Description: Canada's bilateral assistance to the Caribbean Region involves projects with regional institutions such as CARICOM and the University of the West Indies as well as projects of a regional nature including core and non-core countries. The largest project currently being implemented, worth $87 million, is to upgrade the safety and operations of 22 Caribbean airports in 13 countries. Program Record Number: IDA BMD 440

Colombia

Description: CIDA provides assistance through the use of lines of credit and social programming. Areas of concentration are forestry, hydro-electric generation and distribution, human resource development, health, housing, micro-enterprise development, and education. Major projects involve a general financing project that has been used to provide Canadian equipment for hydro generation and distribution and projects directed to human resources development, forestry development and watershed management project, seismic and volcanic monitoring project, a community development, and housing. Program Record Number: IDA BMD 340

Costa Rica

Description: The principal objective of CIDA's bilateral program is to support Costa Rica's structural adjustment efforts through improving socio-economic conditions of the poor (with emphasis on rural areas), supporting efforts in the housing and human settlements sector, and stimulating small business development. Ongoing projects include a line of credit, a counterpart fund for development, a technical assistance project aimed at improving the institutional capabilities of the Ministry of Housing and Human Settlements, and a scholarship program for post-secondary agricultural training in Canada. Program Record Number: IDA BMD 360

Eastern Caribbean (Leeward and Windward Islands)

Description: The following Eastern Caribbean islands comprise this program unit: Anguilla, Antigua, Barbuda, Dominica, Grenada, Montserrat, St. Kitts and Nevis, St. Lucia and St. Vincent, and the Grenadenes. CIDA's program focuses on economic infrastructure such as airports, ports, and roads; tourism development; agriculture, forestry, fisheries, water supply and watershed management; industrial development and human resource development. Major projects now in the implementation stage include Canada Training Awards (all islands), coconut expansion and water sector development (Dominica), forest management and conservation (St. Lucia and St. Vincent), cocoa rehabilitation (Grenada), water system expansion (St. Kitts and Nevis) and Nelson's Dockyard National Park tourism development (Antigua). Program Record Number: IDA BMD 435

Ecuador

Description: Until recently, CIDA's bilateral assistance to Ecuador was very limited, consisting primarily of the Canada Fund for Local Initiatives program. In 1987/88, however, the Human Resource Development project, which will provide $3.8 million to fund scholarships and/or training in Canada over a five-year period, was approved. The bilateral program for Ecuador is being expanded significantly to help Ecuador to alleviate poverty and to achieve the structural adjustment goals of economic stabilization and recovery. Program Record Number: IDA BMD 345

El Salvador

Description: In December 1984, the Secretary of State for External Affairs announced the restoration of bilateral aid to El Salvador after a five-year period of suspension. The first project, a line of credit for fertilizer with a counterpart fund for non-governmental organization projects to assist the displaced and most disadvantaged, began in 1986. Phase Two of this project was launched in January 1988 with the same objectives. Later in 1988, a Canadian Co-operation Office opened in San Salvador to support CIDA activities in the country. Program Record Number: IDA BMD 365

Guatemala

Description: In November 1987, the Secretary of State for External Affairs announced the reinstatement of bilateral aid to Guatemala, which had been suspended in 1981 due to internal social and political conditions. The first project in the renewed program began in March 1990. Its objective is to strengthen the delivery of basic services at a decentralized level, in response to urgent economic and social needs of disadvantaged rural groups. Program Record Number: IDA BMD 370

Guyana

Description: CIDA's program has primarily focused on forestry and fisheries. New lines of credit have been put in place for the provision of fertilizers and industrial inputs in order to assist in balance of payments support. Such assistance is conditional on Guyana's implementation of a structural adjustment program. Program Record Number: IDA BMD 415

Haiti

Description: Since Sept. 13, 1988, government-to-government negotiations with Haiti for the provision of new aid projects have been terminated. Currently, all bilateral assistance to Haiti is channelled through non-governmental organizations and institutions, and multilateral organizations. The principal objective is to reinforce the self-development capacities of the most disfavoured target groups. Bilateral interventions in Haiti include: funding of economic activities at the grass-roots level; assistance to Applied Maize Research and Seed Production; improvement of the self-development capacity of co-operatives; community development projects for the improvement of agriculture, health and nutrition; AIDS prevention programs; technical assistance to higher education institutions; and emergency food aid. Program Record Number: IDA BMD 390

The purpose is to provide the Consultant Selection Committee and, ultimately, CIDA senior management and the Minister, within the framework of the decisional process, with information on the qualifications and experience of individuals and firms wishing to obtain contracts to undertake CIDA projects in developing countries overseas. The information is used to produce statistical data for internal management and information purposes. Bank Number: IDA PPU 010

The Human Resources Inventory of Persons Serving or Prepared to Serve Overseas

The record consists of personal data, academic qualifications and experience. This data bank is used as a current inventory of individuals with appropriate skills wishing to participate in CIDA projects, as well as those presently on assignment overseas with CIDA. The information is used to maintain and to build a computer inventory enabling CIDA to respond to needs of developing countries. The inventory is also used to identify suitable candidates who have expressed a desire to serve with international development organizations. Other uses include the production of statistical data for CIDA purposes. The completed form is kept for two years and the staffing file is kept for 35 years and after last correspondence the computer inventory is kept for two years. Bank Number: IDA PPU 005

Canadian International Trade Tribunal

Chapter 23

General Information

Background

Bill C-110, which established the Canadian International Trade Tribunal (CITT) and dissolved the Canadian Import Tribunal, the Tariff Board and the Textile and Clothing Board, received Royal Assent on September 13, 1988. Sections of the Canadian International Trade Tribunal Act establishing the corporate structure of the CITT were proclaimed on September 15, 1988. Sections of the Act giving the CITT operational responsibilities and dissolving the Canadian Import Tribunal, the Tariff Board and the Textile and Clothing Board came into force on December 31, 1988.

Responsibilities

The CITT is a quasi-judicial tribunal responsible for conducting the general economic trade, injury and tariff-related inquiries previously carried out by the three predecessor organizations. It is also responsible for hearing, determining and ruling on appeals, primarily of customs and excise decisions made by the Minister or by the Deputy Minister of National Revenue, previously carried out by the Tariff Board; and for hearing and determining issues pursuant to other acts, primarily injury determinations resulting from anti-dumping and countervail actions previously carried out by the Canadian Import Tribunal. In addition, the Tribunal will consider injury complaints from all Canadian goods producers and conduct safeguard inquiries as provided for by the Act. This producer-requested "Direct Access" to import safeguard inquiries was formerly available only to the textile and clothing industries through the Textile and Clothing Board. The duties and/or functions of the Tribunal are set out in the Customs Act, the Excise Tax Act, the Energy Administration Act, the Special Import Measures Act, and the Canada United States Free Trade Agreement Implementation Act.

Legislation

- International Trade Tribunal Act, 1988
- Customs Act (R.S.C., 1985, C-54)
- Energy Administration Act (R.S.C., 1985, CE6)
- Excise Tax Act (R.S.C., 1985, C-E14)
- Special Import Measures Act (R.S.C., 1985, C-515)
- Canada/United States Free Trade Agreement Implementation Act, 1988

Organization

The Tribunal consists of the Chairman, two vice-chairmen, and not more than six other permanent members to be appointed by the Governor in Council. The Governor in Council may also appoint up to five temporary members, as required. The Tribunal is supported by the Research Branch, the Legal Services Branch and the Secretariat.

Canadian Museum of Civilization

Chapter 24

General Information

Background

The Canadian Museum of Civilization (CMC), a Crown Corporation, was established in 1990 by the Museums Act.

Responsibilities

The purposes of the Corporation, as defined in the Act, are to demonstrate the products of nature and the works of human beings, with special but not exclusive reference to Canada, so as to promote interest in and disseminate knowledge of these throughout Canada.

Legislation

- The Museums Act, 1990

Organization

■ Directorate of the Canadian Museum of Civilization (CMC)

This Directorate is responsible for the direction of the museum and the management of all its activities, resources and outputs.

■ Collections and Research Branch

This Branch develops and maintains collections of material representative of the works of people with special but not exclusive references to Canada for the purpose of demonstrating these works through museum programs.

■ Exhibitions and Programs Branch

This Branch delivers a broad range of programs in support of the CMC's goals which are client responsive and sensitive to community concerns as well as to groups with special needs.

■ Marketing and Business Development Branch

This Branch plans, establishes and manages guest services to reflect the CMC client-oriented approach to the public. These services include facilities rental, fundraising from the private sector and the development of a discrete lobby in order to promote the cause of the Museum. This Branch is also responsible for the marketing activity of the Museum, a publishing program, and the coordination of museum volunteers and the liaison with the Association of Friends of the Museum.

■ Finance and Museum Services Branch

This Branch is responsible for the provision of management and financial services. These include materiel and facilities management, as well as protection and informatics services.

■ Personnel Services Branch

This Branch provides managers with the advice and services required to manage the human resources of the Museum.

■ Canadian War Museum (CWM)

The Canadian War Museum is an affiliated museum of the CMC. It is autonomous in its public programming and collections functions; it obtains most of its administrative services from CMC. The mission of the Canadian War Museum is to share in the remembrance of, and serve as a memorial to, those Canadians lost in, or as a result of, war; to examine the war and war-related history of Canada and its effect upon Canada and Canadians; and to document Canada's continuing commitment to peacekeeping and the maintenance of international security.

Classes of Personal Information

Some CMC files summarized in the program records contain personal information which is not used in a decision-making process directly affecting the individual to whom it relates. Examples are inquiries about CMC collections, programs and services, information and advice given to individuals by CMC employees about museums and museum objects, and information about individuals in documents relating to grants or proposed grants to institutions.

These classes of personal information are kept on the relevant subject files and are not identifiable by name of the individual or other personal identifier. To retrieve these classes of personal information, the CMC would need as much detail as possible about the subject matter, the geographic location and the time the information would have come to the CMC. The retention periods for these classes of personal information are the same as those for the subject files containing the information.

Canadian Museum of Nature

Chapter 25

General Information

Background

The Canadian Museum of Nature (CMN), a Crown Corporation, was established in 1990 by the Museums Act, and reports to parliament through the Minister of Communications. It is administered by its own directorate under the authority of a Board of Trustees. The Director is the Chief Executive Officer of the CMN.

Responsibilities

The purposes of the Corporation, as defined in the Act, are to establish and maintain for research and posterity a collection of natural history objects, with special but not exclusive reference to Canada, and to use the collection, the knowledge derived from it and the understanding it represents, to increase throughout Canada and internationally, interest, knowledge, appreciation and respect for the natural world.

Legislation

- The Museums Act, 1990

Organization

The Museum is comprised of six branches:

■ Directorate

The Directorate, including the Board of Trustees and Internal Audit and Evaluation, provides overall direction, guidance and management of operational and administrative divisions within the Museum.

■ Collections and Research Branch

The Collections and Research Branch develops and maintains a collection of natural history objects and specimens which are material evidence of research activities which help drive the Museum's programmes and serve Canada and the international scientific community; it also deals with library and archival material within the Scientific Information and Coordination division.

■ Public Programs Branch

The Public Programs Branch evaluates, develops, and maintains programmes and activities to increase knowledge and appreciation for the natural world using the CMN's collection of natural history objects and specimens through exhibit-based programmes and a wide variety of modern media.

■ Museums Services Branch

The Museum Services Branch provides services relating to computerized information and data communications systems; the protection of the Museum's collections, staff and visitors; building and accommodation planning and management; and, mass media production services for trade and scientific publications, videos, audio tapes, and other products.

■ Communications and Marketing Branch

The Communications and Marketing Branch promotes the Museum's programmes, provides marketing research and business operations including the Museum shop, food services and facilities rentals, and develops outside resources through fund raising and co-ventures.

■ Comptroller's Branch

The Comptroller's Branch develops and implements management policies, procedures and systems, and provides support services in administration, finance, and personnel management areas including materiel management, procurement, contracts, and records and mail management.

Classes of Personal Information

Some CMN files summarized in the program records contain personal information which is not used in a decision-making process directly affecting the individual to whom it relates. Examples are inquiries about CMN collections, programs and services, information and advice given to individuals by CMN employees about the museum and museum objects, and information about individuals in documents relating to grants or proposed grants to institutions.

These classes of personal information are kept on relevant subject files and are not identifiable by name of the individual or other personal identifier. To retrieve these classes of personal information, the CMN would require as much detail as possible about the subject matter, the geographical location and the date the information would have been sent to or received by the CMN.

The retention period for these classes of personal information are the same as those subject files containing the information and may be subject to the general retention and disposal schedules set down by the National Archives of Canada (GRDS).

Canadian Radio-Television and Telecommunications Commission

Chapter 27

General Information

Background

The Canadian Radio-television and Telecommunications Commission (CRTC) is an independent public authority established by Parliament in 1968 as a successor to the Board of Broadcast Governors, an earlier regulatory agency. Its mandate was to regulate and supervise all aspects of the Canadian broadcasting system. These responsibilities were enlarged in 1976 by the Canadian Radio-television and Telecommunications Commission Act, under which the Commission assumed responsibility from the Canadian Transport Commission for regulating telecommunications carriers within federal jurisdiction.

Responsibilities

In broadcasting matters, the CRTC regulates both the public and private broadcasting sectors. It has the power to issue, renew, amend, suspend or revoke licences and to set any conditions of licence it feels necessary. With respect to federally-regulated telecommunications carriers, the CRTC has the power to ensure that the rates charged by the carriers are just and reasonable, and not unjustly discriminatory. The Commission's approval is also required for traffic and certain other types of agreements and capital stock issues.

In order to fulfil its mandate, the CRTC collects a variety of information on applicants and existing licensees operating broadcasting undertakings (cable, radio and television) across the country. Financial and operating information is collected on a yearly basis in Annual Returns filed under the Statistics Canada Act. Programming on radio and television is monitored: television stations including pay television and specialty services must submit detailed program logs monthly and radio stations must submit their program logs upon request. In the course of the public hearing process, information concerning the applications being heard is made available for public examination, as outlined in the CRTC Rules of Procedure. These public files include the text of any intervention made by anyone wishing to express their views with respect to particular applications or issues raised in public hearings. In telecommunications hearings, interrogatories and other more formal practices may be carried out, as outlined in the CRTC Telecommunications Rules of Procedure. The Commission receives complaints and enquiries from specific individuals or corporations, or interest group regarding both broadcasting and telecommunications. Copies of complaints relating to broadcasting matters are forwarded to the licensee concerned for comment and placed on a file available for examination by the public. In Public Notice 91-90 dated 30 August 1991, the Commission announced its support for the Canadian Broadcast Standards Council (the CBSC), which will administer industry standards and codes of conduct.

Legislation

- Railway Act (1903)
- Canadian Radio-television and Telecommunications Act (1976)
- Cable TV Regulations (1986)
- Radio Regulations (1986)
- Television Broadcasting Regulations (1987)
- National Telecommunications Powers and Procedures Act (1988)
- Pay Television Regulations (1990)
- Specialty Services Regulations (1990)
- Broadcasting Act (1991)

Organization

■ Broadcasting Sector

The broadcasting component is composed of three sectoral activities – Radio, Television, and Cable, Pay and Specialty Services.

■ Radio, Television, and Cable, Pay and Specialty Services

These Directorates are responsible for content policy development, as well as operational compliance, monitoring and analysis of applications. They provide advice on operational, policy and regulatory aspects of the radio, television and cable industries respectively and assist in determining priorities and plans regarding future broadcasting developments.

■ Corporate Management/Secretary General

This Sector is the official point of contact between the Commission and the public. It coordinates Commission activities commonly utilized by both the broadcasting and telecommunications sectors.

■ Secretariat Operations and Licensing Branch

This Branch oversees the Planning and Scheduling Branch, the Proceedings Section, the Public Hearings Branch, the Decisions Branch, and the Licensing Sector. The Branch also exercises functional direction over the four regional offices with respect to regional intelligence gathering activities in the broadcasting and telecommunications fields and to federal-provincial relations. The Branch also administers the Access to Information Act and the Privacy Act.

Regional offices

They are four in number and provide an official CRTC presence in the various regions of Canada to advise headquarters of the concerns of interested parties in their region. They provide information to provincial governments, the industry, the academic community and the public.

Marketing, Ownership and Financial Analysis Branch

This Branch is responsible for the Commission's marketing, financial and ownership analysis policies as well as ownership compliance and control and market success of the broadcasting industry.

Technical Policy, Planning and Analysis Branch

This Branch monitors new technical developments in the broadcasting field and provides day-to-day advice on the technical operations of the broadcasting system.

Information Services Directorate

The Information Services Directorate formulates and evaluates communications strategies, policies and initiatives and is responsible for all public relations activities, as well as for the production and distribution of CRTC publications. The Directorate also responds to briefs, letters, written inquiries and complaints received by the Commission The Directorate also coordinates referral of complaints to the Canadian Broadcast Standard Council (CBSC) in the case of issues covered by industry standards administered by the Council.

Telecommunications Directorate

The principal mandate of this directorate is to ensure that the rates charged by the carriers under federal jurisdiction are just and reasonable and not unjustly discriminatory. The Directorate assesses tariffs and agreements filed for approval by carriers; assists the Commission in the development of regulatory policies, decisions and orders; and identifies and analyzes regulatory issues stemming from individual applications or major hearings.

Economic, Social and Technical Analysis Branch

This Branch analyzes and provides advice to the Commission on rates and tariffs, market structure, current and future regulatory issues, technical issues, service quality and socio-economic aspects of regulatory issues. The Branch is responsible for assessing the carriers' construction programs and for advice to the Commission regarding the depreciation, renewal and amortization of carrier equipment.

Financial Analysis Branch

This Branch is concerned with the financial aspects of rate regulation and the carriers' inter-corporate activities; statistical analysis; accounting; and auditing carrier activities. The Branch is also responsible for the implementation of the inquiries into carrier costs.

Operations Branch

This Branch plans and coordinates telecommunications staff agendas; receives and schedules applications; advises applicants on proper procedure; and formulates, drafts and edits public notices, orders and decisions issued by the Commission. The Branch is also responsible for the resolution of subscriber complaints and inquiries.

Legal Directorate

The CRTC's general counsel and staff provide legal services to the Commission concerning the interpretation and implementation of the CRTC Act and the Broadcasting Act, the various acts on telecommunications, statutory instruments made pursuant to these acts, and the related federal and provincial legislation. Counsel advise the Commission of the legal implications of policy matters, conduct questioning, and advise on procedural matters at public hearings. They also make recommendations and carry out legal proceedings instituted by or against the Commission.

Finance and Management Services Branch

This Branch provides financial, program planning, management and administrative services to ensure the most effective operation of the Commission and the most cost-effective and efficient development and use of new services and facilities. It collects broadcast licence fees and helps to formulate licence fee regulations. The Branch also coordinates informatics activities Commission; maintains a library for communications industry information in Canada; and administers the Commission's records management, mail room and fleet management services.

Personnel Branch

This Branch advises the Chairman and branch directors on all aspects of personnel and special program administration, including employment equity. Responsibility also entails the administration of the CRTC's security function.

Audit and Evaluation Branch

This Branch performs internal audits (financial, compliance, operational), and evaluates program effectiveness. It also studies and reviews regulatory reform.

Personal Information Banks

Access Request Data Bank

Description: This bank contains the access request forms sent by individuals, the replies to such requests and information related to their processing. Class of Individuals: Members of the public who have made access requests to the Commission. Purpose: The bank is used for processing access requests only, and to report on the number of access requests received annually. Retention and Disposal Standards: Records are retained for two years and then destroyed. TBS Registration: 001820 Bank Number: CRT PPU 060

Annual Returns

The purpose of this bank is to maintain a record of financial analysis and ownership information relating to individuals and/or companies authorized under the Broadcasting Act to own and operate broadcasting undertakings (cable, AM, FM or TV) in Canada. Some of the financial data contained is used in the assessment of annual licence fees to be paid by licensees. Assessments and a record of payments are maintained. The annual returns are filed alphabetically on a national basis and are used in (a) compiling and analyzing the broadcasting industry, e.g. growth trends and industry performance; and (b) preparing financial analysis comments for the various public hearings held across the country with respect to the granting or renewing of licences for broadcasting undertakings. Retention and Disposal Standards: Files are retained for 12 years and then destroyed. Bank Number: CRT PPU 015

Applicants File

The purpose of this bank is to provide information on individuals, partnerships, and individuals doing business under a registered name, relative to obtaining, renewing and amending a licence for broadcasting undertakings. This bank contains identification of the applicant; investment (equity and/or securities) held by the applicant in a Canadian Radio-television Telecommunications Commission licence holder, newspaper or other media publisher, theatre or cinema, advertising agency, broadcasting sales representative, broadcasting program material producer or distributor, music recording producer or music publisher, lessor of property, plant or equipment of the licensee, company owning securities in any of these categories, potential advertising client of the undertaking; staff information; service information; capital costs and facilities; and financial operations. Bank Number: CRT PPU 035

Complaints and Representations File

The purpose of this file is to maintain a record of any person who wishes to lodge a complaint with or make any representation to the Commission, with respect to any matter within the powers of the Commission that is not directed to any application. The file contains the name, address, and telephone number of the person and agent, if any, lodging the complaint or making a representation and the nature of the complaint. Copies of the complaints are also placed on a file available for examination by the public. Retention and Disposal Standards: To be formally approved by the National Archivist. Bank Number: CRT PPU 005

Interveners File

The purpose of this file is to maintain a record of any person who is interested in an application and who wishes to file with the Commission an intervention for the purpose of supporting, opposing or modifying an application. The file contains the name, address and telephone number of the intervenor and his or her agent, if any. Details accompany the interventions on most occasions. Interventions are public documents and are retained on a file available for examination by the public and by public hearing date. Retention and Disposal Standards: To be formally approved by the National Archivist. Bank Number: CRT PPU 040

Legal Branch

The purpose of this bank is to provide a record of legal opinions and advice given to the Canadian Radio-television Telecommunications Commission by this branch and other sources and to retain some of the material upon which such advice was given. The bank provides a record of prosecutions and investigations conducted by this branch and retains some of the material upon which such prosecutions and investigations were contemplated or carried out. It also provides a record of cases in which the CRTC is involved and some other material relevant to such cases. Bank Number: CRT PPU 045

Ownership Profiles

The purpose of this bank is to maintain a record of ownership profiles relating to individuals authorized under the Broadcasting Act to own and operate broadcasting undertakings in Canada. The bank contains the name of the individual ownership shareholding, together with the location and type of undertaking (cable, AM, FM or TV). The bank is established on a national basis and is used in preparing ownership comments (Factum Book) for the various public hearings held across the country, with respect to the granting of licences for broadcasting undertakings. Retention and Disposal Standards: To be formally approved by the National Archivist. Bank Number: CRT PPU 010

Personal Service Contracts

The purpose of this bank is to maintain a record of individuals who have been engaged under contract by the Commission. It contains basic data such as social insurance number, educational qualifications, employment history, appointment and termination dates, amount of fees paid and other allowable expenses and payments. The information is used to determine taxable income and to issue the T-4 Supplementary for income tax purposes, and as source data for personnel required to carry out special studies from time to time. Retention and Disposal Standards: Files are retained for six fiscal years and then destroyed. Bank Number: CRT PPU 050

Programming Correspondence Files

The purpose of this bank is to maintain a correspondence with licensees, including AM and FM radio, television and cable TV, concerning programming matters such as logs, tape records of programs, commercials, and Canadian content. Comments, enquiries, and complaints cover a wide range of topics, most of which are related to the Broadcasting Act, 1968, and regulations under the Act. Retention and Disposal Standards: To be formally approved by the National Archivist. Bank Number: CRT PPU 020

Telecommunications Complaints, Inquiries and Briefs

The purpose of this bank is to provide a depository for case files pertaining to complaints and/or inquiries from customers or users of telecommunications services, furnished by the telecommunications companies under the Commission's jurisdiction. Such files contain all information relevant to the submission, processing, investigation and disposition of such complaints or inquiries, and include correspondence between the individual originating the complaint or inquiry and the Commission, as well as investigative material and correspondence between the Commission and the telecommunications company against which the complaint or inquiry is directed. Complaints and inquiries deal with such matters as quality of service, rates and charges, credit and collection practices. Canadian Saltfish Corporation

Chapter 28

General Information

Background

The Saltfish Act, 1970, gives the Corporation a monopoly on the inter-provincial and export trade in cured codfish (Gadidae family) produced in the province of Newfoundland and Labrador and on the lower north shore of the province of Quebec. The Corporation is listed in Schedule III, Part 1, of the Financial Administration Act.

Responsibilities

The Canadian Saltfish Corporation is mandated to improve the earnings of primary producers of cured saltfish.

Legislation

- Saltfish Act (1970)

Organization

The board of directors of the Corporation is composed of a chairman, a president, one director from each participating province, as well as five other directors. Each director is appointed by the Governor in Council to hold office for a period not exceeding three years. The chairman and the president hold office at pleasure. Provincial directors are recommended by the lieutenant-governor of the province concerned.

Some saltfish processing companies in the region specified in the Corporation's mandate have become its agents for the purchase, handling and preparation of products.

Canadian Security Intelligence Service

Chapter 29

General Information

Background

The Canadian Security Intelligence Service (CSIS) operates pursuant to the Canadian Security Intelligence Service Act.

Responsibilities

CSIS collects, analyzes and retains information and intelligence respecting activities that may on reasonable grounds be suspected of constituting threats to the security of Canada, and reports to and advises the Government of Canada in relation to these matters.

The Service also plays a role in providing security assessments to departments of the Government of Canada (in accordance with section 13 of the CSIS Act and government security policy) and may provide security assessments to the government of a province or any department thereof, any police force in a province, and to the government of a foreign state or institution thereof or an international organization of states or institutions thereof when a security clearance is a required condition of employment. As well, CSIS may advise any Minister of the Crown on matters relating to the security of Canada, or provide any Minister of the Crown with information relating to security matters or criminal activities that is relevant to the exercise of any power or the performance of any duty or function by that Minister under the Citizenship Act or the Immigration Act, 1976. It may also conduct such investigations as are necessary in order to provide security assessments or advice to Ministers.

Further, CSIS may, in relation to the defence of Canada or the conduct of international affairs, assist the Minister of National Defence or the Secretary of State for External Affairs, within Canada, in the collection of information or intelligence relating to the capabilities, intentions or activities of any foreign state or group of foreign states or any person other than a Canadian citizen or permanent resident, or corporation.

Legislation

- Canadian Security Intelligence Service Act

Organization

A breakdown of organizational units within the Service is not provided, for security considerations. Information holdings on all program records are within the functional activity of the Deputy Director, Corporate Management and Support Services.

Documents pertaining to the processing of the request are included. Class of Individuals: Individuals or authorized agents who have submitted a "Personal Information Request Form" or an "Access to Information Request Form" to a federal or provincial institution. Purpose: Information may be used to enable CSIS to comply with the Privacy Act and the Access to Information Act and to process Personal Information Request Forms and requests under the Access to Information Act. Consistent Uses: Personal information may be used for the management of CSIS, research, planning, evaluation and statistical purposes. Retention and Disposal Standards: As a requirement of the Privacy Act Regulations, information is retained until all avenues of legal appeal have been exhausted with a minimum retention of two years. TBS Registration: 001681 Bank Number: SIS PPU 020

Canadian Security Intelligence Service Investigational Records

Description: This bank contains personal information on identifiable individuals whose activities are suspected of constituting threats to the security of Canada; on identifiable individuals who are or were being managed as confidential sources of information; on identifiable individuals no longer investigated by CSIS but whose activities did constitute threats to the security of Canada and which still meet the collection criteria stipulated in section 12 of the CSIS Act, and on identifiable individuals the investigation of whom relate to the conduct of the international affairs, the defence of Canada or any state allied or associated with Canada or the detection, prevention or suppression of subversive or hostile activities. Class of Individuals: Individuals suspected of espionage or sabotage against Canada or the interests of Canada; foreign influenced activities within or relating to Canada that are clandestine or deceptive or involve a threat to any person; activities within or related to Canada directed toward the use of serious acts of violence to achieve a political objective within Canada or a foreign state; or activities directed toward the unlawful covert undermining, or the overthrow by violence, of the constitutionally established government system in Canada; or any other activities described in the definition of "threats to the security of Canada" at section 2 of the CSIS Act; individuals identified relating to national security, the defence of Canada or the conduct of the international affairs of Canada; and individuals who are confidential sources of information. Purpose: Collected under section 12 of the CSIS Act with respect to threats to the security of Canada; under section 15 concerning the collection of information for the purpose of providing advice pursuant to section 14; and under section 16 concerning the collection of information or intelligence relating to the capabilities, intentions or activities of foreign states and certain persons. Consistent Uses: CSIS may only disclose information it obtains if it does so in accordance with the controls of subsection 19(2) of the CSIS Act. First, it may disclose information for the purposes of the performance of its duties and functions under the CSIS Act or the administration or enforcement of that Act, or as required by any other law. The Service may thus disclose personal information to the Government of Canada, for example, as part of its duty to report, and give advice, thereto in relation to activities suspected of constituting threats to the security of Canada. Secondly, where the information in its possession may be used in the investigation or prosecution of an alleged contravention of the law, or where it relates to the conduct of Canada's international affairs or to the defence of Canada, then it may be disclosed to the appropriate police officials and Attorney General; to the Secretary of State for External Affairs, and to the Minister of National Defence, respectively. Thirdly, information may be disclosed where, in the opinion of the Minister, disclosure to any Minister of the Crown or person in the Public Service of Canada is essential in the public interest and that interest clearly outweighs any invasion of privacy that could result from the disclosure. Pursuant to section 13 and 14 of the CSIS Act, CSIS may also disclose information in the preparation of a domestic or foreign security assessment, or in providing advice under the Citizenship Act, or Immigration Act. Personal information may also be disclosed to the Inspector General and the Security Intelligence Review Committee. Information in this bank may also be used for research, planning, evaluation and statistical purposes. An exemption is being requested. Retention and Disposal Standards: Information in this bank may be retained from two years to thirty years, subject to the retention and disposal schedules approved by the National Archivist. When files have been designated as historical, they may be transferred to the custody and control of the National Archives of Canada. TBS Registration: 002872 Bank Number: SIS PPU 045

Canadian Space Agency

Chapter 30

General Information

Background

The Act of Parliament establishing the Canadian Space Agency was proclaimed into force on December 14, 1990. The Canadian Space Agency was created from divisions of the former Ministry of State for Science and Technology (MOSST), the National Research Council of Canada (NRC), the Department of Communications (DOC) and Energy Mines and Resources (EMR).

Responsibilities

The objects of the Canadian Space Agency are to promote the peaceful use and development of space, to advance the knowledge of space through science and to ensure that space science and technology provide social and economic benefits for Canadians.

Legislation

- The Canadian Space Agency Act.

Organization

Executive Offices

The President and the Executive Vice-President are the chief executive officers of the Canadian Space Agency. They are assisted by the Vice-President Operations, the Vice-President Research and Applications, the Director General Policy and External Relations and the Director General Corporate Services. A Legal Advisor and an Audit and Evaluation Committee are also part of the executive offices.

Operations

- Canadian Astronaut Program Office

The Canadian Astronaut Program maintains and trains astronauts to encourage and support the development and execution of Canadian scientific and technological programs in space, including the international Space Station Program. Canada's Astronauts collaborate with industry, universities and other institutes to undertake research that can be classified in two broad categories; space life sciences related to the adaptation of humans to microgravity, and applied sciences research to develop hardware and experiments to fly in microgravity. This type of research contributes to the development of new medical techniques and treatments, contributes to the advancement of space exploration, and may lead to the development of new products and processing techniques.

- RADARSAT Program Office

This office is responsible for managing the design, development, construction, testing and operation of the RADARSAT remote sensing satellite system in cooperation with several provincial governments, the private sector (Radarsat International), NASA and NOAA. The RADARSAT system is Canada's first remote sensing satellite system and will utilize a synthetic aperture radar to produce map-like images of the earth regardless of weather conditions. The images will have scientific and commercial applications in the monitoring of natural resources, navigation, and environmental monitoring.

- Space Station Program Office

The Canadian Space Station Program Office is responsible for management and control of Canada's participation in the international Space Station Freedom project, as it relates to design, development, construction, testing, operation, utilization and evolution of the Mobile Servicing System (MSS). This includes the Strategic Technologies in Automation and Robotics (STEAR) program for development within Canada's industry and research community of advanced technology capabilities to support evolution of the MSS. The Office also funds the User Development Program (UDP), aimed at developing Canadian universities and industry as users of Space Station.

Research and Applications

- David Florida Laboratory

The David Florida Laboratory (DFL) is Canada's national facility for the environmental testing and integration of spacecraft, spacecraft subsystems and space-based hardware. It supports the Canadian aerospace and communications industries by operating environmental test facilities simulating conditions in space, by providing expert consultation on test programs and by developing integration and test techniques required for modern spacecraft.

- Space Technology

The Space Technology Branch conducts a program of research and development through three Directorates; Space Mechanics, Space Systems and Space Optical Technology. Also with the Branch is a R & D Contracts Office, with responsibility for technology transfer and intellectual property overview.

- Space Mechanics

The Space Mechanics Directorate conducts a program of research and technology transfer by: providing a focus and leadership for generic space technology research in Canada; providing R&D support to major space project and activities; maintaining a source of scientific/technical advice within the Agency, for Agency planning and pre-major-program activities; providing a focus for Canadian cooperation with international groups, in space technology research; and providing an environment in Canada for development of human resources with space technology orientation. Current research activities include: dependable processing systems, knowledge based systems, control of large space structures, robot controls, sensor technology, materials & structures, thermal control technology, composite materials, dynamics/test of space structures, robot dynamics, and in-orbit characterization of SSRMS.

Space Science Program

This division is responsible for all space science related activities in Canada falling within the disciplines of Aeronomy and Space Physics, Astronomy and Life and Materials sciences in the Microgravity environment. The Division seeks out opportunities and encourages Canadian scientific participation in international programs and, participates in national and international space programs through the design, development, construction, testing provision and operation of major facilities and scientific instruments.

Policy and External Relations

Communications

The Directorate develops and implements a communications and public relations plan to support the Canadian Space Program and to respond to public interest. This strategic plan is based on a detailed environmental analysis which is also produced by the Directorate. A key role of the Directorate is to provide advice to the Minister, the Agency's senior management, and program managers on communications issues. In carrying out its functions, the Agency produces and distributes information and promotional materials to the media and to the general public, and monitors media coverage of the Canadian Space program. The Directorate provides an essential communications support to Agency as a whole.

External Relations

The Directorate provides strategic direction, support and expertise to the Agency in the areas of international and federal/provincial relations. It identifies opportunities for cooperation and opens doors to the Canadian space industry in the international market. Working in conjunction with a range of foreign space agencies, industries and international organizations to expand support for Canada's expertise in space, the Directorate manages the Agency's international cooperation MOUs and is the focal point for the Agency's relations with other federal government departments.

Policy

The Directorate co-ordinates, analyses and develops policy initiatives, strategies and priorities respecting Canada's participation in national and international space programs. It serves as the focal point for coordinating space activities, provides essential support in the development of Canada's Long Term Space Plan and assesses progress made towards achieving Canada's space policy objectives.

Corporate Services

Administration and Information Management

The Administration and Information Management Directorate is responsible for ensuring that the Agency is provided with efficient and effective integrated systems to support operations, research, administration and management needs, and plans, develops, and implements programs in the areas of information technologies, management of information holdings, facilities management, and telecommunications. The Directorate also maintains the inventory of assets, handles customs clearances, provides mail service and manages the security program of the Agency.

Contracts Administration

The Contracts Administration division has the responsibility for providing contracts and procurement services to all sectors of the Agency. It also provides recommendations and advice on new laws, regulations, policies and directives related to contracting.

Ottawa Liaison Office

The Ottawa Liaison Office is primarily responsible for facilitating the day-to-day interactions of the Canadian Space Agency with the Minister's Office. This office coordinates the parliamentary liaison activities and is the custodian of Cabinet documents. It also coordinates Access to Information and Privacy Requests.

Finance

The Finance Directorate is responsible for the development, direction and coordination of financial policies, procedures, systems and controls within the Canadian Space Agency; for ensuring that the requirements for acquisition, control and disbursement of funds, budgets and financial assets are met; for coordinating and preparing the Multi-Year Operational Plan and Estimates; for maintaining accurate financial and management accounting records; and for designing and producing corporate financial reports for all Agency activities.

Human Resources

The Human Resources Directorate is responsible for the planning, development and implementation of sound, pro-active and progressive policies and personnel programs, needed to successfully locate, recruit, develop, effectively utilize and retain high calibre scientific, technical and support staff to meet the growing demands for space technology expertise within the Canadian Space Agency. The Directorate's activities focus on classification, staffing, compensation, staff relations, training and development and human resources planning. These activities assist managers in assuming their personnel management responsibilities.

Official Languages

The Official Languages Directorate is responsible for the interpretation, application, and monitoring of federal government official languages' policies and programs within the Canadian Space Agency and by third parties acting on its behalf as well as for adapting these policies to the Agency's operational context.

■ St-Hubert Project Office

The St-Hubert project office is responsible for the delivery of the future Agency's Headquarters in St-Hubert within the approved project definition and cost and within the established target dates. It supervises all of the project activities, from project definition to project delivery and post occupancy study It also advises the Corporate Services Management on all matters related to realty management, maintenance and construction.

The Canadian Wheat Board

Chapter 31

General Information

NOTE: THE CANADIAN WHEAT BOARD IS NOT SUBJECT TO THE ACCESS TO INFORMATION ACT.

Background

The Canadian Wheat Board was established by the Canadian Wheat Board Act in 1935 to provide for the orderly marketing of wheat, and since 1949, oats and barley, produced in the area designated by the Act. The marketing of oats was removed from the Board in 1989.

Responsibilities

The Board is obliged by law to purchase wheat and barley offered to it for sale by producers at an elevator or railway car and to pay an initial payment for same in accordance with the Act. The Board is then obliged to market this grain in interprovincial and international markets. The surplus proceeds received upon sale and available for distribution are divided equitably among the producers delivering grain to the Board after the initial payment made to the producers and the Board's operation costs are deducted. The Board is also responsible for administering a delivery quota system which is designed to ensure equality of delivery opportunity among producers wishing to deliver grain for sale in interprovincial and international markets to elevators and railway cars. The Board also administers the Prairie Grain Advance Payments Act pursuant to which advance payments are made to producers undertaking to deliver wheat and barley as quotas permit.

Personal Information Banks

Grain Growers Advance Payment Records
This bank is used to record the value of cash advances issued and refunds received from grain growers under the Prairie Grain Advance Payments Act. The information gathered is used to monitor the grower's repayment of monies advanced. Repayment is conditional on the grower's delivery and sale of grain as soon as he or she is able to do so. The information is shared with grain companies that act as agents of the Board in making and collecting cash advances. The information is summarized and controlled as required by the federal government. As of August 1990, it will be shared with those lending institutions specified by the producer which have a lien against the grain. Files are retained for three years following the retirement of the advance payment. Bank Number: CWB PPU 010

Grain Growers Delivery Records
This bank contains a record of each producer certificate issued to a grower by a grain company, in payment for the grower's delivery of grain to the Board account. The growers delivery records are the basis for equitable distribution of profits realized from the sale of grain by the Canadian Wheat Board. The information produces statistical statements by district(s), grain company and type of grain. It is shared with Revenue Canada, Employment and Immigration Canada for unemployment insurance purposes and provincial crop insurance organizations. Files are retained for seven years. Bank Number: CWB PPU 015

Grain Growers Payment Records
This bank contains a record of each payment made to grain growers which resulted from an increase in the price paid for grain or from the profits realized from the sale of grain by the Canadian Wheat Board. The information is maintained to control the value of payments and monitor bank cashings, lost cheques, uncashed cheques, etc. Statements are produced showing the value of payments by district(s), kind of grain, date of issuance, date of bank clearance and for other control purposes. Information in this bank is shared with Revenue Canada, Agriculture Canada's NISA and GRIP programs, and in the case of non-resident producers with their representatives in Canada and the Bank of Montreal. Files are retained for seven years. Bank Number: CWB PPU 005

Grain Growers Permit Records
This bank is used to establish and maintain a record of each grain growers' entitlement to market grain under the quota system. Under the authority of the Canadian Wheat Board Act, this bank may contain the Social Insurance Numbers of those producers who chose to supply them. The permit book application information is used to monitor and record grain growers' delivery and sale of grain to Board Account and verify grain growers' entitlement for Cash Advances under the Prairie Grain Advance Payments Act. The grower's name and address are used to distribute profits realized from the sale of grain. Summary statements are produced by district(s) and type of grain for planning purposes. Information in this bank is used to prepare voters' lists for Canadian Wheat Board Advisory committee elections. Various components of the information are also shared with Revenue Canada, Agriculture Canada (including its Special Canadian Grains Program, the Drought Assistance Program and its NISA and GRIP programs), Canada Customs for inter-provincial and export licences, provincial crop insurance organizations, various other provincial institutions, departments and related commodity groups and universities for consistent use purposes and the grain companies who are agents of the Board. Files are retained for seven years. Bank Number: CWB PPU 020

Communications Canada

Chapter 32

General Information

Background

The role of the Department of Communications is to encourage the growth of national and international telecommunications, broadcasting networks and facilities, and to anticipate and plan for change by conducting research into communications and space technology. It manages and regulates the airwaves, ensuring the efficient use of the radio spectrum. In recognition of the increasingly close link between culture and communications, the Department was given responsibility in 1980 for the federal government's arts and culture program, and for a number of cultural agencies.

Responsibilities

In the field of telecommunications, the Department is concerned with the electronic means of creating, processing, storing, distributing, displaying, accessing and exchanging information. Its activities are focused on broadcasting, communications research, spectrum management, the promotion and development of the telecommunications industry and on Canada's role in satellite communications. Its clientele consists largely of private and public sector institutions that either manufacture equipment or provide services. In the cultural field, the Department is concerned with a host of public and private institutions and with the cultural content that flows through electronic and non-electronic channels of communications. It includes among its clients the creators and administrators of cultural content.

Legislation

- Bell Canada Act
- British Columbia Telephone Company Act
- Broadcasting Act
- Canada Council Act
- Canadian Film Development Corporation Act
- Canadian Radio-television and Telecommunications Commission Act
- Copyright Act
- Cultural Property Export and Import Act
- Department of Communications Act
- Investment Canada Act
- National Archives of Canada Act
- National Arts Centre Act
- National Film Act
- National Library Act
- National Museums Act
- National Telecommunications Powers and Procedures Act
- National Transportation Act and Railway Act (telegraphs and telephones)
- Radiocommunication Act
- Teleglobe Act
- Telegraphs Act
- Telesat Canada Act

Organization

The Department of Communications is headed by the deputy minister and supported by one senior assistant deputy minister responsible for Corporate Policy and five assistant deputy ministers who are responsible for the following sectors: Research and Spectrum, including the Government Telecommunications Agency; Regional Operations; Corporate Management; Arts and Heritage; Communications Policy; and Quebec Sector.

Eleven agencies in the communications and cultural field report to Parliament through the Minister of Communications. The Minister of Communications is also responsible to Parliament for the Canadian Radio-television and Telecommunications Commission (CRTC), which regulates broadcasters, cable services and national telecommunications services.

■ Corporate Policy Sector

This Sector coordinates the activities of the Department's regional offices in all aspects of the portfolio; develops Canada's policy on international aspects of communications and culture; integrates and harmonizes policy within the Department; develops and disseminates policy, program and regulation information to the communications and cultural industries and the general public; and provides legal advice to the Department.

International Relations: Develops and implements policies, programs and strategies required at the international level to promote, protect and achieve national communications and cultural interests and objectives. It is responsible for ensuring that significant international developments and factors are taken into account in the formulation of national communications and cultural policies; and for the effectiveness of the Department's representation in all bilateral and multilateral negotiations and activities affecting Canadian communications and cultural interests. This involves preparing and negotiating film and video co-production agreements with key foreign countries; promoting the international marketing of Canadian cultural products; and coordinating Canadian presentations to such international organizations as the International Telecommunication Union and UNESCO, including preparation of Canadian proposals and negotiating strategies in consultation with the private sector and provinces, in order to ensure that future Canadian requirements can be achieved within established international conventions. In addition, it provides policy guidance regarding international trade and aid to developing nations; participates in international space communications activities such as INTELSAT and INMARSAT; and provides spectrum coordination with the United States in border areas. Finally, it provides international comparative analyses and strategic advice on a range of policy issues.

Regional Operations: Responsible for establishing and managing coordinated relations between DOC's head office, four regional offices and the Quebec Sector, in order to support the development of federal government policies and objectives in communications and culture: It provides coordination for the delivery by the regions of Departmental programs such as the Museum Assistance Program (MAP), the Cultural Initiatives Program (CIP), the Communications Applications Program (CAP) and Public Information programs. The Branch also: acts as advisor on the negotiations of regional development agreements on communications or culture with the provinces; initiates and coordinates multilateral activities with the provinces, including the organization of Ministerial conferences and participation in multilateral committees; ensures that coherent operations are maintained at the national level through common processes and administrative mechanisms across all regions, and; represents the regions on different committees and working groups.

Information Services Branch: Plans and implements information activities to facilitate communications between the Department and the public, as well as communications within the Department. It provides information on the policies, programs and activities of the Department and informs departmental managers of the interests and concerns of the public and client organizations as expressed in the media and through correspondence, public meetings and direct contact with information officers. Methods include planning communications programs and activities.

Strategy and Plans Branch: Responsible for ensuring coherence and consistency with overall government priorities, for all departmental endeavours, including policies, programs, regulations and legislation. It provides direction in the development of policy in the fields of communications and culture. The Branch also provides briefings to the Minister on all major departmental and agency proposals submitted to Cabinet as well as those of other departments which have implications for the Department of Communications. This involves the implementation and management of the corporate strategic and policy planning for the Department; the management and coordination of departmental parliamentary business including legislative initiatives; the management of Cabinet business for the Department, including liaison with central agencies; the conduct of medium to longer term strategic planning, environmental scanning and forecasting, the development and coordination of corporate statistics; and the conduct of fiscal analysis and special projects with cross-sectoral implications.

Program Evaluation: Conducts comprehensive, objective and timely evaluations of departmental programs and their results, develops evaluation frameworks for new programs and responds to additional requests from senior management for evaluation information in order to support the corporate priority-setting process and to conform to the requirements of the Office of the Comptroller General.

Internal Audit Directorate: Undertakes independent and systematic reviews and assessments of organizational components, operations, activities and programs of the Department, so that it may provide objective information to senior management on the degree of efficiency, and cost-effectiveness of management policies, practices and controls. It also assesses the extent of compliance with government acts and regulations, central agency and departmental policies and policy guidelines and ensures that public funds and assets are adequately protected.

■ Research and Spectrum Sector

The overall objective of the Sector is to foster the orderly development and use of communications, information and broadcast systems, services and infrastructure to meet Canadian economic, social and cultural needs. Communications services are improved and extended by increasing the scientific and technical expertise of government, industry and the scientific community in the fields of telecommunications and informatics, and by promoting the development and exploitation of advanced technologies and standards in the fields of telecommunications and informatics by Canadian industry for both domestic and world markets. The Sector is also responsible for ensuring the accommodation of as many users of the radio frequency spectrum as possible with a minimum of interference. It also promotes the development and growth of radio and controls spectrum use by Canadian broadcasters, operators and radio licence holders and protects Canada's rights and interests regarding spectrum use through international agreements and regulations. Other activities intended to improve communications services involve the planning, coordination and management of telecommunications services and facilities that satisfy the requirements of federal departments and agencies at the lowest possible cost through a revolving fund. The Sector has undertaken a project to electronically link all members of the management category and to provide them with access to information in support of their collective strategic mandate.

Communications Development and Planning Branch: Relies on its own specialists and co-operates with other departments and agencies to foster the orderly and efficient development and application of advanced information and communications technologies in Canadian industries creating, manufacturing and marketing those technologies for domestic and foreign markets. The Branch also:

– provides early information on the opportunities and threats for Canada resulting from new developments in communications-related sciences and technologies, and from changes in the regulatory, industrial, social and economic environments, in Canada and abroad;

– is responsible to develop and maintain departmental policies and plans based on this knowledge in the field of advanced communications and information technologies;

– assists the communications and informatics industries in exploring opportunities at home and abroad for goods and services through in-house economic analysis, marketing support, technological expertise and research and development;

– is responsible for the development, procurement and implementation of new or improved communications products and services developed by government research laboratories and in industry. These products and services are intended to meet user requirements in areas and regions of Canada; and – is responsible for the establishment of appropriate institutes for the application of such technological innovation across Canada.

Government Telecommunications Agency (GTA): Provides common and customized telecommunications services to federal departments and agencies and carries out the function of the telecommunications architect for the government. It is responsible for planning, establishing and managing telecommunications facilities and services to economically satisfy the needs of federal departments and agencies. Designated as a Special Operating Agency, whose services are optional to departments and agencies, the GTA is financed through a revolving fund and is managed on a fully cost revenue dependent basis. The Agency is included in the Research and Spectrum Sector to facilitate the realization of mutual benefits between telecommunications research and the application of technology in the delivery of telecommunication services to the government. GTA will implement, as appropriate, communications and information handling technologies in the government environment.

Communications Technologies Research Branch: Brings together the research activities relevant to two major techniques used to transport information, i.e. satellites and radio. The Branch also supports other areas of the Department of Communications in carrying out its statutory responsibilities to define telecommunications policy and to carry out radio spectrum management. It meets both civil and military needs through the management of a major recoverable military communications program on behalf of the Department of National Defence. This activity also includes the Mobile Satellite (MSAT) Program.

Communications Devices and Components Research Branch: Concerned with the generic electronic technologies needed to process, structure and manipulate signals in civil and military communications and information systems. The Branch is also committed to ensuring the timely availability of these technologies in an effort to meet Departmental objectives in telecommunications, information management, broadcasting and culture.

Broadcast Technologies Research Branch: Conducts research into the technical and user aspects of advanced television, advanced sound(radio) and new broadcast media, and undertakes investigation into overall systems concepts and network configurations for the integration, interworking and standardization of entertainment and information systems and services. This research supports the Department of Communications in discharging its responsibilities in defining standards, regulating and managing the spectrum, developing broadcasting, telecommunications and cultural policies, fostering industrial development through technology transfer, and serving the general public interest in broadcasting.

Systems Interconnection Research: Conducts advanced research in the area of systems interconnection with emphasis on Open Systems issues and international standardization. This work is carried out through in-house activities, contracted work to industry and collaborative projects with foreign and domestic organizations. This Branch is also responsible for the department's Standards Program Office (SPO). The SPO provides coordination, analysis and recommendations on strategic issues in standards and on standards-related activities across the department.

Senior Executive Network/Informatics Management Branch: The two branches have been amalgamated.

The Senior Executive Network is managing an information and messaging service available to Deputy Ministers and Assistant Deputy Ministers which will be extended to Directors General in 1991-1992 and later on to Directors. A range of government information is provided through the network: appointments, vacancies, statistics, Orders-in-Council, professional development opportunities, United Way Campaign, information on Cabinet committees and a government-wide daily journal "The Mandarin" (produced by SEN).

The Informatics Management Branch manages corporate informatics systems and provides assistance regarding information and communications systems and computer services to other sectors within the Department.

Management and Plans Branch: Has the mandate to prepare, implement and control all programs, activities and plans that fall under the authority and accountability of ADMRS, including budgetary, personnel and administrative matters.

Radio Regulation Branch: Develops regulatory and operational policies as well as regulations governing the orderly use of the spectrum, in view of the changing needs of Canadians and technological advances. Through the Emergency Telecommunications Planning program, the Branch plans and prepares to ensure that Canada's telecommunications resources are able to provide essential communications for government, industry and the public during national emergencies, including war.

Broadcast Regulation Branch: Responsible for the management of the broadcast frequency spectrum; certification of broadcasting stations; the development of broadcasting technical regulations, procedures, and standards; and the development and maintenance of computer systems needed to support the technical regulation of broadcasting. It is also responsible for the establishment of standard broadcast engineering methods and practices; the technical aspects relating to broadcasting in International Telecommunication Union activities; the negotiation of bilateral broadcast spectrum sharing arrangements and operational procedures with the USA and other countries; and the support of policy development.

Engineering Programs Branch: Responsible for standards development activity; the establishment of standard engineering methods, procedures and practices; frequency allocation plans, providing specialized engineering support for unusual or innovative application of radio; development of regulations for radio interference, and the terminal attachment program. It is also responsible for engineering support to policy formulation; the development of the necessary computer tools for spectrum management assistance systems; carrying out the Department's type approval certification; the technical aspects of international activities associated with the International Radio Consultative Committee (CCIR) and the World Administrative Radio Conferences (WARC); other international activities such as negotiating bilateral sharing arrangements with the United States and other countries, and the transfer of spectrum management technology to Canadian industry in support of promotion of exports.

Terminal Attachment Program: Ensures the orderly introduction of customer-owned telecommunications terminal equipment designed for connection to the telecommunications carriers' networks. More specifically, it develops technical standards for terminal attachments, certifies equipment and lends technical support to the CRTC to resolve associated technical disputes.

■ Corporate Management Sector

This Sector is responsible for providing essential support services to the programs of the Department. These include the following: financial services, administrative and technical services, official languages, personnel services and security, and communications support services.

Security and Communications Support Services Branch: In addition to the services provided to the Department in the areas of security education, enforcement and clearances, health, safety and fire prevention, the Branch provides support to other departments and agencies that do not possess their own expertise in the area of communications and electronic security. It works closely with other divisions of the Department, other government institutions and industry to promote security technology in general, and the development of security in information technology.

■ Arts and Heritage Sector

The Arts and Heritage Sector is responsible for the formulation of policies and design of programs in the fields of the performing, literary and visual arts, museums, heritage, archaeology and aboriginal culture, in order to stimulate an increased sense of identity and belonging among Canadians; advises the Minister on policies and programs across the federal cultural portfolio; administers programs and regulations assigned to the Department and provides support to cultural national organizations and international festivals.

Heritage Policy Branch: Responsible for the development and coordination of national museums and heritage policies, liaison with national heritage organizations and coordination of the Department's heritage programs. The Branch is also responsible for encouraging and supporting the preservation of the national heritage and increasing public access to that heritage. It is also responsible for the administration of the Cultural Property Export and Import Act.

Arts and Policy Planning Branch: Responsible for providing support to the sector by developing long-term strategic policies; for strategic policy analysis and specialized policy support on issues which are cross-sectoral in nature and for directing the conduct of research programs involving data collection and analysis. It is also responsible for the development of a comprehensive arts policy and the development of the Department's support programs in the field of the performing, visual, literary and media arts, design and crafts. As well, the Branch implements and delivers certain cultural support measures such as legislative proposals and financial assistance programs, e.g. Cultural Initiatives Program, contributes to the improvement of Canada's cultural infrastructure. As of September 1991, the day to day management of the Cultural Initiatives Program will reside in the Department's regional offices, although the Branch will remain responsible for policy and issues of national and international consequence.

■ Communications Policy Sector

The Communications Policy Sector is responsible for the development of policies in the areas of telecommunications, broadcasting, film, video, sound recording, copyright, telematics and new media that will promote the distinct Canadian sovereignty and the distinct nature and identity in these areas, protect and enhance the well being of these key economic sectors, and for ensuring that Canada's interests in these areas are effectively represented in the international arena.

Broadcasting Policy Branch: Formulates policies, proposes legislation and designs and administers programs in relation to the Canadian broadcasting system. It is responsible for ensuring that the Canadian broadcasting system contributes to the realization of Canadian social, cultural and economic objectives; enhancing the production and exhibition of Canadian television and radio programming and their availability to Canadians; and providing advice concerning the implementation of policies and programs by the independent agencies responsible for these activities including the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation (CBC), the Canadian Radio-Television and Telecommunications Commission (CRTC) and Telefilm Canada. Provides advice in relations to responsibilities of the Minister under the Broadcasting Act with respect to the issuance of policy directions to the CRTC and the review of CRTC broadcasting decisions.

Telecommunications Policy: The legal basis of the program derives from the responsibilities of the Minister of Communications as described in the following Acts (and regulations made pursuant to them):

– Department of Communications Act;
– Radiocommunications Act;
– Railway Act;
– Canadian Radio-Television and Telecommunications Act;
– National Telecommunications Powers and Procedures Act;
– Telegraphs Act;
– Telesat Act;
– Teleglobe Act;
– Broadcasting Act;
– Bell Canada Act; and

– British Columbia Telephone Company Act.
The program formulates policies, recommendations, regulations and legislation governing and promoting the orderly development and efficient operation of the telecommunications facilities and services required by Canadians for national and international communications, including the present and future use of the radio frequency spectrum. Develops and proposes timely and relevant policies to enhance the provision of efficient telecommunications services and facilities to all Canadians, pertaining to: the respective roles of competition and regulation in the provision of telecommunications services; effective national and international telecommunications networks and interworking standards; technical, financial and regulatory aspects of the industry and effective utilization of the radio frequency spectrum and the geostationary orbit.

Cultural Industries Branch: Formulates national policies, proposes legislation, designs and administers programs in the fields of copyright, film and video, sound recording and publishing. It is responsible for supporting the cultural and economic development of the cultural industries in Canada; enhancing the production and distribution of Canadian films, video programs, sound recording, books and periodicals and to ensure their availability to Canadians; ensuring, through the development of copyright policy and legislation, the legal recognition and protection of the economic and moral rights of creators and users and providing advice concerning the implementation of policies and programs by the cultural agencies which are consistent with the federal government's cultural policy and objectives.

Telematics and New Media: Addresses policy issues and proposes program initiatives in the areas of telematics and new media. Advances in computer and communications technologies have produced major changes in the means of distributing information and cultural values. The provision of telecommunications network-based information services ("Telematics") and the distribution of advanced computer-based audio/visual services ("New Media") are thus becoming increasingly important both as a source of economic activity and as a vehicle for cultural expression.

■ Quebec Sector

The Quebec Sector is responsible for providing adequate access to Canadian cultural and communications products and services and promoting the orderly development of communications systems essential to the integrity and social, cultural and economic development of Canadians. It participates in the development and utilization of the broadcast frequency spectrum; it promotes new communications and informatics technologies and provides federal departments and agencies with telecommunications services.

It administers services and programs relating to broadcasting, cable, sound recording, book publishing, copyright, museums and heritage, performing arts, literature and the visual arts.

Regional Development Branch: Responsible for the operational management of all programs within the Department's mandate in the fields of communications and culture in the province of Quebec. It is also responsible for the promotion of basic regional dimensions in the policy development process in the fields of arts, broadcasting, information technology, cultural industries, informatics, museums, telecommunications and heritage. It implements the Department's Mission by developping and implementing programs, activities and projects for the various Quebec client groups. It manages the Cultural Initiatives Program and the Museum Assistance Program in Quebec, and the Sound Recording Development Program for the entire country. It also represents the Department in its dealings with the other levels of government, the business community and the public at large in Quebec.

Workplace Automation Research Directorate: Responsible for leading-edge applied research on information and communications technologies. It works closely with other directorates within the department, other departments, private organizations, and the Canadian scientific community to develop a solid base of skills and expertise in Canada. The directorate's activities relate to technological, human and organizational dimensions of information and communications technologies. Through national joint projects which foster cooperation between various groups of specialists, this directorate provides a forum for exchanging information on workplace automation.

Spectrum Management and District Operations Branch: Housed in one regional office, four district offices, four satellite offices and one regional spectrum service center. Services relating to spectrum management are made available to the public through these locations. The directorate designs and administers the regional aspects of departmental programs, and advises the assistant deputy minister on regional issues and concerns. The district and satellite offices provide public liaison for the department in all aspects of its mandate. While their primary role is to ensure the orderly development and utilization of telecommunications in Canada, they also provide liaison with the general public, industry, governments and universities in matters relating to the departmental mandate. This directorate is also responsible for providing federal departments and agencies with telecommunications services.

■ Regional Offices

Atlantic Region, Ontario Region, Central Region, Pacific Region: Also involves district and sub-offices and monitoring stations. The Regional Offices assumes overall responsibility on any matters that flows from the Department's mandate, including federal-provincial relations. The Atlantic Region is responsible for the Department's presence in Prince-Edward-Island, Nova Scotia, New Brunswick and Newfoundland. The Central Region has responsibility over Manitoba, Saskatchewan, Alberta and the NorthWest Territories while the Pacific Region's responsibilities cover British Columbia and the Yukon. The regions and their associated districts are the delivery points for the spectrum management activities. In addition, they are responsible for the delivery of departmental programs such as the Museum Assistance Program (MAP) and the Cultural Initiatives Program (CIP). They are also responsible for the negotiation and delivery of Economic Regional Development Agreements as well as other regional activities of the Government Telecommunications Agency (GTA), Public Affairs and Communications and Culture. They provide an interface with the public, industry, governments at all levels, and universities.

Advanced Devices and Reliability

Description: Information pertaining to research and development of new microelectronic devices and circuits, particularly those based on compound semiconductor materials such as gallium arsenide (GaAs), and the evaluation of these materials in regard to their suitability for device and circuit fabrication. Topics: Device and circuit fabrication processes and evaluations; GAAs high-speed logic optoelectronic devices and circuits for data processing; and broadband switching applications. Program Record Number: COM COM 141

Behaviourial Research

Description: This bank contains reports, studies, field trial evaluations, surveys and interviews involving individual reactions, views and opinions related to the intellectual, creative and productive capabilities of human beings in information communication and related processes, especially human perceptual and cognitive processes, human behaviour, and the interaction between people and communications technology. The reports themselves, published or unpublished, reflect collective human behaviour and not personal information about an individual. Personal information may be obtained in the process of preparing a report to establish the identity and credibility of the source. This information is not used for administrative purposes and is not arranged or retrievable by personal identifiers. This form of personal information is normally retrievable only if specifics are provided concerning the report involved. The retention of information depends on the length of time it is needed for related research. It is active for the fiscal years that the project is active; otherwise, active for the current fiscal year and thereafter inactive but retrievable for the next two years, after which it is stored in archives. Program Record Number: COM BRT 155

Broadcast Engineering Database

Description: This bank contains technical and administrative information related to broadcasting certificates. The information is used in the issue, renewal and amendment of certificates under the Radiocommunications Act and in providing technical certification to the Canadian Radio-television and Telecommunications Commission (CRTC) to permit the issue of broadcast licenses under the Broadcasting Act. It is also used in meeting the technical criteria in bilateral agreements with the U.S.A. and agreements administered by the International Telecommunication Union (ITU). Some of this information is shared with: the Department of Transport to ensure that transmission of FM broadcasting stations do not interfere with aircraft communications; Energy, Mines and Resources Canada in preparing topographical maps; CRTC; Federal Communications Commission of the U.S.A. (FCC) related to the above agreements. Note: This record is also part of the Regional Offices. Program Record Number: COM SMB 201

Description: Information pertaining to research and development on the design, testing and application of GAAS monolithic microwave integrated circuits (MMIC), miniature hybrid microwave integrated circuits (MHMIC), components for use in the EHF frequency band, and the design and application of silicon very large scale integrated circuits (VLSI). Topics: MMIC components and devices; EHF MHMIC components; high speed digital components; and phased array antennas (for communications, radar and microwave landing system application). Program Record Number: COM COM 142

Emergency Telecommunications

Description: Information on emergency telecommunications planning in support of the Department's mandate summarized in Emergency Planning Order PC 1981-1305 dated May 21, 1981. Topics: Emergency preparedness and crisis management; interdepartmental, intergovernmental and international committees on civil emergency planning; emergency telecommunications programs and contingency plans; national warning system emergency planning and support by regions; NATO and U.S./Canada military and civil exercises. Note: This record is also part of the Regional Offices. Program Record Number: COM RDR 205

Engineering

Description: This class of documents contains information on technical standards and procedures for radio equipment and systems, the development and implementation of radio frequency plans and frequency assignment criteria. It also contains the Terminal Attachment Program standards and procedures. Topics: Equipment type approval; technical methods, practices, procedures and standards; development and engineering. Spectrum management: assignment and licensing subsystems, research, special projects, pilot projects, spectrum surveillance system, automated systems development. Note: This record is also part of the Regional Offices. Program Record Number: COM SMG 210

Financial and Regulatory Policy

Description: Policies relating to the regulation of the telecommunications industry. Topics: Telecommunications regulation; financial statistics. Program Record Number: COM TIP 061

Government Telecommunications Program

Description: The Government Telecommunications Agency provides a full range of telecommunications facilities and services for federal departments and agencies, including shared and customized voice and data systems, government of Canada telephone directories, and consulting and advisory services. In addition, the agency in consultation with departments and agencies carries out the Telecommunications Architect function, which is committed to the development of strategies and plans for government-wide telecommunications systems. Topics: Systems: data, dedicated, voice, shared, inter-city network consolidation, teleconferencing; coordination: guidelines and standards, inter-departmental coordination; telecommunications projects, research, policy and planning; surveys on voice-messaging. Program Record Number: COM TIT 120

Industry Development Program

Description: Involves the complementary activities of economic development, industry development and marketing support to promote effective government leadership in support of the satellite, informatics, and telecommunications industries. Topics: Program planning; policy reports and studies; industrial objectives and opportunities; industrial capabilities and requirements monitoring; government support; technology transfer coordination; marketing support; industrial research and development statistics, reports and studies on information technologies, radio communications, satellites and mobile communications. Program Record Number: COM DGI 111

Industry Structure and Services

Description: Policies relating to corporate relations and services in the telecommunications carriage industry. Topics: Legislation; competition; terms and conditions of service; terminal attachment. Program Record Number: COM TIP 046

Management and Plans

Description: Information on ADMRS sector management and planning activities. Topics: Budgets, financial accountability reports, person-year reports, staffing, classification, training, Treasury Board submissions, contracts, Main Estimates Science Addendum, data bases on international travel, conference attendance and personal computer usage. Program Record Number: COM DMG 196

Mobile Satellite Program

Description: The Mobile Satellite (MSAT) Program, begun in the latter part of 1980, exists to foster development of new mobile telecommunications services in Canada. The program has changed from a government demonstration system to a commercially led Canada-U.S. joint venture supported by both the Department and NASA. Under the revised program Telesat Canada is to seek agreements with an American commercial operator to be licensed by the FCC. Telesat is to design the system and procure the spacecraft. The Department's responsibilities during the implementation phase include supporting technology development for the spacecraft and ground terminals, supporting Telesat in negotiation of business arrangements in Canada and the United States, ensuring adequate spectrum allocation and sharing arrangements with the United States, issuing supportive telecommunications policies, and supporting Telesat by the sharing of technological and market risk in the first generation system. Topics: Program and project control; system and service description; committees and working groups; international liaison; domestic and international agreements; program development; contracts and studies plan; spectrum sharing and allocation; policy and regulatory issues. Program Record Number: COM CTR 090

Network Policy and Standards Management

Description: National policies related to the orderly development and implementation of telecommunications networks and standards, and management of the Canadian national effort in the CCITT or the ITU. Topics: Network development; standards policy; northern communications. Program Record Number: COM TIP 056

Optical Communications Technologies

Description: Information pertaining to research and development on optical communications and electrophotonics that have application in communications and informatics. Topics: Research on standards; field trials; optical computing and switching; optical and passive waveguides; military applications; fibre optics local networks. Program Record Number: COM COM 140

Radio Communications Technologies

Description: Research and development in the area of radio communications technology, and the performance of radio communications equipment in its operating environment for military and civil applications. Topics: Radio communications technology; radio frequency environment, radio systems techniques; radio communications surveillance; high-frequency radio findings, military communications. Program Record Number: COM CTR 135

Radio Propagation

Description: Information on the transmission of radio waves in the very low-frequency (VLF) through the extra high-frequency (EHF) bands and the design and management of analog and digital communication systems for both civilian and military applications. Topics: VHF/UHF propagation studies, experiments and modelling; International Satellites for Ionospheric Studies; Space Shuttle/Waves in Space Plasmas project; VLF/LF/MF/HF studies and models; microwave propagation studies and wireless environment local area networks; military communications technology, military communications systems; UHF/VHF prediction Program and Topographic Database. Program Record Number: COM CTR 130

Satellite Communications

Description: Information on the research and development of communications and other space systems and subsystems. Topics: Space communications systems research; military satellite communications; search and rescue satellite (SARSAT); mobile satellite communications; communications signal processing; low-cost satellite telephony terminals. Program Record Number: COM CTR 170

Spectrum and Orbit Policy

Description: Domestic telecommunications policies on spectrum and orbital allocations and radio systems. Topics: Frequency allocation policy; spectrum utilization policy; radio system policy; orbit policy. Program Record Number: COM TIP 051

Spectrum Management Operations

Description: This class of documents contains information on the application of the Radiocommunications Act and the development and administration of regulations. Topics: Call signs; procedures; standards and practices; regulations; spectrum management. Computer system operation: data management, Assignment Licensing System (PIB 2004), General Radio Service Licensing System. Interference: complaints and suppressions; prosecutions for unauthorized installations; Radio Operator Certification Records. Frequencies: coordination, amateur, experimental, private and public commercial, radio telephone, ships; monitoring (spectrum surveillance). Note: This record is also part of the Regional Offices. Program Record Number: COM RDR 195

Systems Interconnection Research

Description: Information on research and development in computer/data communications and information technology. Particularly comprehensive data on Open Systems Interconnection and standards. Information is held in the form of reports, studies, national standards, international standards and standards committee working documents. Topics: Open Systems Interconnection, Integrated Services Digital Networks, Standards, Conformance Testing, Systems Architecture, Text and Office Systems. Program Record Number: COM TIP 048

Technology and Policy Planning

Description: Information about technological trends and priorities and the technical, economic, institutional, regulatory and social impacts of those key technologies. Topics: Technology assessment, research environment, telecommunications program design and assessment; artificial intelligence, new video technologies, electronic publishing, information technology; Vision 2000 Project. Program Record Number: COM DGI 081

■ Quebec Sector

Canadian Workplace Automation Research Centre

Description: This class of documents contains information about the projects carried out at the Centre. Topics: Organizational research, multimedia systems, processing of natural languages, standardized technologies, implementation management, knowledge-based systems and cultural applications of information and communications technologies. Program Record Number: COM WKP 190

Complaints and Suppressions – Interference

This bank contains records pertaining to the investigation of complaints and recommended actions for suppression of radio interference. Each file contains the complainant's name and address and the nature of the complaint. Information was obtained to document the manner in which complaints are handled and to provide management with information and technical statistics of radio interference complaints. Only the technical information is released to the Canadian Standards Association and Comité internationale de standardisation des perturbations de radio as per international arrangements. These records are retained for 10 years (active for three and dormant for seven years). Bank Number: COM PPU 015

Prosecutions – Illegal Radio Installations

This bank holds records pertaining to prosecution for illegal radio installations. It contains the name and address of the individual or firm being prosecuted and the nature of the violation. This information relates to persons being prosecuted for Radiocommunication Act offenses. Information is collected in order to obtain authority to initiate legal actions. The information is shared with police agencies for the purpose of Radiocommunication Act prosecutions. Records in this bank are retained for 10 years (active for five and dormant for five years). Bank Number: COM PPU 020

Radio Operator Certificate Bank

This bank contains a listing by name of amateur and professional radio operators. It may contain operator examination results, citizenship, date and place of birth, class of certificate, certificate number and the date of issuance of the certificate. It may also contain a physical description of the certificate holder. This information relates to radio operators. Information was obtained in order to establish eligibility for radio operator certificates and to maintain a list of amateur and professional radio operators holding certificates of proficiency for the appropriate type of service. For amateurs, files are retained two years after the licence is invalid, for professionals – 20 years (five active and fifteen dormant). Operators examination results are retained five years (active for two and dormant for three). Radio Operator Certificate records are retained for 20 years (active for five and dormant for fifteen). Bank Number: COM PPU 005

Radio Station Licensing Data Bank

This bank contains non-broadcasting radio station licensing information, derived from applications submitted by applicants for radio station licences. It contains information such as radio frequencies, call signs, emissions, station location and personal data of applicants. This information relates to holders of radio licences. Information was obtained in order to license and control the use of all non-broadcasting radio station systems in Canada for the planning and management of the radio frequency spectrum. In particular, this bank is used in the frequency selection process for new or existing stations and in associated electromagnetic compatibility studies. It also provides information needed for the identification of sources of interstation interference, policy formulation, and frequency utilization study purposes. The licensee and licence-fee-accounting information is used as a basis for the collection of annual licence renewal fees. In most cases, the information which appears on the face of radio licences in the database is available for release upon request. Information such as names and addresses of licensees, assigned radio frequencies, call signs, emissions, band width and power is provided to selected government bodies, persons or companies in connection with frequency coordination procedures for station or system planning, for reference or for similar purposes. Part of this information is shared with the following organizations, agencies and government departments: the Department of Transport for licensing information on the invoicing of ship board radio traffic; the Canadian Coast Guard, to ascertain whether a vessel has a valid radio equipment licence prior to placing telephone calls or passing traffic; a call sign and or name is provided to the Search and Rescue Coordination Centre so that vessel/aircraft routes may be established to facilitate the location of lost vessels or aircraft; various agencies and organizations in Canada and the U.S. for coordination of frequencies and system parameters; Amateur organizations for membership surveys and drives; publishers of the Radio Amateur Call Book (Canada and the U.S.) for the name, address, level of certificate and call sign for the purpose of pursuing activities related to amateur radio; law enforcement agencies for investigations relating to offenses under the Radiocommunication Act; organizations providing radio services to the public in order to establish that their clientele is licensed; equipment suppliers to facilitate the commissioning of their clients' communications systems; and the Department of Transport, National Defence and other organizations to provide information on privately operated non-directional navigation beacons in the interest of safety. Finally, the Department releases certain information concerning amateur radio operators because it wishes to: promote the orderly handling of volunteer emergency communications; adhere to its international commitments as a member of the International Telecommunications Union; and foster the efficient communication between all amateurs. Bank Number: COM PPU 010

Systems Interconnection Research

Description: Information on memberships in national standards committees on telecommunications and information technology. Data bank also contains listings of organizations involved in standards development and exploitation in Canada. Purpose: For use in dissemination of information on standards and administering national standards committees. Bank Number: COM PPU 021

■ Corporate Management Sector

Access to Information and Privacy Request Data Bank

This bank contains the access to information and personal information request forms sent by individuals requesting access to departmental files, the replies to such requests and information related to their processing. It is used for processing requests only, and to report on the number of access and personal information requests received annually. The information was obtained in accordance with the Access to Information Act in order to facilitate the provision of access to departmental records. The information is used to produce the annual report to Parliament and quarterly reports to Treasury Board. It may also be requested through the Access to Information Act by the general public. In all cases, personal information is consistently protected. These records are retained for two years, and then forwarded to National Archives of Canada. Bank Number: COM PPU 035

Accounts Payable and Accounts Receivable

Description: This bank contains information on all monetary transactions between the Department and the public. This will also include information from the agencies collecting money on behalf of the Department. Class of Individuals: Private sector. Purpose: This information is used to account for all monies paid to or received from individuals or businesses. Retention and Disposal Standards: Information is retained for six years. TBS Registration: 002070 Bank Number: COM PPU 046

Applications for Employment

Description: This bank contains applications for employment with the Department. These requests usually consist of a letter and curriculum vitae. Applications are examined and considered for available or future positions. Class of Individuals: General public. Purpose: This information was not solicited but was provided voluntarily by individuals seeking employment with the Department. Retention and Disposal Standards: These records are retained in the Department for one year, then destroyed. TBS Registration: 001177 Bank Number: COM PPU 025

Applications for Personal Service Contracts

Description: This bank contains applications from individuals seeking consideration for contractual arrangements with the Department. It may contain personal characteristics, professional qualifications and assessments of the individuals' work. Class of Individuals: General public. Purpose: This information was not solicited, and was provided voluntarily by individuals seeking contractual arrangements with the Department. Retention and Disposal Standards: These records are kept in the Department for two years (active for two – dormant for four). TBS Registration: 001178 Bank Number: COM PPU 030

CNO/CCI Membership Lists

This bank is a computerized listing of Canadian members in the CNO/CCI (Canadian National Organization for the International Consultative Committees) and national study groups. The CCIs are technical consultative committees of the International Telecommunication Union. This information relates to the public and private sector individuals who participate in the CNO/CCI. This bank was compiled to maintain up-to-date membership lists of CNO/CCI committees and national study groups for mailing purposes. This file may be used in order to distribute the CNO/CCI manual and CCIR/CCITT study group documents, and correspondence. Records are retained for 15 years (active for five – dormant for ten). Bank Number: COM PPU 055

ITU Headquarters and Field Staffing Data Bank

This bank contains applications and curricula vitae sent by individuals seeking employment in the International Telecommunications Union (ITU). In some cases the applications are submitted to the ITU and copies are retained on file. In other cases where the applications are not forwarded to the ITU, they are kept in an inventory for possible future submission to the ITU. This information relates to the public with specialized knowledge of telecommunications. All applications for employment at the ITU are channelled through the International Relations Branch of the Department for transmission to the Public Service Commission, External Affairs and ultimately the ITU. The information is used, at the request of the applicants, for position application purposes. If requested by the general public through the Access to Information Act, personal information is protected. These records are retained for 15 years (active for five – dormant for ten), then forwarded to National Archives of Canada for selective retention. Bank Number: COM PPU 060

Personal Information Disclosed to Federal Investigative Bodies

Description: In accordance with subsection 8(4) of the Privacy Act, this bank has been established to retain copies of requests received from authorized federal investigative bodies for personal information pursuant to paragraph 8(2)(e) of the Act. Class of Individuals: Individuals about whom requests for personal information have been received, pursuant to paragraph 8(2)(e) of the Privacy Act, from federal investigative bodies for the purpose of enforcing a Canadian law or carrying out a lawful investigation. Purpose: The purpose of this bank is to permit the Privacy Commissioner to review disclosures made (under paragraph 8(2)(e) of the Privacy Act) to federal investigative bodies for the purpose of enforcing a Canadian or provincial law or carrying out a lawful investigation. Retention and Disposal Standards: Records are retained two years after the last administrative action. TBS Registration: 002264 Bank Number: COM PPU 036

Telecommunications

Description: This bank contains information regarding telecommunication equipment and services, long distance usage, telecommunication service orders, location of equipment and services, and the cost associated with this equipment and services. It includes lists of employees who are authorized to use long distance call codes for the government network. It also includes call detail recording information for all long distance calls placed from government telephones, or using governmental authorization codes, including originating number, number dialed, time call started, time call ended, duration of call, long distance route, and whether call was placed during business hours. Telephone numbers dialed may include any member of the general public who might be called by a government employee or from a government telephone. Since many government telephone numbers are identified with specific employees, the call patterns and numbers dialed may reveal information about a specific government employee. Class of Individuals: Employees of the Department. Purpose: The information is compiled in order to facilitate telecommunications management and the control of usage and accounting information. Consistent Uses: This information is used for expenditure forecasting and control, and day-to-day telecommunications management. Retention and Disposal Standards: These records are kept for three years, then destroyed. TBS Registration: 001179 Bank Number: COM PPU 040

Unsolicited Proposals

Description: The Department receives a wide variety of unsolicited proposals for projects. In those cases where a contract is awarded, the information is forwarded to the Accounts Payable personal information bank. In many cases, when funds are not available to entertain the proposal, the submission is retained in case funding should become available. Unsuccessful bids in response to a request for proposal may also be retained in case additional requirements arise. Submissions may contain names, addresses, resumés, and original ideas of the applicants. Class of Individuals: General public, scientific community, arts community. Purpose: Information was provided in order to facilitate the evaluation of proposals for funding, research grants and contracts, field trials, or cultural activities. Consistent Uses: Submissions may be forwarded with permission to other departments or agencies which may be interested. Retention and Disposal Standards: Records in this bank are retained for six years after completion and non-renewal (active for two – dormant for four). TBS Registration: 001181 Bank Number: COM PPU 050

Telephone Call Detail Information

This bank contains details of all commercial long distance calls and government intercity network calls placed from government telephones which are provided as part of GTA's Local Shared Service and all calls placed on the GTA intercity network using government authorization codes. For calls originating from GTA Local Shared Service telephones, the information includes the originating number, the number dialed, the intercity route taken, the date and time the call started and the duration of the call. For calls placed using authorization codes, the authorization code is added to the above information and the originating number will be replaced by an incoming trunk number. Telephone numbers dialed may include any telephone which is accessible on the commercial long distance network, the government intercity network or other dedicated departmental networks. People placing the calls include government employees, anyone who subscribes to GTA Local Shared Service, and anyone having access to a GTA-provided telephone. This includes Members of the House of Commons, Senators and their staffs; employees of agencies and Crown corporations included under Schedules 1 and 2 of the Financial Administration Act. Since many of the GTA-provided Local Shared Service Telephone numbers can be identified with a specific individual and call authorization codes are assigned to a specific individual by departments, the calling patterns and numbers dialed may reveal information about that individual. It can also reveal information about calls to a third party. GTA does not maintain in the call-detail files either the names to whom telephone numbers have been assigned or a list of which individuals have been assigned specific call authorization codes. Maintenance of this information, if necessary, is the responsibility of the department/agency which pays for the usage charges. GTA does maintain a separate directory database which is public knowledge and is published in government telephone directories either semi-annually or annually. The information is collected and processed to provide a basis for the billing of government departments/agencies for the charges incurred by GTA in providing the government intercity network; to provide particulars needed by departments/agencies to manage and control their use of GTA-provided network facilities and the resulting costs; to allow GTA to monitor, manage, control, forecast and plan the government intercity network. It is also used to monitor the performance of the network so that GTA can judge whether value has been received from the suppliers of the network. The information is provided to all GTA regional offices and to all government department/agency telecommunications officers or their authorized representatives so that they may manage and control their organization's use of the GTA intercity network, further allocate the costs within their department and ensure that the intercity network facilities are being used appropriately. GTA's retention period for detailed information is 6 months and 24 months for summary information. Bank Number: COM PPU 070

Telephone for the Speech Impaired

Description: The information in this bank describes people with severe speech impairment, including its primary cause, the person's place of residence, ability to use augmentative communications systems such as symbols and other means, the availability of and ability to use computers, and access to telephone lines. Class of Individuals: Speech-impaired individuals, including the following: cerebral palsy victims, mentally handicapped, hearing impaired (where adult reading comprehension is at or less than a Grade 4 level), aphasics (due to stroke, etc.) and those with emotional or behaviour disorders, including autism. Purpose: The purpose of this bank is to determine the number of Canadians with a severe speech impairment, the percentage using augmentative communications systems and the percentage using or having access to personal computers and telephone lines. Information received will enable the department to determine the best type of computers and telecommunications methods to use, and to identify possible test sites, based on needs and location of respondents. Consistent Uses: Information will be used to set up a trial of the BLISSCOM "telephone for the speech impaired". Disclosure of names will only be made with permission of the respondent, when that individual is invited by the Department of Communications to take part in the trial. Retention and Disposal Standards: Records are destroyed two years after the most recent administrative activity related to an individual case. TBS Registration: 002104 Bank Number: COM PPU 075

Classes of Personal Information

■ Research and Spectrum Sector

Behaviourial Research

This bank contains reports, studies, field trial evaluations, surveys, and interviews involving individual reactions, views and opinions related to the intellectual, creative and productive capabilities of human beings in information communication and related processes, especially human perceptual and cognitive processes, human behaviour and the interaction between people and communications technology. The reports themselves, published or unpublished, reflect collective human behaviour and not personal information about an individual. Personal information may be obtained in the process of preparing a report, to establish the identity and credibility of the source. This information is not used for administrative purposes and is not arranged by or retrievable by personal identifiers. This form of personal information is normally retrievable only if specifics are provided concerning the report involved. The retention of information depends on the length of time it is needed for related research. It is active for the fiscal years in which the project is active; otherwise, it is active for the current fiscal year; thereafter it is inactive but retrievable for the next two years, after which it is transferred to the National Archives of Canada.

■ Communications Sector

Canadian Audiovisual Certification

This class of documents contains personal information pertaining to the creative personnel employed in productions which have been submitted for certification to determine the eligibility of the production for the capital cost allowance program. It contains names, addresses, citizenship and remuneration paid. Information is not filed by personal identifier, but is filed with application forms for the production. Files are retained for five years and then transferred to National Archives of Canada for selective retention. (See also Program Records: COM ACI 255 – Canadian Audio-Visual Certification Office).

Book Publishing Industry Development Program

This class of documents contains separate files for each application for funding under the Book Publishing Industry Development Program. Files contain information about the corporate and financial status of the book publishers or industry groups involved. Personal information retained could include citizenship, nationality and other personal and financial information of company presidents, vice-presidents and shareholders. The information is used to determine eligibility for funding under the program. Files are retained for seven years and are then forwarded to National Archives of Canada for selective retention. (See also Program Records: COM ACI 250 – Book Publishing Industry Development Program).

■ Arts and Heritage Sector

Canadian Heritage Information Network

This class of personal information is pertinent to the collection of museum objects by Canadian museums. This information is part of the national inventory of museum collections which is used by museums in the management of their collections. The documents may contain references to individuals with whom Canadian museums deal in relation to collecting. Also contained is basic biographical information on Canadian artists. The records are created and supplied by Canadian museums and are maintained as long as is necessary for their management.

Insurance Program for Travelling Exhibitions

This class of personal information contains applications and supporting documentation submitted by museums, galleries, archives and libraries seeking insurance coverage for exhibitions which they organize and host. These documents contain the names and addresses of lenders of objects to the exhibition, as well as a description and the monetary value of the objects being loaned. This information is not filed by personal identifier, but rather by title of the exhibition. This information is used to determine the eligibility of the exhibition for insurance coverage through the program and for the preparation of insurance certificates for lenders to the exhibition. Records are retained for seven years, then transferred to the National Archives of Canada for selective retention. (See also Program Records: COM MHP 270 – Travelling Exhibitions: Applications for Insurance).

Cultural Initiatives Program

This class of personal information contains applications and supporting documentation submitted by cultural organizations seeking financial assistance for their activities. These documents may contain personal information pertaining to the directors and officers of cultural organizations including names, addresses and earnings. As well, the curriculum vitae of participants and/or expert advisors to the proposed activity may be held on file. This information is not filed by personal identifier but rather by cultural organization or activity title. This information was compiled to assess applications for funding of special projects under the program including management development projects, capital projects and special events such as festivals or conferences, etc. Records are retained for seven years, then transferred to National Archives of Canada for selective retention.

Arts and Culture Organizations Inventory/EDP

This class holds records pertaining to organizations identified on a regional basis. The information at present consists of name, address, contact and phone number. The class is to be up-dated on an ongoing basis and used for making announcements, organizing meetings and preparing correspondence, as well as possibly identifying eventual recipients to be sent survey questionnaires. These files are retained for seven years.

Labour Market Study

Part 1 of this bank contains personal information on approximately 1200 employees of the museums across Canada and responses to questions on training and professional development opportunities, employment conditions, educational and training background, and some demographic data. Part 2 contains data on 500 museums and responses to questions on the museums labour market such as number of full-time and part-time positions; number of people employed for each job and their classifications; current budgets, etc. Records will be kept for five years (plus two years dormant).

Consumer and Corporate Affairs Canada

Chapter 33

General Information

Background

The Department of Consumer and Corporate Affairs was created in 1967 by the Department of Consumer and Corporate Affairs Act.

Responsibilities

The mandate of Consumer and Corporate Affairs Canada is to promote the fair and efficient operation of the marketplace in Canada. This is achieved primarily by establishing and administering rules and guidelines for business conduct; assuring accurate information for informed consumer decisions; maintaining and encouraging competition among businesses; establishing, administering and enforcing standards for trade in commodities and services; providing protection from product-related hazards; and encouraging the disclosure and diffusion of technological information.

Organization

The Department is organized into four bureaus: Consumer Affairs, Competition Policy, Corporate Affairs and Legislative Policy, and Corporate Policy and Strategic Planning. Their work is supported by three service bureaus and field staff in the Atlantic, Quebec, Ontario, Prairie and Pacific regions. The Deputy Minister, who is also the Deputy Registrar General of Canada, is responsible for the finance and administration directorates and the departmental secretariat. The Director of Investigation and Research is a statutory appointment under section 5 of the Competition Act that is independent and autonomous from the Department and the Minister.

Bureau of Consumer Affairs

The Bureau promotes and protects the consumer interest in the marketplace by enforcing legislation respecting fraud, safety, measurement accuracy and product labelling. The Bureau is also responsible for consumer information, advocacy within government and with industry, and financial and technical support of consumer groups.

Consumer Products Branch: Administers acts and regulations affecting the packaging, labelling, advertising, quality, quantity and composition of textiles, precious metals and all prepackaged food and non-food products. It also administers some provincial statutes respecting the grading and sale of agricultural and fish products at the retail level.

Consumer Policy Services Branch: Responsible for developing policy on a broad range of matters arising from the Minister mandate as expressed in the Department of Consumer and Corporate Affairs Act and not specifically related to legislation administered by other bureau sub-activities. The Branch recommends, initiates and coordinates programs in the government, businesses and voluntary sectors that promote and protect the interest of Canadian consumers. It also administers the Tax Rebate Discounting Act and a grants and contributions program for consumer and voluntary organizations.

Legal Metrology Branch: Administers the Electricity and Gas Inspection Act and the Weights and Measures Act to minimize inaccurate measurements and ensure equity at all levels of trade of commodities and services bought and sold on the basis of measurement. The Branch conducts approval examinations and inspections of devices, maintains and calibrates standards, and inspects goods and services. It also coordinates Canada's participation in the "Organisation internationale de Métrologie légale".

Product Safety Branch: Administers the Hazardous Products Act to ensure adequate safety standards for consumer products and chemicals used in the workplace, and to promote consumer and trader understanding of health and safety regulations and standards. The Branch conducts product testing for regulatory development purposes and for compliance with regulations. Inspectors designated under the Act have powers of search and seizure.

Bureau of Corporate Affairs and Legislative Policy

The Bureau seeks to provide a legal and regulatory framework for the orderly conduct of business. It incorporates federal, business and non-profit corporations, regulates bankruptcy proceedings for insolvent companies and individuals, licenses and supervises trustees in bankruptcy and enforces standards of conduct for corporations in the treatment of shareholders and the disclosure of relevant corporate information. The Bureau also grants exclusive property rights for inventions (patents), trademarks, industrial designs and copyright of original literary, dramatic, musical and artistic works and maintains the Registry of Lobbyists. The Bureau also plays the lead role in the preparation of all proposals for the amendment of departmental statutes.

Bankruptcy Branch: Administers the Bankruptcy Act by providing assistance in the filing of consumer bankruptcies; by protecting both bankruptcy creditors' and debtors' rights; by licensing and supervising trustees-in-bankruptcy; by detecting abuses of the bankruptcy process both before and after bankruptcy; by maintaining and disseminating general and statistical bankruptcy and insolvency information; and by acting as a depository for any documents to be filed pursuant to any intellectual property legislation.

Corporations Branch: Administers the Canada Corporations Act, the Canada Business Corporations Act, and several other statutes, through the examination of applications for incorporation, continuance, amalgamation and dissolution of corporations; the management of a database on federal corporations; and the collection, assessment and verification of information made available to the public. It issues exemptions from various requirements of the Canada Business Corporations Act; and conducts enquiries and investigations into corporate misconduct.

Lobbyists Registration Branch: Administers the reporting and disclosure requirements of the Lobbyists Registration Act.

Legislative Review Directorate: Responsible for all research and policy development activities which lead to legislative and regulatory reform of the Department's statutory and program base. The Directorate also develops and directs research activities, and participates in international and intergovernmental negotiations. The Directorate is composed of two branches: the Consumer and Corporate Review Branch and the Intellectual Property Review Branch.

Intellectual Property Directorate: Administers legislation dealing with patents, trade marks, copyright, industrial designs, and timber marks. The Directorate includes the Copyright and Industrial Design Office, the Patents Office and the Trade Marks Office.

Bureau of Competition Policy

The Bureau of Competition Policy promotes competition and efficiency in the Canadian economy through the administration of the Competition Act. The Bureau concentrates on enforcement, public awareness and inputs into public policy matters.

The Director of Investigation and Research has the responsibility for administering and enforcing the Competition Act. The Director is the head of the Bureau of Competition Policy, which consists of a number of Branches:

Mergers Branch: Responsible for the administration of the merger provisions of the Act, including the notifiable transaction requirements, in all sectors of the Canadian economy.

Services Branch: Responsible for enforcement, policies, priorities and standards related to the criminal and non-criminal (excluding mergers and marketing practices) provisions of the Competition Act in the services sector of the economy, as well as the provision of corporate direction to ensure uniformity in their interpretation, application and appropriateness across Canada.

Resources and Manufacturing Branch: Responsible for enforcement, policies, priorities and standards related to the criminal and non-criminal (excluding mergers and marketing practices) provisions of the Competition Act in the resources and manufacturing sectors of the economy, as well as the provision of corporate direction to ensure uniformity in their interpretation, application and appropriateness across Canada.

Marketing Practices Branch: Enforces the misleading advertising and deceptive marketing practices provisions of the Competition Act. The Branch functions in a decentralized fashion, with 12 offices across Canada.

Economics and International Affairs Branch: Provides economic analysis and advice to the Director of Investigation and Research and to the other branches of the Bureau which deal with enforcement and policy. The Branch also participates in departmental and interdepartmental development of government policies and legislation interfacing with the Competition Act, and is responsible for Canada's participation in and contribution to the work of international organizations such as Organization for Economic Development and Cooperation (OECD) and United Nations Conference on Trade and Development (UNCTAD) in the field of competition policy.

Regulatory Affairs Branch: Responsible for the preparation of interventions before federal and provincial regulatory boards and tribunals under the provisions of the Competition Act.

The Compliance Policy and Management Coordination Directorate: This Directorate is comprised of two branches –

Compliance and Coordination Branch: Coordinates the Bureau's public information program, assists in the development and dissemination of Bureau policies and procedures and provides research assistance to the line Branches described above, all with a view to promoting compliance with the Competition Act.

Management Systems and Services Branch: Responsible for Bureau strategic, operational, and resource planning and reporting; operational review; information systems and support; and financial, administrative and personnel services.

■ Bureau of Corporate Policy and Strategic Planning

The Bureau assists in increasing departmental emphasis on management objectives. These objectives include research and support to policy initiative and fostering the development and integration of strategic planning in the department.

The Bureau is responsible for the Personnel Directorate, the Communications Branch, and the Strategic Planning and Corporate Services Branch. The Bureau is also responsible for strategic planning at the departmental level and for identifying emerging issues requiring inter-bureau coordination. It chairs a Human Resource Management Committee and makes recommendations to the Deputy Minister on the most effective use of departmental resources.

Strategic Planning and Corporate Services Branch: Responsible for coordinating the Department's strategic planning activities, including the preparation of environment assessments, coordination of all departmental federal-provincial activities, and representation in selected intergovernmental fora. It also houses the ministerial briefing unit, which prepares and coordinates briefings in support of the Minister's participation at Cabinet Committees. It performs periodic reviews of ongoing programs to improve operations and to provide a basis for strategic planning and regulatory review, and ensures effective interaction with central agencies on all planning activities.

Communications Branch: Ensures that government policies are taken into consideration in structured communication activities; designs and implements communications strategies to gain public understanding and support for the interests of the Department; provides expert advice on communication policies and logistics support through production; and provides distribution and liaison services.

Personnel Directorate: Responsible for personnel policies and activities including staffing, classification, human resources planning, training, staff relations, compensation, official languages, counselling and a personnel information system.

■ Office of the Assistant Deputy Registrar General

The Assistant Deputy Registrar General administers the government's Conflict of Interest and Post Employment Code for public office holders and provides policy advice to the government, the Privy Council Office and deputy heads.

■ Departmental Secretariat

The Secretariat is responsible for coordinating activities and communications between the Minister, the Deputy Minister and the Department, as well as with other government departments and central agencies, private associations and the general public. Located within the Secretariat, the Access to Information and Privacy Unit has the responsibility for applying the legislation on access to information and privacy, the information collection policy and for responding to requests for Urea Formaldehyde Foam Insulation (UFFI) homeowner information.

■ Finance and Administration Directorate

The Finance and Administration Directorate is responsible for coordinating financial, administrative and informatics, (EDP) policy and services, including library services. It also coordinates corporate level financial and operational planning and control. The Directorate is responsible for the development and maintenance of policies, procedures, systems and services required to support the general administration of the government policy on the management of information holdings (M.G.I.H.). The Registration Division, Office of the Registrar General within the Directorate is responsible for the issuance and registration of formal documents as well as the deposit of other instrument pursuant to other legislation.

Classes of Personal Information

Complaints, Investigations and Inquiries Class (Bureau of Competition Policy)
This class contains personal information relating to the administration and enforcement of the Combines Investigation Act and the Competition Act. The material may relate to the legislation in general, or to any category of product or service. Most filing is done according to standard industrial classification coding; the key reference for retrieval purposes is the industry or company involved. There is limited cross-referencing to and recording of incoming correspondence which may contain personal information. (Such correspondence includes complaints and requests for information as well as information obtained from the Canadian Police Information Centre, U.S. Department of Justice and from O.E.C.D. anti-trust authorities.) Personal information held by the Bureau may be provided to federal or provincial departments and agencies to ensure a proper level of service to the person identified.

Inquiries (Bureau of Consumer Affairs)
This class contains inquiries concerning the following Acts, which are administered in whole or in part by the Department: Canada Agricultural Products Standards Act; Consumer Packaging and Labelling Act; Electricity; Gas and Inspection Act; Fish Inspection Act; Food and Drugs Act; Hazardous Products Act; National Trade Mark and True Labelling Act; Precious Metals Marking Act; Textile Labelling Act; Weights and Measures Act. This class contains records on establishments that have been inspected with respect to the requirements or the legislation listed above. It contains inspection and incident reports, complaints, warning letters and other correspondence, and reports of prosecution. The names of individuals who are sole owners of companies appear in the files. These files are kept for several years in order to plan inspection visits and monitor the compliance level in relation to the regulatory requirements of the legislation administered by the Department.

Mailing Lists (Bureau of Corporate Policy and Strategic Planning
This class of personal information contains the names and addresses of individuals who are on a mailing list to receive specific information or publications on departmental programs and activities. The lists are used by all bureaus to distribute departmental information and to respond to requests by individuals. The lists are updated on a continuing basis. The lists are maintained for a minimum of two years.

Program Evaluation (Bureau of Human Resources and Corporate Development)
This class of personal information contains data collected from departmental employees for departmental program evaluation studies. The aggregate data are used to support program evaluation, policy analysis and program development activities. All data are retained at headquarters with study files retained for a minimum of two years. Files are retrievable by study only. The names of individual participants are not retained.

Technological Information Services Requests (Intellectual Property Directorate)

This class includes the names, addresses and telephone numbers of individual inventors and entrepreneurs who have submitted requests for technological information. Also included is background information relating to the requests, the purposes of the requests and the specific areas of interest. The purpose of this service is to provide a technology search to assist in the development of new or improved products and processes and to avoid duplication of research and development. Requests are received via intermediary agencies (such as provincial research councils), and files are maintained by agency, not by name of individual. Requests are retained for a minimum of two years.

Copyright Board Canada

Chapter 34

General Information

Background

The Copyright Board was created by a series of amendments to the Copyright Act which were proclaimed on February 1, 1989. It also has attributions under the Free Trade Agreement Implementation Act. It replaced the Copyright Appeal Board which had been responsible since 1935 for approving annual tariffs respecting the public performance of music. The Copyright Board is designated as a department in accordance with and for the purposes of the Financial Administration Act.

Responsibilities

The Copyright Board is an independent administrative tribunal which has four principal attributions:

- approving tariffs for the retransmission of distant radio and television signals;
- approving tariffs for the public performance of music;
- arbitrating disputes on copyright fees between licensing bodies representing copyright owners and users; and
- in cases where the copyright owner is unlocatable, approving non-exclusive licences for use of published works protected by copyright.

The Board reports annually to Parliament through the Minister of Consumer and Corporate Affairs.

Legislation

- Copyright Act, R.S.C. 1985, c. C-42
- Act to amend the Copyright Act, S.C. 1988, c. 15
- Act to implement the Free Trade Agreement between Canada and the United States of America, S.C. 1988, c. 65

Organization

The Board consists of a chairman, a vice-chairman and a maximum of three other members, all appointed by the Governor in Council. The Chairman, who must be a judge of a superior, county or district court, directs the work of the Board and apportions its work among the members of the Board. The Vice-Chairman, who is the Chief Executive Officer of the Board, supervises and directs the work of the Board's staff. The senior staff of the Board consists of the General Counsel and the Secretary to the Board.

The Correctional Investigator Canada

Chapter 35

General Information

Background

The Office of the Correctional Investigator was established by Part II of the Inquiries Act. The office investigates complaints from inmates as defined in the Penitentiary Act and reports upon problems of inmates that fall within the responsibility of the Solicitor General of Canada and meet the following conditions:

(1) The subject matter of the complaint concerns an incident occurring within twelve months of the lodging of the complaint;

(2) The complainant has taken, in the opinion of the Commissioner, all reasonable steps to exhaust legal or administrative remedies;

(3) The subject matter of the complaint does not involve the preparation of material for consideration by the National Parole Board.

The Commissioner need not investigate if the subject matter of a complaint has previously been investigated, or in the opinion of the Commissioner, a person complaining has no valid interest in the matter.

Responsibilities

The Correctional Investigator investigates and reports on the problems of inmates that come within the responsibility of the Solicitor General of Canada (other than those problems raised on complaint in certain defined circumstances). Investigations are undertaken at the request of the Solicitor General, on the Investigator's own initiative, or upon complaint from or on behalf of inmates as defined in the Penitentiary Act.

Legislation

- Parole Act and Regulations
- Penitentiary Act
- Penitentiary Service Regulations
- Prison and Reformatories Act

Organization

The Office of the Correctional Investigator comprises three secretarial/administrative positions, a director of investigations and five investigators.

Correctional Service Canada

Chapter 36

General Information

Background

In 1977, the Correctional Service of Canada (CSC) was formed through the amalgamation of the Canadian Penitentiary Service and the National Parole Service.

Responsibilities

Mission: The Correctional Service of Canada, as part of the criminal justice system, contributes to the protection of society by actively encouraging offenders to become law-abiding citizens, while exercising reasonable, safe, secure and humane control. The CSC provides programs for offenders from pre-admission until the expiration of their sentence. In order to carry out its responsibilities, the Correctional Service creates files to hold information on prisons, organizations and occurrences that affect or may affect it in the carrying out of its mandate. Information must be collected from and shared with numerous sources, such as the community at large, with special consideration for victims of crime, as is explained in the section "General Information on Data Matching", at the end of this chapter.

Legislation

- Criminal Code RSC, 1985, c. C-46
- Criminal Law Amendment Act, 1976
- Criminal Records Act RSC, 1985, c. C-47
- Parole Act RSC, 1985, c. P-2
- Penitentiary Act RSC, 1985, c. P-5
- Prison and Reformatories Act RSC, 1985, c. P-20
- Young Offenders Act RSC, 1985, c. R-1

Organization

■ Commissioner Office

This Commissioner, under the direction of the Solicitor General, manages and guides the policies and programs of the Correctional Service of Canada.

■ Legal Services Sector

This sector provides a variety of in_house legal services to the Commissioner and staff of the Correctional Service of Canada in connection with matters relating to the operation of the Service.

■ Executive Services Sector

This sector is responsible for daily liaison with the office of the Solicitor General; the preparation of executive correspondence for the Commissioner and Solicitor General; the development of policies and the final level of the inmate grievance system; responses to the Correctional Investigator and the Canadian Human Rights Commission; and administers the Privacy Act and the Access to Information Act.

Correspondence and Ministerial Liaison Division: Responsible for coordinating, preparing and vetting all matters relating to the preparation of executive correspondence to the Commissioner, the Minister's Office, and other members of Parliament and assemblies.

Inmate Affairs Division: Responsible for providing advice to senior management on matters pertaining to the treatment of inmates and overall inmate affairs. This division also represents the Correctional Service of Canada in its dealings with the Correctional Investigator and with the inmate Human Rights Commissioner complaints. The division is also involved in the coordination of the Independent Chairperson.

Access to Information and Privacy Division: Responsible for administering the Access to Information Act and Privacy Act for the CSC. It processes requests submitted under the legislation, handles complaints lodged with the Information and Privacy Commissioners and responds to informal enquiries. The Division also provides advice and guidance to CSC officials on matters which concern the legislation.

Classes of Personal Information

Administrative Inquiries

This group is a class of records on incidents involving offenders, staff or members of the public regarding injury sustained while on institutional property, damage or loss of personal property or departmental property and other unusual incidents such as fires which might result in a claim against the Crown. Individuals seeking access to these records must provide the location and the approximate date the inquiries was held. This class of records is used to process claims for and against the Crown, to establish the nature and length of disabilities and to determine the need for establishing or revising internal operating procedures. Records are retained for ten years. Historical records are transferred to the National Archives of Canada.

Appreciation, Complaints, Inquiries

This group is a class of records generated by members of the public, or staff such as: letters of appreciation, complaints and general inquiries. The data contained in this class of records is only used for an administrative purpose in cases where a complaint or inquiry is acted upon. Individuals seeking access to these records must provide the approximate date that the letter of appreciation, complaint or inquiry was initiated. These records are retained for two years. Historical records are transferred to the National Archives of Canada.

Complaints and Criticisms

This group is a class of records on complaints or criticisms received from staff regarding conditions of employment, including those from the Human Rights Commission and the Anti-discrimination Branch of the Public Service Commission. Individuals seeking access to these records must provide the approximate date the complaint or criticism was lodged. This class of records is used to record information dealing with complaints or criticisms involving staff and to make specific decisions to resolve the matter. Records are retained for three years.

Correctional Investigator Inquiries Records

This group is a class of records on inquiries initiated by the Correctional Investigator. This class of records is used to analyze and make action recommendations resulting from these inquiries conducted by the Correctional Investigator. These records are retained for ten years. Historical records are transferred to the National Archives of Canada. Data matching occurs with the correctional investigator.

Disciplinary Court Hearings

This group is a class of records on disciplinary court hearings. For each session of disciplinary court, audio recordings are made which contain the transcripts of the hearings on offenders who have been charged while incarcerated in an institution. This class of records is used to make decisions on the discipline of offenders resulting from the disciplinary court and during the grievances process. Individuals seeking access to these records must provide the name of the institution in which they were charged and the date of the disciplinary hearing. It should be noted, however, that records may be obtained by the offender by sending a written request directly to the warden of the institution where the disciplinary hearing occurred. These records are retained for two years following the suspension of all actions relating to the disciplinary hearing. No data matching occurs.

Information Services – Inquiries

This group is a class of records on miscellaneous inquiries received from the public, outside organizations and other government departments on services performed by the Department. This class of records is used to respond to requests to interview employees and offenders from external sources such as the media and provincial organizations. Individuals seeking access to these records must provide the approximate date that the inquiry was initiated. These records are retained for two years. Historical records are transferred to the National Archives of Canada.

Institutional Security Threats

This group is a class of records on national and international groups, organizations and criminals. This class of records is used to provide background information on threats to institutional security and to provide reports on all security investigations to aid in preventing recurrences. Individuals seeking access to these records must provide the location and approximate date of the threat or investigation. These records are retained for ten years. Historical records are transferred to the National Archives of Canada. Data matching occurs with NPB, law enforcement agencies and provincial authorities.

Ministerial Inquiries

This group is a class of records on inquiries received from the public, outside organizations and other government departments on parliamentary matters, and material agendas and decisions of Cabinet. ■ General Information on Data Matching

Data Matching – Data Sharing

Within the mandate of the Correctional Service of Canada (CSC) is the requirement to share data with other areas of the Criminal Justice Community, to ensure that offenders are appropriately managed in a safe, secure and humane environment, and to ensure the safety of the offender, other inmates, staff and the community at large. Also, in order to accomplish its mandate the Service needs the information provided by other agencies and therefore a match is conducted.

Data Matching with Law Enforcement Agencies

(Municipal, provincial, international, federal police forces or another law enforcement body).

Following an offender's sentence to a federal institution, CSC requests a Criminal record (history information from the Royal Canadian Mounted Police (RCMP)). This information is used to assess the impact of the offender's criminal behaviour and to alert staff to deal effectively with the offender. CSC also requests a police report from the arresting and/or investigating law enforcement body in order to have a full understanding of the events surrounding the offence.

When an offender is released to the community, there is a requirement to notify the RCMP and/or the local police force of the offender location and the terms and conditions of the release. If an offender violates conditions of release, or is considered to be a risk, CSC will issue a warrant for the apprehension of the offender. The warrant is transmitted to the local police and entered into the Canadian Police Information Centre (CPIC) system, and also the police are requested to locate and apprehend the offender.

Data Matching with the National Parole Board

CSC data is matched with the National Parole Board (NPB). With the implementation of the OMS (Offender Management System) there will be one integrated system to meet the demand of both agencies.

While it is CSC's responsibility to manage the offenders for the duration of their sentence, it is the NPB's responsibility to assess the offender's progress during incarceration, their risk to society, and their potential for successful reintegration into the community as law-abiding citizens. CSC information is shared with NPB pertaining to all aspects related to the offender prior to and during incarceration. Once NPB has assessed the information, and through a hearing process, makes their decision, CSC is notified. If the Board makes a decision to conditionally release an offender, it is CSC staff who are responsible for the supervision and control of the offender in the community and keeping NPB informed of the offenders' progresses.

Data Matching with Provincial Authorities

An offender who is sentenced to a period of incarceration of two years or more, will serve this sentence under the jurisdiction of CSC. Offenders sentenced to less than two years will serve their sentence under a provincial jurisdiction. However, the Service is doing the case preparation and supervision for some provinces who do not have a Parole Board.

Often an offender will have a history of provincial incarceration, further, prior to sentencing the offender could be held in a provincial institution or a remand centre. Information collected during any period of incarceration is deemed significant and sometimes crucial to the successful management of that offender. It is for these reasons that information is routinely shared and matched between CSC and provincial authorities which include also the Boards of Education and Hospitals.

Information is also requested from the sentencing judge and could also be requested from the Crown Attorney, from Provincial Parole and Probation Services. This information is used by CSC in the management of the offender and decision-making process.

Method of Data Matching/Sharing

In the preceding descriptions of CSC data matching/sharing, every effort is taken to ensure that the data matched/shared concerns the same individual. In order to validate that the different agencies are dealing with the same individuals, a number of personal identifiers are matched. These included Name, Sex, Date of Birth, Finger Print Series Number (FPS) and in some cases physical features.

CSC may conduct or assist others in conducting ad hoc data matching for the purpose of the enforcement of any law (i.e. Criminal Code).

▪ Business Income Tax Division

Undertakes economic and quantitative analysis of tax policy issues in the areas of corporate, business and resource sector taxation.

Privatization Branch

The Privatization Branch plays a central role in the sale of federal Crown corporations and other corporate holdings that no longer require government ownership to fulfil a public policy role. The process itself is complex, requiring consideration of a broad spectrum of public policy, financial and employee concerns to ensure the longer term viability of the company in the private sector and fair treatment of the company's employees. The rigorous five stage process followed by the Branch consists of initial analysis, in-depth policy review, legislation, preparation for sale, an implementation of the sale. Following these steps ensures full consideration of all factors and allows for decisions to be taken at appropriate intervals.

Administration Branch

The role of this branch is to assist the Deputy Minister of Finance in the internal administration of their organizations and to provide financial, personnel, administrative and management advice to branches and divisions. The Branch consists of five divisions: Administrative Services, Financial Services, Personnel, Security Services and Systems.

Department of Justice Canada

Chapter 39

General Information

Background

The Department of Justice was created by the Department of Justice Act, passed at the first session of Parliament of the Dominion of Canada, and assented to on May 22, 1868. This Act outlined the responsibilities of the Minister of Justice and the Attorney General of Canada and, with a few exceptions, these responsibilities have remained substantially unchanged.

Responsibilities

The work of the Department consists of litigation, provision of legal advice and opinions to the federal government of Canada on a very wide range of matters, and the drafting of legislation, contracts and other legal documents. The Department is also concerned with the legal aspects of developing government policy, and prepares recommendations or reviews recommendations, for reform of the law. To carry out these responsibilities, the Department uses federal Statutes and Regulations. In addition, contributions are made to provide financial assistance to organizations conducting studies and legal research and to other law-related programs. A limited number of grants is made in connection with legal education, and cost-sharing agreements are entered into with provincial governments in connection with young offenders, compensation of victims of violent crimes, Legal Aid in criminal cases for adults and young offenders, native court worker programs, and access to legal information.

The role of the Federal Department of Justice does not include the provision of legal services or advice to members of the public.

Organization

■ Deputy Minister's Office

This office provides essential support services to the Deputy Minister. It ensures appropriate communication and liaison on policy and operational issues between the Deputy Minister and the Minister's Office, the Department and other government departments and agencies.

■ Corporate Management Sector

This branch provides services to the Department related to such areas as corporate planning and policy development, program evaluation and internal audit, communications and public affairs, federal-provincial relations, liaison with external associations and groups, and various corporate services. The Branch performs a substantive function in areas that do not fall within the specialized responsibilities of the other branches. It administers certain programs and is involved in the coordination of departmental activities and programs. The Branch also provides administrative support services related to finance, personnel, library, legal information retrieval, accommodation, security, telecommunications, computer systems and all other logistical elements common to government departments.

■ Legislation Branch

This branch prepares, in both official languages, all bills the government plans to introduce in Parliament. It also drafts motions to amend bills and examines all bills introduced by ministers in Parliament to ascertain whether they are consistent with the Canadian Charter of Rights and Freedoms or the Canadian Bill of Rights.

■ Public Law Sector

This sector advises the government on legal and policy issues in the public law field. Specifically, it advises on constitutional, international, administrative, native and human rights law, as well as on matters relating to the machinery and operation of government and to statutory instruments.

Constitutional and International Law Section: Provides policy and legal advice to the government on constitutional issues and international law. It participates in federal-provincial negotiations, the legislative process, the development and implementation of international instruments and litigation involving constitutional questions.

Advisory and Administrative Law Section: Particularly concerned with areas of law relating to the machinery and operation of government. It is actively engaged in developing proposals for administrative law reform, assisting other branches of the Department on such subjects as amendments to the Federal Court Act and preparing legal opinions on a variety of administrative and other legal matters.

Human Rights Law Section: Gives legal opinions to the Crown on the interpretation and application of constitutional provisions, federal legislation and international instruments having human rights implications.

Native Law Section: Provides legal and policy advice on native affairs, especially on the development of aboriginal self-government, on comprehensive claims policy, and in support of native litigation issues. As a specialist resource, it advises on constitutional and international issues affecting natives, and carries out legal and policy research on many native issues.

Judicial Affairs Unit: Provides legal and policy support to the Minister and the Department on issues relating to the federal judiciary.

Federal-Provincial Relations Office Section: Provides legal and policy advice to the Federal-Provincial Relations Office, primarily in the areas of constitutional and native affairs. In particular, it is involved in constitutional reform discussions with the provinces, constitutional discussions with aboriginal peoples, and tripartite discussions on Métis self-government.

Privy Council Office Legal Section: Functions in regard to the Department's responsibilities under the Statutory Instruments Act and reviews all proposed regulations. Counsel in this section also serve as legal advisers to officers of the Privy Council Office and in particular to the Assistant Clerk of the Privy Council responsible for Orders-in-Council.

Statute Revision Commission: Engages in the revision, consolidation and indexing of federal laws and regulations and prepares administrative consolidations of federal laws.

■ Civil Litigation

This branch represents the Attorney General of Canada in civil litigation involving the federal government.

Civil Litigation (Common Law) Section: Handles litigation for or against the Crown (on such matters as contracts, negligence, the Constitution, and Human Rights) which arises everywhere in Canada, except in the province of Québec.

Civil Litigation and Real Property Law (Québec) Section: Handles litigation for or against the Crown arising out of the province of Québec and is also responsible for providing services in property law matters in the province of Québec.

■ Criminal Law

This branch discharges, on behalf of the Attorney General of Canada and the Minister of Justice, the obligations, duties and responsibilities imposed on the Minister by legislation and under the common law.

Criminal Prosecutions Section: Responsible for prosecution of infractions under federal statutes (other than the Criminal Code over which the provincial Attorneys General exercise prosecutorial authority) and related matters including the implementation of Canada's obligations under the Extradition Act and the Fugitive Offenders Act. The Section also reviews applications under the Criminal Code for the mercy of the Crown by or on behalf of persons who have been convicted in proceedings by indictment or who have been sentenced to preventive detention, and makes recommendations to the Minister as to their disposition.

■ Tax Law

This branch is responsible for providing functional direction to all lawyers in tax law matters. It also acts on behalf of the Attorney General of Canada in all civil appeals from assessments of income tax and some litigation pursuant to the Unemployment Insurance Act and the Canada Pension Plan. The litigation work is divided between the tax litigation sections at headquarters and the Halifax, Montreal, Toronto, Winnipeg, Edmonton and Vancouver regional offices.

■ Admiralty and Maritime Law

This branch is responsible for admiralty litigation, maritime legislation, maritime commercial law, marine casualty investigations and marine international law, and provides specialized legal advice and expertise in these fields.

■ General Counsel Group

This group conducts, on behalf of the Attorney General of Canada, litigation which requires counsel of particular seniority and expertise. Members of the group often participate in legal education, such as panel discussions and seminars arranged by the Department or by provincial and local bar associations.

■ Policy, Programs and Research Sector

This sector plans, develops and implements government justice policies dealing with criminal and family law, and administers programs to promote access to justice, some of which are cost-shared with the provinces. It also administers the Department's grants and contributions programs.

Criminal and Family Law Policy Directorate: Identifies and analyzes emerging legal and related issues, and develops policies to address them in furtherance of the responsibility for criminal justice and family law. The Directorate monitors the development of the law, provides advice to the Minister and senior officials and proposes changes, where necessary, to the statutes for which the Minister is responsible in these two areas.

Policy Directorate: Seeks to ensure that the administration of justice is consistent with national priorities and that the justice system is inclusive, fair, rational and efficient. It initiates, formulates and monitors policies, especially in the areas of gender equality, support of the family and the prevention of violence in Canadian society. The Directorate is also responsible for the coordination of the implementation of legislation.

Programs Directorate: On behalf of the Minister of Justice, negotiates and administers cost-sharing agreements with the provinces/territories in the young offenders, legal aid, native courtworker and victims of crime areas; initiates, develops, monitors and evaluates policies related to these programs; manages transitional support funding programs to facilitate the implementation of these programs and directs ongoing federal-provincial mechanisms for consultation and collaboration.

Research and Development Directorate: Responsible for research and project development in relation to policy development and implementation relating to matters under the responsibility of the Department. For these purposes, the Directorate designs and conducts empirical socio-legal research and satisfies departmental statistical information requirements. It also develops, implements and assesses demonstration projects, supports legal information initiatives designed for the general public and liaises with other federal departments, provincial/territorial governments, international and national agencies and with community organizations. From a substantive point of view, the research and project development activities focus on the identification and articulation of policy issues, the testing of policy options, and on providing feedback on the results of the specific activities.

Regulatory Compliance Project: Concerned with modernizing implementation policies and practices associated with approximately 200 federal statutes. The project studies and advises on departmental and agency programs designed to influence public behaviour and to obtain compliance with the law.

■ Legal Services Sector

This sector provides a variety of in-house legal services to federal departments and agencies, as well as specialized legal advice on property, commercial, access to information and privacy law, and environmental and trade law matters.

Commercial and Property Law and Advisory Services Section: Generally responsible for providing functional direction to all lawyers in commercial and property law matters, as well as the provision of policy and legal advice to federal departments and agencies in matters of commercial and property law.

Information Law and Privacy Section: Deals with a wide range of legal issues relating to information held by the government and is a centre of legal expertise in respect of access to information, privacy legislation and related areas.

Environmental Issues Secretariat: Comprised of a corp of experts in the environmental area, ensuring that the Department of Justice manages environmental law and policy issues in a coordinated and consistent fashion. The Secretariat identifies environment trends and issues and brings them to the attention of the Minister, Deputy Minister and Senior Assistant Deputy Minister responsible for this area. On an ongoing basis the Secretariat disseminates environment related information to Justice officers engaged in the practice of environmental law, liaises with other federal departments, law organizations and others in this area and maintains an infrastructure to ensure a timely departmental response to environmental issues and concerns.

Classes of Personal Information

Subject Files and Routine Correspondence

Some departmental programs and activities result in the accumulation of personal information which is not contained in the personal information banks described above. This personal information is stored within subject files described as part of department's Information Holdings where records are not normally retrieved by the name of the individual or other personal identifier. This form of personal information consists of enquiries concerning particular justice matters, as well as requests for publications and reports. The information is normally retrievable only if specifics are provided concerning the subject matter. Retention of this form of personal information is controlled by the records schedules of the subject files in which the information is stored.

Mailing List

This class of personal information contains the names and addresses of individuals who are on mailing lists to receive publications and other publicly available materials relating to departmental activities. The lists are used by all sectors of the Department and are updated on a continuing basis. The correspondence and request cards from individuals used for amending addresses and to add or delete individual names on mailing lists are retained until the mailing lists have been amended.

Management Effectiveness Survey (Upward Feedback)

This class of information contains employees' attitudes regarding Legal Services Sector management effectiveness with regards to work supervision, communications, training and development. The results of questionnaires serve as a catalyst to improve management practices within work units. Information from the questionnaires without respondent identifier is retrievable by location (client department) except for units having five employees or less, in which case the information is available by groups of three units without respondent identifier.

Department of the Secretary of State of Canada

Chapter 40

General Information

Background

The Department of the Secretary of State of Canada was established in 1868 as the official channel of communications between the new Dominion of Canada and the United Kingdom.

Responsibilities

The Department of the Secretary of State of Canada is responsible for the following areas: Official languages and translation – to encourage the use of the two official languages in Canadian society, reinforce the equal status of both languages, and provide translation and interpretation services in all languages in accordance with the needs of Parliament, the government and its agencies; Education support – to provide payments to the provinces and territories for post-secondary education, manage the Canada Student Loans Program, promote Canadian Studies and help represent Canadian interests in education at the international level; state ceremonial – to advise in matters of state protocol and to manage state ceremonial and events; the status of disabled persons – to promote the integration and quality of life of disabled citizens; Native citizens – to support Canada's Aboriginal peoples in their efforts to resolve social, cultural, political and economic issues; the women's program – to provide advice, information and financial help to voluntary organizations working to promote women's equality; and youth participation – to promote young people's involvement in Canadian society with particular emphasis on exchanges and forums that bring together youth from both official language groups and different ethnocultural backgrounds, as well as native, economically disadvantaged and disabled youth.

Organization

Official Languages and Translation

The Official Languages and Translation Sector fosters a better appreciation among Canadians of the linguistic duality of Canada by contributing to effective communication in both official languages within the federal public service, and between the public service and the general public. It assists in the implementation and the delivery of adequate services to official minority groups by provincial, territorial and municipal authorities as well as by the private sector.

■ Promotion of Official Languages Branch

The Branch fosters and supports the development of the official language minorities in Canada, and promotes the recognition and the use of French and English in Canadian society. It assists official language minorities to establish and maintain their own organizations and institutions in order to help them participate, in their own language, in every aspect of Canadian society. It co-operates with the provincial, territorial and municipal governments, as well as other Canadian institutions, to promote the progress of both official languages as well as the development of official language communities by offering French and English services. It favours and encourages a wider acceptance and appreciation of both languages by all Canadians, as well as a better understanding among the Canadian official language communities. In addition, it co-operates with the private and voluntary sectors to offer French and English services and to foster the recognition and use of both official languages.

Terminology and Linguistic Services Directorate: Responsible for terminology, the linguistic databank TERMIUM, translator training and translation quality evaluation.

■ Translation Operations Branch

The Branch provides translation and interpretation services in both official languages and in over seventy other languages, including sign language, to Parliament, the courts, official conferences and government departments.

■ Planning, Management, and Technology Branch

The Branch provides management services including planning, policy development and evaluation, management information and administrative services. It also provides advice in the field of technology and assists in implementing appropriate technology in the sector.

Education Support

■ Policy, Analysis and Liaison Branch

The Branch administers post-secondary education payments to the provinces and territories under the Federal-Provincial Fiscal Arrangements Act and the Federal Post-Secondary Education and Health Contributions Act (1977). It co-operates with the Department of External Affairs in ensuring the effectiveness of Canada's participation in international educational activities. It conducts research and analysis in support of the development of a national education policy. It develops responses to questions from institutions related to education, from Parliament and from the public. It works with Statistics Canada to collect statistics concerning education, maintains a database on information relevant to education, consults with federal and provincial departments, and produces an annual report to Parliament on Federal and Provincial Support to Post-Secondary Education in Canada. The Branch consists of three directorates: Policy and Analysis, Liaison and Canadian Studies:

Canadian Studies Directorate: In order to encourage Canadians to learn about Canada, provides advisory and financial assistance to individuals, organizations, private sector companies and corporations, and educational institutions working to advance the field of Canadian studies. The Directorate administers a series of programs to support the development of Canadian studies learning materials in a number of specific content areas considered to be underdeveloped or neglected in the field, and to encourage greater private sector funding of Canadian studies projects.

Student Assistance Branch: Manages the Canada Student Loans Program (CSLP). Established in 1964, the program is designed to make post-secondary education more accessible to Canadians by providing loans to full-time students, an interest relief program for unemployed and temporarily disabled ex-borrowers, and a provision to allow the forgiveness of loans to permanently disabled borrowers. The Branch also conducts research and analysis on the needs of Canadian post-secondary students for financial assistance. The Branch answers questions on student assistance from members of Parliament, interest groups and the public. It consults with interest groups (through a national advisory group) and provincial directors of student aid (through the Intergovernmental Consultative Committee).

Official Languages in Education Directorate: Promotes, encourages and assists the development and provision of education in the language of the official language minority community of each province and territory, and provides opportunities for Canadians to learn their second official language. Under a Protocol of Agreements signed between the Government of Canada and the Council of Ministers of Education, Canada, bilateral agreements are concluded with each province and territory. Under the agreements, support is provided for the main following expenditures categories: Infrastructure Support, Program Expansion and Development, Teacher Training and Development, and Student Support. The Protocol of Agreements also provides for the funding of two national programs: The Summer Language Bursary Program and the Official-Language Monitor Program. Under the Language Acquisition Development Program, financial assistance is provided to volunteer organizations, professional associations, and Canadian institutions for antional projects aimed at informing the public on official languages in education or at developing techniques for teaching the official languages. This assistance supplements the agreements on official languages in education. Through the Queen Elizabeth Silver Jubilee Endowment Fund, scholarships are awarded to university students who wish to pursue studies in their second official language.

Citizenship

The Citizenship Sector comprises major activities that help individuals and organizations participate more fully in our society and enjoy the benefits of Canadian citizenship. It includes Citizenship Coordination, Social Development, Human Rights and the National Literacy Program.

■ Citizenship Coordination

The Policy Coordination, Analysis and Management Systems Branch provides policy, planning and administrative support to the Social Development Programs in Secretary of State and to the Citizenship Programs in Multiculturalism and Citizenship.

Branch's Policy and Planning Directorate: Consults with and provides advice on policy directions to managers, as well as executive support on policy matters. It liaises with other sectors of the Department, central agencies and other departments and agencies. It coordinates planning, preparation of Cabinet memoranda, Treasury Board submissions and briefings to the Minister and senior management.

Social Trends Analysis Directorate: Collects and analyses information on major social trends in Canadian society, undertakes new research in support of policy development, and develops joint research with Social Development and Citizenship Programs. It collaborates with national and international organizations conducting social science or statistical research.

Secretariat and Systems Unit: Responsible for systems and procedures used to process grants and contributions in both Departments.

■ Social Development

Social Development assists Canadians to achieve more equitable and equal access to all spheres of activity in Canadian society and to fully participate in shaping the social, cultural, political and economic environment that affects them. Emphasis is on the provision of financial, technical and advisory assistance through the following programs:

Women's Program: Responsible for providing financial and technical assistance to voluntary organizations working towards equality for women. Its objectives are: To increase public understanding in order to encourage action on women's equality issues; to promote the organizational development of women's groups in order to increase their effectiveness in working towards equality for women; and to promote action by institutions to incorporate women's equality issues in their decision-making structures, policies and programs.

Status of Disabled Persons Secretariat: Promotes a collaborative partnership among federal and provincial governments, business, labour, religious institutions, academics, service providers and disabled persons. It plans and co-ordinates federal government initiatives, such as the national action plan in response to the United Nations World Program of Action concerning Disabled Persons, and the response to reports of the Standing Committee on Human Rights and the Status of Disabled Persons.

Disabled Persons Participation Program: Offers financial and technical assistance in support of the activities of voluntary organizations of disabled persons. It consists of three elements: representation, access and community options.

Native Citizens Directorate: Co-ordinates and administers programs that serve organizations of Status Indians, Non-Status Indians, Métis and Inuit. A consistent feature in all programs is that projects are community-based, initiated and managed by aboriginal people. The Directorate provides assistance through the Native Friendship Centre Program, the Northern Native Broadcast Access Program, the Aboriginal Representative Organizations Program, the Aboriginal Women's Program, the Native Social and Cultural Development Program. The Directorate also administers two Aboriginal Languages Agreements with the governments of the Northwest Territories and the Yukon.

Youth Participation Directorate: Encourages and facilitates the participation of young people aged 14 to 22 years in Canadian society. The Open House Canada Program provides financial support to a number of national non profit organizations to cover the travel costs for student exchanges and national forums. The Directorate is also responsible for coordinating Canada's participation in the Commonwealth Youth Program.

Management Practices

The sector is charged with developing and maintaining a management system that serves the needs of Departments. It consists of two branches and two directorates.

■ Finance Branch

The Branch is responsible for financial controls and for providing services and advice to management to ensure that the financial directives and regulations are respected. It is also responsible for operational planning.

■ Informatics and Administrative Policies and Services Branch

The Branch is responsible for developing, implementing and monitoring departmental administrative and informatics policies. The Branch provides the following departmental services: service contracts, records management, data processing, telecommunications, office automation systems, security, library, mail and accommodation. It administers the Access to Information Act and the Privacy Act.

■ Internal Audit Directorate

The Directorate carries out periodic, objective reviews of all departmental programs, operations and management systems to determine their efficiency and cost-effectiveness. It recommends, to the Under Secretary of State and departmental managers, corrective measures to improve operations.

■ Management Improvement Directorate

The Directorate provides senior management with management analysis services for initiatives of departmental concern.

Personnel Administration

The Branch provides personnel services and advises managers on all matters involving human resource management.

Corporate Policy and Public Affairs

This sector is responsible for corporate policy, strategic planning, coordination of departmental research, liaison and policy functions associated with federal-provincial relations and international affairs, communications, legal services to the Department, evaluation of policies and programs, state ceremonial functions, and the provision of services such as ministerial correspondence and briefing notes, through the Corporate Secretariat.

■ Corporate Policy Branch

The Branch carries out its responsibilities for policy development and analysis of social policy issues. It prepares the Environmental Size-up, Strategic documents as well as Cabinet proposals and substantive analyses for the Secretary of State and the Under Secretary of State on numerous policy issues and proposals. It also coordinates research and projects involving multilateral and bilateral coordination, either between departments or at the international level.

■ Corporate Secretariat

The Secretariat provides a range of services to the offices of the Secretary of State and the Under Secretary of State, as well as to the Department's senior management. These include writing and advisory services in the area of ministerial correspondence, analysis and advisory services relating to policy development activities, parliamentary liaison and briefings, coordination of briefings for ministerial travel and meetings, and the provision of secretariat services to the Executive Committee of the Department.

■ Program Evaluation Directorate

The Directorate reports on the efficiency and effectiveness of the Department's activities in order to provide the Department with timely and objective information useful in making decisions about program continuance, resource allocation and accountability, and to recommend improvements in planning, program design and policy development.

■ Legal Services

Legal services are provided by lawyers from the Department of Justice who offer program managers a wide range of services, including preparing opinions on the laws administered by the Department, editing regulatory texts and giving advice on policies being developed. In addition to serving managers, lawyers participate in legal training sessions for newly appointed citizenship judges.

■ Communications Branch

The Branch develops, coordinates, manages and implements corporate public affairs and communications plans for all sectors of the Department. Its services include strategic and tactical communications counsel, advice and planning, full-service public relations consulting, writing, editing, graphic design, publishing, audio-visual presentations, exhibitions, advertising and internal communications. It is responsible for media relations, distribution of information about the Department, responses to public enquiries, national distribution of public information materials, special events and communications support of all types.

■ State Ceremonial Branch

The Branch promotes national symbols (Canadian flag, national anthem) to increase their visibility through the development and distribution of brochures and through the administration of a gift bank containing gifts which reflect Canadian crafts. It participates in the organization of ceremonies and celebrations to commemorate events of national significance including Canada Day. It also supports the role of the Crown in Canada through the organization of visits to Canada by Members of the Royal Family, the administration of the obligations of the federal government to the offices of the lieutenant governors including salaries, travel and hospitality expenses, and the provision of advice on the exercise of royal prerogatives; and it administers the Canadian Exhibit Program to coordinate the participation of the Government of Canada in national exhibitions and regional fairs.

Regional Operations

Regional Operations manages the Department's programs in all regions, focusing special attention on the individual needs of each region. It manages the resources and activities of nine regional offices, one provincial office, seventeen local offices, seven translation services and thirty-two citizenship registration offices. Under agreements signed with departmental programs, Regional Operations manages citizenship promotion and registration activities, including the operations of the Canadian citizenship courts; administers grants and contributions to provincial, regional or local associations for all departmental programs administered at the regional level, and ensures certain translation services in liaison with provincial and local governments.

Economic Council of Canada

Chapter 41

General Information

Background

The Economic Council of Canada is an independent research and advisory body established by Parliament in 1963 with broad terms of reference to study and report on a wide range of matters relating to Canada's economic development.

The Act stipulates that the Council is to advise the government on "how Canada can achieve the highest possible levels of employment and efficient production in order that the country may enjoy a high and consistent rate of economic growth and that all Canadians may share in rising living standards."

By mid-1966 the Council had developed a staff of about 100, including some 40 research officers drawn from federal and provincial departments and agencies, business firms, labour organizations, universities and international institutions. The Council itself was comprised of 28 members representing all regions of Canada and most socio-economic interest groups, with three acting in a full-time capacity – the Chairman and two deputy chairmen. The size of staff has varied over the years, with the introduction and termination of special references to the Council playing a major influence. As well, the in-house capacity of the Council to model, monitor and analyze the workings of the economy has been built up over time. The Council's staff complement varies between 120 and 125. Council membership currently numbers 24, including the three full-time members. The Council has three principal functions, namely:

- to conduct economic analyses and undertake studies with a view to providing a greater understanding of the workings of the Canadian economy and its prospects for the future;

- to make recommendations to government and the private sector on economic policy measures to improve Canada's economic performance;

- to educate and inform the Canadian public on economic problems and to stimulate, through the media and other forums, public discussion of policy solutions and economic strategies.

Legislation

- Economic Council of Canada Act, 1963
- By-laws of the Economic Council of Canada

Organization

The Council is made up of an appointed board of three full-time members and up to twenty-five other members. The full-time members, the Chairman and two deputy chairmen manage a staff of economists and research support personnel. There are two organizational aims: research operations, subdivided on a project team basis to manage ongoing research, and research support, which includes all publications activities, informatics, library services, public affairs, planning and coordination, finance, administration and personnel. The research support units (with the exception of Public Affairs) report, through the Council Corporate Secretary, to the Chairman. Each research project team reports to the Chairman through the deputy chairman. In special circumstances, certain research initiatives may be placed under the direct responsibility of the Chairman.

Program Records

Asia Pacific Rim
Description: A joint study with the Thailand Development Research Institute (TDRI) focused on Canada's economic relations with the Asia Pacific region. Program Record Number: ECC CRA 185

Competitiveness and Trade Performance
Description: This study exploits a comprehensive new world trade database in order to analyze the historical evolution of Canada's trade by country and by commodity. It compares the competitiveness of Canadian industry with that of other industrialized countries and of some of the newly industrialized economies. This requires new and more comprehensive measures of competitiveness. The study also examines the trends in Canada's international commercial relations. As well, it analyzes the extent of tariff and non-tariff barriers by country and by commodity. Program Record Number: ECC CRA 190

Education
Description: The project focuses on the ability of our education and training systems to meet a critical challenge and on Canada's ability to pursue vigorously a range of actions to enhance productivity and competitiveness and thereby ensure survival and prosperity in the global economy. While it is clearly understood that the goals of education are extremely broad, this project concentrates primarily, although not exclusively, on economic factors. The quality and efficacy of the education system constitutes a primary focus. Program Record Number: ECC CRA 195

Employment and the Service Economy
Description: The focus is on the changing industrial structure and its implications for the labour market and employment policy. Topics: Employment growth in service industries; the quality of new jobs; earnings distribution trends; training and education issues; and unionization in service industries. Program Record Number: ECC PRA 310

Energy

Description: Research and unpublished material relating to the Council consensus document, Connections: An Energy Strategy for the Future. Topics: World and domestic supplies of, and demand for, various forms of energy; the policy setting in which energy is produced and consumed; energy conservation and substitution; and designs for new energy strategies. Program Record Number: ECC PRA 265

Explorations

Description: Preliminary investigation of various economic issues to determine their nature, scope and pertinence to the Council's future research program and organization of colloquia to address major economic, social and environmental issues not currently being researched in depth by ongoing research groups. Topics: Mergers and acquisitions; health care in Canada; financial regulations; environmental policy; agriculture; industrial policy and work and family. Program Record Number: ECC CRA 120

Financial Institutions

Description: Research and background material concerning the efficiency of the financial sector as it relates to the sector's contribution to economic growth and social development. Topics: Solvency and stability; concentration; ownership; investment powers; organization; conflict of interest; self-dealing; supervision; deposit insurance; contribution to economic growth and regional development; operations; and regulatory aspects. Program Record Number: ECC PRA 201

Future of the Prairie Grain Economy

Description: At the request of the Prime Minister, the Economic Council of Canada is undertaking a comprehensive review of the issues and options confronting Prairie agriculture in view of the current severe problems besetting the western grain economy. Topics: The management of resources for grain production; the feasibility of developing policies to handle price and income instability; the type of farming which will be needed in future to cope with trade uncertainties; and the future of Prairie agriculture and the development and streamlining of policies to deal with that future. Program Record Number: ECC PRA 290

Government Enterprises

Description: Research and unpublished material on all government enterprises engaged in the production of generally marketable goods and services. Topics: The appropriate role to be played by such enterprises and ways in which the system of incentives and controls affecting them may be altered so as to make them more desirable instruments of public policy; performance of government corporations; ability of such enterprises to effectively provide various goods and services. Program Record Number: ECC PRA 210

Governments' Impact on Competitiveness

Description: The purpose of this study is to examine the impact of government on the competitiveness of the Canadian economy. It will assess the effect of major elements of federal, provincial, and municipal policies with respect to expenditure, taxation, and regulation on the ability of the Canadian economy to meet the test of international markets while expanding the real income of Canadians. Program Record Number: ECC CRA 164

Health Care

Description: The central objective of this project is to provide information to decision makers, public and private, that will help them cope with difficult health care choices. The Council intends to identify the underlying causes of the rise in health expenditures, explore how much of it comes from the aging of the population, how much from more intensive treatment, and how much from the adoption of more advanced medical technologies. The study will try to estimate what savings could be achieved by doing what's being done now more cost effectively, what could be saved by changing the mode of health care delivery, and how the system could be modified and still provide high-quality care for all Canadians. Program Record Number: ECC CRA 140

Human Resource Management

Description: The proposed study would address the following three questions: How are Canadian firms responding to the changing environment in terms of their HRM strategies? Are there systematic relationships between HRM strategies and firm performance? To what extent do the HRM strategies adopted by Canadian firms explain the employment outcomes we have observed in the labour market? Program Record Number: ECC CRA 150

Immigration

Description: Research and background material examining the advantages and disadvantages of increasing immigration into Canada as a means of postponing or even reversing the expected decline in population in the next century. It will pose both economic and social questions, including the impact of immigration on living standards, employment and unemployment, provincial revenue and expenditure, as well as the effect of a culturally more diverse society on both racial and cultural harmony. Program Record Number: ECC PRA 315

Industrial Adaptation

Description: This research will focus on the nature of changes that are developing within industries – at the firm level. Topics: The extent to which firm closings have recently increased; the extent to which new jobs are being produced in small as opposed to large firms; and the extent to which the decline in foreign ownership may have begun to affect the competitiveness of Canadian industries. In addition, a set of case studies would examine how technology transfer, human relations and government policy combine to facilitate or hinder the process of adaptation that is being demanded of the system. Program Record Number: ECC CRA 145

International Finance

Description: Research and background material concerning recent developments in international finance and their impact on Canada. Topics: Shifting pattern of capital flows; trade in financial services; future of Canadian securities market; innovation, fragility of the international financial system; regulatory frameworks and third-world debt. Program Record Number: ECC PRA 285

Local Development

Description: Research and unpublished material on Canadian regional development policy. Topics: The ways in which Canadian regional development policy can be changed in order to reduce disparities between regions; the appropriate role for government, vis-à-vis the private sector, in formulating and executing such policy. Program Record Number: ECC PRA 300

Manufacturing Firm Adjustment

Description: Research and background material concerning the adaptation of firms to trade pressures and opportunities in the manufacturing sector. Topics: Effects of bilateral and multilateral trade arrangements, international price changes, technological innovations and changing consumer preferences. Examinations of different adaptation responses: In Canadian-owned, compared to foreign branch, plants; in firms operating without tariff protection, compared to those which are protected; and in firms engaged in Canada-United States trade, compared to those which are not. Case studies which question whether federal policies promote or retard adjustment and what guidelines are appropriate to assist adaptation and to promote innovation. Program Record Number: ECC PRA 275

Performance and Outlook

Description: Analysis and unpublished documents on the Council's views related to the economic outlook for Canada, the United States and other OECD countries, derived from the use of a variety of analytical tools, including econometric models and personal computers. The models allow measurement of current performance and simulation of future performance under various scenarios and policy options. The simulations are designed to assess the impact of changes in economic performance that may result from changes in public policy or in economic conditions in Canada and abroad. The process of updating the analysis and assessing the influences of changing economic conditions is continuous. Program Record Number: ECC CRA 110

Perspective 2000

Description: The focus of "Visions of Canada in the Year 2000" is both global and multidisciplinary, placing Canada within an international context that has economic, political, and physical dimensions, the latter including demography, science and technology, and the physical environment. This project marked the 25th anniversary of the Economic Council of Canada. The project served a number of purposes: it systematically identified future policy issues and possible future directions for Council research; it focused national attention on emerging issues of concern; and it stimulated intellectual debate both in the Council and among outside policy-makers at senior levels in both the private and public sectors. There are three primary ways in which these goals were achieved: First, some of the best scholars in their respective fields were engaged to prepare papers on 12 topics; second, a major, high-level conference was planned for late 1988; and third, based upon the papers given at the conference, the contributions of the commentators, and the general discussion, a book of conference proceedings was prepared. Program Record Number: ECC PRA 295

Social Policy

Description: Research and background material concerning the effectiveness, efficiency and adequacy of social policy in meeting expressed social objectives and the side effects of social programs on the functioning of the economy, particularly in the context of significant adjustment and adaptation. Topics: The highly-fragmented and complicated nature of social programs; conflicting objectives between tax structures and transfer programs; links between economic and social policy; complexities introduced as a consequence of responsibility-sharing between levels of government; reform options to simultaneously meet social objectives and minimize constraints to required work force adjustment. Program Record Number: ECC CRA 135

Taxation of Capital Income

Description: Research and unpublished material on the taxation of capital income. Topics: Consequences of present and alternative tax treatments of capital incomes for the allocation of resources and in the distribution of income; developing recommendations for improved capital income tax structures; specification of transitions necessary to implement the recommendations; specification of related changes in capital markets and financial instruments that may be called for. Program Record Number: ECC PRA 205

Technological Change and Labour Markets

Description: Research and unpublished material on developments in technology and the implications thereof for labour markets. Topics: The growth, change and other occupational and industrial shifts in employment arising from technological change; institutional adaptations, such as industrial relations, patterns of working time, compensation, and the quality of working life that may be associated with technological change; education and mobility required by the adjustment process; social measures required to contribute equitably the benefits and costs resulting from technological change. Program Record Number: ECC PRA 270

Trade Policy Options and Structural Adjustment in Canada

Description: Research and background material concerning the output and employment effects of trade liberalization, by 40 industrial sectors, by occupation and by province. Topics: Nature and volume of trade among the industrialized and developing countries; output and employment of Canadian industries; shifts in output, investment, employment and occupations that should be anticipated under various scenarios of more liberalized trade; alternative stances and strategies that should be considered in negotiations leading to freer trade; policy options for dealing with dislocations that are bound to arise with more open trade. Program Record Number: ECC PRA 280

Twenty-eighth Annual Review

Description: The Canadian Economic Union. The main theme of the Twenty-eight Annual Review will be the evolution of economic and fiscal linkages in Canada in the context of the new political and economic realities. The Review will study the present state of the economic union and Canadian fiscal federalism at a time when the federal government is facing serious financial difficulties and world trade patterns are in the throes of major transformations. A variety of economic issues relevant to the current constitutional debate will be examined. The advantages and disadvantages of various proposals for reshaping the Canadian federation will be pointed out. Program Record Number: ECC CRA 163

Twenty-fifth Annual Review

Description: A central component of the review is its assessment of the performance of the Canadian economy and the medium-term outlook. In addition to an overview of international trends and developments, there is a longer term view of emerging policy issues and a theme chapter dealing with labour market adjustments to change. Program Record Number: ECC PRA 226

Twenty-fourth Annual Review

Description: The Council's Twenty-fourth Annual Review of the Canadian economy, published in the fall of 1987, examines some of the important structural changes, both domestic and international, that will influence Canada's long-term economic performance. These include fundamental changes in demographic patterns; the actual and potential widening of international financial and trading markets; the competitive opportunities thereby created; the growth, employment and inflation prospects for Canada, and the uncertainties that should be considered in any medium-run planning environment. Program Record Number: ECC PRA 225

Twenty-ninth Annual Review

Description: The Council will examine the relationship between economic growth and income distribution in the 1990s. It will consider the relationship between growth and distribution and selected policy areas that could support both objectives. Program Record Number: ECC CRA 155

Twenty-seventh Annual Review

Description: A central component of the Review is an assessment of the performance of the Canadian economy and the medium-term outlook. In addition to an overview of international and domestic developments, emerging new trading patterns in Asia, North America and Europe are analyzed. The impact of these new trading patterns on labour markets and the Canadian policy framework are dealt with in detail. Program Record Number: ECC PRA 228

Twenty-sixth Annual Review

Description: A central component of the review is its assessment of the performance of the Canadian economy and the medium-term outlook. In addition to an overview of international trends and developments, there is a longer term view of emerging demographic and intergenerational issues and a chapter dealing with changes in jobs and income. Program Record Number: ECC PRA 227

Twenty-third Annual Review

Description: Background research and unpublished material related to the Twenty-third Annual Review. Topics: Opportunities and challenges arising from widening international markets; the need for risk-taking and adaptation to create and sustain growth; values and priorities with respect to social, environmental and economic objectives; fundamental changes in demographic patterns; and consideration of policy options for attainment of performance targets in all major economic goal areas. Program Record Number: ECC PRA 224

Unemployment Issues

Description: Research and unpublished studies on Canadian unemployment issues. Topics: Canadian unemployment history (including our commitments to full employment); natural rate estimates for Canada and the regions; cyclical fluctuations in the labour market – employment and unemployment in recessions and recoveries; dynamics of unemployment inflow and outflow to the unemployed pool; impact of wage flexibility on employment; wage differentials across industries structure, allocation and determinants. Program Record Number: ECC PRA 305

Employment and Immigration Canada

Chapter 42

General Information

Background

The Employment and Immigration Reorganization Act, passed in 1977, created the Canada Employment and Immigration Commission (EIC) by integrating the former Unemployment Insurance Commission and the former Department of Manpower and Immigration. The legislation also created the Department of Employment and Immigration, which provides services to the Commission and the Minister.

Responsibilities

The specific federal mandate assigned to the Minister of Employment and Immigration under this Act encompasses all matters not assigned by law to other departments, branches or agencies of government, relating to the development and utilization of labour marketing resources in Canada, employment services, unemployment insurance and immigration.

Two major objectives dominate the work of the Commission/ Department: To realize the full productive potential of Canada's human resources, it administers a national unemployment insurance program while supporting the initiatives of individuals to pursue their economic needs and, more generally, their self-fulfilment through work; and to administer the admission of immigrants and non-immigrants in accordance with the economic, social and cultural interest of Canada.

Legislation

- Employment and Immigration Department and Commission Act, (R.S.C. 1985, C.E-5; S.C. 1976-77, c. 54, s. 2) and Canada Employment and Immigration Advisory Council Act, (R.S.C. 1985, c. C-4; S.C. 1976-77, c. 54, s. 15)
- Employment Equity Act, R.S.C. 1986, c. 31 and Regulations
- Government Annuities Act, R.S.C. 1970, c. G-6 and Regulations
- Government Annuities Improvement Act, R.S.C. 1974-75-76, c. 83
- Immigration Act, R.S.C., C-85, c. 1 and Regulations
- Labour Adjustment Benefits Act, (R.S.C. 1985, C. L-1; S.C. 1980-81-82-83, c. 89, s. 1)

- Reinstatement in Civil Employment Act, R.S.C. 1952, c. 236
- Unemployment Insurance Act, (R.S.C. 1985, C. U-1, S.C. 1970-71-72, c. 48, s. 1) (excluding Parts II, III and VII) and Associated Regulations, i.e. Unemployment Insurance Regulations, C.R.C. 1978, Volume XVIII, c. 1576, and National Employment Service Regulations, C.R.C. 1978, Volume XVIII, c. 1573

Organization

The Commission/Department's National Headquarters is made up of eight major groups. Of these, three are directly concerned with services to the public. They are: Employment, Insurance and Immigration. These groups collect, generate and use the bulk of personal information on clients.

■ Youth Affairs Group

The Youth Affairs Group is the organizational branch of EIC which supports the office of the Minister of State for Youth by providing a broad advisory and coordination role for youth issues and concerns. During 1989-90 the Youth Affairs Group identified, researched and analyzed youth issues, particularly federal employment and social policy programs as they related to youth.

■ Insurance Group

This group develops and executes legislation, policies, programs and systems with respect to benefit payments and control of payments according to the Unemployment Insurance Act, administered by the Commission, including regular, sickness, maternity and parental unemployment insurance benefits, benefits paid to claimants referred to approved training, benefits paid to claimants in approved work sharing and job creation projects, and labour adjustment benefits. The Group represents the Commission in submitting or contesting appeals with respect to decisions concerning such benefits. It is also responsible for the development of financial parameters under the Unemployment Insurance Act as well as for policy development with respect to the Supplementary Unemployment Insurance Benefits Program, the Interstate Claim Program, Social Insurance Number Program, the Government Annuities Program and the Unemployment Insurance Premium Reduction Program.

■ Employment Group

The Employment Group is responsible for the efficient functioning of the Canadian labour market. One of the objectives of this group is to match job opportunities with available qualified workers and to ensure that employers can get the skilled workers they need in a timely and effective manner.

It also encourages human resource planning by the private sector, the adjustment of enterprises, and assistance to individuals in adjusting to changing labour market conditions.

The Employment Group provides assistance where it is most needed, by focusing programs on individuals, employers and communities that would benefit most from government support. It has been restructured to focus on a continuum of programs and services that will provide our clients with the best quality of service possible.

The legislative authorities for the activities of the Employment Group are contained in the National Employment Service Regulations, the National Training Act, the Annual Appropriation Act and the Employment Equity Act.

Targets and means of monitoring are established to ensure the equitable participation by women in all labour market programs. There are also special approaches tailored to the needs of individuals with employment disadvantages, and to the special needs of Canada'a aboriginal peoples.

■ Immigration Group

This group is responsible for the development, implementation and assessment of immigration policies and services. Its activities include the recruitment and selection of immigrants and the regulation of the entry of refugees, temporary workers, foreign students and visitors to Canada. (Responsibility for processing applications from prospective immigrants and for issuing various types of visas resides with employees of External Affairs posts abroad when the request is initiated outside Canada.) Other responsibilities include assisting Canadian residents on their return to Canada and assisting with the adaptation of recently arrived immigrants. The work of the group also encompasses the exclusion, control or expulsion of persons whose admission or stay in Canada is prohibited by law.

The activities of the above groups are supported by the seven remaining groups.

■ Public Affairs Branch

The Public Affairs Branch plans, co-ordinates, advises, implements, and evaluates CEIC/D activities in the areas of communications planning, internal communications, issues management, public opinion research, promotion, information, media relations, publishing and advertising. The Branch informs the public, in both official languages, about CEIC/D policies, programs and services related to Immigration, Unemployment Insurance, Youth, the Canadian Jobs Strategy and National Employment Services.

■ Strategic Policy and Planning Group

This group has broad responsibility for developing and maintaining statistical information banks which may be used for research, evaluation, policy and program analysis, and development in support of the various EIC programs and services. The data are frequently extracted from the personal information banks described in the previous sections and they may be supplemented by questionnaires, surveys or other research tools. These data may be of interest to several groups within EIC.

■ Systems and Procedures Group

This group is responsible for the development and operation of the manual and electronic data processing systems required to execute EIC's programs.

■ National Services

National Services is responsible for the administration of the Social Insurance Number, the Canadian Government Annuities and the Unemployment Insurance Premium Reduction programs.

■ Personnel Services

This group provides a full range of personnel services to EIC.

■ Finance and Administration

This group provides financial and administrative management services to EIC, including the management and maintenance of all EIC records.

■ Corporate Secretariat

The Secretariat consists of Briefing, Cabinet and Parliamentary Affairs, Executive Services, Information and Correspondence Management, Stakeholders and Intergovernmental Relations, Public Rights Administration Directorate and the Special Advisor, Corporate Initiatives. It is responsible for support services to the Commission and the senior management, the coordination of corporate issues and activities, federal-provincial and international relations, the administration of the privacy, Human Rights and Access to Information Acts.

■ Regional Organization

EIC maintains an extensive field organization, comprising some 900 local and district offices across Canada, which is divided into 10 regions, corresponding to the provinces (with the Yukon and Northwest Territories included in the British Columbia and Alberta regions, respectively). Canada Immigration Centres deliver the programs of the Immigration Group and Canada Employment Centres deliver the programs of Employment and Insurance. Local activities are directed by a regional office in each province.

Electronic Data Processing (EDP) Systems

The Immigration Group uses an integrated clerical, manual and EDP system to deliver its programs and services. The following sub-systems support the various immigration programs and services. These sub-systems may support several of the information banks already described; the numbers of the corresponding banks are given in all instances. All sub-systems are linked to each other, either by a full computer connection (interface), or by information enabling a physical check of the systems. Therefore, actions in one sub-system can and do effect the smooth running of others. Approximately 25 separate immigration forms, with a total volume of 1,000,000 documents, are processed through these sub-systems each year.
(1) Immigration Data System Overseas (IDSO) (EDP-1); Immigration Data System Canada (IDSC) (EDP-2); IDSO and IDSC maintain a record of all applications for permanent resident status either at an overseas office or from within Canada. The systems produce information in support of the recruitment and selection function. The data are case-oriented and can only be accessed by providing the case serial number recorded on the landing record. Files, including microfilm records, date back to 1975. Records are kept for 15 years. (EIC PPU 225);
(2) Landed Immigrant Data System (EDP-3): The Landed Immigrant Data System retains a permanent record of the granting of permanent residence to individuals. Its main purpose is to create an official name index which is used by immigration officers in Canada and abroad to verify an individual's status in Canada as well as legal proof of residence for citizenship, Old Age Security, Family Allowance, welfare, etc. In addition, information from the system is the sole source for all Commission reports on permanent residents. (EIC PPU 230); (3) Visitor Data System (EDP-4): The Visitor Data System retains a permanent record of all persons who have been granted permission to enter or remain in Canada for a temporary period either as a visitor, student, temporary worker or permit holder. Its main purpose is to create an official name index which is used by immigration officers in Canada to verify an individual's status in Canada. In addition, information from this system is the sole source for all Commission reports on visitors and Minister's permit holders. Data to produce the annual report to Parliament on Minister's permits are retained in this system. (EIC PPU 285; 290;295;300); (4) Enforcement Information Index (EII)(EDP-5): (See EIC PPU 265 for details.);
(5) Enforcement Data System (EDS) (EDP-6): (See EIC PPU 270 for details.); (6) Field Operational Support System (FOSS) (EDP-7): FOSS is designed to extract relevant information from other Immigration sub-systems in order to allow status checks by field offices via computer terminal or microfiche. It is the basic support of the enforcement function. The feeder systems are: Enforcement Information Index (EII); Enforcement Data System (EDS), the Landed Immigrant Data System, and Visitor Data System (VIDS). The integrity of FOSS is dependent upon the other sub-systems. FOSS output is available through an on-line terminal system in Canada. A set of EDS (EIC PPU 270) and EII (EIC PPU 265) cases produced on microfiche and in book form is distributed to Canada Immigration Centres across Canada and to posts (embassies and consulates) abroad.

Enforcement Data System

Description: The bank contains information from the enforcement records of persons who have come under examination at a port of entry or at an inland Canada

Immigration Centre. The bank includes a report from an immigration officer and a record of the enquiry, appeal and removal process. Records may include name, address, birth date, country of birth, Social Insurance Number, enforcement action undertaken (i.e. a report, arrest, inquiry or removal under the Immigration Act), and the date and place of each event in the process. The deportation order is available on persons subject to the removal process from January 1, 1973. Some of the information may be duplicated in the Immigrant Case File (EIC PPU 225) and the Permanent Resident Data System (EIC PPU 230). Persons seeking access to this information must supply their name, date of birth, approximate date of entry to Canada and port of entry. Class of Individuals: Persons who have been subject to the enforcement provisions of the Immigration Act of Canada. Purpose: The purpose of this bank is to help determine the admissibility of persons to Canada or the right of persons to remain in Canada, and to produce statistical reports in support of the enforcement function. Consistent Uses: Information is also used by the Insurance and Labour Market Programs of the EIC and by the Immigration Appeal Division, IRB. Other uses may include sharing information with the department of Secretary of State (Citizenship Branch), Justice and the Solicitor General. Information is shared with Statistics Canada for statistical purposes and with the Department of External Affairs for statistical and planning purposes, as well as in the administration of the immigration program abroad. It may also be used for internal audit purposes. It may be provided to private sector research firms for planning, statistics, research and evaluations. The information is also shared with Revenue Canada (Customs and Excise) to aid the officers at the Primary Inspection Line (PIL) in referring persons to Immigration for further examination. Selected fields may be extracted from this bank and used to produce reports necessary as a backup to the FOSS online system. (See Electronic Data Processing Systems). Retention and Disposal Standards: Paper records are retained two to 10 years after last administrative action. Automated information is retained for 15 years and microfilmed information is retained for 50 years at Immigration headquarters in Ottawa. TBS Registration: 001980 Contact: Manager, Canada Immigration Centre (consult telephone directory for address) Bank Number: EIC PPU 270

■ National Services

Electronic Data Processing (EDP) Systems

National Services uses integrated clerical, manual and electronic data processing systems to deliver EIC's services. The following systems support the administration of the Social Insurance Number program and the Government Annuities program, which are administered by the group, as well as the Record of Employment (third copy) program. (1) Information Systems – Social Insurance Number Registration (EDP-1): These systems support the administration of the Social Insurance Number (SIN) program by maintaining a database of all SINs issued in Canada which is used to validate SIN data, produce reports and micrographics. Information is held on high-speed cartridges. (EIC PPU 390); (2) Information Systems – Annuities (EDP-2): These systems support the administration of the Government Annuities Program, and are used to produce payments; T4 slips for annuity contracts in payment; related financial, actuarial and administrative reports; and a database for contracts not yet in payment. Information is held on magnetic tape. (EIC PPU 395); (3) Insurance Systems – Control (EDP-3): These systems support the insurance control activities by using information from the Record of Employment, Report on Hirings, Wage Loss Insurance Program and other EIC control systems to identify fraud and abuse of insurance programs. (EIC PPU 385)

Social Insurance Number Registration

Description: Information in the individual records includes the applicant's first name, middle name, surname, date of birth, surname at birth, other surnames formerly used, sex, whether the applicant is a twin, place of birth, father's full name, mother's maiden name; it also shows the Social Insurance Number (SIN) issued or re-issued, marital status, status in Canada, telephone number, mailing address, and may include the name and address of the employer. The microfilm image also shows the date of application, the applicant's signature and witnesses when required. This bank contains a microfilm image of each approved application for issuance of a Social Insurance Number, for issuance of a replacement Social Insurance Number card, or for amendment of social insurance register records. All requests for access by individuals must include the Social Insurance Number, name and place and date of birth of the individual. Also required is the maiden name of the individual's mother, as well as the documentary proof of identity required in submitting an original application for a Social Insurance Number. Particulars of the documentary evidence required can be obtained by contacting any Canada Employment Centre. Class of Individuals: Canadian citizens, permanent residents and individuals who are neither Canadian citizens nor permanent residents. Purpose: The purpose for which the information is obtained is to register persons pursuant to section 107 of the Unemployment Insurance Act and subsection 100(1) of the Canada Pension Plan Act to record persons in respect of whom an application has been made to the Commission, and to identify accurately all persons so registered. It is also for use in the administration of certain Acts of Canada, such as the Unemployment Insurance Act, the Canada Pension Plan Act and the Old Age Security Act. Exchange of information with Revenue Canada (Taxation) and other federal departments is also provided for under the Canada Pension Plan Act, the Family Allowance Act and the Unemployment Insurance Act. Information may also be shared with the Department of Justice for the purpose of administering the Family Orders and Agreements Enforcement Assistance Act. Similarly, special Social Insurance Numbers are issued for immigration and other purposes to persons who are neither Canadian citizens nor permanent residents pursuant to the Unemployment Insurance Regulations in conjunction with the Immigration Act. Therefore, information on the Social Insurance Number Register is exchangeable with EIC officials administering the immigration program. Consistent Uses: Subsection 108(4) of the Unemployment Insurance Act provides for the use of Social Insurance Register data for the accurate identification of individuals and for the effective use by such individuals of their social insurance cards and numbers. On this basis, the Central Index will, if an authorized enquirer presents data about a Social Insurance Number holder sufficient to identify that holder on the Social Insurance Registers, divulge the holder's Social Insurance Number to the enquirer. This is known as "give the SIN" and is extended to employers or former employers to meet the requirements of the Unemployment Insurance Act and the Income Tax Act. This service is also extended to other government departments, and to organizations in other levels of governments, where the Commission has approved such an exchange with the enquiring organization. Examples are: Department of National Defence (the Social Insurance Number is used as a service number by armed services personnel), Department of Veterans Affairs, Prince Edward Island Medical Care Plan (administration of Health Insurance Plan), Secretary of State – Student Loans (administration of Canada Student Loans Program), Impôt Québec (administration of Québec Income Tax), Commission de la santé et la sécurité au travail (administration of the Québec workmen's compensation plan), Régie des rentes du Québec (administration of the Québec Pension Plan), and Régie de l'assurance-maladie du Québec (administration of the Québec Health Insurance Plan). Moreover, an employer or former employer who has lost contact with an employee and who needs his/her Social Insurance Number to meet legal requirements, can obtain it through the Central Index. The RCMP may request data from the bank when they are required for the purposes of investigations under the Unemployment Insurance Act, the Canada Pension Plan Act, Family Allowance Act and the Income Tax Act. Data may also be released to the RCMP to assist the Force to identify deceased persons and to inform their next of kin, where the circumstances of death would otherwise make such identification and notification difficult. Finally, the RCMP may request the identity of the person whose Social Insurance Number appears inscribed upon an item of property believed stolen, where it appears that the owner intended his/her Social Insurance Number to be used this way. The RCMP may also request information from the Social Insurance Registers for the purposes of accurate identification of individuals. Other police forces may request similar information, but only through the RCMP. Retention and Disposal Standards: Files are retained for one hundred years after the Social Insurance Number has been issued. TBS Registration: 002396 Contact: Manager, Central Index, P.O. Box 7000, Bathurst, New Brunswick E2A 4T1 Bank Number: EIC PPU 390

General Accounts Receivable System

Description: This bank contains information relating to accounts receivable, other than unemployment insurance overpayments or immigration loans which are owed by individuals to the Commission and the Receiver General for Canada. It is a computerized record of accounts receivable and all the transactions affecting those accounts. Each record contains the name, address, age, sex, marital status, Social Insurance Number and preferred language of the debtor, together with information relating to the reason for, the amount and the repayment method of the account receivable. Class of Individuals: All individuals who have received overpayments under Employment and Immigration Canada programs, other than unemployment insurance overpayments or Immigration Transportation loans, or who have accounts receivable, other than overpayments, such as unemployment insurance fines. Purpose: This information was compiled and obtained to facilitate the collection of accounts receivable in compliance with Treasury Board directives on maintaining records of all such accounts owed to Canada. Information is also collected in compliance with the requirements of the Public Accounts of Canada and with various directives from the Auditor General of Canada and the Receiver General for Canada. Consistent Uses: Accounts receivable are reported in the Public Accounts of Canada. The General Accounts Receivable System (GARS) is linked with the Training Allowance Payment System at Supply and Services Canada which passes records of overpayments and recoveries of training allowances back to GARS from the former Documentation for the National Institutional Training Program (EIC PPU 045, now under EIC PPU 074). This bank is matched with the Report of Hirings (EIC PPU 210) and the individual income tax return (RCT PPU 005) to trace the individual. It is also linked with Unemployment Insurance Overpayment (EIC PPU 161) in order to trace the individual and recover the accounts receivable from unemployment insurance benefits. This bank is linked with the Report on Hirings (EIC PPU 210) for the purpose of recouping the accounts receivable from overpayments of unemployment insurance benefits and to trace the individual. It may be provided to private sector research firms for planning, statistics, research and evaluations. Retention and Disposal Standards: Statements, vouchers, ledgers and registers on paper are retained for six years. Magnetic tape records are retained for three years. TBS Registration: 002403 Contact: Director, Accounting Policy and Information Systems Directorate (See Key Addresses at beginning of chapter) Bank Number: EIC PPU 164

Immigration Program Accounts Receivable

Description: This bank includes the following information: Name, address, telephone number and Social Insurance Number of individuals against whom fines have been levied or to whom loans have been made and also includes amounts paid, repaid and outstanding, credit reports, tracing actions, and comments of immigrants and collecting officers and related correspondence. Information is duplicated in part on the Transportation, Admissibility and Assistance Loans Programs file. Class of Individuals: Immigrants, Convention Refugees or Designated Classes and new arrivals without sufficient assets to pay transportation costs, establish admissibility (medical costs overseas) or who are in need of financial assistance upon arrival and have received transportation, admissibility or assistance loans. Purpose: This bank is used to record and monitor the collection of outstanding loans and fines. It is a computerized record of loans and fines. A manual file is also maintained on overpayment recovery activity. Consistent Uses: This bank is also matched with the Report on Hirings (EIC PPU 210), the General Accounts Receivable System (EIC PPU 164), the Benefit and Overpayment Master File (EIC PPU 180), the Unemployment Insurance Overpayment File (EIC PPU 161) and the Individual Income Tax Return (RCT PPU 005) in order to trace individuals and pursue the collection of debts due the Crown. Information from this bank may be used by Employment and Immigration Canada for purposes of research, planning, evaluation, statistics and internal audit and may be provided to private research firms for this purpose. It may also be shared with Private Collection Agencies for collection purposes. Retention and Disposal Standards: Information is retained for five years after the loan or fine is paid, repaid, recouped or written off. TBS Registration: 002760 Contact: Director, Accounting, Policy and Information Systems Directorate (See Key Addresses at beginning of chapter) Bank Number: EIC PPU 435

Information Disclosures to Investigative Bodies

Description: The bank contains copies of requests for disclosure of personal information in letter form or Treasury Board form 350-56 (83/2) (Request for Disclosure to Federal Investigative Bodies) submitted to EIC under paragraph 8(2)(e) of the Privacy Act by investigative bodies listed in Schedule II of the Privacy Regulations and where agreements exist under paragraph 8(2)(f) of the Privacy Act by investigative bodies carrying out lawful investigations. This bank also contains the replies to such requests and particulars related to their processing. Class of Individuals: Persons under investigation by federal or provincial investigative bodies pursuant to law. Purpose: The bank is used to record disclosures of personal information to federal law enforcement bodies under paragraph 8(2)(e) or 8(2)(f) of the Privacy Act and to report to the Privacy Commissioner on the number of these requests. Retention and Disposal Standards: The information in this bank is retained for two years after the date of last entry. TBS Registration: 002373 Contact: Director of Security, National Office (See Key Addresses at beginning of chapter) Bank Number: EIC PPU 400

Personal Service Contracts

Description: The bank may contain information on the qualifications and work experience of the contractor, letters of reference, details of the contract and assessments of the contractor's performance. Class of Individuals: Individuals who have signed personal service contracts with Employment and Immigration Canada. Purpose: The purpose of this bank is to document individuals who have signed personal service contracts with Employment and Immigration Canada. The information may be used to determine terms of payment, contract extension or renewal, and in other decisions pertaining to the contract. Consistent Uses: Information may be used for internal audit purposes. It may be provided to private sector research firms for planning, statistic, research and evaluations. Retention and Disposal Standards: Files are destroyed six fiscal years after termination of contract. TBS Registration: 001785 Contact: At National Headquarters: Director, Materiel Management, National Office (See Key Addresses at beginning of chapter) or Regional Chiefs of Materiel Management (See Key Addresses at beginning of chapter) Bank Number: EIC PPU 425

Departmental practices with regard to the Social Insurance Number

Employment Group
The collection and use of the Social Insurance Number by this Group are authorized by the Unemployment Insurance Act, the Immigration Act and the Income Tax Act. All personal information banks under the control of the Employment group contain the Social Insurance Numbers of individuals except Canada Employment Centre Client's Counselling Case File, Canadian Jobs Strategy – Community Futures Program (CFP), National Institutional Training Program Follow-up Survey and Canadian Jobs Strategy Follow-up Surveys.

Insurance Group
The collection and use of the Social Insurance Number by this group are authorized by the Unemployment Insurance Act. All personal information banks under its control contain the Social Insurance Number of individuals except Contract Agents List and List of Chairpersons and Members of Boards of Referees.

Immigration Group
The collection and use of the Social Insurance Number by this group are consistent with the Privacy Act and have been approved by Treasury Board. The Social Insurance Numbers of individuals are contained in EIC PPU 235 and EIC PPU 305.

Strategic Policy and Planning Group
The collection and use of the Social Insurance Number by this group are for statistical and research purposes and are therefore permissible under section 7 and 8 of the Privacy Act. All personal information banks under its control contain the Social Insurance Numbers of individuals except EIC PPU 326 (now under EIC PPU 324), 330, 350 and 355.

All queries of banks of this group are to be made using the title of the officer for the particular bank together with the EIC National Office address shown under Key Addresses at the beginning of the chapter.

National Services
The collection and use of the Social Insurance Number by this group have been authorized by the Unemployment Insurance Act. All personal information banks under its control contain the Social Insurance Numbers of individuals.

Finance and Administration Group
The collection and use of the Social Insurance Number by this group are authorized by the Unemployment Insurance Act, the Privacy Act and the Income Tax Act. All personal information banks under its control contain the Social Insurance Numbers of individuals except EIC PPU 425.

Energy, Mines and Resources Canada

Chapter 43

General Information

Background

Previously known as the Department of Mines and Technical Surveys, the Department of Energy, Mines and Resources (EMR) was created in 1966 by the Department of Energy, Mines and Resources Act. Some branches of the Department have been in existence for more than a century.

Responsibilities

Energy, Mines and Resources' objective is to advance the development of Canada's economy, in a manner consistent with federal environmental and social objectives, by contributing to the timely and efficient development and use of Canada's mineral and energy resources and augmenting knowledge and understanding of the Canadian landmass.

Legislation

Organization

Three Crown corporations report to Parliament through the Minister of Energy, Mines and Resources: the Atomic Energy Control Board, Atomic Energy of Canada Limited and Petro-Canada Limited. Five autonomous agencies also report to Parliament through the Minister: the Board of Examiners for Canada Lands Surveys, the Canadian Permanent Committee on Geographical Names, the Energy Supplies Allocation Board, the National Energy Board and the Petroleum Monitoring Agency.

■ Direction and Coordination

Direction and Coordination is responsible for the administration of federal and departmental program objectives. Through pursuit of the departmental mission, it is also responsible for the achievement of federal government goals and for managing allocated resources in an effective and efficient manner.

■ Corporate Policy and Communications Sector

This Sector is responsible for the Department's strategic policy and plans, the integration of strategic and operational plans, intergovernmental relations, communication, the provision of advice to the Minister on Cabinet and Parliamentary matters, the coordination of central agency liaison, the development of programs, advice and analysis on departmental operations and management issues, and for the administration of EMR's environmental activities.

■ Human Resources Sector

This Sector is responsible for the development, implementation and provision of a full range of personnel policies, programs and services to meet the current and future personnel management needs of the Department.

■ Finance and Administration Sector

This Sector provides financial, administrative, informatics, and support services to departmental operations so as to ensure accountability and control (including the preparation of Treasury Board Submissions).

■ Canada Oil and Gas Lands Administration (COGLA)

In 1981, COGLA was established by a Memorandum of Understanding between the Minister of Energy, Mines and Resources and the Minister of Indian Affairs and Northern Development. The prime responsibility of the organization is to regulate the exploration for and the development and production of oil and gas on Canada's frontier lands in a manner that ensures safety of the worker, effective resource conservation, protection of the environment and full and fair access by Canadians to the benefits arising from activities related to the development of hydrocarbon resources. NOTE: The administration of Frontier Oil and Gas Lands Activity was officially disbanded September 1st, 1991. The activities were transferred to either the EMR Mineral Policy Sector, the Energy Sector or to other government institutions.

■ Energy Sector

This Sector is responsible for enhancing the broad economic policies of the Government of Canada by advising on and establishing and maintaining effective federal energy policies, strategies, emergency plans and activities, with due regard to their economic, regional, international and environmental implications and by providing information and other services which promote the efficient use of energy in Canada, and the orderly development and efficient allocation of an adequate, secure and cost-effective spectrum of energy sources to meet Canada's foreseeable domestic requirements and export opportunities.

■ Geological Survey of Canada Sector

This Sector is responsible for ensuring the availability of the geoscientific knowledge base for all of Canada including the offshore. This Sector provides a wide range of information and expert advice necessary for: exploration and discovery of minerals and fossil fuels; mineral and fossil fuel resource assessment; environmental impact assessment; geological engineering including earthquake and landslide hazards; planning and policy formulation; and logistics for scientific investigations in the high Arctic.

■ Surveys, Mapping and Remote Sensing Sector

This Sector is responsible for national geodetic surveys, property surveys on Canada Lands, the maintenance of the international boundary, the preparation and distribution of topographic, geographic, electoral and aeronautical maps and related digital files, and for the acquisition and use of remote sensing data.

■ Mineral and Energy Technology Sector

This Sector is responsible for the formulation and development of research and development programs in mineral and energy technology and for the administration of the Canada Explosives Act. The Sector strives to enhance the role and contribution of the minerals and energy sectors to the Canadian economy through mission-oriented R&D in the mining and recovery, processing, conversion, extraction and utilization of metals, industrial minerals and fossil fuels; also, R&D in energy efficiency, renewable energy and alternative transportation fuels. The Sector is also responsible for the coordination of energy R&D for the Government of Canada. Research programs serve government responsibilities in areas of policy, health and safety, protection of the environment, and economic and regional development. A major portion of the research and technology development related to energy, minerals and metals is responsive to the needs of users and includes the latter's involvement on a full- and shared-cost basis, but part of the program is driven by the requirements of the federal energy R&D policies. An important objective of the Sector is the development of technologies that are safe and environmentally compatible as well as economically competitive.

■ Mineral Policy Sector

This Sector evaluates, recommends and implements specific policies, strategies and delivers incentives programs for EMR which foster the development of the minerals and metals sector and which ensure its maximum contribution to the Canadian economy. These activities are carried out in consultation and close cooperation with the provinces, territories, industry and labour.

Description: Information relating to the coordination of personnel services for the Management Category and the development of departmental policies and procedures for the improved management of human resources to achieve equitable representation in the employment of women, disabled persons and other minorities, including the development of official languages policy and programs on services to the public, language of work and equitable representation of anglophones and francophones, and the delivery of classification services to management. Topics: Management category and human resources planning programs; management category; exchanges loans and secondment; Interchange Canada; Interchange Canada \ Executive Interchange Program; conflict of interest; secondment; official languages; departmental official languages program, plans, policies; official languages complaints, program evaluation and training; individual language training; language training by Public Service Commission and private companies; translation services; departmental equitable representation; employment equity; employment equity staffing monitoring project; target group self identification; employment equity for women, persons with disabilities; aboriginal people and visible minorities; human resource planning and management; human resources long-term and multi-year plans; human resources planning for scientific category (SE-RES); performance review and appraisal; career planning; Career Assignment Program; Corporate Assignment Program; classification and organization; sector management classification committees. Program Record Number: EMR HRS 660

Personnel Program Operations

Description: Information relating to the provision of personnel administrative services and programs and to the provision of personnel advice to management and employees of the Department. Aspects include information relating to training and development, official languages, personnel management information systems and services, staffing, classification and organization, staff relations, compensation and benefits program, work force adjustment, and employee assistance and counselling. Topics: Departmental training; long-term training; Treasury Board Secretariat – training; Public Service Commission – training; non-departmental training; investigations; harassment; Personnel Management Information Systems and Services (PMISS); Central Agency Human Resources Systems; Human Resources Systems Development; Human Resources Sector Systems; Personnel Administrative and Reporting System; Operational Tracking System (OTS); Incentives Awards Program; Suggestion Awards Program; Merit Awards Program; staffing; Student Employment Programs; special employment programs; staffing actions; staffing resources training and development; staffing selection standards; monitoring and review; appeals; employment; transfers; competitions; National Joint Council; collective bargaining; managerial and confidential exclusions; grievances; Employee Assistance Program; unions; strikes and work stoppages; disciplinary action; hours of work and overtime; pay and benefits; superannuation; performance pay plan; scientific research pay plan; senior merit pay plan; pension plans; insurance; income tax; garnishment of pay; work force adjustment; unemployment insurance; staff relations. Program Record Number: EMR HRS 655

■ Finance and Administration Sector

Assets Policy, Planning and Systems

Description: Information relating to capital assets, policy and procedures, planning and systems development for the Assets Management and Administrative Services Branch. Aspects include service and information brochures. Topics: assets policy, planning and systems; assets management and administrative services – policies and procedures; assets planning; master accommodation plans; assets planning – facilities; long term capital plan; assets automated information systems; master accommodation plans. Program Record Number: EMR FAS 750

Energy, Mines and Resources Administration

Description: Information relating to the provision of management direction, policy, advice and comprehensive management support functions, systems and services to the two operational programs. Topics: Energy, Mines and Resources administration; Public Service 2000; legislation; regulatory reform legislation; associations and organizations; departmental authorities; campaigns and canvassing; ceremonies and celebrations; committees, task forces, working groups; Corporate Management Committee; Mines and Resources Management Committee; corporations; conferences, meetings and seminars; consultants; correspondence procedures; executive correspondence procedures; inventions, patents and copyrights; legal documents; legal documents – cases; legal matters; Orders-in-Council; circular and directives; departmental organization; interdepartmental organizations; Parliament; parliamentary enquiries; parliamentary Cabinet committees; reports; status of women; Treasury Board submissions; domestic visits; passports and visas. Program Record Number: EMR FAS 700

Facilities Operations

Description: Information relating to the planning, management and organization of buildings, properties, lands and sites owned or leased by the Department. Topics: facilities operations; liaison with department of Public Works; service agreements; strategic planning; work plans; work plan reporting system; accounting and inventories; accommodation; crown-owned living accommodation; buildings and properties; buildings and properties – by province; conservation and health issues in buildings; emergency and safety procedures in buildings; parking administration; streets and sidewalks; tenant services. Program Record Number: EMR FAS 730

Financial Management

Description: Information relating to the provision of a decentralized financial management service to organizations throughout the Department, including the preparation of departmental operational plans and the distribution by allotment of appropriate funds from Treasury Board. Topics: Financial management; Financial Management Branch operational plans; accounts and accounting; accounts payable; accounts receivable; accounts receivable aging reports; advances; allotment and transfer of funds; banks and banking; cheques and chequing; claims; financial commitment control; cost recovery; debts due to the Crown; estimates and budgets; capital budgets; supplementary estimates; supplementary "A" estimates; supplementary "B" estimates; supplementary "C" estimates; supplementary "D" estimates; expenditures; expenditure forecast and variance analysis; provincial expenditures; expenditures for scientific activities; fees; financial authorities; financial encumbrances; funds and funding; grants and contributions; hospitality expenses; investments; loans; multi-year operational plans; budget year operational plans; public accounts; financial reporting and information systems; financial reports, statistics and statements; financial reports, statistics and statements for computer; revenue control; taxes; travel allowances and expenses; credit cards; conference allowances and expenses; travel and relocation expenses; travel and relocation expenses – cases. Program Record Number: EMR FAS 720

Information Management

Description: Information relating to the development and maintenance of policies, procedures, systems and services required to support the general administration of government information management policies. Aspects include the administration of the access to information and privacy legislation, the coordination of information collection, the maintenance of a departmental information inventory and the management of records regardless of physical form or characteristics. Topics: Information management; office automation systems improvement services; forms management; forms management projects; departmental forms; non-departmental government forms; information inventory; information inventory of electronic data; departmental central index; essential records program; information systems design, implementation and maintenance; information management services agreements; information systems operations and evaluation; information evaluation and scheduling – authorities, accessions and transfers, disposal, records in storage facilities; transfer of historical records; workplans and reports; electronic information management systems; electronic information management systems support; departmental automated management systems support; information management training; training in the use of electronic information management systems; audio visual and graphic services; library services; Headquarters library services; sector library services; library services, automation. Program Record Number: EMR FAS 710

Information Technology

Description: Information relating to the providing information technology services which reflect Central and Departmental policies and guidelines. Topics: information technology; information technology planning; contracts; professional service contracts; software licences contracts; rental and maintenance contracts; local purchase orders; associations and organizations; committees; conferences; liaison; policy, planning and coordination; information management plan; information technology and systems plan (ITSP); Treasury Board information technology standards; Energy, Mines and Resources information technology standards; EMR computing study; network applications; executive network; computing facilities services and projects; computer hardware; computer software; computer operations; data communication lines; telecommunications; telephones; EMR telecommunications system acquisition project; Information Centre; Resource Centre; Information technology training and security; consulting services; computer applications projects. Program Record Number: EMR FAS 770

Materiel Management

Description: Information relating to the procurement, leasing and inventory control of materiel and services for organizations throughout the Department. Topics: materiel management; operational work plans; accounting and inventories – field equipment, materiel in stores, materiel in use; catalogues, manuals and price lists for materiel and equipment; disposal of equipment; loan of equipment; Northern logistics; photocopying and printing services; mail and messenger services; procurement of materiel and services; sources of supply for materiel and services; procurement of materiel, services contractors, legal surveys and printing services, maintenance and repair of office machinery and equipment; fax services; vehicles; motor vehicle accidents; transportation of materiel; transportation of personnel. Program Record Number: EMR FAS 740

Safety, Environment, Security and ATIP

Description: Information relating to the safeguarding of employee health and safety, ensuring that the working conditions minimize the risk of injuries and materiel loss, and coordinating the sector's operational activities that relate to the environment. Other aspects include the processing of security requests, security of information, materiel, equipment and facilities as well as the administration of the Access to Information and Privacy Acts. Topics: administration of the Access to Information and Privacy Acts (ATIP); ATIP consultations by government institutions; departmental reports on administration of ATIP Acts; interdepartmental reports on administration of ATIP Acts; information collections; personal information collections; requests for access to information; requests for access to personal information; requests for personal information by investigative bodies and federal investigative bodies; requests to personal information under section 8(2)(M); security of information; departmental security; physical security and incidents; personnel security and clearances; occupational health and safety; occupational health and safety committees and training; occupational health and safety hazardous occurrences; occupational health and safety – accidents; occupational health and safety standards, codes, regulations and policies; fire prevention and protection; dangerous substances management; occupational health and safety facility and operation investigations; environment. Program Record Number: EMR FAS 760

Energy

■ Canada Oil and Gas Lands Administration

Canada Oil and Gas Lands Administration

Description: Information relating to the administration of oil and gas exploration and production rights on frontier lands which include the Yukon and Northwest Territories, Hudson Bay and Canada's offshore areas. Also includes the regulation and monitoring of the operational, occupational and environmental safety of oil and gas exploration, development and production on frontier lands. NOTE: The Administration of Frontier Oil and Gas Lands Activity was officially disbanded September 1st, 1991. The activities were transferred to either the EMR Mineral Policy Sector, the Energy Sector or to other government institutions. Topics: Canada oil and gas lands administration; associations, societies and institutions; committees and working groups; oil and gas companies; supply and service companies and consultants; conferences; information systems; frontier lands and public lands legislation; Public Lands Grants Act, and Territorial Lands Act; Oil and Gas Production and Conservation Act; Arctic Waters Pollution Prevention Act and Regulations; Canada Oil and Gas Act; Canada Petroleum Resources Act; Canada – Newfoundland Atlantic Accord Implementation Act; Canada -Nova Scotia Oil and Gas Agreement Act; federal legislation; provincial and territorial legislation; internal liaison with EMR; internal liaison with IAND; interdepartmental liaison; provincial and territorial liaison; incidents and marine emergencies; maritime boundaries; research and development; Panel on Energy Research and Development (PERD); foreign offshore oil and gas; international treaties, United Nations. Program Record Number: EMR CGA 065

Engineering Administration

Description: Information relating to the administration of the engineering aspects of oil and gas activities on frontier lands, and to the management of the Engineering Branch. Topics: Engineering administration; guidelines and notices for operators; engineering activities and statistics on frontier lands; diving; regulatory control of diving; diving activities on frontier lands; marine safety; marine operations; marine activities on frontier lands; Mobile Offshore Drilling Units (MODUs); ships and vessels; drilling; drilling operations; drilling engineering activities on frontier lands; drilling units; drilling bases/ structures; drilling equipment and materials; production structures; structures activities on frontier lands; production facilities and pipelines; regulation of facilities and pipeline activities on frontier lands; reservoir and production; regulation of reservoir and production activities on frontier lands. Program Record Number: EMR CGA 095

Environmental Protection Administration

Description: Information relating to the administration of the environmental safety, environmental protection and environmental assessment role of COGLA respecting frontier lands offshore and in the North; and the management of the Environmental Protection Branch in COGLA. Topics: Environmental protection administration; Environmental Protection Branch projects; offshore operations; development of technical guidelines for operators; Environmental Protection Branch technical reports on environmental issues; ocean mining (environment); environmental aspects of development plans (environmental protection plans); biological environment; contingency planning for oil and gas; liability and compensation for spills and debris; physical environment offshore; codes and communications; data collection; data archiving; forecasts; instrumentation; ocean currants; wave climatology; wind climatology; extreme environmental conditions; storms; ice conditions; ice-structure interactions; remote sensing; oil spills; regional environmental assessments (regulatory and EARP); search and rescue. Program Record Number: EMR CGA 075

Environmental Studies Revolving Funds Administration

Description: Information relating to the administration and programs of the Environmental Studies Revolving Funds (ESRF), established under section 49 of the Canada Oil and Gas Act. Topics: Environmental Studies Revolving Funds – Administration, other proposals, bottom sediment transport PSC, effects monitoring PSC, icebergs PSC, oil spill research and countermeasures PSC, sea bottom ice scour PSC, social issues north PSC, social issues east PSC, waves PSC, social issues west PSC, northern terrestrial and freshwater PSC. Program Record Number: EMR CGA 076

Northern Operations

Description: Information on northern operations in the Yukon Territory, Northwest Territories, Mackenzie Delta, Beaufort Sea, Arctic Islands, Arctic Lowlands and Eastern Arctic Offshore (Baffin Bay, Davis Strait, etc.) areas relating to offshore programs. Topics: Drilling operations on conventional landings; ice platforms; artificial islands; caissons (MAC); jack-up types and floaters; geophysics including combined geophysical surveys; air and sea magnetometer measurement; gravity; seismic reflection and refraction; shallow seismic measurement, processing and interpretation and onshore geophysical surveys; geology including combined geological surveys; offshore geological surveys, paleontological/palynological studies(biostratigraphic); geochemistry; petrography (lithology); purchase of geological studies, in-house geological studies and onshore geological surveys; research involving environmental feasibility studies; physical, biological and socioeconomic studies; engineering feasibility studies and geotechnical research. Program Record Number: EMR CGA 105

Offshore Programs

Description: Information on industry activities in the East Coast, Hudson Bay and Hudson Strait, and West Coast areas relating to offshore programs. Topics: Drilling operations on the Scotia Shelf, Grand Banks, Labrador Shelf, Gulf of St. Lawrence, and other offshore and onshore drilling; geophysics including combined geophysical surveys, air and sea magnetometer measurement, gravity, seismic reflection and refraction, shallow seismic measurement, processing and interpretation, and onshore geophysical surveys; geology including combined geological surveys, offshore geological surveys, paleontological/palynological studies (biostratigraphic), geochemistry, petrography (lithology), purchase of geological studies, in-house geological studies and onshore geological surveys; research involving environmental and feasibility studies, physical, biological and socio-economic studies, engineering feasibility studies and geotechnical research. Program Record Number: EMR CGA 100

Policy Analysis and Coordination Administration

Description: Information relating to the administration of industrial and employment benefits from oil and gas activities on the frontier lands, and to the management of the Policy Analysis and Coordination Branch. Topics: Policy analysis and coordination administration; benefits plans; benefits correspondence and annual reviews; supply and development; development projects. Program Record Number: EMR CGA 070

Resource Evaluation Administration

Description: Information relating to industry's geological and geophysical work on frontier lands, and to the management and operation of the Resource Evaluation Branch. Topics: Resource evaluation administration; resource evaluation data management for oil and gas; ocean mining; Canadian geoscientific research; foreign geoscientific research; geological and geophysical equipment and procedures; assessment of oil and gas resources. Program Record Number: EMR CGA 090

Rights Management Administration

Description: Information relating to the issuance, negotiation and administration of oil and gas exploration and production rights on frontier lands and public lands, and to the management of the Rights Management Branch. Topics: Rights management administration; nominations for frontier lands; direct issuance of frontier lands; calls for proposals for frontier lands; negotiations respecting frontier lands; exploration agreements; significant discovery licences; production licenses; frontier lands registration; public lands administration; public lands titles and descriptions. Program Record Number: EMR CGA 080

■ Petroleum Incentives Administration

Canadian Ownership and Control Determination

Description: Information relating to the development and maintenance of policies, systems, procedures and regulations to administer the Canadian Ownership and Control Determination (COCD) Act. Includes receiving, processing and certifying applications for the Canadian Ownership Rate and Control Status Program. Topics: Canadian Ownership and Control Determination (COCD) corporate information; COCD guidebook; COCD operations; COCD committees; COCD conferences; COCD operations reports; Canadian ownership rate and control status programs (COR/CS); COR/CS documentation; COR/CS certificates; COR/CS guidelines; COR/CS operating procedures. Program Record Number: EMR PNA 115

Canadian Ownership and Control Determination Policy

Description: Information relating to the development and maintenance of policies, precedents, and special studies in administering the Canadian Ownership and Control Determination (COCD) Act and Regulations in order to encourage increased Canadianization of the petroleum industry. Topics: Canadian Ownership and Control Determination (COCD) policy committees; COCD policy conferences; COCD policy reports; COCD Act; COCD Act interpretation; COCD Act qualified applicants; Canadian ownership rate and control status determination; COCD Act applications, certificates and administration; COCD Act disclosure of information; COCD Act regulation-making authority; COCD Act enforcement; COCD Act judicial review and transmission provisions; Canadian ownership and control determination regulations; COCD Regulations interpretation and applications; specified Canadian ownership rates; Canadian ownership rates other than specified rates and rates of insurance companies and trust; COCD regulations administration; Canadian ownership rates of insurance companies; Canadian ownership rates of trust; COCD regulations schedules. Program Record Number: EMR PNA 120

Petroleum Incentives Administration

Description: Information relating to administering both the Canadian Ownership and Control Determination (COCD) Act and the Petroleum Incentives Program (PIP) Act in order to actively contribute to the federal government's energy policy by increasing Canadian ownership and control of the petroleum industry and energy security in Canada. Topics: Committees; conferences; energy issues; oil and gas issues; Petroleum Incentives Administration reports; liaison; interdepartmental, international and provincial liaison. Program Record Number: EMR PNA 110

Petroleum Incentives Program

Description: Information on the development and maintenance of policies, systems, procedures and regulations related to the provision of the eligible costs and Crown share incentives to applicants. Includes receiving, analyzing and processing company applications for incentive contribution and issuing payments. Topics: Petroleum Incentives Program (PIP); petroleum incentives committees; petroleum incentives information management system; petroleum incentives research, analysis and forecasting; petroleum incentives operations; petroleum incentives applicant documentation; petroleum incentives processing procedures; petroleum incentives case assessment; petroleum incentives financial payments and controls; petroleum incentives data control and operations; petroleum incentives case control; well and geochemical; geological and geophysical data analysis; quality control and standards; petroleum incentives reviews and audits; reviews and audits standards and practices. Program Record Number: EMR PNA 125

Petroleum Incentives Program Policy

Description: Information relating to development and interpretation of the Petroleum Incentives Program legislation and regulations to increase Canadianization in the petroleum industry and to increase exploration and development in Canada. Includes assessment of case precedents and the development of policy, consistency of application of the PIP Act and Regulations, and the conduct of research, analysis and forecasting of demand in the oil and gas industry. Topics: Petroleum Incentives Program (PIP) Act; PIP Act interpretation; Petroleum Incentives Program (PIP); PIP administration; PIP disclosure of information; PIP enforcement and general sections; PIP regulations; interpretation of the PIP regulations; interpretation of PIP regulations Part 1 (general) and Part 2 (adjusted eligible cost or expense). Program Record Number: EMR PNA 130

■ Energy Sector

Conservation and Renewable Energy

Description: Information relating to the planning and management of activities in support of the promotion of energy conservation and the development of renewable energy resources in order to meet Canada's energy requirements and other economic, social, regional and environmental objectives. Topics: Conservation and renewable energy; regional operations; liaison, provincial liaison; management information system (MIS) monthly reports; MIS consolidated monthly reports, residential / transportation energy activities; promotional activities; publications; industrial/commercial activities; liaison with federal economic and development coordination on industrial/commercial activities; delivery of the National Conservation and Alternative Energy Initiative (NCAEI). Program Record Number: EMR ENS 310

Economic and Financial Analysis

Description: Information relating to the analysis and recommendations of energy policies with particular reference to revenue sharing, fiscal policy, project economics, industry investment and rates of return including provincial fiscal regimes and energy corporations. Topics: economic and financial analysis; economic and financial analysis committees, consultants and contracts; reports, and managerial operations; economic and financial analysis liaison – organizations and associations, provincial, and international; financial data in support of the Energy Sector; activity data for the Energy Sector; analysis techniques; energy industry analysis; analysis of companies; energy industry analysis forecasts; energy revenues forecast; financial, fiscal and supply analysis models; fiscal analysis; fiscal analysis of federal corporate income tax; fiscal analysis of federal incentive programs, sales, customs and excise taxation, federal royalties; international regimes, provincial royalties and incentives; energy market analysis; energy market analysis on energy issues; energy policy development; Federal / Provincial energy agreements; energy demand and price analysis; energy demand and price analysis – forecasts, models, petroleum products; price analysis of petroleum products, non-petroleum products and within sectors; energy supply analysis; energy supply analysis – forecasts, models, petroleum products and non-conventional sources; energy and the environment; energy project analysis; conventional oil and gas project analysis; oil sands project analysis; Oslo project analysis; Suncor project analysis; Syncrude project analysis; enhanced oil recovery project analysis; Cold Lake enhanced oil recovery project analysis; Peace River project analysis; upgrader projects analysis; coal project analysis; coal synfuel project analysis; liquid natural gas project analysis; petrochemical project analysis; alternative transportation fuels project analysis; pipeline project analysis; northern frontier project analysis; Amauligak project analysis; offshore frontier project analysis; Hibernia project analysis; Hibernia project analysis; Cohasset project analysis; Terra Nova analysis; White Rose project analysis; electrical project analysis; nuclear project analysis; Point Lepreau 2 project analysis; Petroleum resources; petroleum resources models; Federal and provincial petroleum resource acts and legislation; economic analysis of petroleum resources; petroleum engineering, costs and expenditures; petroleum resource research and development; pricing of petroleum resources; petroleum reserves; reserves of hydrocarbon liquids; oil reserves; hydrocarbon assessments procedures; petroleum resources gas reserves; transportation of petroleum; upstream petroleum indicators; petroleum resources upstream activities development; reserves, resources and production; enhanced oil recovery reserves, projects for light and medium oil, bitumen and heavy oil; oil reserves upgrading; Canada / Saskatchewan Heavy Oil Agreement; Macroeconomic analysis; monitoring and information systems – operations; energy statistics publications; megaproject monitoring; LLoydminster Upgrader project monitoring; Hibernia offshore frontier project monitoring; OSLO Tarsands project monitoring; Newgrade Upgrader project monitoring; energy information systems; International Energy Agency (IEA); IEA energy statistics, coal statistics, electricity statistics, oil and natural gas statistics; statistics on energy exports and imports; electricity; petroleum; supply and demand refinery feedstock survey, natural gas; Petroleum Monitoring Agency (PMA); PMA committees, consultants and contracts, managerial operations, accounting practices, acts and legislation, liaison; monitoring of the coal industry, petroleum industry, petroleum industry data, balance of payments survey in petroleum industry, energy research and development survey in petroleum industry; monitoring of estimates and forecasts in petroleum industry, quarterly industrial corporations survey in petroleum industry, ownership and control in petroleum industry, survey questionnaires in petroleum industry; monitoring of petroleum industry semi-annual monitoring survey questionnaires, special studies drilling fund study, taxation study. Program Record Number: EMR ENS 176

Efficiency and Alternative Energy

Description: Information relating to the advice, development and delivery of program concerning the efficient use of energy in Canada; and the adoption of economic and environmentally attractive options for use of more efficient energy using technologies and alternative fuels. Topics: efficiency and alternative energy; efficiency and alternative energy liaison, associations and organization, policy development and analysis, initiatives, models and data base, marketing and communications activities; international and provincial liaison; energy efficiency and diversity initiatives; energy efficiency and the environment; EED technology export support program; energy performance contracting; appliance energy efficiency; Energuide Directory; energy conservation standards; industrial / commercial energy efficiency; Industrial / Commercial Task Force; alternative energy; transportation energy; transportation energy liaison, associations and organizations, liaison with fuels industry, database, research and development; PERD Task 1.5; methanol transportation fuels; Methanol Demonstration Program; gaseous transportation fuels; propane transportation fuels; compressed natural gas (CNG) transportation fuels; CNG research and technology, CNG Vehicle Grant Program, CNG Fuelling Station Program, CNG associations and organizations; liquified natural gas transportation fuels; hydrogen transportation fuels; PERD Task Five – New Liquid Fuels; liquid hydrocarbon fuel additives and components; liquid synthetic transportation fuels; transportation systems; Driver Outreach Program; vehicles; air vehicles. Program Record Number: EMR ENS 200

Electrical Energy

Description: Information relating to the provision of analysis and policy advice regarding all aspects of electrical energy to effectively and efficiently implement policies relating to electrical energy, provide effective information services to the public and manage the federal government's contribution to the Canadian Electrical Association's (CEA) research and development program. Topics: Electricity; energy issues; Panel on Energy Research and Development – Task Six, Conventional Energy Systems; Canadian Electrical Association; electrical associations and organizations; international electrical energy; USA electrical energy; electricity exchanges between Canada and the USA; electrical utilities; Canadian electrical energy economics and finance; Canadian electrical supply and demand; Canadian electrical technology; regional and interprovincial electrical energy; provincial electrical energy – by province; Lower Churchill electricity development; Annapolis River Tidal Project; Coleson Cove Conversion Study; Churchill Falls dispute between Quebec and Newfoundland; Lepreau One Nuclear Project; nuclear energy; fusion; Canadian Nuclear Association; Canadian Nuclear Society; nuclear conferences and seminars; nuclear exports; heavy water; nuclear power; Point Lepreau Two Nuclear Project; nuclear generated electricity costs. Program Record Number: EMR ENS 215

Energy Policy

Description: Information relating to the energy policy, which encompasses the coordination of the review and analysis of policy objectives and instruments, and the analysis, development and coordination of new energy policy recommendations. Includes workplans and internal meetings. Topics: energy policy; strategic planning; energy policy committees, regulatory boards and agencies, conferences, briefings; energy policy provincial briefings – by province; petroleum industry briefings; energy policy relations; energy policy interdepartmental, international, and provincial relations; energy policy provincial relations – by province; federal government priorities; federal economic policies; energy trade policy; free trade between Canada and the USA; North American free trade; multilateral trade negotiations; Gatt multilateral trade negotiation Uruguay Round; federal energy policies; conservation and renewable energy policies; public views on federal energy policies; conservation and renewable energy policies; frontier energy policies and accords; Northern Energy policies; native rights and land claims; energy research and development; energy security; industry assistance programs; energy and the environment; Canadianization; Investment Canada; cooperative corporations; Cooperative Energy Corporation; Cooperative Energy Development Corporation; crown corporations; Atomic Energy of Canada Limited; Petro-Canada; Petroleum issues; oil issues and projects; natural gas issues and projects; electricity issues and projects; uranium issues and projects; nuclear issues and projects; coal issues and projects. Program Record Number: EMR ENS 161

New Housing

Description: Information relating to the development and delivery of policies and programs for the optimization of energy efficiency in Canadian new housing design, construction, marketing and operation. Topics: New housing; liaison; liaison with organizations and associations; international liaison; new housing technology and standards; R-2000 Home Program; R-2000 Home Program – committees, builder education and training, institutionalization of R-2000 Home Program builder education and training, builder education and training contracts, delivery, regional operations delivery, delivery issues, builder grants and contributions, marketing and information, advertising, publications, exhibits, regional marketing plans, marketing and information contracts, technical support; Canadian Home Builders Association (CHBA) – R-2000 builder education and training initiatives, contract management, year one subcontracts, national reports, claims, Task I – project planning and management, Task II – regional delivery, Task III – education and training, Task IV – marketing, Task V – technology development and refinement; residential technology and industry development contracts; medium- and high-rise apartment buildings. Program Record Number: EMR ENS 312

Oil and Gas

Description: Information relating to the development and efficient use of oil and natural gas liquids, the development and implementation of federal policies associated with the interprovincial and international trade of natural gas, and contingency plans for the control and regulation of emergency production, distribution and use of petroleum resources. Topics: Oil and gas; oil and gas committees, legislation and regulations, international liaison and cooperation, provincial liaison; petroleum energy issues; oil supply electronic data systems; emergency oil inventory; domestic oil; crude oil feedstock surveillance reports; stove oil and kerosene supply surveillance reports; diesel supply surveillance reports; natural gas liquids; propane; propane demand; butane; ethane; methanol; compressed natural gas; propane distribution system expansion program; US oil markets; Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries (OPEC); Organization of Arab Petroleum Exporting Countries (AOPEC); international oil supply in private industry; international government owned / controlled industry, non-OPEC cases; International Organization for Economic Cooperation and Development (OECD); International Energy Agency (IEA) on oil supply; OECD IEA standing group on the oil market (SOM); OECD IEA standing group on emergency questions (SEQ); international world energy market; petroleum utilization; petroleum products marketing; petrochemical industry processing; international petrochemical industry processing; refineries processing; supply processing; supply processing; processing technology; upgrading processing; natural gas; Canadian natural gas export; natural gas fiscal regime; natural gas industry; information program on natural gas; international natural gas; natural gas major projects, pipeline projects, pipeline construction cost task force, pipeline review project, marketing, pricing, supply and demand; natural gas provincial activities; Natural Gas Market Development Incentive Program, Natural Gas Laterals Program; Natural Gas Transportation Assistance Program; energy emergency planning; Energy Supplies Allocation Board (ESAB); Energy Emergency Planning contracts, and consultants, associations and organizations, committees and liaison; electronic data processing; operations analysis on petroleum entitlements; Energy Supplies Allocation Board; National Emergency Agency for Energy (NEAE); departmental emergency planning; liaison with Emergency Preparedness Canada; federal government emergency planning; Wintex / Cimex Exercises; federal government emergency planning committees; North Atlantic Treaty Organization (NATO); energy demand restraint measures; crude oil and petroleum products allocation planning; replacement of fuels; allocation program logistics; natural gas allocation; petroleum industry liaison on allocation planning; allocation planning price control; allocation planning statistics; allocation planning of petroleum products; allocation planning of crude oil; rationing program; international, provincial and industry liaison on rationing. Program Record Number: EMR ENS 195

Renewable Energy

Description: Information relating to the promotion, through research, development and demonstration, of the orderly development and commercialization of renewable energy technologies to ensure long-term energy supply for Canada. Topics: Renewable energy; liaison on renewable energy; interdepartmental liaison on renewable energy; international liaison on renewable energy; international liaison on renewable energy – cases; provincial liaison on renewable energy; energy conservation technology; alternative energy sources; task four of the Panel on Energy Research and Development (PERD); Solar Energy Development Program (SEDP);

regional delivery of SEDP; regional delivery of the National Conservation and Alternative Energy Initiative (NCAEI) component of SEDP; SEDP technology transfer; Canadian Solar Industries Association (CSIA); Solar Energy Society of Canada (SESCI); SEDP committees; SEDP conferences and seminars; Small and Low Head Hydro Technology Research and Development Project; Small and Low Head Hydro Technology Research and Development Project – cases; Geothermal Technology Research and Development Project; Geothermal Technology Research and Development Project – cases; Active Solar Technology Research Development and Demonstration Projects; Active Solar Technology Research and Development Project – cases; Active Solar Technology Special Projects Demonstration – cases; Active Solar Technology Commercial/Industrial Solar Demonstration Project – cases; Active Solar Technology Commercial/Industrial Solar Demonstration Project – rejected proposals – cases; Active Solar Technology Commercial/Industrial Solar Demonstration Project monitoring – cases; Active Solar Technology Commercial/Industrial Solar Demonstration Small Projects component; Passive Solar Technology Research Development and Demonstration Projects; Passive Solar Technology Research and Development Project – cases; Passive Solar Technology Special Projects Demonstration – cases; Photovoltaics Technology Research and Development Project; Photovoltaics Technology Research and Development Project – cases; Wind Technology Research and Development Project; Wind Technology Research and Development Project – cases; Solar Domestic Hot Water (SDHW) Program inspections; SDHW Program inspections – cases; SDHW Program monitoring; Canadian Solar Industries Association SDHW systems warranties; SDHW Program, Phase seven; SDHW Program, Phase eight; biomass energy sources; biomass equipment; gaseous fuels from biomass; solid fuels from biomass; solid fuel supply and availability studies; peat; liquid fuels from biomass; ethanol from biomass; Bioenergy Development Program (BDP); Bioenergy Development Program (BDP) – cases; PEI Alternative Energy Development Program (AEDP); regional delivery of the PEI AEDP; Remote Community Demonstration Program (RCDP), Phase two; regional delivery of the RCDP, Phase two; regional delivery of the RCDP, Phase two – cases; RCDP, Phase two program and project planning; RCDP, Phase two communications; BC Remote Community Demonstration Program (RCDP), Phase two; BC RCDP, Phase two information transfer projects; BC RCDP, Phase two demonstration projects; Alberta RCDP, Phase two; Saskatchewan RCDP, Phase two; Saskatchewan RCDP, Phase two information transfer projects; Manitoba RCDP, Phase two; Ontario RCDP, Phase two; Ontario RCDP, Phase two demonstration projects; Quebec RCDP, Phase two; Quebec RCDP, Phase two demonstration projects; Newfoundland RCDP, Phase two; Newfoundland RCDP, Phase two demonstration projects; NWT RCDP, Phase two; NWT RCDP, Phase two information transfer projects; NWT RCDP, Phase two demonstration projects; Yukon RCDP, Phase two; Yukon RCDP, Phase two demonstration projects; alternative energy Enerdemo Program; regional delivery of the Enerdemo Program; regional delivery of the Enerdemo Program – cases; Enerdemo Management Committee; Enerdemo planning and priorities; Newfoundland Enerdemo projects; Newfoundland renewable Enerdemo projects; PEI Enerdemo projects; PEI biomass Enerdemo projects; NS Enerdemo projects; NB Enerdemo projects; Quebec Enerdemo projects; Quebec renewable Enerdemo projects; Ontario Enerdemo projects; Ontario renewable Enerdemo projects; Manitoba Enerdemo projects; Saskatchewan Enerdemo projects; Alberta Enerdemo projects; Alberta renewable Enerdemo projects; BC Enerdemo projects; BC transportation Enerdemo projects; BC renewable Enerdemo projects; NWT Enerdemo Projects; Yukon Territory Enerdemo projects; National Capital Region Enerdemo projects. Program Record Number: EMR ENS 245

Uranium and Nuclear Energy

Description: Information relating to the provision of advice and the formulation of policies to ensure that Canadian uranium resources and nuclear energy industries make optimal contributions to the country's economic development by providing a secure and economical source of energy and by realizing export opportunities. Topics: Uranium and nuclear energy; liaison; liaison with crown corporations; research and development; international uranium and nuclear issues; Uranium Institute; international uranium and nuclear issues; uranium and nuclear issues with other countries; uranium and nuclear – European Economic Community (EEC) and the European Atomic Energy Community (EURATOM); International Atomic Energy Agency (IAEA); IAEA general correspondence, Board of Governors, Department of Administration, Department of Technical Cooperation, Department of Nuclear Energy and Safety; IAEA nuclear power issues, conferences, committees, and working groups; nuclear safety and environmental protection conferences, committees and working groups; IAEA Department of Research and Isotopes, Department of Safeguards, nuclear safeguards and non-proliferation agreements; Organisation for Economic Cooperation and Development (OECD); International Energy Agency (IEA); Nuclear Energy Agency (NEA); Fuel Cycle Committee; uranium; Uranium Resource Appraisal Group (URAG); URAG annual uranium; exploration surveys; Uranium exploration and production; Foreign ownership of uranium industry; uranium processing and refining; uranium enrichment and reprocessing; uranium exports; further processing of uranium prior to export; Uranium Exports Review Panel (UERP); UERP contracts; uranium supply and demand; radioactive waste management; high level irradiated fuel waste management; low level radioactive waste management; low level radioactive waste disposal sites; uranium mine tailings management. Program Record Number: EMR ENS 220

Minerals and Earth Sciences

■ Geological Surveys of Canada

Atlantic Geoscience Centre (AGC)

Description: Information relating to management and operations of Atlantic Geoscience activities to ensure a comprehensive knowledge, technology and expertise on the geology of the Atlantic and Arctic offshore regions of Canada and the sedimentary basins of the Appalachian region not filed elsewhere by specific subject. Topics: Environmental marine geology; Atlantic Geoscience publications – cartography; oil and gas resources and exploration; Program for Industry Laboratory Projects (PILP); Atlantic Geoscience surveys; United States international liaison; USSR international liaison; eastern petroleum geology; liaison – universities and colleges; Atlantic Geoscience field work; provincial liaison; international liaison; departmental liaison; interdepartmental liaison; liaison – companies, societies, institutes, associations and organizations; conferences; committees; Canadian Geoscience Council liaison; Atlantic Geoscience Centre (AGC); liaison; research and development; Panel on Energy Research and Development; Atlantic Geoscience unsolicited proposals; boundary disputes; frontier geoscience program; Atlantic Geoscience research projects; ocean mining and research; Atlantic Geoscience publications. Program Record Number: EMR GSC 385

Cordilleran and Pacific Margin

Description: Information relating to management and operations of the Cordilleran and Pacific Margin Geology activities to increase the knowledge of the composition, age, distribution and origin of regionally mappable rock units to better access the mineral and hydrocarbon potential in Canadian Cordilleras and adjacent offshore regions not filed elsewhere by specific subject. Topics: Juan de Fuca geoscience studies; liaison – companies; research and development; Cordilleran and Pacific Margin library; Cordilleran and Pacific Margin unsolicited proposals; Canadian Geoscience Council liaison; field work; universities and colleges liaison; liaison – provincial, international, departmental, interdepartmental, societies, institutes, associations and organizations; conferences; committees; Cordilleran and Pacific Margin; boundary disputes; frontier geoscience program; Cordilleran and Pacific Margin research projects; publications; marine geology. Program Record Number: EMR GSC 390

Geological Surveys

Description: Information relating to the management of the geological surveys activity to ensure the availability of comprehensive knowledge, technology and expertise pertaining to the geology of the Canadian landmass and offshore areas for the identification, exploration and exploitation of Canadian mineral and energy resources. Aspects include studies and research on the earth's surface deposits, crust and upper mantle. Topics: New technology and international programs; liaison with companies; federal-provincial mineral development agreements – Department of Regional and Industrial Expansion (DRIE); universities & colleges liaison; Geological Survey of Canada field work; research & development; Industrial Research Agreements Program; Program for Industry Laboratory Projects; Panel on Energy Research & Development; Geological Survey unsolicited proposals; Geological Survey Agreements; federal-provincial mineral development agreements (MDA); boundary disputes; frontier geoscience program; research projects; ocean mining and research program; oil and gas resources and exploration; liaison with societies; interdepartmental liaison; departmental liaison; international liaison; USSR international liaison; United States international liaison; international liaison – associations and organizations; provincial liaison; geological survey; committees; conferences; Canadian Geoscience Council liaison; liaison with institutes; Canadian International Development Agency (CIDA) geoscience aid projects; Memorandums of Understanding. Program Record Number: EMR GSC 350

Geophysics

Description: Information relating to the management and operations of the Geophysics Division whose mandate is to ensure the availability of geophysical data, information, technology, standards and expertise concerning the configuration, evolution, structure and dynamic processes of the solid earth and the hazards associated with natural and induced geophysical phenomena. Topics: Geophysics; committees; conferences; Canadian Geoscience Council – liaison; liaison – associations and organizations, institutes, societies, companies; interdepartmental, departmental, international, provincial liaison; liaison – universities and colleges; Geophysics field work; research and development; Industrial Research Agreements Program (IRAP); Program for Industry Laboratory Projects; Panel on Energy Research and Development; Geophysics unsolicited proposals; federal-provincial agreements; federal-provincial mineral development agreements; boundary disputes; frontier geoscience program; Geophysics research projects; ocean mining and research programs; oil and gas resources and exploration; nuclear fuel waste management program; lithosphere studies; seismology; geophysics publications; Canadian seismograph networks; seismograph network standard stations; eastern Canadian telemetered (SEISMIC) network; western Canadian telemetered (SEISMIC) network; strong-motion seismograph network; Yellowknife geophysical observatory; geoscience of nuclear explosions; geomagnetism; Canadian magnetic observatory network; palaeomagnetism; gravity; gravity standards; Canadian gravity standardization network; international gravity standardization network; geodynamics; global dynamics; crustal dynamics; geothermics; aeromagnetics; seismology data centre; earthquake and seismic hazards; meteorite impact processes and studies. Program Record Number: EMR GSC 360

Geoscience Information

Description: Information relating to the management and operations of the Geoscience Information Division whose role is to ensure that the results of the Branch's scientific programs are made available to industry, other government agencies and the general public. Topics: National Geoscan hardware/software operations; geoscience information library technical services; liaison with other libraries; exchange agreements; geoscience information; Geoscience Information – cartography services, editing services, library requests; geoscience information library international exchange agreements, United States exchange agreements, provincial exchange agreements; national geoscan; federal/provincial contributing agencies; publication production; publication services; technical photography services; technical information collection. Program Record Number: EMR GSC 365

Lithosphere and Canadian Shield

Description: Information relating to management and operations of the Lithosphere and Canadian Shield Division activities ensuring the availability of comprehensive knowledge, technology and expertise on the bedrock geology and mineral resources of the Canadian Precambrian Shield, and also plutonic and igneous rocks in Atlantic Canada. Topics: Petrology; lithosphere and Canadian Shield; publishing and editing; geochronology; palaeomagnetism. Program Record Number: EMR GSC 370

Mineral Resources

Description: Information relating to the management and operations of Mineral Resources activities which are to provide scientific and technical support services for Geological Survey of Canada and to maintain a national information base of Canada's non-hydrocarbon mineral resources and deposits. Topics: Regional metallogenic studies; uranium resources information bank; evaluation; rock and mineral information services; national collections; international strategic minerals inventory; mathematical applications in geology; mineral resources; mineral resources – publishing and editing, information systems, special projects; mineral deposits geology, mineralogy and analytical chemistry; regional mineral resource assessments; exploration geophysics instrumentation research and development; radiation geophysics; borehole geophysics; exploration geophysics; special projects; exploration geochemistry; national geochemical reconnaissance surveys; exploration geophysics Skyvan aircraft equipment and use. Program Record Number: EMR GSC 355

Polar Continental Shelf Project

Description: Information relating to the management and overall functions of the Polar Continental Shelf Project. It includes provision of coordinated logistic support to public and private sector groups, provision of information on scientific operations to the scientific community and local inhabitants. Topics: Polar Continental Shelf Project; Arctic sciences; committees; departmental and interdepartmental committees; conferences; PCSP liaison with associations and organizations; PCSP departmental liaison, PCSP interdepartmental liaison, PCSP international liaison, PCSP provincial and territorial liaison, PCSP liaison with universities and colleges; Research Agreements Program; unsolicited proposals; Frontier Geoscience Program; PCSP logistical support; PSCP logistical support for field activities, land use permits and research licences, radio and navigational systems, goods and services, aircraft, fuel, and vehicles. Program Record Number: EMR GSC 435

Sedimentary and Petroleum Geology

Description: Information relating to the overall activities, management and operations associated with the sedimentary and petroleum geology activity which specifically entails the provision of a geological knowledge base for Canada and arctic sedimentary basins. Topics: Oil and gas resources and exploration; sedimentary and petroleum geology publications – cartography, books; industrial research agreements program; regional geology – curation and technical services, mainland, arctic islands; paleontology; frontier energy geoscience program; federal-provincial agreements; sedimentary and petroleum geology unsolicited proposals; field work; liaison – associations and organizations, companies, societies, institutes, Canadian Geoscience Council, universities and colleges; conferences; sedimentary and petroleum geology; committees; interdepartmental liaison; departmental liaison; international liaison; provincial liaison; research and development (R&D); Panel on Energy Research and Development (PERD); research grants; federal-provincial mineral development agreements; boundary disputes; sedimentary and petroleum geology research projects; ocean mining and research; coal geology; petroleum geology; petroleum geology – geochemistry, petroleum geology – resources; petroleum resources appraisal secretariat; calibration testing and facilities. Program Record Number: EMR GSC 395

Terrain Sciences

Description: Information of a general nature relating to the management and operations of Terrain Sciences activities to ensure the availability of comprehensive knowledge and expertise on surface materials, natural terrain hazards, and the capabilities of the terrain to support human activities. Topics: Quaternary environments; paleoecolocy and radiocarbon laboratories; sedimentology research; terrain sciences; environmental studies, publishing and editing; nuclear fuel waste management program, committees, external involvement, EMR/AECL coordinating program; terrain dynamics; terrain dynamics – permafrost research; geothermics; geothermal energy. Program Record Number: EMR GSC 380

■ Surveys, Mapping and Remote Sensing Sector

Air Operations

Description: Information relating to utilization, operations, maintenance and calibration of aircraft and of electrical and electronic equipment engaged in remote sensing activities. Topics: Airborne data acquisition; aircraft operations and maintenance; aircraft systems support. Program Record Number: EMR SMR 475

Automated Systems and Methods

Description: Information relating to research and development in computer systems and methods for the processing, analyzing and storing of remotely sensed data acquired from satellites and airborne platforms and the provision of technical assistance and advice for hardware procurement and software development. Also includes the provision and operation of facilities for processing satellite and airborne remotely sensed data. Topics: Synthetic aperture radar digital processor; digital storage technologies; the Digital Image Correction System; image analysis systems; visible infra-red spectroscopy; image processing systems; instrumentation laboratory; National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration's (NOAA) satellite systems; Digital Image Analysis system; Multi-observation Satellite Image Correction system; standard computer compatible tape format. Program Record Number: EMR SMR 480

Canada Centre for Mapping (CCM)

Description: Information relating to the overall management of the topographical mapping program, used to formulate and maintain national standards for mapping, to produce aeronautical information products as well as the National Atlas. Topics: Canada Centre for Mapping (CCM); grants and contributions; unsolicited proposals; status reports; associations and organizations; Canadian Institute of Surveying and Mapping (CISM); United Nations; Pan American Institute of Geography and History (PAIGH) – commissions; CCM committees; Canadian Permanent Committee on Geographical Names (CPCGN); Canadian Council on Geomatics (CCOG); National Advisory Committee on Control Surveys and Mapping (NACCSM); CCM conferences; CCM liaison – interdepartmental, provincial, international; foreign aid projects; research and development; CCM operations; arctic and northern program; maps and mapping; National Atlas Information Services (NAIS); canada centre for surveying issues; remote sensing. Program Record Number: EMR SMR 415

Canada Centre for Remote Sensing

Description: Information relating to coordination and administration of research and development activities to improve remote sensing technology and facilitate the acquisition, dissemination and analysis of remotely sensed data from aircraft and satellites for resource management and environmental monitoring. Topics: Associations; committees; Canadian Advisory Committee on Remote Sensing; conferences; program management; provincial and international liaison; National Aeronautics and Space Administration (NASA); research and development programs. Program Record Number: EMR SMR 470

Canada Centre for Surveying

Description: Information relating to management and regulation of all surveys carried out in Canada Lands, as stipulated in the Canada Lands Surveys Act. Canada Lands include all land in the Yukon and Northwest Territories that is not privately owned, Indian reserves, national parks and the lands offshore. Topics: Canada Centre for Surveying; grants and contributions; status reports; associations and organizations; International Federation of Surveyors; Pan American Institute of Geography and History (PAIGH); committees; National Advisory Council for Survey and Mapping; conferences; North American Datum and Adjustment; liaison – departmental, interdepartmental, provincial and international; liaison with the United States; foreign aid projects; operations; projects; research and development; unsolicited proposals; Memorandum of Understanding (MOU) on cooperation in surveying, mapping and remote sensing; Memorandum of Agreement on surveying, mapping and remote sensing; geodetic survey issues; survey systems; legal survey issues; International Boundary Commission (IBC) issues. Program Record Number: EMR SMR 409

Data Applications

Description: Information relating to research and development in remote sensing information extraction techniques and the development and demonstration of applications of remotely sensed data to resource management and environmental monitoring problems. Topics: Applications development and demonstration; agriculture; forestry; geology and cartography; hydrology. Program Record Number: EMR SMR 485

Data Applications Services

Description: Information relating to provision of analysis facilities, and information and advisory services to assist users in applying remote sensing technologies. Topics: Marketing; image analysis services; library services; publications; transfer of remote sensing technologies to industry; technology enhancement program. Program Record Number: EMR SMR 490

Geodetic Surveys

Description: Information relating to the overall management of a national geodetic survey network which is fundamental to all forms of surveying. Aspects include research and development of standards, measurements of latitude, longitude, elevation and geometry of the earth's surface and its physical anomalies. Topics: Geodetic surveys; geodetic survey operations; unsolicited proposals; status reports; grants and contributions; associations and organizations; Canadian Council on Surveying and Mapping (CCSM); Pan American Institute of Geography and History (PAIGH); geodetic survey committees; National Advisory Committee on Control Surveys and Mapping (NACCSM); geodetic survey conferences; liaison and information services; memorandum of understanding on cooperation in surveying, mapping and remote sensing; corporation liaison; departmental liaison; interdepartmental liaison; international liaison; USA liaison; provincial liaison; Newfoundland liaison; Canada – Newfoundland land surveying and mapping agreement; Prince Edward Island liaison; Nova Scotia liaison; New Brunswick liaison; Quebec liaison; Ontario liaison; Manitoba liaison; Saskatchewan liaison; Alberta liaison; British Columbia liaison; Northwest Territories liaison; Yukon liaison; Maritimes land registration and information services; territorial land use regulations; geodetic data management; national geodetic database; geodetic data analysis and adjustment; geodetic data services; North American Datum and Adjustment (NAD83); North American Vertical Datum and Adjustment (NAVD 88); NAVD88 symposia; US national geodetic survey involvement in NAVD88; geodetic field surveys; surveying equipment and instruments; Inertial Survey System (ISS); levelling systems; global positioning system; primary horizontal control; primary vertical control; satellite Doppler; supplementary control; geodetic systems development; contracting out; source list for control survey contractors; geodetic projects; internal research projects. Program Record Number: EMR SMR 410

Geographic Information Systems

Description: Information relating to the development and maintenance of national geographic information systems (GIS) and geographic information databases across Canada in order to improve GIS technology. This includes information to promote and coordinate the development and application of GIS within governments and to support the development of a Canadian GIS industry. Topics: Geographic information systems; status reports; associations and organizations; committees; Inter-Agency Committee on Geomatics (IACG); conferences; liaison – departmental, interdepartmental, provincial; international; foreign aid projects; operations; land information management; research and development. Program Record Number: EMR SMR 418

Geographical Services

Description: Information relating to the acquisition and generation of geographical information and knowledge on Canada comprising scientific and scholarly research and surveys on the geography of Canada and the cartographic design, compilation, preparation and completion of maps, publications, computerized information and display systems containing the results of geographical investigations. Topics: geographical services – associations and organizations, division status reports, conferences, committees, contracts, inquiries; unsolicited proposals; Pan American Institute of Geography and History (PAIGH); geographical services liaison – interdepartmental, international, provincial, universities and colleges; aeronautical charting; flight information; instrument flight rules products; Canada Flight Supplement; water aerodrome supplement; areas, regions and zones; visual flight rules (VFR) product; charts – visual navigation, VFR terminal area, world aeronautical, joint operation graphic air, low level pilotage; Canadian Aeronautical Charts System (CANACS); aeronautical charts planning and development; National Atlas Information Service (NAIS) – request for information; National Atlas of Canada; National Advisory Committee on the National Atlas of Canada (NACNAC); Canadian Geographical Names Data Base (CGNDB) – gazetteer of Canada series; geographical mapping; cartographic services; international map of the world; geographical research – contracts, contracts projects, economic, historical, human, physical; Canadian Permanent Committee on Geographical Names (CPCGN); CPCGN – meetings and conferences; CPCGN – secretariat meetings; CPCGN – mailing lists; CPCGN memberships – federal, provincial and territorial; CPCGN – advisory committees; CPCGN – geographical terminology; CPCGN – official languages in geographical naming; CPCGN – internal research, publications, articles; CPCGN – CANOMA; CPCGN – Gazetteer of Canada; CPCGN – external research, publications and provincial publications; CPCGN – historical information; CPCGN – field work; CPCGN – war casualty records; CPCGN – geographical names associations and organizations; CPCGN – external associations and agencies (non-toponymic); CPCGN – requests for information; CPCGN – policies, principles, decisions, procedures and precedents; CPCGN – GSD decisions; CPCGN – United Nations (UN); Canadian Geographical Names; Canadian Toponomy and individuals; special toponomy services- maps and mapping; toponomy – provincial, native and native provincial; UN – 1987 Conference Montreal, group of experts on geographical names; geographic names board – provincial and international; United States Board on Geographic Names (USBGN); geographical names automation. Program Record Number: EMR SMR 408

International Boundary Commission

Description: Information relating to maintenance and regulation of the land and water boundary between Canada and the United States. Aspects include positioning of boundary line points, settlement of disputes and jurisdictional questions, regulation of construction and removal of boundary obstructions. Topics: International Boundary Commission; reports; operations; associations and organizations; Canadian Council of Land Surveyors (CCLS); Canadian Institute of Surveying and Mapping (CISM); IBC – committees and conferences; IBC liaison – departmental, interdepartmental, provincial; USA and Canadian section of the IBC; boundary regulation; geographical coordinates of boundary monuments. Program Record Number: EMR SMR 425

Legal Surveys

Description: Information relating to management and regulation of all surveys carried out in Canada Lands, as stipulated in the Canada Lands Surveys Act. Canada Lands include all land in the Yukon and Northwest Territories that is not privately owned, Indian reserves, national parks and the lands offshore. Topics: Legal Surveys (LSD) – programs, operations; LSD meetings – staff, sections chiefs, divisional management; status reports; monitoring results of plans of surveys; matrices reports; analysis of completed survey reports; survey information requests; grants and contributions; LSD associations and organizations; Institute for Land Information (ILI); Canadian Council on Geomatics (CCOG); Automated Canada Lands Information System (ACLIS) – testing and evaluation, development and design, data capture and conversion, installation and implementation, vendor information, maintenance, training; LSD committees – modernization and standards; LSD conferences; LSD liaison – corporation, departmental, interdepartmental, provincial, international; memorandum of understanding (MOU) on cooperation in surveying, mapping and remote sensing; Board of Examiners for Canada Lands Surveyors; surveying contracts; personal and professional services contracts; contractor's eligible lists; indian reserves surveys by provinces and territories; townships; indian school lands; indian bands – Nova Scotia, Manitoba, British Columbia; British Columbia indian reserve survey legal matters; native land claims by provinces and territories; indian reserves and indian bands name changes; national and historic parks and sites;

national and historic parks and sites – by province; bird sanctuaries and wildlife areas; bird sanctuaries and wildlife areas – by province; Yukon Territory rights of way for pipelines; Northwest Territories rights of way for pipelines, roads and transmission lines; territorial resources base mapping – quads and group lots; territorial mining surveys; Yukon settlements site surveys; Northwest Territories settlements site surveys; interprovincial and territorial boundary commissions and surveys; coordinated survey areas; coordinated survey areas – by province; oil and gas East/West coast and Hudson Bay; oil and gas grid areas East/West coast and Hudson Bay; oil and gas territories; oil and gas grid areas Territories; survey information and procedures; survey information and procedures – by province; territorial waters survey information and procedures; North American Datum and Adjustment (NAD83); manual of instructions for the Survey of Canada Lands; federal government surveys; government surveys – Indian and Northern Affairs, Energy, Mines and Resources, Environment Canada, Justice Canada, National Defense, Transport Canada; electoral districts; offshore oil and gas surveys of Canada Lands administered by the Department of Energy, Mines and Resources; offshore oil and gas surveys of Canada Lands administered by the Department of Indian and Northern Affairs; Northwest Territories communities; Northwest Territories communities coordinated control areas; survey and mapping research and development; legal survey monument coordinate data base; surveys records depository; coordinated survey areas. Program Record Number: EMR SMR 405

Policy, Planning and Services

Description: Information relating to policy, planning and services involved in the management of the surveys and mapping activity whose mandate is to ensure geodetic, topographic and selected geographic information required for effective resource management, land use and demarcation, engineering works, urban development, transportation, defence and public safety. The program includes a national network of horizontal and vertical positional reference monuments; topographical and geographical information on the Canadian landmass; preparation, publication and distribution of maps, charts, publications, aerial photographs, gazetteers, and the National Atlas of Canada; boundary and property surveys on federal land and international boundaries. Topics: policy, planning and services; operations; association and organizations; Pan American Institute of Geography and History (PAIGH); committees; Branch Management Committee; National Advisory Council on Surveying and Mapping (NACSM); conferences; liaison with industry, interdepartmental and international; foreign aid projects; provincial liaison; liaison with colleges and universities; surveys and mapping projects; research and development; research agreements; unsolicited proposals. Program Record Number: EMR SMR 400

Products and Services

Description: Information relating to the publication of maps, aeronautical charts, air photographs and related publications, and the maintenance of an adequate supply of these materials for sale to governments, industry and the public through a national network of dealers in the private sector. Topics: Products and services; map publishing – associations and organizations, committees; map publishing – liaison, interdepartmental, international, provincial; aerial photographic services; National Air Photo Library (NAPL) – catalogues, commercial customers, academic customers, general public customers, government customers, work orders; reproduction – black and white, colour, nitrate flats, research and development, work orders; film vault; shipping and receiving; map distribution; air information publications – change of address, subscription listings, subscription renewals, subscriptions verifications; map distribution complaints and inventory; maps and charts; map marketing; aeronautical chart dealers; map marketing – consignment centres, depositories, inspection reports, regional distribution offices; topographical charts dealers; map reproduction negative control and contracts, photomechanical, prototype, printing, production control, quality control, research and development, shipping and receiving. Program Record Number: EMR SMR 420

Radarsat

Description: Information relating to Radarsat projects for the development of a radar satellite capable of supplying sea ice information; research and development in spaceborne radar technologies; administration and coordination of the Radarsat projects. Topics: Economic studies; concept design studies; mission (user) requirements; technology development; spaceborn synthetic aperture radar; scientific liaison. Program Record Number: EMR SMR 495

Satellite Data

Description: Information relating to the Satellite Data sub-activity ensuring the availability of data from satellites. Aspects include satellite operations and products, the acquisition of data, and research and development of new remote sensing techniques. Topics: European Space Agency (ESA) ERS-1 satellite program; National Aeronautics and Space Administration's (NASA) Landsat satellites; Landsat products; National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration's (NOAA) Landsat-D satellites; Landsat-D receiving stations upgrade; receiving stations; NASA seasat and sursat program and projects; satellite pour l'observation de la terre (SPOT). Program Record Number: EMR SMR 500

Sensors Research and Development

Description: Information relating to development and evaluation of new and novel remote sensors for use from airborne and satellite platforms. Topics: Airborne sensors; airborne laser sensors; microwave radiometer and scatterometer; visible and infra-red sensors. Program Record Number: EMR SMR 505

Topographical Mapping

Description: Information relating to mapping of the Canadian landmass in detail, showing relief elevation, lakes, rivers, roads, buildings, airports and canals, including names of features and places. Topics: topographical mapping – associations and organizations, committees, conferences and reports; Pan American

Institute of Geography and History (PAIGH); unsolicited proposals; topographical mapping liaison – interdepartmental, international, provincial, universities and colleges; Canadian Council on Geomatics (CCOG); Interdepartmental Committee on Air Surveys (ICAS) – contracts; contract mapping – Topographical Survey, Legal Surveys, Geological Survey of Canada, Correctional Service of Canada, Environment Canada, Fisheries and Oceans, Indian and Northern Affairs, National Capital Commission, Public Works, Federal Lands and industry; flood risk contract mapping by province; digital topographical mapping; Cartographic Data Processing System (CARDAPS); geographic information systems; national digital topographical data base; topographical mapping evaluation; new topographic mapping; nomenclature and toponomy; topographical mapping quality control; remote sensing; topographical mapping research and development; revision mapping; map derivation; Topographical Mapping division production operations; topographical mapping standards and specifications; national digital topographic mapping standards; survey control; aerial survey data base. Program Record Number: EMR SMR 430

■ Mineral and Energy Technology Sector

Authorization and Testing of Explosives

Description: Information relating to the coordination of testing and authorization by the Canadian Explosives Research Laboratory of explosives which are imported, sold or used in Canada. Topics: Explosives Act and Regulations; fireworks; incidents; accidents. Program Record Number: EMR MET 515

Canada Centre for Mineral and Energy Technology

Description: Information relating to the coordination, promotion and administration of research and development activities in the explosives, energy and minerals field. Topics: Canada Centre for Mineral and Energy Technology; associations and organizations; Canadian Institute of Mining and Metallurgy; committees; Departmental Coordinating Committee on Ocean Mining; National Advisory Committee on Mining and Metallurgical Research; Ministers National Advisory Council on CANMET; conferences; energy issues; oil and gas; energy conservation; coal; renewable energy; uranium and nuclear energy; impact and control of environmental pollutants; industrial and economic analysis; inventions, patents and copyrights – non public servants and licensing; research consortium agreements; Panel on Energy Research and Development; program management; contract administration; contract statistical reports; project selection; project monitoring process; liaison with universities and colleges, industry, explosives related industries, other federal departments, with the Canadian International Development Agency, other countries, United States and the provinces; Mineral Development Agreements; Mineral Development Agreements – Phase II; federal research and development programs; energy conversion cost-shared program; Research Agreements Program; Industrial Research Assistance Program; evaluation of technology proposals; technology transfer and marketing; business development. Program Record Number: EMR MET 450

Canada Explosives Act Administration

Description: Information relating to administration of the Canada Explosives Act by testing and confirming the new explosives submitted for authorization, providing technical advice and investigating accidents. Topics: Liaison; testing and research; international liaison; certification and technical advice; research and development of new technical standards. Program Record Number: EMR MET 455

Energy Research and Development

Description: Information relating to the development of federal research and development policies to ensure that Canada has the necessary research resources to support nation energy strategies. Topics: Office of Energy Research and Development (OERD); OERD planning; OERD information coordination; OERD library services; associations and organizations; International Energy Agency (IEA); IEA Committee on Energy Research and Development (CERD); CERD working party on end use technologies; CERD working party fossil fuels; CERD working party on renewable energy; committees; conferences; provincial liaison; Alberta -Canada Energy Resources Research Fund (ACERRF); federal-provincial demonstration agreements; liaison with industry; universities and colleges liaison; international liaison; liaison with USA;Interdepartmental Panel on Energy Research and Development (PERD); PERD meetings; PERD tasks and programs; proposals and funding for PERD tasks and programs; departmental proposals and funding for PERD tasks and programs; interdepartmental proposals and funding for PERD tasks and programs. Program Record Number: EMR MET 545

Energy Research and Development Tasks and Programs

Description: Information relating to the development and implementation of plans for research and development activity in response to energy research policy and strategy, and to the coordination and administration of the interdepartmental research and development program. It includes the management and allocation of resources for projects that will help achieve and sustain domestic energy self sufficiency. Topics: Energy efficiency – Task 1; industrial energy research and development (IERD) – program 1.1; IERD advisory board meetings; energy efficiency – industry program 1.2; Development and Demonstration of Resources and Energy Conservation Technology (DRECT); national incinerator testing and evaluation program (NITEP); industrial process electro-technology; agriculture and food – subprogram 1.3.1; energy efficiency – buildings – program 1.4; energy efficiency – transportation – program 1.5; energy efficiency – energy systems – program 1.7; coal – task 2; international coal liquefaction; coal technologies – program 2.1; coal environment – program 2.2; fusion – task 3; renewable energy and generic environment – task 4; hydraulics – program 4.1; active solar – program 4.2; bioenergy – program 4.5; wind – program 4.6; geothermal – program 4.7; alternative transportation fuels – task 5;

hydrocarbons enhancement – program 5.1; fuel use – program 5.5; hydrogen and energy storage – program 5.6; alternative transportation fuels – environment – program 5.7; oil, gas and electricity – task 6; geoscientific research and development – program 6.1; marine engineering – program 6.2; offshore geotechnics – program 6.3; materials – program 6.5; transportation of oil and gas – program 6.6; environment – program 6.7; electrical research and development – program 6.8; Canadian Electrical Association (CEA) research and development – subprogramme 6.8.1. Program Record Number: EMR MET 550

Energy Technology

Description: Information relating to energy research and development to ensure the availability to Canada of adequate technology for the extraction, processing, use and conservation of energy resources, such as oil, gas, coal and uranium. Topics: Coal: carbonization; coal-liquid mixtures; combustion technologies for pollution abatement; conventional combustion; co-processing; co-processing pilot plant; fine coal beneficiation; fluidized-bed combustion; gasification; liquefaction processes; materials for utilization and conversion; mine atmospheres; mining; novel liquefaction and pyrolysis; preparation techniques; international and provincial liaison; reserve assessment; safety certification of equipment; strata mechanics; conservation: industrial processes; industrial mineral processes; plasma technology; road vehicle fuel economy; residential heating systems; nuclear: geomechanics in nuclear waste disposal; uranium extraction; alternate and conventional uranium extraction; uranium mine evaluation; uranium reserve assessment; petroleum supply: treatment of bitumen/oil emulsions and effluent waters; catalytic refining to transportation fuels; characterization of synthetic crude and distillates; disposable catalysts; extraction of bitumen from oil sands; hydrocracking; in-situ recovery of bitumen and heavy oil; materials for hydrocarbon processing; tar sands; materials for offshore structures; materials for oil and gas pipelines; conversion of natural gas to liquid fuels; separation processes for synthetic fuels; thermal oil shale/catalytic residium conversion; renewable energy technology: biomass; materials for advanced energy conversion; photo-electrochemical cells; liaison; wood-fired residential heating. Program Record Number: EMR MET 460

Explosives

Description: Information relating to administration of the Canada Explosives Act, in the interest of public and worker safety throughout Canada through the manufacture, storage, sale, transportation and use of explosives and the coordination of testing of explosives by the Canada Centre for Mineral and Energy Technology. Topics: Committees; interdepartmental, provincial and international liaison; model rocketry; explosives types and classification. Program Record Number: EMR MET 510

Licences

Description: Information relating to policy development, enquiries regarding licences and preparation of forms for explosive licenses. Topics: Factories; fireworks magazines; magazines; temporary magazines. Program Record Number: EMR MET 530

Manufacturing and Production

Description: Information relating to the manufacture and production of all types of explosives. Aspects include safety certificates; information on companies producing or manufacturing explosives. Topics: Manufacturing; production; safety certificates; factory sites. Program Record Number: EMR MET 520

Minerals Technology

Description: Information relating to mineral resource policies and the support and monitoring of research and development in the minerals field in order to ensure the availability to Canada of adequate technology for the extraction, processing, use and conservation of mineral resources. Topics: Mineral technology; cost recovery; conservation and resource assessment; environmental technology for mining and processing; pollution control in industrial processes; uranium tailings technology; research and development in health and safety in the mine environment; noise and vibration in mines; materials development technology: advanced materials and instrumentation; failure control of materials; non-metallic minerals; aggregate technology; properties of engineering alloys; metals processing; transportation materials; heat-treated rail; marine materials; naval materials; metal casting; degradable sand and core binders; improved iron melting practice; low pressure mould casting, mobile foundry laboratory; ultra-clean steels; metal working; welding; mineral processing; by-product recovery of valuable metals; silver recovery in the zinc industry; metal extraction from concentrates or residues; hydrometallurgical lead process; microbiological leaching; mineral beneficiation; iron ore processing; mineral processing plant simulation; mining methods and equipment; rock mechanics; standards and specifications in analytical methods; chemical standards; materials testing; certification of non-destructive personnel; technology transfer. Program Record Number: EMR MET 465

Permissions

Description: Information relating to policy development, enquiries and preparation of forms for explosives permissions. Also includes two-components permissions. Topics: Ammonium nitrate, fuel oil permissions; re-loading ammunition permissions. Program Record Number: EMR MET 535

Permits

Description: Information relating to policy development, enquiries and preparation of forms for explosives permits. Topics: Annual importation permits; general importation permits; transportation permits. Program Record Number: EMR MET 540

Safety Standards

Description: Information relating to policy development and management of safety standards for explosives. Topics: Equipment; magazines; packaging, labelling and marking; transportation. Program Record Number: EMR MET 525

Canadian Exploration and Development Incentive Program (CEDIP)

Description: Information relating to the Canadian Exploration and Development Incentive Program (CEDIP) established to encourage oil and gas exploration and development activities on Canada lands and offshore areas including the development of policy and regulations and the determination of individuals' and qualified corporations' eligibility for reimbursement of approved expenditures in this area. Topics: Automated Incentive Management System (AIMS); acts and regulations; status reports; committees; conferences; liaison activities; communications; operations; quality control; financial payments and controls; monitoring; forecasting of expenditures; evaluation; application assessment; annual expense limit control; technical services; audits; interpretation and rulings of act and legislation; training and development; consultations and inquiries. Program Record Number: EMR MPS 596

Canadian Exploration Incentive Program (CEIP)

Description: Information relating to the Canadian Exploration Incentive Program (CEIP) established to encourage mining, oil and gas exploration and development activities on Canada lands and offshore areas including the development of policy and regulations and the determination of individuals' and qualified corporations' eligibility for reimbursement of approved expenditures in this area. Topics: Automated Incentive Management System (AIMS); Automated Exploration Incentive System (AXIS); acts and regulations; status reports; committees; conferences; liaison activities; communications; operations; quality control; financial payments and controls; monitoring; forecasting of expenditures; evaluation; annual expense limit control; technical services; interpretations on rulings for CEIP act and regulations; audits; training and development; policy; consultations and inquiries. Program Record Number: EMR MPS 595

Ferrous Commodities

Description: Information relating to ferrous commodities in order to assess and analyze Canadian and world supply, demand, development and production. Aspects include development of ferrous commodity strategies, private sector liaison, domestic and international commodity-specific committees and commodity-oriented projects and studies. Topics: ferrous commodities; information requests; domestic and foreign supply, process technology, agglomeration, direct reduction, transportation, shipping, capital investment intentions, press clippings, committees, associations and organizations, economics and marketing, international liaison, mining methods equipment and technology, occupational health and safety, special projects , agreements; chromium; columbium; iron ore; iron and steel; manganese; molybdenum; rare earths; silicon; tantalum; titanium; tungsten; vanadium; zirconium; coal. Program Record Number: EMR MPS 581

Mineral and Metal Commodities

Description: Information relating to the assessment and analysis of domestic and foreign mineral and metal commodities for the development and promotion of policies and programs. Aspects include annual and monthly mining and mineral surveys. Topics: Mineral and metal commodities; press clippings; Survey for Land Uses Mineral Based Activities; energy commodities; uranium and nuclear energy; industrial commodities; industrial commodities – information requests, committees, associations and organisations, conferences; industrial commodities – Baie Verte Mining Corporation; domestic industrial commodities; industrial commodities; Canadian Institutes of Mining and Metallurgy (CIM); industrial commodities listed by commodity including corporate information, press clippings, environmental issues, and related associations and organisations. Program Record Number: EMR MPS 580

Mineral Economic Analysis

Description: Information relating to the assessment of economic and fiscal factors affecting the competitiveness of Canadian minerals and metals industry. Topics: Mineral economic analysis; Economic and Financial Policy Analysis Branch operations (EFPAB); EFPAB economic analysis contracts; conferences; preparation of draft Memorandum to Cabinet; draft Mining Renewal Incentive Program; Mineral Policy Review; the Canadian Mineral and Metals Sector – a framework for discussion and consultation; response to structural change in Canada's Mineral Industry; discussion papers on mineral policy issues in Canada; economic and tax briefings; Federal government intentions / policies; federal government house standing committees; environmental issues; corporation case files; mineral exploration studies; Canadian Exploration Incentive Program; implementation of CEIP; CEIP committees; Canadian Exploration and Development Incentive Program (CEDIP); federal government committees task forces and working groups; domestic associations and organizations; Mining Association of Canada; Prospectors and Developers Association; Coal Association of Canada; cost / tax mine models; mining project analysis of Cyprus Anvil; corporation mergers, acquisitions and strategic alliances; liaison – departmental, interdepartmental and provincial; foreign associations and organizations; international relations; Australia relations; foreign ownership and control; ownership structure and control of the Canadian Non-Fuel Mineral and Coal Sector Report; Foreign Investment Review Agency; Queen's Centre for Resource Studies; Economic and Policy Analysis (EPAD); EPAD – data base renewals and notes, data base negotiations; federal / provincial survey of mines and concentrations; concentrator database management; mines database management; EPAD – mining community issues; competitive cost studies by commodity; competitive cost studies by stage; competitive position industry studies; Canadian Minerals Availability System (C-MAS) project evaluation; non-ferrous smelter study; US Bureau of Mines; mining equipment; mineral economic forecasts and commentaries; cost benefit analysis; Research Agreements Program; unsolicited proposals; free trade studies; World Trade Mineral System; corporate and financial analysis; financial markets and investment community; company prospectuses; flow-through shares – monitoring program; financial analysis of flow through shares; associations and organizations on flow through shares; flow through shares / limited partnerships; inflation accounting studies; mineral exploration statistics; tax policy analysis; mining taxation media commentaries; federal income tax rules and provisions; oil and gas federal income tax rules and provisions; federal tax reform; federal budgets; provincial income and mining taxation; provincial tax reforms and budget changes; foreign tax rules; US tax rules; Australia tax rules; commodity taxation; Goods and Services Tax; mining industry acts and regulations; mineral trade taxation issues; special studies and projects on mining taxation issues; Intergovernmental Working Group on the Mineral Industry Tax Sub-Committee (IGWG); IGWG Tax Sub-Committee – by year; Revenue Canada issues; tax models; tax policy analysis of federal mineral tax cases; informatics. Program Record Number: EMR MPS 560

Mineral Policy

Description: Information relating to mineral development activities for the establishment, promotion and assessment of impacts of mineral policies and strategies and the provision of advice to senior officials on the implications of international mineral development. Topics: mineral policy; mining regulations and legislation; ministerial liaison; status reports; associations and organizations; Western Economics Association (WEA); Canadian Institute on Mining and Metallurgy (CIM); CIM – Ottawa Branch, Ottawa Branch annual general meeting, Ottawa Branch executive meeting; Ottawa Branch executive committee, Ottawa Branch annual business meeting; committees; Interdepartmental Advisory Committee on National Mineral Policy; Intergovernmental Working Group on the Mineral Industry; Mineral Policy Sector – Executive Committee and Management Committee; National Advisory committee on the Mining Industry; conferences; Canadian Mineral Outlook Conference – by year; Miners Minister's Conference; Western Economic Opportunities Conference; environmental issues; Mineral Policy liaison – corporate, interdepartmental, provincial; Mineral and Earth Sciences Program; Integrated Office System; National Audit; CEIP National Audit; CEIP National Audit – Vancouver; CEDIP National Audit; PIP National Audit. Program Record Number: EMR MPS 555

Mineral Resources and Supply Analysis

Description: Information relating to the analysis of mineral resource supply to ensure adequate supplies of minerals and metals for Canada. Topics: mineral supply analysis; operations; Canadian resources and supply; Non-Renewable Resources Evaluation Program (NREP); Canadian mineral exploration; mineral exploration information requests; technical information on mineral discoveries; mineral exploration expenditures; mineral exploration activity surveys; mineral exploration activity surveys – by province; Canadian resource supply research and development; mine monitoring liaison; information on mines and concentrators fro publication in mineral reviews (1958-77); international mineral supply; strategic minerals; USA strategic minerals; Canadian import dependence of strategic minerals; emergency planning for mineral supply; preparedness exercises for strategic minerals;

International Strategic Minerals Inventory (ISMI); Advanced Industrial Materials (AIM); new / advanced material processing; ocean mining; ocean mining – press clippings, publications and reports, information requests, Citation Retrieval System (OMCRS), training courses, seminars and presentations, associations and organizations, committees, task forces and working groups; Departmental Coordinating Committee on Ocean Mining (DCOM); departmental and interdepartmental relations on ocean mining; ocean mining issues with Fisheries and Oceans, Environment Canada, Transport Canada, Indian and Northern Affairs; Canadian university ocean mining projects, programs and workshops; domestic ocean mining; federal ocean mining acts and regulations; regulatory regime for offshore non-fuel minerals; ocean mining – by province; Mineral Rights Registry – Hudson Bay, offshore NFLD, offshore PEI, offshore NS, offshore Qué, offshore BC; Canadian services and technology relating to ocean mining; ocean mining corporation information cases; foreign research in Canadian offshore; international ocean mining; international ocean mining consortia information; US and USSR ocean mining; ocean mining international science programs; ocean mining boundaries and resource jurisdiction; Canada / US boundaries and resource jurisdiction; National Marine Parks; ocean mining environmental and fisheries issues; ocean mining resource assessment; Law of the Sea (LOS); United Nations conference on Law of the Sea; United Nations convention on Law of the Sea. Program Record Number: EMR MPS 590

Minerals and Metals Information Services

Description: Information relating to the production, distribution, management and operation of minerals and metals information services. Topics: Mineral and metal information services; corporation information; information requests; mineral statistics; federal / provincial collection and joint sharing of mineral statistics; mineral statistics questionnaires; Mineral Industry and Commodity Information System (MICIS); mineral statistics information exchange with associations; mineral statistics information commodity profiles; Federal / Provincial Committee on Mineral Statistics – annual meeting, task forces and working groups; Federal / Provincial Consultative Council on Statistical Policy; mineral and metal surveys; minerals and metals publications; National Mineral Inventory (NMI); NMI card system. Program Record Number: EMR MPS 570

Non-ferrous Commodities

Description: Information relating to the overall analysis and assessment of non-ferrous commodities supply, demand, development and production. Topics: non-ferrous commodities; information requests; domestic and foreign supply, process technology, agglomeration, direct reduction, transportation, shipping, capital investment intentions, press clippings, committees, associations and organizations, economics and marketing, international liaison, mining methods equipment and technology, occupational health and safety, special projects, agreements; aluminum; antimony; arsenic; beryllium; bismuth; calcium; cesium; cobalt; copper; lead; magnesium; mercury; nickel; platinum; precious metals; indium; gold; silver; rhenium; selenium and tellurium; tin; zinc. Program Record Number: EMR MPS 582

Regional Mineral Development

Description: Information relating to the regional mineral development strategies and policies in order to contribute to the mineral economic development of Canadian regions. Topics: regional mineral development; liaison – with Federal Economic Development Coordinators; provincial liaison; federal regional programs; Umbrella Development Agreements (UDA); Que Economic and Regional Development Agreement (ERDA); Canada / Que Memorandum of Understanding on Native Economic Development; Eastern Quebec economic development plan; Canada / Que Subsidiary Agreement on the Economic Development of the Regions of Quebec; Financial and Renewed Financial Assistance Programs for prospecting in the lower St. Lawrence and Gaspé regions; NWT Economic Development Agreement (EDA); Yukon Economic Development Agreement (EDA); Saskatchewan Economic and Regional Development Agreement; Cooperative Mineral Development Programs; Mineral Development Agreements (MDA); Mineral Development Agreements (MDA) – by province; NFLD MDA Management Committee; NS Mineral Investment Stimulation Program (MESP); NB Sulphurization Roast Leach Pilot Plant Agreement; NB Mineral Investment Stimulation Program (MISP); QUE Mineral Development Infrastructure Program; QUE MDA Technical and Economic Studies Program; QUE Technical Assistance to Industry and to Mineral Research Organization Program; Manitoba MDA Development Studies / Contracts; BC MDA Management Committee; BC MDA Program 1 – Promotion of BC Mineral Potential; BC MDA Program 2 – Financial Assistance for Mine Development; BC MDA Program 3 – Management Public Information and Evaluation Program; northern development; northern land use planning; northern development – native land claims; infrastructure; transportation infrastructure; land use infrastructure; regional mineral land use and ecological issues; Provincial ecological issues; environmental acts and regulations; Provincial environmental acts and regulations; CANMET environmental technical research; regional analysis; regional analysis – by province; regional analysis – corporation information by province; Mineral Development Agreements – Round 2; Mineral Development Agreements – Round 2 – by province. Program Record Number: EMR MPS 585

Personal Information Banks

Access Requests Data Bank

Description: Information relating to formal access requests such as notices and copies of documents pertaining to the processing of requests for access made pursuant to the Access to Information Act and the Privacy Act, including complaints and investigations involving individuals, third parties, Access to Information and Privacy Commissioners, and the Court. Class of Individuals: Canadian citizens or permanent residents of

Canada. Purpose: Information is used for processing access requests and to report on the number of access requests received annually. Consistent Uses: Transmittal of information to investigative bodies when required under the Access to Information Act and the Privacy Act. Retention and Disposal Standards: Access requests retained for two years after case is resolved. TBS Registration: 000403 Bank Number: EMR PPU 030

Board of Examiners for Canada Lands Surveyors

Description: Information relating to formal applications to write Canada Lands Surveyor exams including applicants' names, addresses, date of birth, country of birth, academic qualifications and work experience, copies of diplomas and certificates, statements of marks, names of special examiners and individuals' exam papers. Class of Individuals: Individuals applying to qualify as Canada Lands Surveyors. Purpose: Information is used by the Board of Examiners for Canada Lands Surveyors in the examination process to qualify candidates as Canada Lands Surveyors. Consistent Uses: Marks forwarded to provincial governments at request of candidates. Retention and Disposal Standards: Examination papers retained for two years after correction. Files retained two years after individual reaches age eighty. TBS Registration: 000399 Bank Number: EMR PPU 010

Canadian Exploration Incentive Program (CEIP)

Description: This bank contains information relating to the Canadian Exploration Incentive Program (CEIP) and the Canadian Exploration and Development Incentive Program (CEDIP). The CEIP incentive is available to any corporation that incurs an eligible exploration expense for mineral or oil and gas exploration in Canada using funds raised through the issue of flow-through shares. The CEDIP incentive is available to any individual, corporation or trust that incurs an eligible expense for oil and gas exploration in Canada. Applicants are required to complete forms on which they must provide their identification, the amount of incentive claimed and the eligible expenses of each well, program, or project claimed. Applicants must also provide a certification confirming the completeness and accuracy of the information submitted. Applicants will be required to submit technical data and detailed expense summaries for each well, program or project claimed when this information has not been submitted previously. If an applicant shares the $10 million annual expense limit with another person or persons, a form specifying the amount allocated to each person must be completed. Class of Individuals: Under CEIP, individuals who are partners in a partnership that has acquired flow-through shares and individuals who are associated with applicant corporations. Under CEDIP, individuals who apply for incentives for oil and gas exploration and development in Canada. Purpose: The objective of collecting this information is to determine the eligibility of claimants and expenses for the purpose of making incentive payments. Consistent Uses: This information will also be used to determine cost norms for expenses; to track and control outstanding and completed applications; to facilitate recovery of incentives paid in error; to audit claimants' expenses and eligibility; and to establish internal effectiveness of the incentive payment process. Retention and Disposal Standards: Information is retained for 10 years after program termination. Information is then transferred to Federal Archives Division, National Archives of Canada, for archival purposes. The CEIP Program was terminated on February 20, 1990. TBS Registration: 001868 Bank Number: EMR PPU 055

Canadian Home Insulation Program (CHIP) Grants

Description: Cases relating to individual applications, invoices, inspection reports and pertinent correspondence pertaining to grants provided to householders for insulation materials and labour costs. Class of Individuals: Grant applicants. Purpose: The purpose of this bank is to control the administration of taxable insulation grants provided to eligible applicants under the Canadian Home Insulation Program (CHIP). It permits the issue of income statement forms in the name of the applicant, provides information requested by provincial governments considering further assistance to applicants, and also assists in evaluation studies associated with the program. Consistent Uses: Information is shared with Canada Mortgage and Housing Corporation, which answers specific enquiries regarding program applications through regional offices located across Canada. Retention and Disposal Standards: After program termination in March 1986, individual grant information existing in all media will be copied onto approximately 70-100 tapes which will then be retained another six years in a federal records centre. TBS Registration: 000401 Bank Number: EMR PPU 020

Certification in Non-Destructive Testing

Description: Information relating to the certification, on a national basis, of non-destructive testing personnel in accordance with CGSB standards. Aspects include examination in industrial radiography, ultrasonics, magnetic particle, liquid penetrant, and eddy current methods. Includes names, addresses, medical certification on eyesight, original application forms, examination copies and results, date(s) of certification and methods, and data on annual certification renewal of individuals who undergo examination. Class of Individuals: Individuals desiring certification in non-destructive testing. Purpose: Information is used to certify individuals in non-destructive testing and answer queries from outside organizations on an individual's certification status. The information is also used to prepare a list of certified personnel in good standing which is published annually and made available to the public. Consistent Uses: Information regarding an individual's marks may be provided to an employer when the employer provides the testing fee. Retention and Disposal Standards: Files are retained ten years after expiry of certification. TBS Registration: 000400 Bank Number: EMR PPU 015

Emergency Fuel Rationing Program

Description: This bank contains information relating to the implementation of an emergency fuel rationing program in Canada required in the event of a severe oil shortage and pursuant to the Energy Supplies Emergency Act (1979). Ration coupons would be issued to eligible applicants who would be required to provide various discrete personal data elements such as name, address, vehicle plate number and driver's license number. Business applicants would be required to provide information on the nature of their business and fuel consumption over specific periods in order to enable calculation of their ration share. Individuals would be hired under contract to collect this information and issue the ration coupons. Class of Individuals: Individuals who purchase gasoline and diesel fuel at retail outlets during rationing and individuals hired under contract to issue coupons. Purpose: The data would be collected in order to administer the various aspects of the fuel rationing program and only in the event that such rationing is necessary. Consistent Uses: Information would be used to substantiate applicants' eligibility to obtain fuel coupons. Selected samples of vehicle registration data will be checked for accuracy with the Motor Vehicle Registrars in each province. Information relating to individuals hired under contract will be used for processing payments. Retention and Disposal Standards: The Emergency Fuel Rationing personal information bank will be retained for two years after the discontinuance of the rationing program, then transferred to federal Archives Division, National Archives of Canada, for archival purposes. TBS Registration: 002833 Bank Number: EMR PPU 050

Energy Conversion Grants Program

Description: Information relating to individuals applying for Canada Oil Substitution Program (COSP) grants through Canadian Renewable Energy Office (CREO) and utility companies including applications, correspondence, invoices and financial information. Class of Individuals: Homeowners. Purpose: The information is used to control, justify and process payment of the grant. Information is also used to capture statistical information by geographic location, type of conversion, volume of conversions in each province, and type of fuel. This aggregate data and some personal information is used for planning and program evaluation purposes over the lifetime of the program. Consistent Uses: Information is shared with provincial utility companies who deliver some aspects of the program. This information may be used to qualify applicants for further grants by provincial governments or agencies. Retention and Disposal Standards: Individual applications will be retained eight years after program termination (until March 31, 1993). TBS Registration: 000402 Bank Number: EMR PPU 025

Explosives Licenses and Permits

Description: Information relating to the issue and control of licenses and permits granted for storage, transportation by road, importation, manufacture and sale of explosives. Class of Individuals: All individuals with a need to store, transport, or handle explosives. Purpose: To fulfil the responsibility of the Explosives Branch as the federal licensing and inspection agency for explosives in Canada. Consistent Uses: Transmittal of information to investigative bodies when an infraction or incident concerning explosives occurs. Retention and Disposal Standards: Licenses and permits are retained for seven years after expiry date. TBS Registration: 000398 Bank Number: EMR PPU 005

Natural Gas Vehicle Program

Description: Contains information and applications from individual private use vehicle owners and fleet operators for a contribution of up to $500 for each vehicle converted to a natural gas fuel system or for a new factory-equipped vehicle purchased by the applicant, including copies of vehicle ownerships, invoices, purchase orders and work orders substantiating the application for each vehicle. Class of Individuals: Private use vehicle owners and corporations and businesses operating vehicles eligible under the program. Purpose: The information is used to substantiate applications, the cost of conversions, to determine the amount to be paid to applicants and for statistical and audit purposes relative to the program. Consistent Uses: Natural gas utilities in the provinces, accept and process applications on behalf of the department under a Memorandum of Agreement. Retention and Disposal Standards: The natural gas utilities maintain one copy of each application and any supporting documentation submitted by the applicant during the term of the program and for a period of up to two years following termination of the program. All such records are subject to review or audit by representatives of Canada. TBS Registration: 002776 Bank Number: EMR PPU 060

Offshore Operations – Divers

Description: Cases relating to an individual diver's diving history. The information consists of the names, addresses, birthdates, birthplaces, physical condition and training of divers. Class of Individuals: Individuals – divers. Purpose: Main use is to provide rapid access to a diver's history to expedite certification and provide data required for annual certification. Diving program approval is contingent upon knowledge of an individual diver's qualifications and work history in order to prevent accidents caused by lack of experience in unusual circumstances. Consistent Uses: Information is also used to develop statistical profiles of the diving population, and to otherwise identify areas of diving regulations requiring updating and improvement for increased diver safety. Retention and Disposal Standards: Information is retained until the diver reaches 65 years of age, and for two years thereafter, after which the data will be transferred to the National Archives of Canada for archival purposes. TBS Registration: 000406 Bank Number: EMR PPU 045

Service Contracts

Description: Information relating to the provision of services by individuals and firms in the private sector to assist in departmental activities and programs. Class of Individuals: Contractors. Purpose: To provide information relative to contracts awarded by the Department. Contracts awarded by the Department of Supply and Services on behalf of EMR are not included. Consistent Uses: To compile statistical information with respect to numbers of contracts awarded by the Department. Retention and Disposal Standards: Files are destroyed six years after completion and non-renewal of contract. TBS Registration: 000404 Bank Number: EMR PPU 035

Unsolicited Proposals Program

Description: Information relating to the executive level coordination of unsolicited proposals for research and development contracts received from Supply and Services Canada that relate to departmental missions, programs and operations. Copies of the proposals are forwarded to the branch having the relevant expertise to assess the project. Class of Individuals: Individuals, companies, and universities engaged in scientific research. Purpose: The information is used to assess the projects and the unique capability of the performer. Consistent Uses: To compile general statistics of interest to the Department with respect to the program as a whole. Retention and Disposal Standards: Proposals are retained for two years after acceptance or rejection. TBS Registration: 000405
Bank Number: EMR PPU 040

Classes of Personal Information

Personal information concerning departmental employees and individuals employed under contract is held for personnel and other administrative functions as described under Employee Personal Information Banks. Some departmental programs and activities result in the accumulation of personal information which is not contained in the personal information banks (PIBs) described in this index. This personal information is stored within subject files where records are not normally retrieved by the name of the individual or other personal identifier. This form of personal information consists of: requests for publications, reports, etc.; enquiries for information of a general nature, enquiries concerning energy, minerals and earth sciences technology. It is normally retrievable only if specifics are provided concerning the subject matter. Retention of this form of personal information is controlled by the records schedules of the subject files in which the information is stored.

Human Resources Planning and Management

Personal information about employees is also maintained in other departmental files and data bases held by various organizations involved in the human resource planning and management functions. Such systems are used to provide aggregated reports for the purpose of human resource planning and management and to assist in analysis of trends or developments. Although some of the information may be retrieved by a personal identifier, the data bases are not used to provide information about individual employees nor to make any administrative decisions affecting individual employees.

Mailing Lists

This class includes correspondence and request cards from individuals regarding departmental mailing lists for publications, maps and charts, reports, catalogues, and indexes. The information is used for amending addresses and to add or delete individual names on mailing lists which are retained permanently. The correspondence and request cards are retained until the mailing list has been amended.

Research Agreements Program

This class contains applications for grants submitted to the Department from candidates affiliated with Canadian research institutions. Applications contain information on the description and budget for the proposed project and the applicant's curriculum vitae. The information is used to select and award grants in the natural, physical and social sciences and engineering which can contribute to the department's purpose. The information is also used to compile general statistics of interest to the department with respect to the program as a whole, and not in relation to individual applicants. Accepted applications are destroyed after a period of six fiscal years and those not accepted are destroyed after two fiscal years.

Technical Enquiries

Canada Centre for Mineral and Energy Technology (CANMET). This class includes technical enquiries, comments and opinions of individuals corresponding with the Department regarding issues related to energy (coal and alternative energy sources), mining and mineral technology. The information is used for reference purposes regarding any subsequent enquiry by an individual. Correspondence is retained for a minimum of two years.

Explosives Safety and Accident Statistics

Explosives Branch. The purpose of this class is to provide a record of statistics on safety measures in the explosives industry as well as on all accidents related to explosives. The files contain information on the nature of the accident as well as the victim's name, age and address, if applicable. Records are retained for 25 years after the date of the incident and are then transferred to the National Archives of Canada for selective retention.

Chapter 44

General Information

Background

The Department of the Environment was established by the Government Reorganization Act, 1970-71-72, ch. 42 on June 10, 1971. The Department, also known as Environment Canada, has as its primary duties renewable resources management and the protection of Canada's air, water and land resources. The departmental organization has three principal components: Atmospheric Environment Service; Conservation and Protection (inland waters, wildlife and lands); and the Parks Program. In addition to these three, there is a combined Finance and Administration Service.

The National Battlefields Commission, a separate agency, also reports to the Minister of the Department.

Responsibilities

The primary objective of the Department of the Environment is to preserve and enhance the quality of the environment for the benefit of present and future generations of Canadians. Departmental programs are designed to promote the establishment or adoption of objectives and standards relating either to environmental quality or pollution control, ensure the wise management and use of renewable resources and to provide Canadians with environmental information in the public interest. As well, the department ensures that new federal projects, programs and activities are assessed early in the planning process for potentially adverse effects on the environment and ensures the preservation of nationally significant natural and cultural heritages.

Organization

■ Federal Environmental Assessment Review Office

The Federal Environmental Assessment Review Office (FEARO) administers the federal environmental assessment and review process (EARP) for the Minister of the Environment. The process is used to predict and mitigate, early in the planning stages, the potential environmental and directly-related social impacts of government or other proposals requiring a federal decision. The process has two possible phases: an initial assessment of proposals by departments and/or an independent panel review. FEARO advises departments and provides secretariats to panels and to the Canadian Environmental Assessment Research Council.

■ Policy

External Relations Directorate: Made up of the National Affairs Branch and the International Affairs Branch, it oversees the Department's external relations and provides advice to program managers in dealing with other federal departments and agencies, provincial governments, governments of other nations and intergovernmental and non-governmental organizations.

Policy and Coordination Directorate: Provides support to senior management in policy development and coordination, particularly for acid rain, the environment-economy thrust, science and energy and the environmental partnership fund.

Planning and Evaluation Directorate: Made up of the Planning Branch and the Program Evaluation Branch, the Planning Branch manages the corporate planning system and provides staff support to senior management in negotiations with central agencies. The Program Evaluation Branch conducts studies to provide periodic independent reviews and assessments of the impact and effectiveness of departmental programs and the efficiency with which they are being administered. The Systems and Administration Branch administers support for Corporate Policy Group.

■ Canadian Parks Service

Program Management Directorate: Responsible for the overall management of program planning and evaluation for Canadian Parks Service functions; the preparation of multi-year forecasts and estimates; the development and implementation of policies, programs and standards related to general administration, information services, liaison and co-operation at the national and international level; marketing management consultation; reviews and audits; socio-economic research; townsite management; realty policy and engineering and architectural activities.

Realty Services Branch: Provides direction and guidance on the management of real property administered by the Canadian Parks Service (CPS). It administers leases, licences, agreements, rentals, acquisitions, disposals and titles.

Socio-Economic Branch: Provides advice and research to the Canadian Parks Service program; maintains a research data accumulation and analysis capacity; and develops research methods to meet recurring CPS needs and to maintain a socio-economic information program.

Marketing Branch: Provides strategic orientation and corporate direction to the marketing function throughout the Canadian Parks Service; develops and implements comprehensive national market plans, and manages the marketing management process. It also monitors progress against market plans and develops and directs program marketing strategies accordingly.

Architectural and Engineering Services Branch: Responsible for establishing technical policies, standards and guidelines for engineering and architectural services and for providing direction and support to the Canadian Parks Service in historic restoration, engineering, building and landscape architecture. This includes the development of comprehensive systems to effectively manage CPS contemporary and historical physical assets.

National Parks Directorate: Responsible for the development and operation of a system of national parks which protect significant natural areas, the development of a system of natural landmarks, the development of co-operative heritage areas through federal-provincial agreements, participation in the Canadian Heritage Rivers System, and the development of the Canadian Heritage Trail System in co-operation with the provinces/territories. The Directorate is also responsible for the development and implementation of policies, procedures and legislation for planning and managing these systems to enable their use and enjoyment by the public.

National Historic Parks and Sites Directorate: Concerned with the preservation, development, maintenance, operation and interpretation of national historic parks and sites and heritage buildings and canals. The activities of the Directorate include archaeological, historical and architectural research; interpretation through live animation, exhibits, films and slide programs; conservation of artifacts and provision of curatorial services for period furniture, costumes and apparel.

National Battlefields Commission: A Crown corporation responsible for the preservation, management and operations of the national battlefields in Quebec. It is funded through the annual appropriations of the Department of the Environment and is responsible to Parliament through the Minister of the Department.

■ Conservation and Protection

Policy and Programs Directorate: Develops and implements national environmental conservation and protection policies and strategies, evaluates and controls the effectiveness and efficiency of Conservation and Protection programs; and develops, implements and coordinates integrated Department-wide programs.

Canadian Wildlife Service: Carries out the federal government's responsibilities for wildlife and wildlife habitat, promotes sustainable development and reports to Canadians on the state of their environment.

Sustainable Development Branch: Develops and assists in the establishment of sustainable development strategies; develops and implements methods and tools for the realization of sustainable development; provides information necessary to support integrated, environmentally sound development; develops and coordinates an integrated Canadian Wildlife Service climatic change impact response program; leads the development and implementation of a federal policy on wetland conservation; develops and implements a national habitat program; and develops and applies ecological and land use information in support of sustainable development initiatives.

State of the Environment Reporting Branch: Provides leadership and coordination of the federal State of the Environment (SOE) Program which includes: publication of the five-year national SOE report, fact sheets and reports, identification of emerging priority environmental issues, strategic planning, development of methods and techniques for SOE reporting including the use of indicators, and collaboration in the creation and management of an environmental database and referral system. The Branch also provides scientific and technical publication support to the other branches of the Canadian Wildlife Service.

Program Analysis and Coordination Branch: Responsible for all Canadian Wildlife Service corporate program planning, evaluation and policies, human resource and financial management control, as well as communicating the importance of wildlife to Canadians and the need for wildlife conservation in Canada. The Branch is active as liaison and in the coordination of wildlife conservation objectives, both nationally and internationally, through participation in various international standing committees, as well as the Latin American Program and federal-provincial-territorial wildlife conferences.

Migratory Birds and Wildlife Conservation Branch: Responsible for population and habitat enhancement of migratory birds, the enforcement and coordination of regulations under the Migratory Birds Convention Act and Canada Wildlife Act, and for endangered species recovery plans and transboundary wildlife. It is also responsible for the administration of the Convention on International Trade in Endangered Species (CITES), the secretariat of the Committee on the Status of Endangered Wildlife in Canada (COSEWIC) and coordination of the Department of the Environment's program on humane trapping systems.

Wildlife Toxicology and Surveys Branch: Responsible for migratory bird surveys, research on effects of toxic chemicals on wildlife, and management and interpretation of a national database of chemical residues in wildlife.

North American Waterfowl Management Plan Implementation Branch (NAWMP): Responsible for the planning, management, implementation and coordination of the NAWMP, federally (Environment Canada and other government departments), nationally (provinces and non-governmental organizations), and internationally (U.S.A.).

Inland Waters Directorate: Promotes sound management and development of Canada's water resources in keeping with federal responsibilities and national objectives. It meets federal responsibilities under the Canada Water Act, the International Boundary Waters Treaty Act and the International River Improvements Act. It is responsible for administering 37 federal-provincial agreements negotiated under the Canada Water Act concerning flood damage reduction, river-basin planning and implementation, and water quantity and quality surveying activities. It undertakes research in support of water management activities in order to provide expert advice on water issues of national significance. This research includes necessary initiatives for activities carried out under the Canada-Ontario Great Lakes Water Quality Agreement.

Environmental Protection Program Directorate: Responsible for protecting the quality of the environment through the prevention or reduction of the harmful effects of pollutants on health and the environment. The Directorate develops and implements regulations and guidelines, and consults with and provides environmental advice to other federal departments, provincial governments, industry, and non-government organizations.

Industrial Programs Branch: Its major goal is to reduce to a minimum the negative effects of industrial and urban activities and the transportation sector on the environment. To this end, the Branch conducts and coordinates studies for the development and promotion of preventive and remedial measures for identified environmental problems and for assessing their cost effectiveness.

Commercial Chemicals Branch: Evaluates and assesses for hazard priority chemicals existing in Canada. The Branch is also responsible for the notification and evaluation process for all substances that are new to Canada as well as environmental impact analysis of new and existing pesticides. Regulatory and non-regulatory approaches for controlling the manufacture and marketing of these chemicals are developed and implemented.

Technology Development and Technical Services Branch: Promotes and undertakes development, demonstration, and transfer of environmental technology to enable cost effective attainment of improved environmental quality. It also provides technical services, primarily involving pollution measurement, and develops training materials to promote environmental protection.

Management and Emergencies Branch: Manages the planning and implementation of environmental protection programs in general (such as environment assessment, compliance and enforcement) and is responsible for specific programs, including ocean dumping and environmental emergencies. The Branch also: develops and provides information on the sources and releases of pollutants; performs socio-economic analyses in support of regulations and other intervention strategies; and documents and communicates the environment- economy linkage.

■ Atmospheric Environment Service

Atmospheric Research Directorate: Responsible for the management of atmospheric and related environmental research and development projects, the Directorate conducts research in the areas of monitoring and depletion of the stratospheric ozone layer, solar radiation instrumentation, cloud and precipitation processes, precipitation scavenging of pollutants, weather modification and weather radar. It also carries out research on sea-state observing and forecasting systems, meteorological and ice problems related to surface transportation, aeronautics, wind energy, building construction and the utilization of satellite data. It also administers the U.S.-Canada Weather Modification Information Act and is responsible for the provision of an efficient and effective federal program in air quality and technology transfer.

Weather Services Directorate: Responsible for the coordination, national implementation and on-going development of the following four main activities or systems within Field Services: data acquisition, meteorological communications, forecasting, and the provision of weather services. These activities are integrated to provide timely data, weather warnings, forecasts and advice to users.

Canadian Meteorological Centre: Responsible for forecast operations, computer operations and operation development.

Canadian Climate Centre: Conducts research into climate predictions, man's impact on climate and cause-and-effect relationships between the climate system, society and the environment. The Centre provides climate data, information, applications services and consultations to federal departments and national organizations, and supports regional offices in serving regional and provincial needs. The Centre is also responsible for the documentation, quality control and archiving of all official Canadian climate data.

Central Services Directorate: Responsible for providing ice information as well as consultation and advice on the use of the information. It also provides computing services, technical and professional training, long-range planning and network maintenance for data acquisition networks and expertise for the development and implementation of atmospheric instruments and systems.

■ Communications

Communications Directorate: Composed of three branches: Operations, Policy and Planning, and Creative Services.

Operations Branch: Provides advice and support to the Minister's Office and to the headquarters and regional operations of the three line services: Atmospheric Environment Service, Canadian Parks Service, and Conservation and Protection Service. The Branch serves the needs of some corporately managed projects, such as Environment Week and State of Environment reporting. A media relations group within the Branch at headquarters coordinates all national announcements, ministerial speeches and press conferences. It prepares guidelines and provides training and advice to departmental spokespersons. Communications Directorate staff are assigned to each of the services at headquarters to advise the Assistant Deputy Ministers and their managers on the communications aspects of their programs. A similar arrangement exists in each of the five regional offices.

Policy and Planning Branch: At headquarters, develops departmental communications policies, prepares an annual strategic communications plan and coordinates the preparation of operational communications plans for the Department. The state of the environment analysis required by this planning and the management of these issues are conducted in collaboration with the Corporate Planning Group, which is responsible for coordinating public opinion studies by the Department. The Policy and Planning Branch works closely with the Corporate Planning Group on a range of policy issues and assists with the communications aspects of inter-governmental affairs, such as meetings of the Canadian Council of Resource and Environment Ministers.

Creative Services Branch: Provides advice and services in film, display and advertising. The Branch is responsible for the development and administration of publications policy and other guidelines and standards. It monitors compliance with government policies relating to official languages, stereotyping and depiction of minorities. The Branch is responsible for producing the Department's annual report and internal and external publications.

■ Canadian Parks Service

Environmental Protection

Description: Information on environmental protection in the National Parks, including pollution of air, land and water, as well as regulations, studies and reports compiled on environmental protection. Topics: General correspondence and reports on environmental protection; pollution and pollutants; regulations; reports and returns; surveys and studies; water supplies and wildlife. Program Record Number: ENV CPS 040

Flora

Description: Information on botany, ecology and forestry management in the National Parks. Topics: General correspondence and reports; forest fires; regulations; silviculture; pest control; statistics; surveys and studies; timber cutting. Program Record Number: ENV CPS 045

Health and Social Services

Description: Information on the various health and social services provided to people in a park. Topics: Health services for park visitors; ambulance, hospital and nursing stations; health and welfare services for Park residents by the provincial governments. Program Record Number: ENV CPS 050

Historical and Contemporary Technical References

Description: Plans, drawings, specifications, standards, guidelines and reports on historical and contemporary engineering and architectural projects in Parks. Also historical records and training material on historical preservation. Topics: Plans, drawings, specifications (contract, construction and manufacturing), standards and guidelines, "as-found" information, archaeological reports, feasibility studies, recording field notes, general information and training packages. Storage Medium: EDP and microforms. Program Record Number: ENV CPS 030

Justice and Law Enforcement

Description: Information on justice and law enforcement in the National Parks, and the National Historic Parks and Sites. Topics: Justice and law enforcement, crimes and violations, judicature, police services, reports and returns, statistics, surveys and studies. Program Record Number: ENV CPS 055

Management Information and Outreach

Description: Information on the general management and operational responsibilities of the Parks Program. Topics: Policy and program activities; information exchange with foreign countries; hours of operation; levels of service; awards and honours; co-operative activities with public and private organizations; capital development projects and planning systems; operational planning; management improvement; central system program evaluation; public consultation and participation; general resources – inventories, management and research; park signs; general surveys and studies. Program Record Number: ENV CPS 005

Marine National Parks

Description: Information on marine environments (both salt and fresh water) which merit protection because of their natural phenomena. Topics: General development and planning, surveys and studies. Program Record Number: ENV CPS 060

Mineral Resources

Description: Information on mining, oil and gas activities at or near Parks facilities. Topics: Mineral exploration and development; mineral claims; quarrying and various mining activities; oil and gas exploration and development; leases and permits. Program Record Number: ENV CPS 065

National Battlefields Commission

Description: Responsible for the preservation, management and operation of the National Battlefields Park, Quebec. Topics: Administration; policy; planning studies and reports. Program Record Number: ENV CPS 095

National Historic Parks and Sites

Description: Information on the preservation, development, management,interpretation, operation and maintenance of the National Historic Parks and Sites of Canada. Topics: Monuments and plaques; Canadian Inventory of Historic Buildings; proposed parks and sites; heritage canals; public participation; permits; heritage conservation and building programs; other heritage agencies; historic resources in other countries; seasonal closing; archaeology and artifacts; identification, inventory and recording of historic buildings; cemeteries; development and planning, including management plans; interpretation planning; programs for the acquisition, development and control of lands and facilities within national historic parks and sites; interpretive services – exhibits, interpretive routes, costumes, period ordinance and furnishings, personal interpretive contracts, theatres, guided tours, extension programs, special events and interpretation centres; documentary, archaeological and architectural research; restoration; statistics, surveys and studies; tourist activities and tourism, souvenirs and handicrafts and Register of Federal Heritage Buildings. Program Record Number: ENV CPS 090

National Landmarks

Description: Information on potential National Landmarks which merit protection of specific natural phenomena without requiring large land holdings in order to preserve and interpret them. Topics: Development and planning; surveys and studies. Program Record Number: ENV CPS 070

National Parks

Description: Administration, management and control of National Parks. Topics: Archaeology and artifacts; camp sites; cemeteries; development and planning; management plans; interpretive planning; townsite planning; regional planning; ski areas; day use areas; interpretive services; nature trails; signs; talks and tours; special events; extension services; interpretive centres; permits to collect specimens; public participation; research; sports; statistics; surveys and studies; tourists and tourism – accommodation, bath houses, hot springs, catering and restaurants, souvenirs and handicrafts. Program Record Number: ENV CPS 075

Projects

Description: Information on engineering and architectural projects carried out in the Parks Program, including the project authorization form, project brief, design data, cost estimates, management reports and project schedules. (See also DOE/PKS-Management Information and Outreach) Topics: Planning; design; construction; operation; maintenance; equipment; services; utilities; facilities; claims and evaluation. Program Record Number: ENV CPS 035

Public Use Database

Description: Information on the collection of data on attendance and use of specific facilities and services for National Parks and National Historic Parks and Sites; collection of information on interpretation, camping and gateways at National Parks; vessel movement data on the Heritage Canals. Topics: Attendance data for National Parks and National Historic Parks and Sites; interpretive facility and services data collection; campgrounds utilization, volume of vehicular traffic at National Park gateways; vessel movement data on the Heritage Canals. Access: These records are located at Parks headquarters, regional offices and park offices. A report is issued annually and distributed widely (300 copies) to government agencies, universities and libraries. Monthly attendance reports (300 copies) are also distributed widely in a similar manner. Storage Medium: EDP Systems and hard copy. Program Record Number: ENV CPS 020

Realty

Description: Information on the management of real property including National Parks, National Historic Parks and Sites, Heritage Canals and Corridors, Admiralty, Dominion and Ordinance lands. Involves the acquisition of land by the Crown, the leasing, licensing and granting of concessions on Crown-owned land, the sale or disposal of Crown-owned land, and other related land matters. Topics: General agreements; agreements for bridges and causeways; roads, walks and highways, wharves and docks; boundary lines and encroachments; freehold lands; lettings and concessions; franchises; lease of land; licences of occupation; use of electric power, water power, surplus water; land acquisition; sale and disposition of land; utilities – land use, rental setting. Access: The general realty records are arranged by subject. Individual leases, licences of occupation and concessions are arranged by location, the number of the lot and block and by the name of the individual. Storage Medium: EDP and microfiche. Program Record Number: ENV CPS 010

Socio-economic Research

Description: Information on socio-economic surveys and studies carried out by Parks in support of the planning, development and operation of National Parks, National Historic Parks and Sites and Heritage Canals. Access: These records are located at Parks headquarters and regional offices. Final reports available to the public through departmental libraries and specialized document collections located at headquarters and regional offices. Topics: Research review process, information enquiries from internal and external sources, research projects, surveys and studies, historical data. Storage Medium: EDP Systems and hard copy. Special Program Record Number: ENV CPS 015

Water Resources

Description: Information on the use of water resources in the Parks. Topics: Water levels; water rights; hydrological surveys; hydro power development within a park for park use only; hydrometric networks; regulations; reports; surveys and studies. Program Record Number: ENV CPS 080

Wildlife

Description: Information on all types of wildlife in the National Parks and National Historic Parks, including the management and protection of wild animals, birds, fish and insects. Topics: Diseases; rare and endangered species; census; licences and permits; hunting; regulations; surveys and studies; trapping; immobilization drugs; live capture; gifts of animals; preserves; furs and hides; fish culture; hatcheries and stocking; sport and commercial fishing in National Parks; insects and their control; use of insecticides. Program Record Number: ENV CPS 085

■ Conservation and Protection Service

Abatement and Compliance

Description: Information on inventories of pollution services and cost of abatement; state of the art of pollution abatement by industry; regulations development; policy and technical advice on enforcement programs; technical audits of incentives programs; energy-related studies. Topics: Pulp and paper industry; mining and metallurgical processes; petroleum and industrial organic chemicals, inorganic chemical processes; toxic chemicals emission/release controls; control options, evaluation of their costs and effectiveness; food and allied industries; municipal waste and miscellaneous industries; power generation; legal services; pulp and paper modernization program. Access: Files are arranged by company, product. Program Record Number: ENV CAP 260

Biometrics

Description: Information on the biometry of migratory birds. Topics: Migratory game birds hunting permits; waterfowl surveys; data processing. Program Record Number: ENV CAP 105

Canada-United States and Interjurisdictional Waters

Description: Information on all activities carried out under specific Canada-United States agreements or arrangements such as investigative, control, or surveillance board activities for the International Joint Commission (IJC) or in other bilateral Canada-United States situations; studies and implementation programs under formal federal-provincial arrangements; and Canada-United States activities on shared river basins. Policy development, data collection and research carried out as a part of any of these formal arrangements are included as well as specific federal-provincial agreements required to carry out Canada's obligations in boundary waters (the Canada-Ontario Agreement on Great Lakes Water Quality) and interprovincial arrangements (Prairie Provinces Water Board). Information is also available on water use for selected years and geographic areas. Topics: Great Lakes connecting channels, Great Lakes programs and studies, International and Interprovincial Waters, Prairie Waters, Lake of the Woods, Ottawa River Regulations. Access: Files are arranged by subject and project title; many reports are referenced in AQUAREF. Program Record Number: ENV CAP 175

Chemical Process Sources

Description: Information on chemical industry pollution; producers, emissions, products, development of industrial studies questionnaires, guidelines and codes and regulations. Topics: Chemical products; pulp, paper and wood products; forest products operations; pulp and paper processes; textiles and related manufacturers; woods and allied products manufacturing; petroleum, petrochemical, polymers and plastics; surface coating industry. Access: Files are arranged by name of company and product. Program Record Number: ENV CAP 220

Combustion Sources

Description: Studies and surveys; assessments; questionnaires; analytical reports; information on emissions and emission controls; investigations; codes and regulations. Topics: Interdepartmental programs; thermal power-fuel; thermal power-fuel processing and storage; combustion systems; internal combustion engine; emission calculation and analysis; emission data; air quality surveillance; air quality criteria; incinerators; investigations, studies and surveys. Program Record Number: ENV CAP 235

Contaminants Control

Description: Information on predicting and evaluating environmental effects of new chemical substances; determining amounts and end uses of chemicals in Canadian commerce; regulating substances which pose a significant threat to human health and environment; reviewing pesticide registrations; and coordinating tests of chemicals for environmental effects. Topics: Studies and surveys; chemical elements compounds; Environmental Contaminants Act; toxicology assessment and ecological protocols; regulation development; enforcement and compliance; transportation of dangerous goods; response to notices; mandatory reporting; automated information system; pesticides-control programs – registration, re-evaluation, research and trade information; research permits; compendium; non-chemical pesticides; mercury program. Access: Files are arranged by subject, company and product. Program Record Number: ENV CAP 275

Data Analysis

Description: Information on air pollutants; emissions source categories; industrial questionnaires; studies and surveys and air pollution costs. Topics: Emission inventory; air pollutants, source categories; effects of regulations; socio-economic impact studies and surveys; industrial, geographical; economy impact studies and surveys – pollutants; analytical concepts and methodology – statistical and economic. Program Record Number: ENV CAP 240

Ecological Applications Research

Description: Information on production of nationally consistent spatial data on the ecological characteristics and resource potentials of land; dissemination of scientific knowledge, methods and techniques used for surveying and classifying land, including wetlands, by ecological characteristics, for assessing resource potentials, impacts and hazards and for increasing knowledge of land and land/water process linkages of concern in environmental management; the assessment of potential climate change of the vegetative and land base of Canada and consequent implications for resource management. Topics: General correspondence; public awareness; inter-regional projects; wetlands and acid rain sensitivity; climate change; land use information mapping series; Canada Committee on Ecological Land Classification; Canada Committee on Ecological Areas. Program Record Number: ENV CAP 160

Enforcement

Description: Information on the enforcement of Migratory Bird Convention Act, Migratory Bird Regulation, Migratory Bird Treaty. Topics: General correspondence; authority to purchase migratory birds; authority to issue permits; payments of fines; Migratory Birds Conviction List, report convention; legal fee; appointment of game officer; appointment of agents; protocol with U.S.A.; enquiries and questions; Indians and Inuit; treaties and letters of understanding with foreign governments. Program Record Number: ENV CAP 110

Environmental Emergency

Description: Information on environmental accidents; emergency teams; reporting and alerting operating procedures; special studies; research and development; contingency plans; pollution clean-up agents for collection and dispersal. Topics: Environmental emergency teams; operations and procedures; resource inventory; accident prevention; transportation; accident detection; pollution abatement; pollution containment; disposal; restoration; analysis – prediction, research and development projects; information. Access: Files are arranged by individual environmental accidents. Program Record Number: ENV CAP 285

Environmental Information Systems and Services

Description: Information on the development, maintenance and operation of a computerized Canada Geographic Information System (CGIS) capable of storing, processing and retrieving geographic-specific bio-physical, socio-economic and ecological data on land capability, land use, resource management and environmental issues of national or regional significance; the development, assessment, improvement and recommendation of computerized technologies designed to enhance the performance and efficiency, while promoting greater use, of spatial information systems in State of the Environment planning and management; the provision of data on processing and advisory services in support of the establishment of a national Environmental Informatics System and the solution of environmental planning and management problems; and the provision of a training program on the use of the CGIS for existing and potential clients. Topics: Canada Land Inventory, Canada Geographic Information System projects. Storage Medium: EDP systems and maps. Program Record Number: ENV CAP 170

Federal Activities

Description: Information on the regulation of emissions/effluents from federal departments and agencies as well as on waste management at these institutions; information on the evaluation of federally funded pollution control projects; demonstration of technology at federal facilities; environmental impact assessment of nuclear facilities, and radioactive waste facilities. Topics: Federal projects; clean-up program; methods, techniques and refinements; nuclear programs. Access: Files are arranged by company, subject and project. Program Record Number: ENV CAP 295

Flood Damage Reduction

Description: Information on all activities under federal-provincial flood damage reduction agreements, including flood risk mapping, construction of physical flood control works, and flood forecasting. It also includes policy development, data collection (hydrometric and other data collection programs and research for many water management purposes) carried out as an integral part of these agreements, or in support of anticipated new agreements, and guidelines or methodology development and information programs directly in support of the program. Topics: Conservation and floods, flood damage reduction. Access: Files are arranged by subject, geographic location and project title; many reports are referred to in AQUAREF. Program Record Number: ENV CAP 180

Fuels

Description: Information on fuel types, composition and use. Topics: Fuel producers; types; composition; resources marketing and processing; pollution investigations; pollution control equipment, and regulations on fuels and components of fuels; guidelines development; synthetic fuels, gasoline; natural gas; coal; petroleum producers; petroleum marketing; energy conservation; sulphur and by-products; fuels and fuel additives composition; fossil fuel resources. Access: Files are arranged by subject, company and product. Program Record Number: ENV CAP 230

Habitat and Land Use Research

Description: Information on habitat strategies, plans and data banks; research on habitat impacts from toxic substances, climate changes and land use changes; remote sensing techniques and methodologies to monitor habitat changes/impacts; provision of land management services and advice to federal departments and agencies responsible for administering federal lands located in the provinces or specially dedicated lands located in the territories. Topics: General correspondence; habitat planning and management; resource management data; federal land data; public awareness; policy research and coordination. Program Record Number: ENV CAP 165

Land Use Policy

Description: Information on the development and assessment of federal land use objectives, policies and guidelines; the coordination of interdepartmental and intergovernmental activities on land use policy and program matters; the analysis of land use policy instruments with recommendations on their effectiveness in addressing sustainable development and land use issues of national significance; the identification and assessment of the impact of federal programs on the sustainable use and management of Canada's land resources, and the recommendation of mitigating measures to offset any adverse effects; the provision of advice and policy positions on sustainable development concerning land quality, land use and other related environmental issues; the provision of advice and assistance in developing or assessing policies in which land resources and environmental matters are important considerations; the representation of Environment Canada on the Treasury Board Advisory Committee/Federal Land Management and the coordination of the discharge of the Department's responsibilities under the Federal Policy on Land Use; assistance in representing Canada's land resource interest in bilateral relations with other countries and international organizations; and assistance in foreign aid technical exchange and advisory programs. Topics: General correspondence; environment/economy integration; public awareness; Canada land use policy research and coordination; policy advice to federal departments and agencies; and sustainable development. Program Record Number: ENV CAP 155

Mining, Mineral and Metallurgical Industries

Description: Information on mining and metallurgical production, refining, and smelting operations and the significance of such processes in terms of pollution; mineral, and metallurgical industry studies; and emission control requirements such as codes and regulations. Topics: Mining operations and processes; mineral products processing; primary metallurgical industries; secondary metallurgical industries. Access: Files are arranged by subject, product and plant type. Program Record Number: ENV CAP 225

Mobile Sources

Description: Information on vehicle emission data; test methods and procedures; test results; studies and surveys; standards and regulations. Topics: Abatement programs; engineering and evaluation; fugitive emissions; fleet programs; mobile source compliance; special studies. Access: Files are arranged by subject, company, and project. Program Record Number: ENV CAP 215

National Wildlife Areas

Description: General correspondence on policies and regulations as they affect land use in designated areas. Topics: Agreements; policy; regulations; rentals; leases. Program Record Number: ENV CAP 135

Native People

Description: Information on correspondence on native harvest surveys and native land claims. Topics: Hunting and fishing rights, treaties, acts and regulations, Council of Yukon Indian, Inuit Tapirisat of Canada, Northern Quebec Cree, Inuit, Naskaps, Western Arctic Inuit-COPE. Access: Files are arranged by name of individual. Program Record Number: ENV CAP 115

North American Waterfowl Management Plan (NAWMP)

Description: Information on the development, coordination and planning of the North American Waterfowl Management Plan (NAWMP). Topics: Joint ventures; implementation agreements (multilateral, internal); NAWMP committees; long-term and annual work plans; funding arrangements; communications and general correspondence. Program Record Number: ENV CAP 173

Ornithology

Description: Information on all aspects of waterfowl. Topics: North American Waterfowl Management Plan; bird banding programs; reports, studies and surveys; sanctuaries; migratory bird sanctuaries regulations; permits for bird sanctuaries; delegation; agreements; leases; damage to crops by birds; agreements with provincial governments on compensation for crop damage; diseases and parasites; effects of sprays; predation; use of drugs; lead poisoning repellents; ornithology permits; taxidermist licences; propagation and agriculture; research on species; use of birds; commercial shooting of birds; plumage of birds; public shooting grounds; waterfowl kill statistics; waterfowl populations; breeding ground survey; breeding bird survey; brood production survey; waterfowl status reports. Access: Files are arranged by name and geographic locations. Program Record Number: ENV CAP 120

Planning, Assessment and Policy

Description: Information on the development of an environmental protection strategy; program, planning and systems development; socio-economic analysis of proposed major regulations. Topics: Program planning system development; activity program development; operational plans; activity management reports; policy development and analysis; program evaluation; program development; organization and systems project; economics; socio-economic program; socio-economic impact analysis – Clean Air Act, Environmental Contaminants Acts, Fisheries Act. Access: By subject. Program Record Number: ENV CAP 290

Program Activity Structures and Objectives

Description: Information on systems for strategic and operational planning and program evaluation, management practices and controls, performance measurement, priority settings, resource-based economic strategy and perspective, socio-economic and scientific development studies, implementation of integrated programs. Topics: Program activity structures and objectives, surveys and studies, Improvements in Management Practices and Controls (IMPAC), toxic substances, Co-operative Projects with Industry (COPI), Pilot Industry Laboratory Program, Shore Zone Program, Biomass. Program Record Number: ENV CAP 100

Program Coordinator

Description: Information on regulations development; monitoring of agreed implementation schedules, program evaluation and acid rain control strategies. Topics: Acts and legislation; regulations enforcement; federal/provincial programs; international activities; international organizations; intradepartmental activities; long range transport of air pollutants. Program Record Number: ENV CAP 245

State of the Environment Reporting

Description: Information and interpretive reports on significant conditions and trends related to environmental components (air, water, land and wildlife) and human activities (agriculture, forestry, fisheries, etc.) to meet the requirements of the Federal Environmental Quality Policy Framework and Canadian Environmental Protection Act; development, assessment and recommendations for selecting and utilizing key environmental indicators; development and dissemination of scientific methods and techniques for State of the Environment (SOE) Reporting, identifying emerging issues; development of methods and guidelines for storage, manipulation and transfer of environmental data vis-à-vis the SOE centralized database and referral system. Topics: General correspondence; SOE publications; state of the environment data; scientific methods; indicator research; inter-regional projects; publication guidelines; Canada Land Inventory and a wide range of land, water and other resource data. Storage Medium: Files, maps, EDP systems. Program Record Number: ENV CAP 167

Surveillance

Description: Information on national air pollution surveillance monitoring equipment; monthly and annual summary reports; source testing methods. Topics: National air pollution surveillance; operations and maintenance; equipment testing and evaluation; source testing procedures; studies, surveys and investigations; specific pollutants. Access: Files are arranged by subject, location and specific pollutants. Program Record Number: ENV CAP 250

Sustainable Development

Description: Program for implementation of sustainable development within the government; development of federal conservation strategy; coordination of federal-provincial links on conservation strategy development; coordination of intergovernmental activity on land policy and program matters; development of sectoral resource management policies (e.g. wetlands); assessment of impact of federal programs on environment and economy; analysis of links between environment, resources, and economic development; development of means to build environmental criteria into economic development policies and programs; assessment of the value of environmental resources; analysis of success stories of sustainable development as models for further implementation; application of sustainable development criteria to federal land transactions; development of means of measuring success towards sustainable development. Responsibilities include provision of scientific and technical advice to other departments, other countries and international organizations with respect to sustainable development implementation. Topics: Sustainable development; wetlands policy; federal policy on land use; environment/economy integration; federal program impact; Sustainable Development newsletter; success stories of sustainable development. Program Record Number: ENV CAP 156

Technology Development – Pollution Abatement

Description: Information on development and demonstration of pollution abatement technology (DPAT); instruction in air pollution control; pollution analysis and instrument testing. Topics: Development and demonstration of pollution abatement technology; educational activities; chemistry files. Access: Files are arranged by subject and company. Program Record Number: ENV CAP 255

Technology Development – Waste Water

Description: Information on development and demonstration of waste water pollution control technology; technology development assistance programs; technical training; technology transfer; program planning and evaluation. Topics: Program planning and evaluation; technology assistance program; waste water technology. Access: Files are arranged by company. Program Record Number: ENV CAP 265

Toxic Chemicals

Description: Information on toxic chemical management. Topics: Inventory; assessment of DSL substances for toxicity; control throughout the life cycle of toxic chemicals; regulations; guidelines; codes of practice. Program Record Number: ENV CAP 300

Waste Management

Description: Inventory of commercial and industrial hazardous wastes; technology development; studies and surveys; handling, storage and environmentally safe transportation; disposal of industrial and hazardous wastes; inventory sources and amounts of hazardous wastes; regulations development. Topics: Wastes and types; waste management and disposal; waste management systems – disposal; resource recovery and reclamation, materials; information and training; solid waste information retrieval system, inventory; regulations; guidelines and codes of practice; consultation services; technical evaluation. Access: Files are arranged by subject, company and project. Program Record Number: ENV CAP 280

Water Management Research

Description: Information on water resource research, including the study of the impact of pollutants and nutrients on the environment, sediment composition, water quality and quantity modelling, groundwater quality and sub-surface disposal of wastes, pathways, fate and effects of pollutants, dispersion and energy transfer processes in lakes and rivers, urban runoff processes, ice dynamics, hydrological forecasting, groundwater movement, biological and chemical techniques for water quality analysis, snow and ice hydrology, glacier dynamics, sociological, geographical, legal, institutional and economic aspects of water management. Also included is research management and coordination and research contracts. Topics: Ground water; ground water quality; ice river breakup; new analytical techniques; improved methodologies for aquatic studies; predictive technique on models for toxic substances; pathways and fate of pollutants; hydraulic variables; drought; floods; climatic changes; restoration of lakes and polluted waters. Access: Files are arranged by subject and location. Most information is readily available. Storage Medium: Microfiche, magnetic tapes, computer printouts, punchcards. Program Record Number: ENV CAP 205

Water Pollution Programs

Description: Information on federal/provincial programs; pollution control in coastal areas; International Joint Commission programs; data management; Arctic water programs coordination; program evaluation; interservice and interagency program coordination; program planning and development. Topics: Program coordination and evaluation; coastal zone; data management and analysis. Program Record Number: ENV CAP 270

Water Quality Management Data

Description: Information and interpretive reports on the quality of surface and ground waters based on analysis of samples; information on field surveys and analytical methods, and on quality control; water quality guidelines for protection of uses, and water quality objectives for specific surface waters. It does not include water quality objective work done under specific international or federal-provincial basin studies, nor research related to water quality management. Topics: Water pollution, water quality surveys, analytical methods, quality of surface waters, rain water and snow water quality, water quality guidelines, water quality monitoring programs. Access: Files are arranged by subject, geographic location and title; water quality parameters are accessed on-line through NAQUADAT. Storage Medium: Magnetic tapes. Program Record Number: ENV CAP 185

Water Quantity Management Data

Description: Information on data collection, hydrometric and water levels, and sediment, as well as the management and operation of data systems and interpretive reports. These data include data collection under specific international or federal-provincial water management or planning studies and data collection carried out as an integral part of other studies. Topics: Gauging stations, international gauging stations, gauging stations inventory, hydrometric investigations, hydrologic interpretive and analytical reports, sediment links to water quality, sediment surveys, remote sensing, watershed research, tidal gauge records, tidal surveys. Access: Files are arranged by subject, geographic location, river and site location. Storage Medium: Computer printouts, magnetic tapes, microfiche, interactive on-line access to the national database known as HYDAT. Program Record Number: ENV CAP 200

Wildlife Management

Description: Information on the federal participation and responsibilities in the management of wildlife. Topics: Hunting performance program; transboundary wildlife; bird hazard to aircraft; problems at airports; restricted material on birds and aircraft; correspondence from Air Canada; bird strike bulletins; bird strike field notes; bird strike reports; reports on visits to airports; RCMP reports; application for species; Eastern Arctic-Scientific Research; scientific collection of specimens; transplant. Program Record Number: ENV CAP 150

Wildlife Toxicology

Description: Information on toxic substances and their effects on birds and mammals; also related research and studies. Topics: Advice to outside agencies on chemicals and pesticides; National Registry of Pesticide Residues; registration of agricultural chemicals; toxic substances program; analytical data quality program; chemical analytical services; forest spray operations; heavy metals; Organization for Economic Co-operation and Development (OECD); wildlife sampling program; study of fish-eating birds.LRTAP – Toxic Substances. Access: By subject. Program Record Number: ENV CAP 145

■ Atmospheric Environment Service

AES Headquarters – Projects Research

Description: Information on computerized and man-machine mix system; module component development and design; research data set development; also implementation and joint projects with forecast operations. Topics: Systems design for automated weather forecasting procedures; creation of research data sets for weather forecasting research. Program Record Number: ENV AES 400

AES HQ – Forecast Project

Description: Information on the development of forecast methods and techniques for AES forecast systems (including models – numerical, statistical). Topics: Weather prediction methodology; snow squall modelling; ice and sea state models; oil spill trajectory models; freezing spray; investigations. Program Record Number: ENV AES 420

AES HQ – Projects

Description: Information on satellite activity reports; data collection platforms; SDL Staffing; SDL GOES; Meso-met Network; Wind Energy Field Studies investigations. Program Record Number: ENV AES 370

AES, Research Management and Policy

Description: Meteorological, atmospheric, air quality, ice in navigable waters, remote sensing and other related environmental and technological research and development; research and related support activities of a general management nature – decisions and large-scale agreements; training for research and grants for research outside the federal government which support the goals, objectives and policies for atmospheric research in Canada; mechanisms for better transfer of technology to and from government research laboratories, contracting-out of federal research and development. Topics: Agreements; treaties; studies; projects; federal activities; committees; plans and programs; fellowships; training and development; grants; unsolicited proposals; contracting; technology transfer.Files are located at 4905 Dufferin St., Downsview, Ontario. Program Record Number: ENV AES 310

AES – Wind Tunnel

Description: Information on wind tunnel experiments, operations and maintenance. Program Record Number: ENV AES 395

Air Quality Research Projects

Description: Information on research dealing with the quality of air. Topics: Field studies; wind energy; LRTAP Programs (Acid Rain);federal-provincial co-operative projects; IFYGL; Alberta Oil Sands; hazardous and toxic chemicals; air quality assessment processes; regional and international studies of meteorological potential for air pollution; boundary layer processes; experiments; analyses; scientific papers; program planning and international co-operation; air quality sampling; siting; analytical methodology for ambient atmospheres; workspace atmospheres and instream emissions. Program Record Number: ENV AES 315

Atmosphere – High Atmospheric Vehicles

Description: Information on weather ice and other related environmental satellite research and development, ground receiving stations, data processing and distribution, and related hardware, instrumentation technology; aeronautical meteorology, aviation studies, marine meteorology and meso-meteorology, wind energy, weather radar and radar satellite combined system; wind tunnel experiments, related field experiments and wind engineering. Topics: Canadian space policy; repairs of satellite receivers; high atmosphere vehicles; satellite data lab operations; satellite meteorology research and development projects (TOVS, RAINSAT, ICE STATUS); Aeromet Facility; Rockcliffe STOL project; Meso-met Network; data collection platforms; GOES Wind Energy Field Studies; radar satellite system; ICS Submission; AES Satellite Program; NOSS; SURSAT; wind tunnel experiments, operation and maintenance. Program Record Number: ENV AES 325

Atmospheric Research

Description: Information on weather modification, cloud physics, weather radar, ozone monitoring, stratospheric pollution, solar radiation and energy. Activities aimed at increasing precipitation (rain, snow) or suppressing hailfall; research in the physics of clouds and precipitation and in the detection of precipitation by weather radar; research conducted into the processes of the stratospheric ozone layer and its depletion by trace constituents (typically chlorofluorocarbons); calibration of solar radiation instruments and development of new solar radiation instrumentation and development of specialized solar radiation database. Topics: Weather Modification Policy; Agreement (with U.S.) and co-operative projects; WMO PEP program; weather radar and cloud physics; ozone instruments; World Ozone Data Centre; stratospheric pollution; solar radiation. Program Record Number: ENV AES 320

Climatology

Description: Information on applied climatology; climatological data and studies; information and requests; monitoring and prediction; numerical modelling. Topics: General climatology; climatology normals; recreation and tourism; station history system; National Parks; agrometeorology; ice accretion studies; biometeorology; energy; Canadian Climate Program; climatic change. Storage Medium: Microfilm, magnetic tape. Program Record Number: ENV AES 455

Communications – Computing Services

Description: Information on communications and communications-programming. Program Record Number: ENV AES 470

Communications – Facsimile

Description: Information on Satellite Data Laboratory Operations. Program Record Number: ENV AES 330

Contracts – Satellites

Description: Information on contracts for satellite systems; also contracts for satellite research and development – TOVS, RAINSAT, ICE STATUS. Access: Files are arranged by subject and company. Program Record Number: ENV AES 335

Contracts – Sea State

Description: Information on contracts for ice, oil spills on water and sea state models. Access: Files are arranged by subject and company. Program Record Number: ENV AES 405

Data Acquisition

Description: Information on land surface networks; upper air and aerological networks; Voluntary Observing Ship Program; remote sensing; environmental network. Topics: Station classification; site information; meteorological and aerological instruments; codes; data standards; data reduction; quality assurance; equipment supply; development and testing; lists of ships participating;

satellite ground stations; APT, weather radar; signal processing; data transmissions; maintenance; plans and policies. Program Record Number: ENV AES 440

Data Acquisition Networks
Description: Information on atmospheric environment operations, overall policy, operational performance, procedures and standards. Program Record Number: ENV AES 480

Forecast Procedures
Description: Information on meteorological models, procedures and techniques in support of forecast production. Topics: Maps, charts and forms; professional training and development; satellite operations; plans and programs. Program Record Number: ENV AES 430

Hemispheric Observations
Description: Observed data, hemispheric surface synoptic reports. Storage Medium: Coded forms. Program Record Number: ENV AES 450

Hydrometeorology
Description: Information on development of hydrometeorological techniques for measurements and analysis; application of meteorological techniques and data to hydrology and marine problems (hydrology, water resources, oceans, lakes and reservoirs); hydrological time series data; climatology of water temperature. Topics: International Hydrological Decade; hydrometeorological projects; investigations, research, studies and surveys; wind wave studies, evaporation. Storage Medium: Magnetic tape. Program Record Number: ENV AES 460

Ice
Description: Information on regional ice models. Program Record Number: ENV AES 410

Ice Information, Consultation and Advice
Description: Information on ice forecasting and services, ice research, climatology and Observing Program (reconnaissance). Program Record Number: ENV AES 465

Ice Observing Programs – Reconnaissance
Description: Information on verification of satellite data. Program Record Number: ENV AES 340

Instruments
Description: Information on Aeromet Facility Instrumentation. Program Record Number: ENV AES 345

Instruments and Instrument Systems
Description: Information on instruments; general, humidity, evaporation, precipitation, marine, physical phenomena, pressure, radiation, atmospheric sounding wind. Program Record Number: ENV AES 485

Marine Meteorology
Description: Information on TOVS. Program Record Number: ENV AES 355

Meso-meteorology
Description: Information on the Meso-met Network. Topics: Operation; data. Program Record Number: ENV AES 360

Meteorology Aviation
Description: Information on the Rockcliffe STOL Project. Program Record Number: ENV AES 350

Meteorology Training
Description: Information on professional training, development, technical training in meteorology. Program Record Number: ENV AES 475

Meteorology Training
Description: Information on satellite meteorology. Program Record Number: ENV AES 365

Oil and Gas Exploration and Development
Description: Information on oil spill trajectories, freezing spray, ice and sea state models. Program Record Number: ENV AES 415

Policy – Private Sector Meteorology
Description: Information on initiatives and policies related to the development of private sector meteorology. Topics: Atmospheric Environment Service activities related to private sector meteorology.Files available at 4905 Dufferin Street, Downsview, Ontario. Program Record Number: ENV AES 313

Radar
Description: Information on the MOT Radar and Satellite System. Program Record Number: ENV AES 375

Satellites
Description: Information on satellite programs. Topics: Cost recovery; staffing the SKL; ICS Submission; AES Satellite Programs; SDL Operations; NOSS; SURSAT. Program Record Number: ENV AES 380

Telecommunications
Description: Operational, alpha-numeric and facsimile information distributed by dedicated or dial-up communication lines. Topics: Facsimile contracts; installations; procedures; traffic; teletype contracts – installations, procedures, traffic; computer aspects. Program Record Number: ENV AES 425

Weather Forecast
Description: Information on analyses and forecasts; hemispheric analyses, heights (pressure) temperature, moisture, winds from surface to 100 mbs; analyses of surface, 850, 700 and 500 mb levels from 1957 to date; historical data; verification statistics. Storage Medium: Computer files – grid point data, microfilm, printed WX charts, charts and teletype message forms, written and graphic forms. Program Record Number: ENV AES 445

Weather Service
Description: Information on RAINSAT. Program Record Number: ENV AES 385

Weather Service – Air Transportation

Description: Information on MOT Radar and Satellite System. Program Record Number: ENV AES 390

Weather Services

Description: Information on policies, standards, procedures and guidance concerning the provision of weather services. Topics: General weather services; public weather services; air, marine and road transportation; agriculture; forestry; climatology; preflight weather information service; radio and television broadcasting; scientific support units; weather service outlets. Program Record Number: ENV AES 435

■ Federal Environmental Assessment Review Office

Environmental Assessment Projects

Description: Information on projects undergoing review by environmental assessment panels. Access: Files are arranged by project. Program Record Number: ENV FRO 490

FERO – Policy

Description: Information on the development and implementation of the EARP process. Access: Files are arranged by subject. Program Record Number: ENV FRO 495

FERO – Research

Description: Information on the Canadian Environmental Assessment Research Council. Program Record Number: ENV FRO 500

■ Environment – General

Acid Rain

Description: Information on Canada's domestic, bilateral and international acid rain initiatives, including committees, negotiations, controls and effects. Topics: Canada's joint federal-provincial abatement program, federal-provincial LRTAP Steering Committee meetings and reports; Canada-U.S. bilateral negotiations, and general information on U.S. initiatives; international European Economic Community LRTAP conventions and protocols; files dealing with acid rain effects, communications, and the Special Parliamentary Committee on Acid Rain. Access: Files are arranged by subject in a central registry. Program Record Number: ENV POL 525

Communications

Description: Information on communications in general and on communications-programming. Program Record Number: ENV COM 530

Environment Economy

Description: Information on departmental policies, programs, economic instruments and activities related to the integration of environmental considerations into economic decision-making; associated information on events, reports, studies, announcements, expertise and other agency involvement; preliminary information on the characteristics and capabilities of environmental industries, related associations and the nature of market availability within and outside Canada; and related information from the Groups of Economic Experts (GEE) of the Organization for Economic Co-operation and Development (OECD). Topics: The departmental environment/economy strategic direction, action plans and activities carried out by the Department; sustainable development; events, agreements, mechanisms, announcements, reports and expertise; statistics on the environmental industry (employment, economic impact, number of firms, market potential, promotion); various subject areas such as risk assessment, technologies to control and prevent pollution, etc.; OECD reports which are available for public distribution. Access: Information is available by subject area in soft-cover copies. Program Record Number: ENV POL 515

Federal-Provincial Relations

Description: Information on the broad policy aspects of the relationship between the federal and provincial governments on environmental issues. Topics: Federal-Provincial Agreements and Accords; Canadian Council of Resource and Environment Ministers; Sustainable Development. Access: Files arranged by subject. Program Record Number: ENV POL 505

Northern Affairs

Description: Information on the policy aspects of the management of the northern environment and federal-provincial-territorial co-operation on environmental issues. Topics: Circumpolar co-operation; wildlife; endangered species; migratory birds. Access: Files arranged by subject. Program Record Number: ENV POL 510

Program Evaluation

Description: Evaluation frameworks, assessments and studies of departmental components, and related data. Topics: Departmental components that have been subject to one or more of these evaluation activities. Access: Reports are classified by evaluation component. Storage Medium: Hardcopy. (In many cases, only single copies exist.) Program Record Number: ENV POL 520

Personal Information Banks

■ Atmospheric Environment Service

Applications for Research Grants Science Subventions

Description: Each entry in the bank contains information of the following type: educational, financial support for research, new scientific concepts, personal statement of productivity, third party evaluation of the entry. All assessments and grants are processed at Atmospheric Environment Service headquarters from Canadian university faculty members. Class of Individuals: Faculty members of Canadian universities in the environmental sciences or faculties related thereto. Purpose: To provide information used in the annual selection of research proposals to be funded by this institute. Consistent Uses:

To assess research proposals in order to award research funds. Retention and Disposal Standards: Records kept less than five years, usually two years. TBS Registration: 001394 Bank Number: ENV PPU 010

Applications for Studentship in Meteorology or Atmospheric Science

Description: To provide personal and academic information used in the annual selection for the provision of studentships at Canadian universities. Class of Individuals: Canadian citizens and permanent residents who have graduated with 3.5 courses in physics and 4.5 courses in mathematics with a 66% average. Purpose: To assess potential recipients of studentships. Consistent Uses: To assess applications for AES Studentships. Retention and Disposal Standards: Two years. If the applicant becomes an employee, the application is placed on his/her personnel file. TBS Registration: 001397 Bank Number: ENV PPU 025

Applications for Visiting Fellowship Awards

Description: Contains information of the following types: demographics, employment, educational, personal references, third party evaluations. All assessments are processed at Atmospheric Environment Service headquarters. Awards are granted to visiting fellows for their work at headquarters. Class of Individuals: Generally restricted to environmental scientists who have recently completed their doctoral degrees. Purpose: To provide personal and academic information used in the annual selection of visiting fellows to this institute. Consistent Uses: To assess potential candidates for visiting fellowship awards. The file is shared with NSERC. Retention and Disposal Standards: Records are kept for less than five years, usually for three years. TBS Registration: 001395 Bank Number: ENV PPU 015

Post-graduate Fellowships

Description: Post-graduate fellowships are intended to provide financial assistance to Canadian citizens and permanent residents who are enroled in an MSc or PhD program in Meteorology and Atmospheric Services. Class of Individuals: Canadian citizens and permanent residents who have completed undergraduate degrees. Purpose: To provide information in the annual selection of candidates for post-graduate fellowship awards. Consistent Uses: Primary use is to assess fellowship applications. Retention and Disposal Standards: Records kept less than five years, usually two years. TBS Registration: 001396 Bank Number: ENV PPU 020

■ Conservation and Protection Service

University Research Support Fund

Description: Contains evaluations of proposals submitted by researchers at Canadian universities for funding consideration through the Canadian Wildlife Service. This bank contains an outline of projects, names of professors and personal data. Class of Individuals: Researchers at Canadian universities. Purpose: To evaluate and select proposals submitted by Canadian university researchers. Retention and Disposal Standards: The unfunded project files are kept for two years. Approved project files are retained for six years after completion of project. TBS Registration: 001399 Bank Number: ENV PPU 035

Water Resources Research Support Program (WRRSP)

Description: Contains project details including research plan, state-of-the-art reviews, budgetary requirements, progress reports, project reviews and assessments as well as personal data such as name and curriculum vitae. All files relate to scientists at Canadian universities. This bank is established and maintained at headquarters and is restricted to management personnel and research scientists within the directorate, but is occasionally extended to the service level, other services of the Department and to other departments. Class of Individuals: Scientists at Canadian universities. Purpose: To evaluate proposals submitted by researchers at Canadian universities for funding consideration. Retention and Disposal Standards: Unfunded project files are retained for two years, then discarded; funded project files are retained for six years after completion of project. The program was discontinued in 1986. Bibliographic data on funded reports are stored in Environment Canada's WATDOC. TBS Registration: 001398 Bank Number: ENV PPU 030

Wildlife Permit Information

Description: This bank contains information gathered from permits required by Act of Convention for the purposes of protecting, managing, and regulating the use of certain species of birds or animals and their habitat. Specific information includes the Migratory Birds Permit information, which is gathered under the legal requirements of the Migratory Birds Convention Act such as avicultural permits, taxidermists permits, scientific permits, migratory bird damage permits, airport permits, eiderdown permits, Cap Tourmente hunting permits, Migratory Birds Convention Act permits; banding and collecting permits, migratory game birds hunting permits and special permits. Information gathered by permits for the import, export or transit of endangered species is also contained in this database. Class of Individuals: Information such as names, addresses, telephone numbers, occupations, and type of permit requested are kept on individuals applying for Migratory Birds Permits in the five Canadian regions (Pacific and Yukon, Western and Northern Ontario, Quebec, and Atlantic Regions). Purpose: To compile information under the Migratory Birds Convention Act if any enquiries are made for legal or other purposes. Retention and Disposal Standards: Retention of 15 years; active for five years and dormant for ten years, then transferred to the National Archives of Canada for selective retention. TBS Registration: 001393 Bank Number: ENV PPU 005

■ Canadian Parks Service

Back Country Use Permits

Description: The bank contains information used to identify persons, vehicles and missing persons. Class of Individuals: Park visitors. Purpose: To provide records for monitoring Park use and identifying vehicles left at trail heads or road sides in emergency cases such as missing persons or bear problems; to control back country sites and facilities; to protect visitors. Consistent Uses: Provides an analysis of use of the back country, statistics, planning and rehabilitation. Retention and Disposal Standards: One year after expiry or when obsolete. TBS Registration: 001751 Bank Number: ENV PPU 067

Campground Registration

Description: The bank contains listings of campgrounds and campers. Class of Individuals: Campers. Purpose: To control campground allocation, provide revenue accountability, statistics, future planning and aid to visitors. Consistent Uses: Statistics, revenue, maintenance decisions and future planning. Retention and Disposal Standards: Records are maintained for a period of five years. TBS Registration: 001752 Bank Number: ENV PPU 068

Collecting Permits

Description: Contains copies of collecting permits which have been issued to individuals (professionals) who require specimens for research purposes. Class of Individuals: Individuals (professionals) who require specimens for research purposes. Purpose: To allow a controlled amount of access to material which will help in research. Retention and Disposal Standards: Files are retained for five years. TBS Registration: 001749 Bank Number: ENV PPU 061

Compensation for Loss of Fishing Rights, Kouchibouguac National Park

This bank contains copies of correspondence from individuals, the replies and official findings of the arbitrator and data supporting the decision to allow or disallow the claim for fishermen resident in the Kouchibouguac area. The purpose of this bank is to establish records of persons who have requested compensation for their loss of fishing privileges and income created by the establishment of Kouchibouguac National Park. It is used as a reference when new claims are received. Records are retained for approximately ten years. Bank Number: ENV PPU 050

Consultant, Contractor and Supplier Inventory

This bank includes a list of individuals, firms and institutions and may include work previously performed or underway, financial transactions, and the name of the principal. The bank's purpose is to maintain a record of consultants, contractors and suppliers with whom the Department has contracted or may potentially contract. It serves as an aid to selection and retention of consultants, contractors and suppliers. Retention periods have not yet been established. Bank Number: ENV PPU 055

Creel Census/Survey

Description: Information collected is not specific, i.e. name, address. It is generic i.e. sex, age group. Of interest to the Parks for fish management purposes only. Purpose: For research, evaluation and stocking and/or limits for fishing season. Consistent Uses: Provides information on fish catches and species for statistical use, fish stocking programs or fishing limits. Retention and Disposal Standards: 10 years – National Archives of Canada selective retention. TBS Registration: 001746 Bank Number: ENV PPU 052

Duck Hunting – Point Pelee

Description: Information collected on duck hunting in Point Pelee. Activity terminated 1990. Class of Individuals: Duck hunters. Purpose: For duck management purposes. Retention and Disposal Standards: 10 years – National Archives of Canada selective retention. TBS Registration: 001747 Bank Number: ENV PPU 053

Eligible Status for Domestic Wood Cutting and Rabbit Snaring

The bank contains a list of names and addresses of persons eligible for resident status for domestic wood cutting and rabbit snaring within Gros Morne National Park. The information relates to all heads of households within the area of the proposed Gros Morne National Park. The purpose of this information bank is to establish a list of persons eligible to cut wood and snare rabbits within the (proposed) Gros Morne National Park boundary. The list is to be used in making decisions regarding the granting of individual permits. The information will be used for administration purposes related to individual data subjects. It will also be used in the development of the forest management plan for the park. The information is retained in the park. Disposal criteria for this bank are to be established. Bank Number: ENV PPU 070

Fishing Licence

Description: This bank identifies licence holders. Class of Individuals: Park visitors (fishermen). Purpose: Information in this bank relates to the issuing of fishing licences. It is used to identify licence holders, to control the number of individuals fishing in the park, to restrict fishing to authorized areas, to support fish management and to ensure revenue accountability. Consistent Uses: Control use, set limits, set seasons, statistical purposes, fish stocking and Creel census/surveys. Retention and Disposal Standards: Files are kept for one year after they expire or become obsolete. TBS Registration: 001745 Bank Number: ENV PPU 051

Hazardous Activities

Description: The bank contains information on persons involved in hazardous activities, defines location, activity, number in group, etc. Class of Individuals: Park visitors. Purpose: To provide a record of Park visitors in case of overdue registration. Consistent Uses: Provides up-to-date information on use, locations, frequency, accidents, loss, or missing persons. Retention and Disposal Standards: One year. TBS Registration: 001753 Bank Number: ENV PPU 069

Hut Permits

Description: The bank contains information used to identify permit holders and verify reservations. Class of Individuals: Park visitors. Purpose: To maintain information relating to the use, periods of stay, numbers and length of season. Consistent Uses: To support decisions for maintenance, monitor and control use and ensure the safety of visitors. Retention and Disposal

Standards: One year. TBS Registration: 001750 Bank Number: ENV PPU 066

Information Disclosures to Investigative Bodies

Description: This bank contains copies of privacy requests and replies as well as requests for disclosure to federal investigative bodies, forwarded by investigative bodies as listed in Schedule II of the Privacy Act under paragraph 8(2)(e) of the same Act. This bank also contains the replies to such requests and gives information related to their processing. It is used to verify the conditions of disclosure to federal law enforcement bodies which are stated in paragraph 8(2)(e) of the Privacy Act, and to report to the Privacy Commissioner on the number of access requests received annually. This bank is comprised solely of requests concerning persons for the purpose of law enforcement, and the replies to such requests. Class of Individuals: Individuals about whom requests for personal information have been received pursuant to paragraph 8(2)(e) of the Privacy Act from federal investigative bodies for the purpose of enforcing a law of Canada or a province, or carrying out a lawful investigation. Purpose: The purpose of this bank is to permit the Privacy Commissioner to review disclosures made under paragraph 8(2)(e) of the Privacy Act to federal investigative bodies for the purpose of enforcing a law of Canada or a province or for carrying out a lawful investigation. Retention and Disposal Standards: Records are retained for five years and are then destroyed. TBS Registration: 002326 Bank Number: ENV PPU 072

Law Enforcement – Investigations

Description: Contains names and addresses of persons charged with offenses in Parks, including details of investigation, litigation and court decisions. It includes information collected by Park employees and the R.C.M.P. during the course of investigations. Class of Individuals: Persons who are charged with offenses, officers who conduct investigation, lawyers, judges and witnesses involved in trials, if held. Purpose: For use in bringing offenders to justice; for Crown defence purposes; for compiling statistical information for reporting purposes; and for corrective action to prevent or reduce recurrence. Retention and Disposal Standards: Five years after which the information is transferred to the National Archives of Canada for selective retention. TBS Registration: 001755 Bank Number: ENV PPU 074

Mailing Lists

Description: Mailing lists with names and addresses. Class of Individuals: The private sector, government officials (MPs and MLAs) and associations. Purpose: For mailing of Management Plan Newsletters as part of the Management Planning Process. Consistent Uses: Used for public participation programs and public relations purposes. Retention and Disposal Standards: Six months or when superseded or reduced to machine operations. TBS Registration: 001748 Bank Number: ENV PPU 056

Park Visitor Surveys

Description: This bank contains information on visitors to National Parks, National Historic Parks and Sites and Heritage Canals. The information is collected by means of questionnaires or interviews administered to visitors at the time of their entry to or exit from the site. Class of Individuals: The survey population is made up of visitors to National Parks, National Historic Parks and Sites and Heritage Canals during the survey period. Purpose: The purpose of the bank is to compile a representative sample of visitors to heritage sites. Consistent Uses: The sample is used to identify a population from which to elicit more detailed profile information on visitors. The profiles of the actual visitors are compared with those of target groups within the Canadian public for whom the Parks Service's facilities and programs are designed. The information gathered will be used to contribute to formulating policy, planning and operation decisions related to the development and management of the government's National Parks, National Historic Parks and Sites and Heritage Canals. The addresses of the visitors may be used to link information in this bank with another containing detailed visitor activity and experience information, where the securing of the information is consistent with the purpose for which this information was collected. Retention and Disposal Standards: Records are retained for a total of ten years (active three years, dormant seven years), then transferred to the National Archives of Canada for selective retention. TBS Registration: 001944 Bank Number: ENV PPU 065

Realty Register Computer System

This bank contains information on the various realty agreements with the Parks Program: the type of lease, licence, permit, etc., term, appraised land value, rent and/or fee chargeable under the agreement against the property. The bank contains the land address, legal description, name and address of the document agreement holder. Another section of the bank holds information on transactions, assignments and mortgages. The purpose of this information is to maintain a registry of all such agreements to help administer such lands with respect to appraised land value, rents, use and lease renewal. Records are maintained for the period during which the lease, permit, etc. is held. Bank Number: ENV PPU 045

Resource Use Permits

Description: The bank identifies resource use and/or harvest activities permitted under regulation. Class of Individuals: Visitors, researchers and residents. Purpose: To identify permit holders using Park resources, and set restrictions. Examples include hunting, wood cutting and grazing. Consistent Uses: Monitor and control activities, compile statistics, survey use and plan future changes. Retention and Disposal Standards: One year after expiry or when obsolete. TBS Registration: 001754 Bank Number: ENV PPU 071

Export Development Corporation

Chapter 45

General Information

NOTE: THE EXPORT DEVELOPMENT CORPORATION IS NOT SUBJECT TO THE ACCESS TO INFORMATION ACT.

Background

The Export Development Corporation (EDC) was established on October 1, 1969, by the Export Development Act. The Export Development Corporation is an agent of Her Majesty in right of Canada and is a Crown corporation whose shares may be owned only by Canada. It is accountable for its affairs to Parliament through the Minister for International Trade. Both the Export Development Corporation and its predecessor, the Export Credits Insurance Corporation which commenced operations in 1944, were created to facilitate and develop trade between Canada and other countries.

The Corporation achieves this through a wide range of insurance, guarantee and financing services not normally provided by the public sector.

The Export Development Corporation's services are provided to help Canadian exporters who offer products competitive in price, quality, delivery and service, to compete internationally.

Classes of Personal Information

In the course of conducting the programs and activities of the Export Development Corporation, categories of personal information not used for administrative purposes may be accumulated. Such personal information includes, among other things, general biographies of individuals in relation to EDC's program services. This form of personal information is retrievable if specifics are provided concerning transactions filed e.g. names of exporters, countries and projects, rather than by name of individual or other personal identifier.

Other information provided by or about individuals may also be found in corporate record holdings such as information services, telecommunications, accounts payable and library files. This class of personal information is retrievable only if the requestor identifies, in sufficient detail, the subject of the information that they wish to access. The retention periods are controlled by the record schedules of the general subject files in which they are stored.

External Affairs and International Trade Canada

Chapter 46

General Information

Background

The Department of External Affairs and International Trade Canada was established by an Act of Parliament in 1909 to deal with Canada's relations with other governments within the British Empire and with foreign states. In 1981, the foreign operations of the immigration service were brought into the Department. In January 1982, there was a fundamental reorganization to include the foreign trade operation. Since then, two additional cabinet ministers, a Minister for International Trade and a Minister for External Relations have been appointed. The new Department of External Affairs and International Trade Canada Act came into force on December 7, 1983. The name change to External Affairs and International Trade Canada (EAITC) was effected in 1989.

Responsibilities

The Department of External Affairs and International Trade Canada has the primary responsibility for the promotion and protection of Canada's interests abroad and the conduct of Canada's relations with other countries. Its main functions are to ensure the effective representation of Canada in other countries and in international organizations including close contact, communications and negotiation with other governments and organizations through Canada's extensive network of representatives abroad; to evaluate information about political, economic and other developments likely to affect Canada's interests; to give advice to the government, often in consultation with other departments, on the formulation and implementation of policies and programs with international dimensions; to ensure the coordination of the external aspects and application of national policies for export trade promotion, defence and security, development assistance, immigration, and cultural and scientific exchanges; to reflect to peoples abroad the bilingual and multi-cultural character of Canadian society; and to provide protection and assistance to Canadian citizens abroad.

Organization

PLEASE NOTE: In 1991, the Department underwent a Corporate Review which altered reporting relationships and groupings among headquarters units. There changes have not been made to this text at the time of publication but will be included in the next revision. No substantive change has been made to the databank information.

Department headquarters in Ottawa supervises regional passport offices in Canada and missions abroad bearing different names and performing varying functions. Within Canada, the international trade centres co-managed by the Department of External Affairs and International Trade Canada and the Department of Industry, Science and Technology support the export promotion program of the Department.

The Department headquarters in Ottawa is organized into the Office of the Under-Secretary of State for External Affairs and International Trade Canada and 12 branches, each under an assistant deputy minister, which supervise the work of the Department on a geographic, functional or administrative basis. Each branch is divided into two or more bureaus, each under a director general. The bureaus in turn are separated into divisions, each under a director. There are two autonomous bureaus that report directly to the Associate Under-Secretary: Policy Development Bureau and Corporate Management Bureau.

Autonomous agencies reporting to Parliament through the Secretary of State for External Affairs and International Trade Canada include the Foreign Claims Commission, the International Boundary Commission, the International Joint Commission, the Roosevelt Campobello International Park Commission, the Canadian International Development Agency, the International Development Research Centre, the Asia-Pacific Foundation and the Canadian Institute for International Peace and Security. With the restructuring of the Department, the Export Development Corporation and the Canadian Commercial Corporation have been added, and ministerial responsibility for these corporations has been delegated to the Minister for International Trade.

■ Office of the Under-Secretary

The Under-Secretary, as deputy head, bears general responsibility for departmental policy and objectives. There is an associate under-secretary, who shares the management and direction of the Department, and a deputy minister for international trade. The 12 branches are each under an assistant deputy minister. There are also special ambassadors, based in Ottawa, for multilateral and Canada-United States trade negotiations, and for disarmament.

■ Missions Abroad

The Department of External Affairs and International Trade Canada Act defines "head of mission" in broad terms. There are at present 60 ambassadors resident abroad, 18 high commissioners to Commonwealth countries, 17 consuls-general, one commissioner and eight resident heads of mission to international organizations giving a total of 104 posts abroad, a figure which may vary slightly from time to time. Many ambassadors and high commissioners are doubly accredited, which adds 79 more countries to the list of those where Canada is represented. There are, in addition, 48 honorary consuls in cities with no other resident representative of Canada. Full details may be found in the publication Canadian Representatives Abroad, issued annually. One hundred and three countries have diplomatic missions in Ottawa and another 48 have non-resident accreditation. Many countries have consulates in principal cities throughout Canada.

■ International Organizations

Canada has permanent missions to international organizations. There are missions to the United Nations (UN) in New York and in Geneva, the latter also accredited to the Secretariat of the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade (GATT) and to the five UN specialized agencies located there. There are permanent representatives to the UN Industrial Development Organization (UNIDO) and to the International Atomic Energy Agency (IAEA), both in Vienna; to the UN Centre for Human Settlements (HABITAT) and to the UN Environment Program (UNEP), both in Nairobi; and to the Food and Agriculture Organization (FAO) in Rome. There is also a permanent delegation to the UN Educational, Scientific and Cultural Organization (UNESCO) in Paris.

There are permanent missions to the North Atlantic Treaty Organization (NATO) in Brussels; to the European Communities (EC), also in Brussels; to the Organization for Economic Co-operation and Development (OECD) in Paris; and to the Organization of American States (OAS) in Washington. There are delegations to the Negotiation on Conventional Armed Forces in Europe (CFE) and to the Negotiations on Confidence- and Security-Building Measures, both in Vienna. There is a representative to the International Civil Aviation Organization (ICAO), with headquarters in Montreal.

■ Office for Multilateral Trade Negotiations

The Office for Multilateral Trade Negotiations, headed by an Assistant Deputy Minister, is responsible for the conduct of the present round of multilateral trade negotiations under the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade (GATT). It is located at 125 Sussex Drive, C-3, Ottawa, K1A 0G2.

■ Office of the Inspector General

The Inspector General provides information and advice to senior management practices and performance. He is responsible for the Department's inspection and internal audit services. Supported by internal auditors, the Inspector General visits posts abroad and provides independent assessments of the efficiency and effectiveness of their programs. Upon request, he undertakes inquiries on selected issues of concern or interest to senior management, at posts abroad or at Headquarters.

■ Office for Federal-Provincial Relations

The Office is responsible for providing policy advice and coordination on federal-provincial relations generally. It works closely with senior management and with other units in the Department to support their relations with the provinces and to ensure that the international interests and activities of the provinces are compatible with the Department's general responsibility for the conduct of Canada's foreign relations. The coordinating role of the Office includes overseeing the Department's information service to the provinces, which keeps the latter informed of important Canadian foreign policy and operational developments. It also involves providing assistance with regard to specific provincial activities abroad, e.g., opening of offices, negotiation of administrative arrangements, visits of premiers and delegations, as well as making arrangements for visits of foreign visitors to the province. In addition, it acts, when necessary or appropriate, as point of contact for provincial requests for departmental services.

■ Office of Access to Information and Privacy

This unit, headed by a coordinator, is responsible for the Department's compliance with the Access to Information Act, which provides access to information under the control of the Government of Canada, and with the Privacy Act, which protects the privacy of individuals and provides individuals with a right of access to personal information about themselves.

■ Office of Protocol

The Chief of Protocol, through the Office of Protocol, handles the accreditation and appointment of foreign diplomatic and consular representatives to Canada, and that of Canadian heads of diplomatic and consular missions to other countries. This involves questions of diplomatic and consular privileges and immunities, respecting both foreign representatives in Canada and Canadian representatives abroad. The Chief of Protocol is the principal liaison between the Department and the Diplomatic Corps accredited to Canada. This office plans, organizes and manages state and official visits to Canada and participates in the logistical planning and conduct of travel abroad by the Governor General, the Prime Minister, the Secretary of State for External Affairs and International Trade Canada, the Minister for International Trade and the Minister for External Relations. In addition, the Office organizes, arranges, and manages official hospitality functions for the ministers and senior officials of the Department.

■ Corporate Management Bureau

This bureau is concerned with the overall planning, evaluation and improvement of the Department's operations and management, including the allocation of resources. The Bureau includes the Cabinet Liaison and Coordination Secretariat which ensures that the three ministers of the Department receive full information and briefing on the international and departmental implications of submissions to Cabinet. It also coordinates departmental submissions to Cabinet. As a secretariat it serves principal committees of the Department; coordinates official visits abroad, visits by foreign representatives to Canada, and representation at major international meetings; and provides the departmental liaison for parliamentary relations.

■ Policy Development Bureau

The divisions of the Bureau provide advice to senior management of the Department on medium- and long-term policy and on new policy options and directions. They provide advice in both political/strategic and trade/economic policy areas.

■ COSICS Project Office

The COSICS Project Office is responsible for the implementation of the Canadian On-line Secure Information Communication System (COSICS). COSICS will permit desk-to-desk secure communications across External Affairs and International Trade Canada' world-wide network. Phase I includes site preparation, planning, and installation of COSICS in 14 American missions, as well as selected areas of headquarters. The Project Office is responsible for ensuring that the prime contractor delivers a system that meets the Department's requirements and that departmental procedures and practices are compatible with the new system.

Legal, Consular and Immgration Affairs Branch

In addition to the Bureaus listed below, the Legal, Consular and Immigration Affairs Branch includes a unit that gives advice on domestic law.

■ Legal Affairs Bureau

The Bureau is divided into the following three divisions:

Legal Operations Division: Handles legal issues related to the UN and other multilateral institutions, peace and security, maritime boundaries, the environment, fisheries, the law of the sea and humanitarian law.

Economic and Trade Law Division: Provides advice on subjects such as investment, transport and communication, energy, intellectual property, extraterritoriality, science and technology, as well as the Free Trade Agreement, the GATT and other trade agreements. It is also concerned with the protection of Canadian citizens' property interests abroad and with claims arising from the nationalization of property by foreign governments.

Legal Advisory Division: Provides services related to private international law, such as the authentication of Canadian certificates and documents, and advice on federal-provincial aspects of international relations, sovereign immunity, recognition of states, protection of Canadian citizens, and diplomatic and consular privileges and immunities. The Treaty Section of this division provides advice on the drafting of treaties and treaty-making procedures and it maintains a registry of all Canadian treaties and international arrangements. The Bureau houses an extensive international law library.

■ Consular and Immigration Affairs Bureau

Since April 1981, the Department of External Affairs and International Trade Canada has been responsible for the delivery of the Immigration Program abroad. The Canada Employment and Immigration Commission (CEIC) sets overall policy and administers the Immigration Act and the Immigration Program in Canada.

Immigration and Refugee Affairs Division: Provides guidance to posts abroad on the delivery of both the Immigration and Refugee programs and humanitarian assistance. The programs divisions in the geographic bureaus are responsible for the day-to-day management of immigration programs in the countries of their regions. Visa sections located in many Canadian missions abroad handle the selection and processing of immigrants and visitors.

Policy and Operations Divisions: Responsible for the protection of, and assistance to, Canadian citizens abroad who encounter difficulties or require government services. In some countries there are honorary consuls to assist Canadians.

Geographic Branches

For the conduct of external relations, the world has been divided into five geographic regions, each constituting a branch under an assistant deputy minister. These are: Africa and the Middle East, Asia and the Pacific, Europe, Latin America and the Caribbean, and the United States. Each branch is divided into sub-regional bureaus, with further separation into divisions. The responsibilities and activities of the geographic bureaus have much in common and are best described together.

Each bureau is responsible for the management and coordination of the full range of relations with its region. Included are the operations of the Canadian posts abroad in their area, their guidance and instruction, and the provision and allocation of resources to them. Under the Department of External Affairs and International Trade Canada Act, a head of mission, as defined, has the management and direction of the mission and the supervision of the official activities of the various Canadian departments and agencies in the country in question.

The work of the geographic bureaus is distributed among three types of divisions: relations, trade development, and programs. The relations divisions handle bilateral political and economic relations; country, sub- regional and regional analysis and policy; and, where appropriate for Third World countries, aid relations. All the trade development divisions handle export promotion. Most of them deal in tourist promotion in conjunction with Tourism Canada, fairs and trade missions, and some are concerned with investment development. The trade development divisions are the main point of contact for the business community. The programs divisions are concerned with immigration and, in some cases, refugees and family reunification, cultural and academic relations, public affairs, including information activities, and the management of visits to and from the area in question.

The structure of the three United States bureaus differs somewhat from that of the other bureaus, as they handle a large number of additional issues and problems. Some of these relate to the size and importance of our trading and investment relationship and the need to resolve trade disputes. Others are of a transboundary character, such as air and water pollution, the export of energy, trucking and broadcasting, and the work of the International Joint Commission and of the International Boundary Commission.

International Trade Development Branch

■ Trade Development Policy and Liaison Secretariat

The Secretariat acts as a coordinating body for trade development policy and liaison issues. It provides strategic planning and evaluation for trade development programs and initiatives; formulates trade consultation strategies; and provides support to senior management and ministers in these areas. The Secretariat also coordinates the Department's contact with the private sector regarding trade development programs and initiatives via trade and export associations, the provinces and other government departments. It supports senior management and Ministers through the organization of federal-provincial consultations and meetings on trade issues. The Secretariat is also responsible for the financial management of the International Trade Development Branch including budgets, payments and procedures.

■ Export Development Programs and Services Bureau

The Bureau is the locus of management of a broad number of programs and services which are provided to support the International Trade, Investment and Tourism programs in Canada and in missions throughout the world. Areas of activity consist of the management of the Program for Export Market Development which assists Canadian firms to undertake market development activities abroad; the functional management of International Trade Centres in all provinces of Canada; the management of the Investment Development Program; the operation of Canada Export Trade Month and other exporter education and awareness programs as well as the management of the Centres for International Business Studies. The Bureau undertakes evaluation and analysis of the International Trade program through the operation of the Trade Tracking System, and the Export and Investment Promotion Planning System. WIN Exports, the principal sourcing system of the Department, has been developed and is managed by the Bureau, which is also responsible for transportation and trade service matters, including support for the process of Canada's international air negotiations.

■ Agri-Food, Fish and Resource Products Bureau

The Bureau acts as a focal point for the Canadian agriculture, food, fisheries, fish processing and resource industries. Bureau Trade Commissioners counsel exporters on programs and services, identify export opportunities and buyers for Canadian products, assist in the development of export marketing plans, provide guidance on regulatory export market requirements, visit exporters in Canada, recruit participants for trade fairs and missions, and sponsor specialized seminars and trade events. Financial assistance may be provided under the Program for Export Market Development (PEMD) to reduce risks in developing new export markets. The Bureau's Trade Commissioners also keep track of access conditions in export markets to facilitate the export activities of individual firms and the programs of international trade negotiations.

■ Capital Projects and Secondary Industries Bureau

This bureau provides programs and services to the export community through two sector-oriented divisions, Machinery Transportation and Consumer Goods, and one service division, Export Finance and Capital Projects.

The sector divisions provide sourcing services to posts abroad, formulate policies and programs to expand exports on a sectoral basis, and act as a focal point for firms, associations and other government departments. They also disseminate marketing information for a wide range of activities including secondary machinery (environment, forestry, power, oil and gas, and automotive), transportation equipment, apparel, footware, health care equipment, cultural industries and sporting goods.

Export Finance and Capital Projects Division: Responsible for coordinating the export programs for capital projects, countertrade and Canada Account export financing. The Division is the departmental contact point for the Export Development Corporation and the Canadian Commercial Corporation. It also monitors the activities of International Financial Institutions and administers the Cost Recoverable Technical Assistance Program.

■ Defence Programs and Advanced Technology Bureau

This bureau was created to advance Canadian international interests in science and technology, and to provide advanced technology companies with export marketing assistance in order to facilitate the establishment of strong links with foreign customers and governments, thereby enhancing Canadian access to international markets. The Bureau exists to support companies in their efforts to take advantage of the enormous potential offered by defence contacts for finished products, and for research and development. Bureau trade commissioners specializing in these important sectors provide Canadian business interests with advice and guidance in support of their international activities.

Economic and Trade Policy Branch

■ Trade Policy Bureau

This bureau consists of the Services and General Trade Policy Division, the GATT Affairs Division, the Agricultural Trade Policy Division, the Industrial Trade Policy Division, and the Resources and Commodity Trade Policy Division. The Bureau is responsible for the development and review of general trade policy, including import policy, the coordination and management of Canada's participation in the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade, international aspects of agricultural trade policy and industrial policy, and the development of domestic policies in the resource sector to ensure that full advantage is achieved in the multilateral trade framework.

■ Economic Policy Bureau

The Bureau is responsible for the coordination and development of policy on international economic issues and the advancement of Canadian economic interests in the international sphere. It consists of: the International Economic Relations Division, the International Financial and Investment Affairs Division, the Economic Relations with Developing Countries Division, and the Energy and Environment Division.

■ Special Trade Relations Bureau

This bureau is responsible for policy development, and implementation and administration of import and export control measures under the authority of the Export and Import Permits Act and Regulations. It also handles international nuclear issues. The Bureau consists of: the Import Controls I Division (textiles and clothing), the Import Controls II Division (agricultural goods, steel and other commodities) the Export Controls Division (military, nuclear and strategic goods), the Nuclear Division, and the Administration and Data Processing Division.

Political and International Security Affairs Branch

■ International Organizations Bureau

This bureau coordinates Canada's general participation in the United Nations and most of the specialized agencies, and institutions that form part of the UN system. It also includes the Commonwealth Division which coordinates Canada's multilateral relations with the Commonwealth countries.

■ Summit and Francophone Affairs

This unit, headed by a federal coordinator for la Francophonie, has responsibility for the coordination of Canada's role and activities in La Francophonie, particularly for ensuring the implementation of Canadian contributions to the decisions taken at the Summits, and for the overall participation by Canada in existing Francophone intergovernmental or non-governmental institutions.

■ International Security and Arms Control Bureau

The Bureau consists of the Arms Control and Disarmament Division and the Defence Relations Division. It is responsible for the preparation of policy on arms control and disarmament, in liaison with the Department of National Defence and other departments and agencies, for briefing Canadian delegations attending arms control and disarmament meetings, and for the coordination and preparation of policy proposals on the defence aspects of Canada's foreign policy, including NATO; NORAD and other bilateral defence relationships; peacekeeping; and military training assistance.

■ Foreign Intelligence Bureau

This bureau produces current and long-term political and economic intelligence assessments and has contacts with other departments and governments for the exchange and dissemination of intelligence. The Bureau also conducts a program of interviews to obtain first-hand knowledge from Canadian residents about certain foreign countries.

■ Security Services Bureau

The Bureau consists of the Security Division and the Emergency Coordination Division. It is responsible for the personal safety of the Department's personnel abroad, the security of property and sensitive information in Ottawa and abroad, and for liaison with other departments and governments on national security questions involving foreign relations. It is also responsible for Canadian government policy and countermeasures to deal with international terrorism, continency planning and crisis management.

Communications and Culture Branch

■ International Cultural Relations Bureau

The Bureau consists of: the Academic Relations Division (including the Historical Section), and the Arts Promotion Division. It is responsible for the development of a sustained interest in Canada among members of the academic community abroad, especially in certain countries; the promotion of tours abroad by Canadian performing artists; the exhibition of Canadian art; the encouragement of the presence of international students in Canadian post-secondary institutions; the support of cultural and educational industries in capturing markets abroad; the promotion of international exchanges for post-secondary students and young workers; international cultural policy issues and historical research.

■ Foreign Policy and General Communications Bureau

The Bureau is responsible for fostering an understanding of Canada's foreign policy, answering enquiries from Canadians on external relations, and determining policies and activities to support the public information programs of Canadian missions abroad. It consists of the Domestic Communications Division, the External Communications Division, and Library Services, which operates the Department's library in Ottawa and provides an International Trade Data Bank that Canadian exporters can access to learn about international trade flows. It also promotes Canada's interests abroad through sports.

■ Trade Communications Bureau

This bureau is responsible for developing and implementing, in close collaboration with other trade development sections of the Department, export information programs for Canadian business and communications support for trade policy and trade development initiatives. It publishes CanadExport, a bi-weekly newsletter that circulates widely in the business community, and operates the trade information centre, InfoExport, on the main floor of the Pearson Building in Ottawa. The Trade Communications – Abroad Division provides communications support to trade and investment policies and programs which will assist foreign audiences in identifying Canadian commercial and economic opportunities. A division of this bureau handles Canadian participation in world expositions registered by the Bureau International des Expositions in Paris.

■ Media Relations Office

The Media Relations Office maintains a continuing working relationship with Canadian journalists and with foreign journalists appointed in Canada, in order to promote public awareness of Canadian foreign policy issues and initiatives. As the departmental focal point for contacts with the media, it provides information on all aspects of Canada's foreign policy and departmental operations. It participates in the planning of media-oriented activities and in developing communications strategies on high-visibility issues. The Office arranges press conferences for ministers, at home and abroad, and briefings by departmental officials. It issues press releases for the Department and ministers containing formal announcements from the Department and texts of statements and speeches by ministers. It assists Canadian journalists going abroad on assignment and makes arrangements for journalists accompanying ministers when they visit other countries or attend international conferences. It also organizes programs for members of the press accompanying foreign leaders on official visits to Canada.

Finance and Administration Branch

This branch serves the Department in Ottawa and Hull and the missions throughout the world through four bureaus.

■ Passport Bureau

The Bureau issues passports to Canadian citizens in Canada and provides guidance and operational support to Canadian missions issuing passports abroad. The main passport office in Hull has a public counter and there is also a counter in Ottawa. There are 21 regional offices: Calgary, Edmonton, Fredericton, Halifax, Hamilton, Jonquière, London, Montreal, Quebec, Regina, Saint Laurent, St. John's, Saskatoon, Scarborough, Toronto, North York, Thunder Bay, Vancouver, Victoria, Windsor and Winnipeg. The Bureau also issues Certificates of Identity and United Nations Refugee Convention travel documents to non-Canadian residents who are eligible to receive them.

■ Finance and Headquarters Administrative Services Bureau

This bureau directs the Department's expenditure accounting operations at home and abroad. It designs, develops and operates the Department's financial planning and analysis system, including the preparation and presentation of the departmental budget estimates and plans.

Headquarters Administrative Services: Support the Department by providing office space and the delivery of services such as furniture, equipment and supplies and inventory data.

■ Information Resource Management Bureau

This bureau is responsible for providing support services to the Department at home and abroad through three divisions:Telecommunications, Records Information Management and Information Systems. Major activities are: a global, secure, common communications service for all government departments represented abroad; diplomatic courier, mail management and messenger services; automated information storage and retrieval; records management and guidance; EDP coordination, systems analysis and project management; centralized word processing and office automation services; publishing and printing; telephones and audio-visual technical support; and technical and communications security coordination and audit.

■ Physical Resources Bureau

This bureau is responsible for the Department's Long Range Capital Program directed at increasing Crown ownership of properties abroad; and for the provision of chanceries and official residences through lease, purchase or design and construction. In addition, the Bureau is responsible for interior design services for accommodation abroad; the acquisition of all materiel assets; and supervision of maintenance of overseas government properties. It performs a number of administrative functions relating to staff quarters at missions, and administers the Department's display collection of Canadian works of art.

Personnel Branch

The Branch, which is concerned with the whole range of the Department's human resources, handles recruitment, training and development, staffing and service abroad, appraisal, promotion and remuneration of officers and administrative staff, as well as, to some extent, locally engaged employees abroad. Some headquarters personnel are classified as non-rotational but many of the bureaus' functions relate specifically to the operations of the Foreign Service, such as assignment to missions and conditions and compensation of service outside Canada. One division is responsible for all aspects of the Department's official languages program. The Branch is also responsible for personnel policy and planning.

Classes of Personal Information

In the course of conducting the programs and activities of the Department of External Affairs and International Trade Canada, categories of personal information may be accumulated which are not contained in the specific information banks described in this entry. This information exists in a fragmented form throughout the subject files of the Department, which are described in the program records. This information is stored as part of the general subject files, where records are not normally retrieved by name of individual or other personal identifier. This form of information is retrievable only if specifics are provided concerning the subject matter, related departmental activity, the date on which the information was received by the Department and to whom it was addressed. The personal information contained in these subject files is retained for the same period of time as the related subject information and is disposed of according to the appropriate subject record schedules. The classes of personal information listed below describe particular program records which, because of their nature, are more likely to contain personal information.

Legal Affairs Bureau

The three divisions of the Legal Affairs Bureau handle a number of important functions including multi-lateral legal issues, peace and security law, humanitarian law, economic law, trade agreements, treaties, international law and individual legal and legal-protocol cases. Personal information held by the bureau may include enquiries from Canadian residents seeking advice about international and foreign legal systems, and claims by Canadian citizens for possible support by the Canadian government. Other personal information would relate to specific issues handled by the bureau. Persons seeking access must specify the subject of the enquiry, as well as country and/or city, legal firm, contacts, incidents, dates and circumstances which may have led to the development of a record.

Office of Protocol

The Office of Protocol is responsible for the administration of protocol-related programs of the Department and for the development of policies and procedures which direct the administration of protocol programs. Personal information in this class would pertain to individuals who have participated in, or have been the subject of protocol-related activities within programs such as accreditation and ceremonies, privileges and immunities, government hospitality, protection of foreign representatives and foreign decorations, and awards and honours to Canadians. Persons seeking access should specify the subject of the enquiry, country and/or city, contacts, incident, visits, conference, delegation, dates and circumstances which may have led to the establishment of a record.

International Security and Arms Control Bureau

The two divisions in this bureau, the Arms Control and Disarmament Division and the Defence Relations Division responsible for the preparation and implementation of departmental policies concerning defence, arms control and disarmament. Personal information may be held by the bureau concerning individuals who have been involved in defence activities with NATO, NORAD, or other international defence or arms control organizations, or in conferences or visits. Personal information might include personal biographies, tours of defence colleges, military travel and training, and nominations of Canadians for positions in international defence organizations concerned with defence or arms control. Persons seeking access should specify the subject of the enquiry, country and/or city, contacts, incident,conference/organization, visits, dates and circumstances which may have led to the establishment of a record.

Farm Credit Corporation Canada

Chapter 47

General Information

Background

The Farm Credit Corporation was established in 1959 as a Crown agency reporting to Parliament through the Minister of Agriculture. Its objective is to provide long-term mortgage credit to farmers and to syndicates of farmers.

Responsibilities

The Corporation makes and administers farm loans under the authority of the Farm Credit Act and the Farm Syndicates Credit Act to enable Canadian farmers to establish, develop and maintain viable farm enterprises. As well, it administers programs as directed by the federal government and provides counselling and assistance in the planning, organization and development of farm businesses to all applicants and borrowers.

Legislation

- Farm Credit Act
- Farm Syndicates Credit Act

Organization

In order to fulfil its mandate, the Corporation has established a network of offices to serve the farming community. Corporate headquarters is located in Ottawa. Regional offices correspond geographically with provincial boundaries except for Atlantic Canada, where the four provinces are served by a Regional Centre located in Moncton, N.B., and the Yukon, which is served by the Alberta/British Columbia regional office located in Edmonton, Alberta. The regional offices are functionally organized into a lending services group, including all field operations, and a loan administration group. In addition to the six regional offices, the Corporation has 100 district and field offices.

Corporate headquarters is organized into six component groups.

■ Executive Office

This Office consists of the Chairman and the Vice-Chairman. The Chairman is Chief Executive Officer of the Corporation, is a member of the Board of the Corporation and is responsible for the supervision and direction of all work and staff of the Corporation. The Vice-Chairman is a member of the Board of the Corporation and exercises all of the powers and duties of the Chairman in his absence. As Chief Operating Officer, he directs the business of the Corporation and exercises all other powers and duties as may be assigned to him by the Chairman or the Board of the Corporation.

■ Lending Operations

Lending Operations is responsible for the Corporation's overall lending activities, which include the making and administration of loans, client services, and regional operations.

■ Financial Services

Financial Services is responsible for the overall financial management of the Corporation including financial risk management, funding, cash management, corporate accounting, financial reporting and internal controls. It also ensures that the financial provisions of the Farm Credit Act and the financial management provisions of the Financial Administration Act are effectively employed by the Corporation.

■ Research and Planning

Research and Planning directs, controls, and advises on economic information, liaison, and corporate planning and research and development.

■ Corporate Audit

Corporate Audit has a comprehensive audit plan. It performs regular regional loan portfolio audits and conducts periodic reviews of systems and practices related to head office and regional operations. It is also responsible for the coordination of all audit activities: internal audits, external financial attest audits and special examinations.

■ Administration Services

Administration Services directs, controls, and advises on management information, communications, administrative and human resources services.

Federal Business Development Bank

Chapter 48

General Information

Background

The Federal Business Development Bank (FBDB), a Crown corporation, was established by the Federal Business Development Act (proclaimed in force on October 2, 1975) to succeed the Industrial Development Bank (IDB), which was formed in 1944.

While the IDB was primarily concerned with the provision of financial assistance, the Federal Business Development Bank was created to promote and assist in the establishment and development of business enterprises in Canada by providing financial assistance, management counselling, management training, information and advice, with particular consideration to the needs of small businesses. The Bank provides small business enterprises with a single source from which both financing and information suited to their unique requirements may be obtained. A network of branches across Canada provide the full range of the Bank's services to small businesses located in each branch territory.

Responsibilities

The Bank is responsible for acting as a supplemental lender, providing funds by means of loans and equity financing to independent businesses that cannot obtain the funds elsewhere on reasonable terms and conditions. It often caters to the needs of firms that may be either too small, too far from commercial centres, or too specialized to be able to attract the attention of conventional lenders. Through its Venture Capital Division, the Bank is also responsible for providing equity capital in addition to, or in place of, loans and guarantees.

Legislation

- Federal Business Development Bank Act

Organization

The Bank has a network of branches across Canada organized into five regions: British Columbia and the Yukon, Prairies and Northern region, Ontario, Quebec, and Atlantic. The Bank's head office is located in Montreal and there are regional offices in Vancouver, Winnipeg, Toronto, Montreal, and Halifax.

The regional offices provide guidance to branches with respect to the application of established Bank policy and procedures. They also process financing applications for amounts exceeding branch limits. They are responsible for all management services activities in the region, and for ensuring that the general public within the region has access to the Bank's management training services, management counselling and financial and strategic planning services.

The branches provide financing, counselling and management training services to small businesses located within their particular territory. Enquiries and applications for financing are received by branch personnel and processed in accordance with established policy and procedure. The branches are also responsible for the efficient operation of management services activities in their geographical area, and for ensuring that the general public has access to the Bank's services.

The various services and departments of the Bank include the following:

■ Financial Services

Loans Division: Establishes and oversees policies and procedures with respect to the provision of financial assistance to small and medium-sized businesses. In addition, the Division oversees the management of the Bank's loan portfolio for the entire life of all accounts. Most financing is provided in the form of loans for such purposes as purchasing fixed assets, replenishing working capital, refinancing, and financing a change of ownership. Guarantees may be provided to other financial institutions to enable a business to obtain an adequate line of credit.

Venture Capital Division: Responsible for all equity and venture capital financing. Its role is to act as a catalyst in stimulating the formation of risk capital for companies with high growth potential. It ensures that all proposals satisfy Bank policy and are financially viable. This division assesses, on a continuing basis, the adequacy and suitability of investment policy and procedures and, when necessary, recommends changes. The services of this division include direct purchase of a minority ownership interest, underwriting of private placements, joint ventures, syndication of proposals to other venture capitalists and financial institutions, as well as assistance in mergers and acquisitions.

■ Management Services Division

The Management Services Division is responsible for promoting and assisting the establishment and development of small business in Canada by providing management counselling, management training and financial and strategic planning services.

Management Counselling Service: Counsels business persons on how to engage in small business in Canada through the facilities of the Counselling Assistance to Small Enterprises (CASE) program. Strategic Planning is a service designed to help businesses methodically plan each stage of their development. The Packaging service involves the Bank undertaking an analysis of business proposals and completing a report to be used by financial institutions and government agencies to properly assess the entrepreneur's application for funding.

Management Training Service: Presents a continuing program of small business and management seminars to the general public across Canada. In conjunction with business associations and small businesses, the Service presents management seminars oriented toward specific industries to groups of business people. It also writes, publishes and distributes a series of adult education courses on small business management (owner/manager courses) for provincial and territorial ministries of education. Finally, it organizes and supports workshops, conferences, and clinics for the promotion of good management practices with small businesses. It also writes, publishes and distributes to the public a continuing series of booklets on small business topics.

■ Head Office Departments

Corporate Secretariat: Responsible for the Board of Directors, its Committees, and responses to Parliament.

Legal Services: Provides legal advice to the Bank in connection with its specific program activities and support departments.

Planning and Economics: Responsible for short and long-term strategies, analysis of existing activities and corporate development. This department also provides information on economic conditions and the impact of the Bank's activities upon the economy.

Public Affairs: Responsible for advertising and public relations to promote the role and activities of the Bank.

Finance: Responsible for funding of corporate cash requirements, monitoring of cash flow, deposit and investment of corporate funds and interest rate forecasts.

Insurance: Responsible for insurance related to loan security and corporate insurance.

Controller: Responsible for all accounting in the Bank.

Internal Audit and Inspection: Conducts periodic reviews of systems of internal control over Bank operations.

Government Relations: Responsible for the coordination of communication between the Bank and the Minister, the government and members of Parliament, and has responsibility for international relations.

Human Resources and Administration: Provides the Bank with corporate-wide human resources management as well as with the overall administration support services. It is also responsible for official languages.

Information Systems: Develops and maintains business systems (manual and computerized) to support the operational functions and management information needs of the Bank.
